Every housewife in Canada has a personal part to play in the war on the food front. Our country has undertaken vast responsibilities for supplying food to our allies, besides feeding our armed forces and prisoners of war through Red Cross parcels. All this means that we at home can and must help by using food much more carefully. Remember: "Buy wisely; cook correctly; eat it up completely" . . . and help win both the war and the peace!

ALLIED BOMBERS HIT FRANKFURT—American heavy bombers have been blasting Frankfurt-on-Main in several raids over Germany. At the same time the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. have continued their big raids on Berlin.

New Course

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—(CP).— Defence Headquarters last night announced the opening of a new course in advance corps training for members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. The 30-day course, held at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., includes instruction in all forms of C.W.A.C. organization and administration.

Catholic Bishop Lauds CWAC's

OTTAWA, Feb. 7 —(CP)— Hon. Brig. C. L. Nelligan, principal Roman Catholic chaplain to the Canadian forces, expressed confidence in a recent message to Canadian women in uniform.

When women were admitted to the forces, he said, he at first feared the effect of military life and associations on their characters, but "three years supplied the answer — years that tell the story of a challenge bravely accepted."

Comparing the part women are playing today with the pioneer roles of their forebears, Brig. Nelligan mentioned the value to soldiers' morale of having their wives and daughters behind the line, "to be the link which binds them to home and decency."

Nurses Rescued

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(CP). — Canadian troops and nurses were among 1,977 persons rescued from a torpedoed troopship in the Mediterranean, Capt. E. R. Johnson of the S.S. Monterey reported yesterday.

More and more Canadian housewives are depending on their favourite Kellogg's cereals not only for breakfast, but for lunches and odd-hour snacks too. This way they save precious time and work—provide their families more varied and appetizing meals!

Barbara B. Brooks

TELLS YOU WHY WE MUST ALL SHARE FOOD, SAVE FOOD!

In each war year Canada's food production has increased enormously—thanks largely to the wonderful job our farmers have done despite many handicaps. Then why a conservation programme? Because the supply hasn't increased, can't increase enough to keep ahead of the increased demands! And what are the demands?

A. More people are working, harder than before. They need more food, and have the money to buy it.

B. Our men in the Services need 1½ times the food they used as civilians to keep up their "fighting strength."

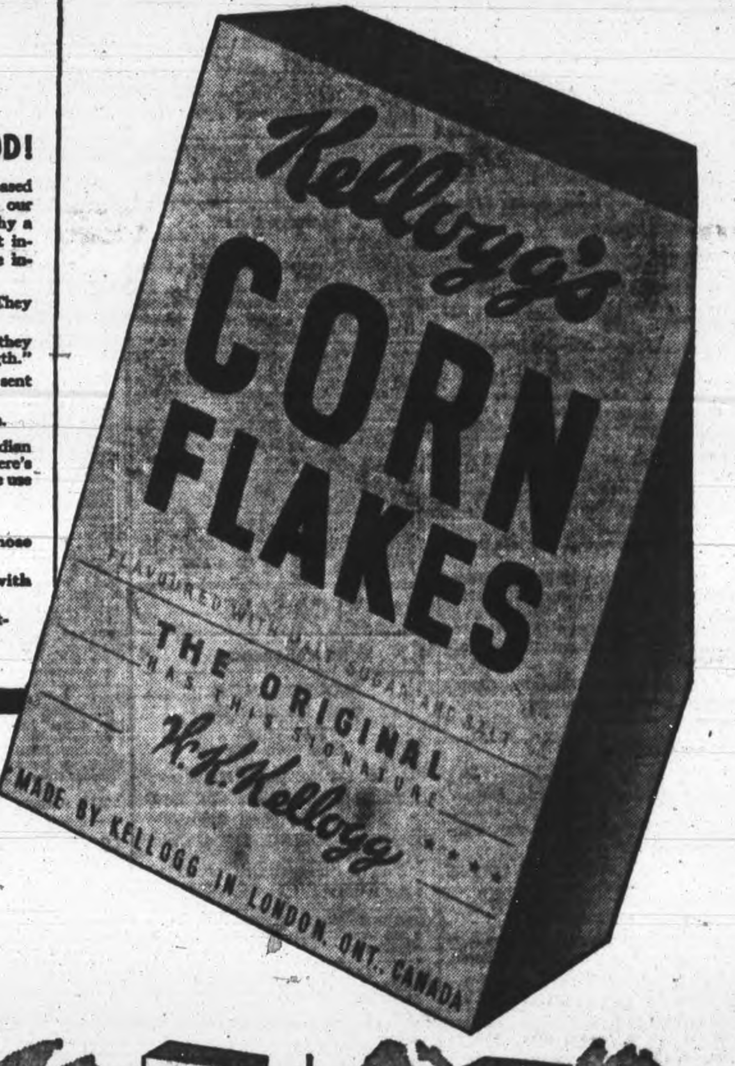
C. Our boys in prison camps look forward to the food sent in Red Cross parcels.

D. More and more food must go to civilians overseas.

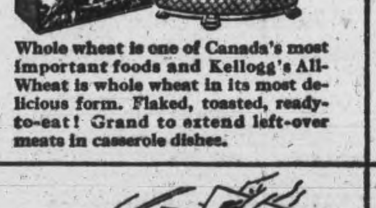
But despite all these extra demands, you, the Canadian housewife, still get most of our food supply. There's enough for everyone—IF we all make the best possible use of it. Here are three rules to follow:

1. Don't waste a thing, ever!
2. Use plentiful foods to vary your meals—share those that are less abundant.
3. Replace and extend meat and protein dishes with cereal products.

Wise homemakers are finding a great many ways of putting new interest in their meals by using Kellogg's cereals as a main dish or as a meat-extender.

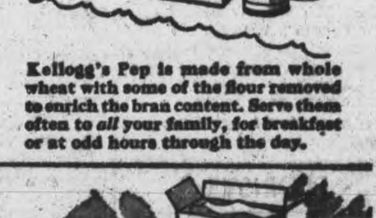


Let a delicious bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes wake up morning appetites at your house. Voted first for flavour by 4 out of 5 Canadian housewives. For years the favourite cereal of Canadian families. Easy to digest . . . ready to serve. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.



Whole wheat is one of Canada's most important foods and Kellogg's All-Wheat is whole wheat in its most delicious form. Flaked, toasted, ready-to-eat! Grand to extend left-over meats in casserole dishes.

Here's crispness that really stays crisp! No matter how much milk or cream you add, you can't drown the gay Snap-Crackle-Pop of Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Everyone goes for their sparkling flavour! Serve them often!



Kellogg's Pep is made from whole wheat with some of the flour removed to enrich the bran content. Serve them often to all your family, for breakfast or at odd hours through the day.

Here's a shredded whole wheat cereal that's appetizingly different! Shredded, crisped, curled—Kellogg's Krumbles have a distinctive flavour only Kellogg's can capture! No fuss or bother to prepare! No messy pots or pans to wash!

Save Time... Save Work... Save Fuel!

Hasten Our Boys' Victorious Home-coming. Buy War Savings Stamps from your grocer.

Kellogg's Bran Flakes help keep you fit for your daily work . . . "extra" activities, too! Ready-to-serve in 30 seconds. Serve them for breakfast, lunch, between-meal snacks.

York Saturday for club representatives to adopt the 154-game schedule of the International Baseball League. The Toronto Leafs open at Jersey City April 20 and will play their first home game May 3.

Betting High.

More than $1,000,000 was wagered Saturday at Hialeah Park by the largest crowd of the Florida season, 12,948 fans. Jockey Ted Atkinson of Toronto, guided Air Current to a five-length victory in the first division of the Miami Beach handicap over the grass course, while the second section of the race was won by Rascal.

Curling rinks of the United States and Canada will compete in the annual Gordon Medal competition at Montreal March 18, it was decided at the annual meeting of the Grand National Curling Clubs of America at Utica, N.Y., Saturday night.

New Swim Records

In the win of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in the 400-yard swimming relay at the swimming gala at Great Lakes, Ill., Saturday night, the team set a record of 3 minutes, 24.8 seconds for the event and Bill Smith covered a 100-yard leg in 50 seconds flat for a world's individual record for that distance.

Recently discharged from the U.S. Army, Edward Mierkowicz, 19, Wyandotte, Mich., was signed as an outfielder Saturday by the Detroit Tigers and will report to Buffalo of the International loop.

The New York Racing Commission yesterday announced a 181-day racing season for the metropolitan area, starting April 8 with a 25-day meeting at Jamaica and winding up with a program at Empire City track with the closing day Nov. 4.

The National Baseball Association has already decided to hold the 1944 minor league meeting at Minneapolis in December, an invitation from Montreal having been turned down, it was announced yesterday by Commissioner W. G. Branham at New York.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs lost the third successive game of their basketball tour Saturday night when they bowed to Assumption College 41-24.

30 Trenton Airmen Visit Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7 (ENS) —About thirty airmen from the Trenton station and representing various parts of the Empire and the Dominion were guests of the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter at a week-end party here. The chapter made arrangements for billeting and entertaining the boys from Friday to Sunday and staged a special party at the Parish Hall in their honor on Saturday evening. This, as it has been on previous occasions, was the main feature of the week-end program, as the airmen were left to the resources of their hosts during the remainder of their visit.

For the party in the Parish Hall members of the Trent Valley chapter were also guests and the evening's entertainment included dancing and community singing together with musical selections by several local artists including Mrs. H. M. Fowlds, Mr. Francis DeCarrol, and Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols. Music for dancing was provided by Mrs. J. O. Benor, Mr. Arnold Bates and Mr. George Nichols. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening with the regent Miss Eleanor Ferris and Mrs. G. A. Ironside pouring tea.

Friendship Circle Plans Euchre Party

HASTINGS, Feb. 7—(ENS). — Mrs. William Fleming was hostess to the members of the Friendship Circle of the Fleming's district for their regular monthly meeting. The president, Mrs. H. Johnston, presided. There were nine ladies present. During the afternoon they pieced the tops for three Dresden Plate quilts. The main item of business centred around the planning of a progressive euchre party and dance to be held in the Town Hall, Hastings, on Monday, February 21. The president presented Mrs. James Beamish with a beautiful jardiniere from the Circle, wishing her health and happiness in her new home. Mrs. Beamish, although completely taken by surprise, thanked the members in a few well chosen words. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Pickens. The hostess served dainty refreshments.

Greco Testifies On Serious Charge

ST. JOHNS, Que., Feb. 7—(CP)—Pte. Johnny Greco, former Canadian lightweight contender, will know Feb. 14 whether he will stand trial on a manslaughter charge. Judge Andre Regnier today took the case under advisement after a second charge, of failure to stop and report an accident, was dismissed Saturday.

Greco testified in his own behalf at today's preliminary hearing on a charge which arose out of the death of Pte. Romeo Dagenais whose body was found on the road near here Jan. 16.

Bethany News

Mrs. W. A. Thorndyke returned home to Bethany on Wednesday, after a ten-days' visit with her son Keith in Mimico.

Mrs. F. Logan, who purchased the McCartney home last year, has taken up residence.

Wren Is Honored

COBOURG, Feb. 7 — (ENS) Miss Kay Shorey, a member of the "Wrens," was given a surprise presentation on Saturday night, after receiving a "summons" to present herself immediately at the police station. However, it was for no breach of the law that her peremptory appearance was demanded. Instead it was to receive a gift of a substantial sum of money from her fellow-workers and associates of the town hall staff. Miss Shorey was for four years before enlistment in the Wrens, assistant town clerk and in addition was relief officer and ration secretary.

Constable Ted Houghton, who was in the Navy in the last war, was fittingly selected to read the address of presentation, in which he referred to the fact that Miss Shorey had always proved a pleasant and co-operative fellow-employee of the town. Best wishes were expressed for her luck and well-being while doing her bit for her country. The presentation of the money was made by Constable Roy Doherty.

Miss Shorey enlisted last year and has been stationed at Halifax and at present is home on leave.

Sales Increase $30,000 Reported

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7—(ENS) —The Campbellford District Co-operative which began only two years ago chalked up a $30,000 increase in sales in 1943 and members were so satisfied with the progress they had made that they voted to become Chartered Co-op registered under the Companies Act. This was announced at the largely attended annual meeting held Friday when the year's work was reviewed and officers for 1944 were chosen.

President Earl Godden summarized the annual statement pointing out that the shortage of grain in Ontario had created a great demand for western feed. He said the Co-op had a profit of $2,475.30 on the year's business and after the deduction of reserves there would be a balance of $1,864.04 to be distributed among the 63 members as patron's dividends. The speaker offered this as proof that costs of handling and distribution had been reduced "by the elimination of two or three profits between the producer and consumer." He urged widening of the co-operative movement on all fronts to take in producers, consumers, credit and service, "and only then can we achieve freedom and security for the people of Canada and enable the common people to assume a greater measure of control over their economic destiny".

According to the statement presented by Secretary R. A. Bateson, sales last year totalled $41,123.16 and gross profits amounted to $3,997.98. Commission, $905.91; general expenses, $223.65; rent $99.45 and wages $293.67 left the net profit for the year at $2,475.30 from which $618.82 was being treated as reserve leaving the balance for distribution.

David Davidson, manager of the Peterborough Co-operative Services, addressed the gathering and emphasized the importance of maintaining a reserve fund, part of which should be marked for educational work. Jos. Galway, Gananoque, speaking on the Campbellford Co-op's plan to expand, declared the selection of a competent board of directors was vital to the success of the organization. Norman MacMurchy, service manager of the Co-operative Services in Peterborough, also addressed the meeting.

Seven provisional directors were named pending the receipt of their charter after which another meeting will be called and the appointments confirmed. The new directors are: Earl Godden, W. F. Scott, Mel McKeown, Robert A. Bateson, F. A. Burgar, Ernest Eagleson, Lisle Bennett.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Bill Calladine had a goal and an assist as the Boston Bruins snapped out of a seven game losing streak Saturday night and beat the Rangers 7 to 2.... St. Catharines Saints knocked the Hamilton Majors out of the senior leadership Saturday by trimming the Hamilton crew 5 to 3.... According to Jim Coleman Referee King Clancy let the boys have a free hand in Saturday night's game with Detroit. At that it must have been something of a novelty to have anything free around the Gardens.... Rollie Hemsley, Yanks' second catcher, has decided to remain on the farm and stay out of baseball this season—so another well-known name is disappearing from the roster.... Canadiens' win over Black Hawks Saturday was the 18th victory they have registered on home ice this season, setting a new record for the N.H.L. They will probably boost the mark considerably before the schedule is completed.

OTONABEE BROTHERS IN NAVY—Two Otonabee brothers, Stocker Raymond Driscoll (Left) and Able Seaman Clare Driscoll are serving in the Canadian Navy. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Driscoll and both enlisted in February, 1943. Raymond is 22 and is now on duty on a corvette. His wife resides at 132 Sophia Street. Clare enlisted when he was 17 and is now taking his advanced training in Eastern Canada. Both boys want to farm when the job is over.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

This is just a little aftermath of the ladies' tankard. We were sitting in on No. eight, waiting for some cold weather to come; many others were there and the conversation was all ladies' tankard.

"Funny that our ladies never won the tankard?"

"Well they did win it in such a year."

"Well I know that they never won it."

"I'll bet you they did, etc., etc., etc."

This went on at great length. We sat and listened and enjoyed ourselves. So just to clear up the matter we will print, from our records, just what happened on Wednesday, February 18, 1925 at the Kingston Curling Club. There were four clubs entered. At that time it was a double rink competition with total scores to count. In the morning the Peterborough ladies met and defeated the Toronto Club 16-14 and in the afternoon won the finals from Queen City Club 21-18.

And here is the personnel of the rinks:

Peterborough	Queen City
Mrs. J. H. Vernor	Mrs. Spratt
Mrs. R. Grant	Mrs. Tilbson
Mrs. C. Jamieson	Mrs. Tobin
Mrs. W. H. Hill 7	Mrs. Moorhouse 9
Mrs. R. Turner	Mrs. Warren
Mrs. O. DeGraw	Mrs. Agar
Mrs. A. Turner	Mrs. McWilliams
Miss Gladman 14	Mrs. Nettlefield 9
21	18

And incidently Mrs. Agar who viced for Mrs. Peppall the other day was the only player, playing here, that played in the tankard competition in Kingston 19 years ago. Finals there were 12 ends instead of 10.

During the two days' play of the ladies' tankard A. Bottum of Bobcaygeon was an interested spectator. He came down to root for "the girls of our town" and he did an excellent job of it. Mr. Bottum is one of the old timers. He is probably the best known curler in this part of the province and we believe that he was on the Bobcaygeon rink that won the Ontario Silver Tankard in 1893. He will always receive a warm welcome here.

Mrs. D. Clarke, Peterborough, played two games in the Consolation event on Friday, both games were forced into an extra end. She lost one and won one.

Found—At the north end of the rink on Saturday morning, one rabbit's foot.

A number of our lady curlers are leaving on Wednesday for their annual trip to the Seigniory Club, Quebec.

We have already 27 entry's for our open bonspiel on Wednesday. That means we have room for one more. It may be filled by now.

It is to be "double header" this evening.

Week-end Stars

BIDDING BLANK SUITS

THERE IS only one sure way to show your partner immediately that you have a hand strong enough for a game contract, after the opponents have opened the bidding. That is by means of a bid of their own suit, which among all fine players compels your partner to name some other suit, as a preference among the remaining ones, or No Trumps, if he has the hostile suit well stopped and likes that declaration. On rare occasions you may bid two of the opponents' suits.

North: ♠ 6 4 ♥ 9 7 5 3 2 ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ 6 5 3

West: ♠ Q 10 3 ♥ None ♦ A Q J 9 6 ♣ Q J 9 7 2

East: ♠ J ♥ Q J ♦ K 10 8 5 3 ♣ A K 10 8 4

South: ♠ A K 9 8 7 5 2 ♥ A K 10 8 6 4 ♦ None ♣ None

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	2 ♦	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♣	6 ♣	6 ♦	6 ♥

South's first bid, of 2-Diamonds, showed his partner at once that he had a hand of game-going strength and wanted a game contract, regardless of how weak North's holding might be. He said nothing about preferred declarations, except that it must not be diamonds, and that North must indicate his preference on a basis of number of cards in some suit rather than the honor strength in it. In brief, he said, "I'll furnish the necessary high cards if you'll furnish the suit length."

West could have hopped to 5-Diamonds at once and so blocked an exchange of information, but he decided, with his diamond fit, that he might cause more trouble by forcing in clubs. East naturally took this to game, though a small slam might have been better bidding. Vulnerability had him a bit frightened. This call, however, left the door open for South to make the most informative possible bid when he called 6-Clubs. That made it clear to his partner that he wanted a slam in one major or the other.

West's 6-Diamonds call then was more or less perfunctory. North already knew enough now to make a free bid of a small slam in hearts. The only reason the opponents did not bid 7-Diamonds over that was their idea that they might defeat it. If they had made the bid, South said later, he would have ventured to call grand slam in hearts. That was made anyway. After ruffing the club A in dummy, North dropped trumps and set up spades with a third-round ruff to take all of the tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 7 6 5 ♥ J 10 9 ♦ A Q 8 ♣ A Q J 3

West: ♠ A Q J 10 8 ♥ 8 3 ♦ 9 4 3 2 ♣ K 9

East: ♠ 9 2 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ 8 6 5 4 2

South: ♠ K 4 3 ♥ A K Q 7 5 ♦ J 10 6 ♣ 10 7

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the soundest way for North and South to bid the 4-Hearts which they can make on this deal?

Japanese Told Enemies Near

NEW YORK, Feb. 7— (A P) — Japanese audiences were warned by the Tokyo radio to-day that the United States invasion of the Marshall Islands was "in dead earnest" and consequently the war situation "is growing more acute than was ever noted heretofore."

The Tokyo domestic broadcast, recorded by United States Government Monitors, said:

"The enemy is eagerly pressing his advance into our inner south seas with the Gilberts as a powerful strategic base in the Central Pacific and no doubt quickly carried out the Marshall operations in order to destroy the might of 'Time' which is a very important strength of Japan."

Tokyo told its audiences the "Western Pacific, needless to say, is the sphere of our control and the front line of national defence.

"It goes without saying that our front line units will respond by strongly counter-attacking the enemy," the broadcast continued. "The fact that the enemy's sacrifices will increase the closer he approaches our operational bases can easily be understood."

Tokyo emphasized, however, "it is clear that the recent sorties of the enemy are being carried out with all these conditions in mind" and, with "the war in the Pacific charging along with great speed from one decisive battle to another," it was time for the Japanese to exert their greatest effort.

The Japanese Domei Agency, in an English-language wireless dispatch to North America, said "the main force of our navy remains intact" and it "will select the most advantageous times and places to sally forth for the defence of greater East Asia."

H.M.C.S. "CHEDABUCTO"—Loss of H.M.C.S. "Chedabucto," Bangor class minesweeper was announced today by Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services. Seriously damaged in a collision in the St. Lawrence, the ship was taken in tow and beached but is considered a complete loss. "Chedabucto," 750 tons and 200 feet long, was built in Vancouver in 1941. She is the 14th Canadian warship lost in this war.

Canadian Minesweeper Lost In River Collision

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. — Loss of the minesweeper H.M.C.S. Chedabucto, the ship which saved Halifax from a possible disastrous explosion, was announced to-day by the Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Service.

Chedabucto was beached in the St. Lawrence following a collision and is considered a complete loss. One man was killed Sub.-Lieut. (E) Donald William Tuke, R.C.N.V.R. of Haileybury, Ont. Engineer officer of the sweeper, his cabin was situated at the point of collision. Remainder of the crew of approximately 70, were unhurt. Sub-Lieut. Tuke, 28 years old, enlisted at Windsor in 1942.

A Bangor class minesweeper, H.M.C.S. Chedabucto was the 14th Canadian warship to be lost. She was 200 feet long and a vessel of 750 tons.

The collision occurred at night in the St. Lawrence. The other vessel involved rammed the Chedabucto on the port side, suffering only slight damage herself. The minesweeper, however, began to list immediately and her captain, Lieut. J. H. B. Davies, R.C.N., of New York, signalled for assistance.

Her decks canted at more than 30 degrees, Chedabucto was taken in tow by a U.S. new construction coastguard cutter. An endeavor was made to tow to a beach suitable for salvage work, but the minesweeper's list rapidly increased to past 40 degrees, and the tow was directed to the nearest point of land.

Crew Gets Off.

Nearly on her beam ends, she was beached with the assistance of a sister sweeper, H.M.C.S. Swift Current which sent a whaler ashore with a kedge anchor to drag her the last lap. Swift Current then took off the crew.

H.M.C.S. Chedabucto was built in Vancouver by the Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. and commissioned in 1941. Her greatest exploit since that time was the sinking, by gunfire, of a blazing ammunition ship in Halifax Harbor.

The sweeper was just in from patrol, a patrol incidentally which had included a brush with a submarine with promising results. Half her crew were ashore when word came that an ammunition ship was on fire and adrift and Chedabucto was ordered out to sink her.

With every man at "action stations" she steered out into the harbor and the four-inch gun forward was trained on the burning ship. The engine room was picked as the target and Chedabucto closed in to point blank range. She could not afford even one miss. The blazing ammunition ship was quickly sunk thus averting the danger of a serious explosion.

The job done, Chedabucto did not even return to her dock. A signal sent her straight out on patrol again.

In the course of her many patrols, Chedabucto carried out several attacks on submarines. On one occasion she sent away a seaboat in a gale in a gallant attempt to save life from a tanker wrecked on the shoals of Sable Island. So great was the sea her boat could not come alongside the tanker and Chedabucto's boat crew was eventually picked up by a British destroyer, which also saved the tanker's men when the sea moderated.

Federation Fees Increased To 15 Cents

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 7 — (ENS).—Mrs. T. C. Morden was hostess for the February meeting of the Women's Institute at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

With the president, Mrs. H. Tully, in the chair, the "Prayer for Peace" was offered by Mrs. Ira Lowe.

A letter of thanks from Pte. John Edgerton, overseas, for cigarettes, was read.

Letter from the Department re the Federation fees, this year the fee will be raised to 15 cents, with the local branch agreeable to this increase.

All members were requested to bring to the next meeting some topics, or activities, they wished to be considered for the new programs.

The travelling apron was on display, and the numerous patches found to contain $5.20 for the British War Victims' Fund.

Cigarettes will be sent to ten boys serving overseas from the proceeds of the pot luck dinner held recently.

A committee of Mrs. Alex. Tully, Mrs. Ira Lowe and Mrs. M. Handley was named to arrange an evening to be held in the W.I. hall on St. Valentine's night.

Mrs. W. H. Lowes contributed a poem for the program, and Mrs. Graham, gave a reading, "Berry Patch Sabotage."

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Harry Tully, served refreshments.

Entire Greek Crew Lost As Ship Sinks

HALIFAX, Feb. 7— (CP)— The coal-laden steamship lost on a voyage from Halifax to Saint John, N.B., last week has been identified as the Aikaterini T., and the names of 28 crew members reltased.

All but two were Greek, according to an announcement made by Greek consular officials. The names of two British naval gunners were given as Matthew Spencer, Newfoundland, and Alfred Sharp, England.

A 10th body was recovered in the area around Digby, N.S., yesterday. Eight have been identified as members of the ship's crew, and four of the men were buried here yesterday.

The vessel was believed to have struck a ledge and foundered near the mouth of the Bay of Fundy with all hands. Officials said an investigation was being made in an effort to discover how she was lost.

Conservatives a Fraud

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 7 (CP) — There is unemployment in Ontario and neither the Ontario nor Dominion Governments are taking constructive steps to meet it, E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, said Saturday night in an address here.

Selective Service recently had 200,000 registered for work, he added. Thousands were unable to find employment while Canada was engaged in an all-out war. Mr. Jolliffe labelled the Progressive Conservative party as "a menace to progress and the most fantastic political fraud in Canadian history."

CHEMISTRY is the taking of a relatively small group of basic substances, and, by the apparent magic of Chemistry, so changing them that they take on new forms and new properties that render them of great value to man in his many activities.

A few examples: Cellulose Chemistry brings us such products as "Cellophane", as plastics, as "Fabrikoid", and as certain highly valuable lacquers. From abundantly available coal tar derivatives, air and water, comes nylon yarn from which, after the war, nylon hosiery will once again be made.

Sulphuric acid, made in Canada to supply an essential ingredient of manufacture for many widely distributed industries, works for the farmer also, because, when chemically combined with phosphate rock, the result is the super-phosphate so essential to mixed fertilizers. Again, there are the salt wells at Windsor, Ontario, from which, in addition to your table salt, Chemistry produces chlorine and caustic soda, both indispensable in many different industries.

Throughout the war Chemistry has served Canada well—just as in the years before the war. When peace comes, Chemistry will take its place among the factors helping to build a great nation. Present-day services to humanity of the products of Industrial Chemistry are but an indication of future services in providing new products, new materials, new processes, to meet the demands of a restless, progressive post-war world.

Allies Facing Major Test Holding Anzio Bridgehead

Reds Slaughter Trapped Nazis

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 8—(AP).—The situation confronting 15 German divisions trapped in the Dnieper Bend grew steadily more desperate today as the Red Army cut down thousands of the Axis troops and narrowed the circles of death around the enemy forces at Nikopol and Cherkasy. At the same time Russian and German troops fought without quarter in the outskirts of the rich manganese centre of Nikopol in which the Red Army penetrated yesterday. As the bewildered Germans fell back before the fierceness of the Soviet onslaught, other troops of Gen. Rodio Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army came to grips with the remnants of five fast-tiring divisions effectively trapped in the Dnieper marshlands outside the city.

One hundred miles north of Nikopol, the 1st and 2nd Ukrainian Armies under Gen. Nikolai Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev reduced the Nazi-held Cherkasy pocket to approximately 40 square miles by capturing five fortified towns within its outer fringe, among them Novo-Pavlovka, three miles from Nikopol's centre.

The Russians planted their artillery within shelling range of German airfields which heretofore had offered the sole means of escape to survivors of the 100,000 troops originally penned in this Russian death trap.

Nikopol's defenders resorted to every trick they knew to stop the Soviet onslaught. They were fighting with dug-in tanks and self-propelled guns at the city's approaches, but were outflanked and crushed at every point, a Russian communique

All Canadian Graves Marked By Special Military Unit

By FOSTER BARCLAY—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Parents and other relatives of Canadians killed in action need not worry about their men's graves being forgotten. A permanent record of each grave has been made since the 1st Division landed in Sicily and fought its way to Ortona.

Two Canadian army graves registration units move forward with the troops, ensuring that every grave, no matter how isolated or overgrown by weeds, is recorded for the time when the body it contains can be moved into an Italian cemetery set aside for Canada's war dead.

One unit, under Capt. Malcolm Gray, Port Credit, Ont., is supervising burial in a Canadian cemetery of Canadian soldiers who died in Sicily. No site yet has been chosen in Italy, but it is understood that any decision will wait until after the war.

Many graves now dot the countryside — evidence of the Canadians' winding path through Italy. But the people of Canada can rest assured that the plots, whether they are neat regimental cemeteries containing 100 or more bodies or bare, wind-swept mounds by the wayside, have been located by the registration units.

The job of recording Canada's war dead in Italy is being done by a unit, commanded by Capt. H. H. Olraker, Vancouver, which recently arrived from Brita'n. With him are Lieuts. C. M. Bentinck, St. Catharines, Ont., and J. A. Morrison, Cardinal, Ont., and 12 other soldiers.

Padres Co-operate.

Armed with compass, map, pencil and paper, they go out daily—almost into the front lines—to hunt for graves from information supplied by regimental padres. If they come across the burial place of any other body, Allied or enemy, the location is also recorded. Only a few have been found with the word

Daylight Swoop Hits Frankfurt

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 8 —(AP)—United States heavy bombers in force thundered explosives on Frankfurt again today and the fury of their attack left no doubt that the obliteration of another great German manufacturing centre was well begun.

While the bombers made their 400-mile penetration of Germany under the protection of long-range fighters, an independent force of heavyweights droned across the Channel to join swift flig'ts of American Marauders and British Typhoons and Hurricanes in a concentrated pounding of targets in northern France.

Frankfurt, a city of 500,000 near the junction of the Main and the Rhine Rivers, already had been severely damaged by three heavy R.A.F. night attacks when more than 800 American bombers struck it in daylight with 1,800 tons of explosives last Jan. 29.

Has Chemical Plants

Another punishing attack was delivered in daylight Feb. 4 and the follow-up today emphasized Allied determination to wipe out the city with its railroad yards, aircraft component factories and chemical plants.

The daylight air offensive came after the R.A.F.'s swift Mosquitoes bombed unspecified objectives in western Germany last night for the sixth time in seven nights.

The American heavies now have conducted 10 major operations in 12 winter days—indicative of the growing strength of the American air force now numbering more than 2,000 heavy bombers in the United Kingdom.

The mediums went out today with a strong escort of R.A.F., Dominion and Allied Spitfires.

Finland Warned To Expect More

LONDON, Feb. 8.— (CP).—Finland was warned by the Moscow radio to-day that Sunday night's bombing of Helsinki by Russian warplanes is only the prelude to greater blows to knock the Finns out of the war.

The broadcast quoted Izvestia, official Soviet government organ, as threatening Finland with "retribution and revenge" and predicting that the "crazy Finnish imperialists will likely awaken to see the Red army before the walls of Helsinki."

"Soon, very soon," Izvestia said, "the Finns shall have occasion to repent that the war lasted so long. The suffering of our brothers of the Karelo-Finnish Soviet republic call for revenge and retribution. We have not forgotten them.

"The Finnish invaders will soon be thrown out of all Soviet land. The hour of reckoning is approaching. The night before last our powerful air force dealt one blow to the Finnish capital. Fires and explosions scorched the city. Let the ruins fall upon the heads of the Fascist leaders of Finland."

The broadcast was recorded by the Soviet Monitor here.

8,000 Japs Killed On Marshalls

Sea Bombardment Responsible For Jap Losses

By WILLIAM HIPPLE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 8 —(AP)—The most powerful American fleet ever thrown into battle, an air force which drove the enemy from the skies and deadly accurate artillery fire struck with such co-ordinated fury in the Marshalls invasion that only 285 invaders were slain against 8,122 Japanese.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced both figures yesterday. From all sources, in explanation of this success, the stress was on the preparatory attacks.

"I've never seen anything like that air and sea bombardment," said Commander Anthony Kimmins, British Royal Navy observer who has been through the African and Sicilian campaigns.

The first observer to return from the invasion scene, Commander Kimmins said the fire was so deadly that the ground troops had little to do but mop up.

Both Commander Kimmins and William L. Worden, Associated Press war correspondent, observed the preparatory firing was so complete that the shore was lined with dead fish. Worden couldn't even be sure there had been grass on the ground.

Capture of Kwajalein may go far toward driving the Japanese from all the Marshalls.

Maj.-Gen. Holland Smith, who directed all marine and army ground troops in the Kwajalein operations, told Lief Erickson, Associated Press war correspondent aboard a warship in the Atoll Lagoon, that the invaders have severed supply arteries of the Japanese in the Marshalls.

Kwajalein affords both excellent airfield and harbor facilities. Using it as a base and possibly expanding to any other desirable islands nearby, the Allies can prepare for a large-scale blow at the Carolines, in the centre of which the enemy's naval bastion, Truk, is located.

The whole Marshall group, which the Japanese held for more than 20 years, is a major factor in opening a sea lane westward and eventually separating Japan from her rich, stolen empire in the Dutch East Indies.

Three Dogs Rescue Pal From Icy Water Snuggle Close, Warm Him With Their Bodies

OTTAWA Feb. 8.—(CP).—Alderman Harold Taylor said at city council's meeting last night that on a visit to a Beauharnois, Que., paper mill he noticed four dogs playing on the ice of the St. Lawrence river.

One fell into open water. The largest of his playmates crawled toward him. Another one grabbed the big dog's tail and pulled. The big dog grabbed the smaller dog by the ear, flipped it out of the water on to the ice.

"The wet dog picked a spot in the full sunshine," he said. "The other small dogs lay down close beside him and the big dog covered him. They stayed this way for about eight or 10 minutes, drying him off and they all got up and ran away."

27 R.C.A.F. Training Planes Destroyed In Toronto Fire

TORONTO, Feb. 8—(CP).—L. J. Tripp, manager of fire-swept Barker Airfield in suburban Toronto, said today the blaze which levelled two hangars and repair shops at the field this morning destroyed 27 R.C.A.F. Tiger Moths, training aircraft being repaired at Barker Field on government contract.

He said an earlier damage estimate of about $370,000 "may be a little high." The aircraft cost about $7,000 each he said, which would be a total of about $189,000. The balance of the heavy damage was done to buildings and equipment. Mr. Tripp said he could not give a clear estimate of the damage yet.

While he spoke, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and officials of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department began their investigation of the disastrous blaze, which first was noticed in a woodworking section of the repair plant. Firemen from three Toronto suburbs, York township, North York and Weston, fought the fire for five hours before bringing it under control.

Most of the planes destroyed had been housed for repair in a shed at the north end of the repair plant, and the flames were carried there rapidly by a strong wind. District residents helped airfield employees remove some of the planes to safety, but the rapidity with which the fire spread cut short these rescue operations.

The fire was discovered by a night watchman, but by the time he had called the North York Fire Department the entire woodworking section was a mass of flames. North York firemen, joined by an official at the Patterson and Hill airfield, adjacent to Barker field, said that one of the Patterson and Hill planes was set ablaze by flying sparks and that all planes in his firm's hangars were threatened for a time before the blaze finally was controlled.

Many Airmen Reach Britain

LONDON, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Arrival in the United Kingdom of "several" complete squadrons of the R.C.A.F. was announced to-day at Overseas Headquarters.

The type of squadrons was not disclosed in the announcement, but the airmen included fighter pilots, some of whom have already completed one tour of operations overseas.

The squadrons arrived with a full complement of air and ground crews, together with a large draft of other R.C.A.F. personnel for all branches of the service, including the Women's Division and the nursing sisters.

Air Minister C. G. Power announced in Canada a short time ago that a number of squadrons would be moved to this side of the Atlantic. Although announcement of their arrival said the units were complete, they arrived by ocean transport, presumably without aircraft which probably will be provided in the United Kingdom.

The newcomers were welcomed on shipboard by Group Capt. G. C. Bond of the Air Ministry who told them, 'We are most grateful for all the Dominions are doing in all parts of the world and especially for the very large part your airmen now are taking in the air offensive in Europe which is a magnificent contribution towards hastening the victory."

Nikopol Falls

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Russian army has liquidated the German bridgehead at Nikopol, driving the Germans from their last stronghold east of the Dnieper river, and has captured the city of Nikopol itself on the right bank of the river, Moscow announced to-night.

In two orders of the day, Marshal Stalin said the Russian army in the Dnieper Bend had defeated seven German infantry divisions to clear a bridgehead 72 miles wide and 21 miles deep, and then gone on to seize Nikopol, important manganese centre across the Dnieper.

Would Lift Ban, Meat Plentiful

HAMILTON, Feb. 8—(CP).—W. W. Baillie of Hamilton, in an interview today said "a lot of meat in Canada is going to waste because there is no market for it," and retailers here "will ask the Prices Board to increase ration allowances to relieve the situation."

"Farmers and storekeepers are taking a loss because of inability to market lamb, beef and pork which is coming on the market in ever-increasing quantities," he said.

"There is plenty of meat, but the output of it is controlled so the butcher cannot take more in the back door than he is allowed to sell out the front door and purchasing power is limited."

Mr. Baillie, who is manager of the H. H. Fearman Co. here, said the people would be "glad" to take the surplus meat, which he added was caused by the response of farmers to government appeals to produce more and continued rationing. Retailers intend to urge that the ban on buying be lifted for a definite period or that the rations be substantially increased for a stated time to enable the finished products to come on the market and be disposed of, said Mr. Baillie.

Nazi Bombs And Shell-fire Rain On Invasion Troops Believed Prelude To Attack

Fighting In Cassino Rages Furiously Town Almost Encircled By French And American Infantry Units

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, Feb. 8—(AP).—Waves of German planes struck in a heavy attack yesterday at the Allied invasion beachhead south of Rome, Allied Headquarters here announced today, and thunderous artillery shelling continued in prelude to an impending major battle.

British and United States troops further consolidated their positions in the bridgehead, and the Germans strengthened their force thrown around the invasion area. Patrols were active, but there were no major land attacks by either side, headquarters added.

British and United States troops further consolidated their positions in the bridgehead, and the Germans strengthened their force thrown around the invasion area. Patrols were active, but there were no major land attacks by either side, headquarters added.

Grim fighting continued in the streets of Cassino, the southeast and the mountains around the town. Despite fierce attacks by Americans who have nearly surrounded the town, the Nazis still held three-quarters of it, and kept open a corridor to their rear lines.

The Germans threw strong relays of bomb-carrying Focke-Wulfs over the Rome area beachhead, and fighters intercepted them. Some dropped bombs on Allied troops, but most of the formations were broken up before reaching their objectives.

Headquarters disclosed the Germans had used flame-throwers, tanks, and other weapons in their last major effort against the beachhead—an attack Saturday night west of Cisterna.

Twenty-four German planes and two gliders were shot down during the day in all Italian operations, against loss of five Allied aircraft. Nineteen of the German planes were destroyed over the bridgehead.

Heavy artillery barrages continued in the Cassino area, but field reports said the intensity of street fighting in the town itself slackened yesterday, with troops of both sides wearied by battle.

Americans made new gains on Mount Cassino, fighting up its northern slopes against numerous German pillboxes and machine-gun nests. The Germans resisted fiercely because the hill dominates Cassino and their corridor in it. There was no indication here as to whether the Germans were using the famous monastery there as part of their defences.

Eleswhere on the 5th Army front there was active patrolling, and a Nazi attack on Mount Ornito was beaten off. Two German patrol raids on Orsogna on the British 8th Army sector were repulsed. Allied patrols shot up an enemy gun battery.

Spitfires shot down four Henschel 126's, used to tow gliders, and two gliders over the Gulf of Genoa. Another Nazi plane was downed west of Corsica.

Leaders Demand Statement On McNaughton

By JAMES McCOOK,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 —(CP) —House of Commons members said to-day they hope the throne speech debate —which often lasts nearly a month —would be finished this evening or tomorrow, less than two weeks since the session opened.

Several of the 10 members who spoke yesterday failed to occupy their allowable 40 minutes in discussing a variety of subjects in the debate on the address in reply to the throne speech.

A vote this evening on accepting the address and dealing with the Progressive Conservative and C. C. F. amendments to it would clear the parliamentary decks for the War Appropriation Bill.

Introduction of this measure will bring a statement from Defence Minister Ralston, the Senior Defence Minister, in which he is expected to deal immediately with demands for a statement on the position of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian Army Commander Overseas who now is in Canada.

American Says Allies Gaining

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Nothing in the present situation suggests the Allies have lost the initiative in Italy, Brig.-Gen. Horace Sewell, military expert of the British Information Services, declared today.

Gen. Sewell's formal statement apparently was prompted by remarks of an unnamed British Military official who said yesterday in Washington that the Allies appeared to be losing some of the initiative in the beachhead south of Rome.

"The German attack on the beachhead is a defensive action on their part . . . and is designed to eliminate the threat to their line of communication," Gen. Sewell said.

He cited that the German commander is committed to the defence of Rome and there is as yet no hint that he is preparing any great offensive stroke, while at the same time Allied progress in the Cassino area is gradually loosening the German hold on the Gustav line and "the 8th Army on the Adriatic coast certainly cannot be ignored."

Tokyo Worried Over Marshalls Invasion

Seizure Of Vital Island Bases Serious Threat To Nippon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Japanese government has warned its people that "the Pacific war situation is becoming more serious" and that "the enemy's offensive throughout the entire Pacific is about to be strengthened another step"—which seems to sum up the situation very well.

This statement, part of a broadcast, was evoked by seizure with almost unbelievable ease of the heart of Nippon's powerful Marshall Islands defences, and the sensational feat of the United States navy in bombarding Paramushiro Island. An air force also bombed Paramushiro.

Now these are no ordinary events. The Marshalls are a vital plate in the armour which shields the Japanese homeland, and the broadcasting spokesman took the pains to tell his listeners that these islands are "only 11 hours from Tokyo by the Flying Fortress of the enemy."

Paramushiro, although some 1,280 miles north of Tokyo in the Kurile chain is geographically part of Nippon proper. Also it's the chief Japanese naval base in this strategic zone.

As the harassed Japanese broadcaster surmised, probably further Allied operations are impending in the whole Pacific area. I don't think we should jump to the conclusion that this means the great, all-out drive against the Mikado's forces is about to begin. There still are many preliminaries to be carried out, and anyway we probably shall have to await the end of the European conflict to release equipment for the final attack.

However, American naval and air superiority in the Pacific make it possible to undertake further major operations at any time. The Anglo-American forces under Lord Louis Mountbatten in southeast Asia presumably also are ready for preliminary activities.

The position has been vastly strengthened by the amazing conquest in the Marshalls—achieved, comparatively speaking, with infinitesimal loss. Almost the whole Kwajalein atoll is in Allied hands, and so far as concerns any little islands still unoccupied, there are no causes for worry. As Rear Admiral Richmond K. Turner remarked of these secondary isles at the time of the invasion:

"We can take them or let them wither on the vine."

Tokyo's Views

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—The Tokyo radio informed the Japanese people today that swift American blows had plunged the Central Pacific war "into an acute phase" that is moving with amazing speed toward "a battle on which the world hangs in the balance."

"Enemy America is impatiently eager for a speedy, decisive battle in the Pacific," the broadcast, recorded by the United States government monitors, said.

The broadcast added:

"We must not overlook the fact, too, that the enemy is active also

Dive-Bomber Hits Hospital

26 Killed Including U.S. Nurses

ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Feb. 8 — (CP). — A German plane dive-bombed an American evacuation hospital at 3.30 p.m. yesterday, killing 26 and wounding 43, including a number of American nurses.

The killed included two women nurses, four doctors, four wounded soldiers who had just been carried in from the front, and 16 men attached to the hospital unit.

Among the 43 wounded were 12 women nurses, three of whom were in grave condition last night.

The German dive-bomber, which eye-witnesses said came in as low as 500 feet, dropped eight small anti-personnel bombs which sent shrapnel whistling through two hospital receiving tents, one evacuation tent, two ward tents, an X-ray tent and an operating tent where operations even then were under way.

Shrapnel also perforated tents where a number of women nurses were sleeping on cots after doing night duty. Three ambulances were struck.

(A dispatch from John Lardner, another American war correspondent in Italy, estimated the number of wounded at "at least 64" and emphasized that the hospital was "on a naked plain a full mile from any military installations." The hospital tents were clearly marked with red crosses, Lardner said.)

Light Brigade 1942 Version

Smashed Rommel Unit At El Alamein

LONDON, Feb. 8 — (CP). — The War Office has released the official story of the modern "Charge of the Light Brigade"—the drive through massed German artillery by tanks of the Royal Wiltshire Yeomanry, at Tel el Aquaqqir in November, 1942.

The charge is credited with sealing the Germans' defeat at El Alamein, historic turning point for the Eighth Army.

Lined up along a narrow front of about 500 yards, the tanks, with the 3rd King's Own Hussars on their right, waited the signal to charge less than three-quarters of a mile from the screen of German 77-mm. anti-tank guns manned by fresh troops of the 90th Light Division.

When a mighty artillery barrage lifted, the tanks went into the charge "with all the dash and spirit of the Light Brigade at Balaclava." They roared on through the German fire, not stopping once until the German guns were overrun. As one Yeomanry major said with an air of finality: "We drove straight through them and that's about all we did."

Before the situation had cleared, the Wiltshires threw back a counter-attack by the 15th Panzer Division—then the march to Tripoli was on.

Savage Blow Expected From Germans

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP) — The Nettuno beachhead in Italy is sure to be hit by a savage and powerful German counter-attack, military observers here said today, but it probably will weather the storm.

But there is a certain amount of uneasiness here about the situation, although no evidence of alarm.

This attitude raises the question: why didn't the troops who achieved tactical surprise and brilliant success in their landings thrust quickly into the interior, slashing German communications and occupying the heights—why are they now in the position of merely consolidating their beachhead against expected counter attack?

The answers, from various quarters, reach into the whole campaign in Italy, but can be fairly well pinned down to one word—supply.

Complicated Job

Anzio and Nettuno provide no port facilities worthy of the name—the supply is by barge and landing-boat literally across the beaches a complicated job at best, and particularly so when the weather is bad, as it has been part of the time.

What of suggestions that rapid thrusts by armored columns could have cut the Appian Way, perhaps driven the Germans from the heights around the beachhead, possibly have reached to the Casilini Way?

When tanks have been put ashore with their crews, getting enough drum gasoline rolled through the surf and stored in fuel dumps is another matter. Setting up and operating the truck lines to follow the tanks and carry their gasoline from the dumps is still another.

The armored columns alone could not have held any gains they might have made.

The decision for the Allies appears to have been between playing their luck and striking out boldly as soon as they rolled ashore, or discounting luck and establishing a firm base before making a real effort to advance.

Their luck probably would not have been good enough. Observers here said "we're up against crack German outfits in Italy. Anybody else would have pulled out quick, as soon as we came ashore there, but those boys don't scare worth a damn. Instead, they see a chance to hit us hard, and they'll do it."

HOW TO RELIEVE
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Jap Airbases Blasted Heavily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Feb. 8.—(AP).—Japanese air and supply bases from Tanimbar Islands in the Netherlands East Indies to Kavieng, New Ireland, along a 1,450-mile front, took heavy poundings in Allied aerial attacks reported by the High Command to-day.

Eighty-one tons of bombs, the heaviest load of all the raids, were dropped on Momote airdrome and nearby supply areas in the Admiralty Islands northeast of New Guinea.

Two raids Saturday of Lakunai airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, destroyed gun positions and started fires in supply dumps, and 39 tons of bombs churned the airfield.

In the Cape Gloucester area on the northwest coast of New Britain, American marines extended their patrols across Borgen Bay to range in the vicinity of Cape Gauffre and as far as six miles south of the Bay.

Farther down the coast, at the neck of the Huon Peninsula, Australian ground fighters have closed the gap between themselves and American invasion troops at Saidor to less than 16 miles.

Take Over Forest

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP) — University of Toronto forest school has obtained a 10,000-acre "practice forest" in Haliburton county. Students will take a nine-month practical course in the area, which contains pure stands of white pine and various hardwoods.

NOW COMBINED IN ONE TINY TABLET

In "ALL-in-ONE" you get these five basic vitamins all compounded in ONE tablet —A, B1, C, D and Riboflavin.

You also get these 3 essential minerals—Iron, Phosphorus and Calcium.

One month's supply —taking TWO tablets a day—costs, at your drug store only $2.15

HERE ARE FACTS you should know about health-giving vitamins: (1) Each vitamin requires the other vitamins to make it function. (2) It takes only a microscopic amount of vitamins to provide full nutritional protection—but you must take this minimum amount EVERY DAY because the body does not store vitamins.

For the first time, you can now get all five vital vitamins combined in one tiny tablet—"ALL-in-ONE". The secret? They are compounded with a special vegetable-base yeast which holds their potency and helps their ready assimilation.

Further, in "ALL-in-ONE" Tablets, you get a valuable supply of minerals—phosphorus, iron and calcium—all essential to health.

Keep fit—at the peak of energy and health! "ALL-in-ONE" Tablets bring essential vitamin supply at a sensible price you can afford.

Announcer Breaks Into Helpless Laughter While Reading Former Shipmates' Escapades

Radio listeners tuned in to station CHEX Sunday afternoon were noticeably astonished when, during a broadcast of the news, the announcer succumbed to a fit of giggling and laughter and the playing of a record, substituted by an alert technician, was made use of to fill in an embarrassing gap in the otherwise orderly proceedings of the city's radio station. Telephone calls flooded the CHEX office from bewildered individuals inquiring about the cause of the commotion, and the announcer guilty of the lapse has since found himself subjected to a bombardment of questions from the many information seekers who would like to know why he did it.

The announcer's name is Pat Paterson and he has been with CHEX only a short time, though his earliest experiences in radio work date back several years. But of more importance to this story, he was in service overseas with the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arm of the Royal Naval Reserve from the beginning of the war until the fall of last year, when he returned to Canada for the first time in four years.

Cooking Troubles

Pat had picked up a story to read over the air this memorable Sunday datelined Pearl Harbor and telling of the difficulties encountered by a mess steward of a British aircraft carrier serving with American forces in the New Georgia drive in the Solomons. The British ship had run low on food and had been supplied by plane with potatoes of the Lend-Lease, dehydrated variety. The steward was at a loss how to prepare them and had gone through his entire repertory of culinary tricks without achieving satisfactory results.

Therefore, the carrier sent out a plane to drop an S.O.S. to an American ship nearby, and the U.S. carrier responded by sending out its own commissary steward to check on the problem. He found that the British cooks had neglected to soak the waterless spuds for eight hours before starting to prepare them for eating. But this was not the joke to Pat, or the circumstance that reduced him to his helpless state of laughter that suddenly broke into the Sabbath calm of many a neighborhood home. It was the fact that the British carrier in question was H.M.S. Victorious, a ship from whose deck he himself had often flown in air operations.

One of Crew

Pat Paterson went overseas a few days after the war began and trained as a pilot in England, going on duty as night-fighter pilot with the R.A.F. in September, 1940. In the spring of the next year he transferred to the Air Branch of the Royal Naval training as a torpedo pilot and going on operations in May, 1941. It was then that his adventures with the Victorious began.

He made a trip in the North Sea, followed by action off the shores of Italy, and in one engagement was shot down in a night torpedo attack, spending several days on the Italian mainland before being rescued by naval forces. After some time spent in convalescence, he returned to sea, and in the company of the good ship Victorious saw much of the world, the West Indies, India, South Africa, the Mediterranean again and the northern route to Russian, the Murmansk run.

It was while serving in a convoy along the latter route that he was wounded, following which he spent seven months in England resting up. Discharged from service because of his injuries, he came back to Canada in the fall of last year.

47 War Workers Join Services

In the week ending January 22, a total of 104 employees of Genelco Limited were laid off and of these nearly half have since been absorbed into the armed services, it was revealed Monday by W. H. L. Mellis, local manager of Selective Service. Mr. Mellis added that this had constituted the largest lay-off of company war workers up to the present time.

The result of the changeover from production of defensive weapons of war to those of an offensive nature, the lay-offs, Mr. Mellis said, were pretty well distributed through various department of the plant.

Forty-seven of the former employees have enlisted in the Army, Navy and Air Force, the majority of them workers who had previously obtained deferment on account of war work. Of the others 12 had been placed in positions in the city, the labour officer stated, 10 had been placed in jobs out-of-town, mostly in Toronto, and three had gone into business for themselves. Of the remainder making up the list the majority were farmers and had gone back on the farm.

Mr. Mellis said that in addition some 25 French-Canadian youths from Ottawa, Hull and points in Quebec Province had left the employ of the Peterborough works just prior to the January 22 lay-off. They had returned to their homes, being underage for military service.

Buckhorn Mayor Dies In States

The many local friends of William A. Atkinson, summer resident of Buckhorn these many years, learned with deep regret to-day of his death in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Buckhorn community, especially the summer crowd, had bestowed on Mr. Atkinson the complimentary and unofficial title of "Mayor of Buckhorn," attesting to his popularity. It was his custom to arrive with the spring and depart before the advancing winter, and wait impatiently until the ice was out of Buckhorn Lake and Deer Bay again, and the swallows returned.

Chris Hughes, informed the Examiner of Mr. Atkinson's death yesterday, following an operation on February 2 in a Pittsburgh hospital. His funeral will take place Thursday from his home at 5853 Beacon Street, Pittsburgh.

"Mr. Atkinson has been coming up to Buckhorn and Burleigh Falls for the last twenty-five years," Mr. Hughes said. "He bought the Harry Rush place last fall but he had been living with Charlie Jones."

He was an ardent muskie fisherman, and in later years he and the deceased Harry Rush were among the active promoters of the Buckhorn regatta. The fishing clan from Peterborough who made Buckhorn their "rendez-vous" including Alex Elliott, G. N. Gordon, Frank Hughes, Dr. C. Y. Walsh, Max Swanston, Chris Hughes and a lot of others will mourn in sportsmen's spirit the passing of "Bill" Atkinson, not only in these present days but also when the blue water is rippling again in the sunshine and muskies are biting and fighting.

The broadcast concluded with a plea to the Japanese home front for a speedy increase in "all material fighting strength, whether it be planes or ships."

City Purchases Allin Property

For $6,500 the council has bought the J. F. Allin ice property on Rink and Townsend streets, will use it this winter for ice storage, and eventually, perhaps, make a gift of it for an ice hockey arena.

"Lock, stock and barrel," was Alderman Cotton's description of the property which includes land, buildings and equipment for ice storage. The only excepted furnishings are typewriter, desk and chair.

The property includes a lot on the north side of Rink, 114 feet by 192 feet; and a corresponding lot, facing on Townsend street. Another lot is 44 feet by 192 feet.

This transfer of possession developed out of negotiations for an ice supply next summer, especially when Mr. Allen intimated that he had too much trouble last year in engaging help and getting the ice house filled.

The council has often thought of buying this property opposite the incinerator and Board of Works yard. In fact there have been suggestions that it should become the Board's Headquarters, including the new garbage collection horses and wagons. And as public interest grows in the hockey rink project, it is being urged that the Townsend, George, Rink lot would be satisfactory, providing that it is not too far south for many of the citizens, including the residents of Ashburnham.

At any rate the council has acquired the Allin ice plant and land, and the cutting of ice is expected to be under way as soon as possible, and the council meant by that phrase that operations should begin before this week is out.

"Unknown" inscribed on the cross which stands as a headstone.

"Everything humanly possible is done to identify bodies," said Lieut. Bentinck. "If a soldier is too badly mutilated or burned to be recognized, his equipment, or what may be left of it, is scoured for identification. It is surprising the number which have been identified by merely a number or letter on a belt or bit of webbing."

Since Italy was invaded the Canadian registration units have been baffled by the few German graves. Those they have found usually contained bodies buried by the Canadians.

"It's a big mystery to us," said Bentinck. "It adds up to the conclusion that the Germans don't bury their dead. It's our theory that all bodies are cremated in mobile crematoria, which as the Nazis have used on the Russian front."

Small quantities of milling grade were taken in the domestic wheat trade for shipment east.

Arthur Stenson Convicted On Prices Charge

While he said that the evidence was not as satisfactory as he would have liked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., registered a conviction against Arthur F. Stenson, North Monaghan, on a charge in police court this morning of having sold four-foot body hardwood in the township of North Monaghan during the months of November and December last at a price higher than the ceiling price.

"He has his remedy in an appeal if he should see fit to enter one," said His Worship in finding that a sale or sales had been made at a price of $15 a cord The ceiling price for such wood in North Monaghan is $11 a cord.

Stenson pleaded not guilty to the charge and was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted.

Magistrate Langley fined the accused $15 and $5.65 costs, stating that in his opinion it was not a case for a very severe penalty and Mr. Huycke stated that it was not a particularly serious case.

Gave Evidence.

Evidence for the prosecution was given by two neighbours of the accused, Henry Taylor and Ernest Horton, living on Highway 28 who had been subpoenaed.

Taylor swore that he had ordered three cords of wood over the telephone from Stenson but there had been a mistake and only two loads had been delivered. He said that the wood was in four-foot lengths and was body hardwood. He had gone over to Stenson's house prepared to pay $45 for the wood but only paid $30 when Stenson had told him that only two cords had been delivered.

In cross-examination Taylor said that he could not be sure whether Stenson had said two cords or two loads.

Horton testified that he had ordered three cords of wood through Stenson's son and later had paid $45 for the wood. He presumed that there had been three cords delivered but he did not know the exact quantity.

Not Wood Merchant.

Ross Payne, investigator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, testified that he had called at Stenson's house in December about the wood transaction and the accused had told him that he did not make a practice of retailing wood and had never advertised it for sale.

Mr. Carley did not call any evidence for the defence and in his argument contended that the prosecution had failed to show how much wood had been delivered and therefore had failed to show that there had been a violation of the ceiling price.

Magistrate Langley said that on all the evidence he had drawn the inference that there had been a sale or sales at a price that violated the ceiling price and that therefore there would have to be a conviction.

Mr. Carley, in urging leniency in the matter of the penalty said that these transactions did not represent a racket and that the amount of sales had not been large.

The Danger of Coughs Among the Children

In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.

On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.

Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

Garbage Collecting To Be Done By City

Probably a minor casualty of the war, the contractual collection of garbage is going to be tossed on to the ash heap and the service will be undertaken by one of the municipal departments.

This decision was recommended to the council Monday night in the report of the property committee by Alderman Swanston, chairman, and was adopted without discussion.

The collection of garbage has been done by contract since it was begun in Peterborough, but costs have soared since the war began, and the contractor's difficulties have reacted on the committee to an extent that become intolerable, as the chairman has stated on more than one occasion.

The committee has been discussing the change, and chiefly as a repetition of reasons for direct and entire municipal responsibility which have been put forth year after year as the job developed frictions.

said. Rail escape routes are in the hands of the Russians, and Red Army artillery is shelling main highways to the west, the communique said.

A front line dispatch said great disorder prevailed in bottled-up Nikopol, with the streets clogged with loaded trucks and the cars of German officers as the Russians cut off the garrison from escape to the west, while on the east other Red Army units battered their way into the city.

The dispatch reported the "slaughter" of German troops who tried to escape across the mud flats of the Dnieper south and southwest of Nikopol.

Low-flying Stormoviks continuously raked the streets of the city with deadly fire. Izvestia said there were 22 wrecked German tanks and 1,600 dead at the gates of the city.

Survivors of 10 German divisions are contained in the Cherkasy 'death ring' where the Russians are steadily beating down savage resistance. Moscow dispatches said Red Army artillery is within shelling range of Axis airfields in the pocket.

This probably accounted for the communique's failure to mention destruction of any more German transport planes in that area. Previously 112 of these planes in which the Germans had been trying to evacuate officers had been destroyed in three days.

Moscow dispatches said the Germans had been squeezed into a tight little knot of exhausted men in an area reduced to 40 square miles. The midnight communique said the Russians smashed continuing German attempts to smash into the ring.

In addition to bombing western Germany, the R.A.F. night raiders attacked enemy airfields in northern France, an air ministry communique said. The overnight operations were carried out without loss.

Residents on the English coast saw strong formations streaking out toward northern France early in the day and planes were observed returning from the direction of Calais an hour later.

Shortly before their return another strong force, apparently composed of fighters, crossed the Channel at high altitude.

Perfect bombing weather prevailed in the Channel area.

Why VICKS VapoRub Is So Good
For Relieving Miseries of Childrens Colds

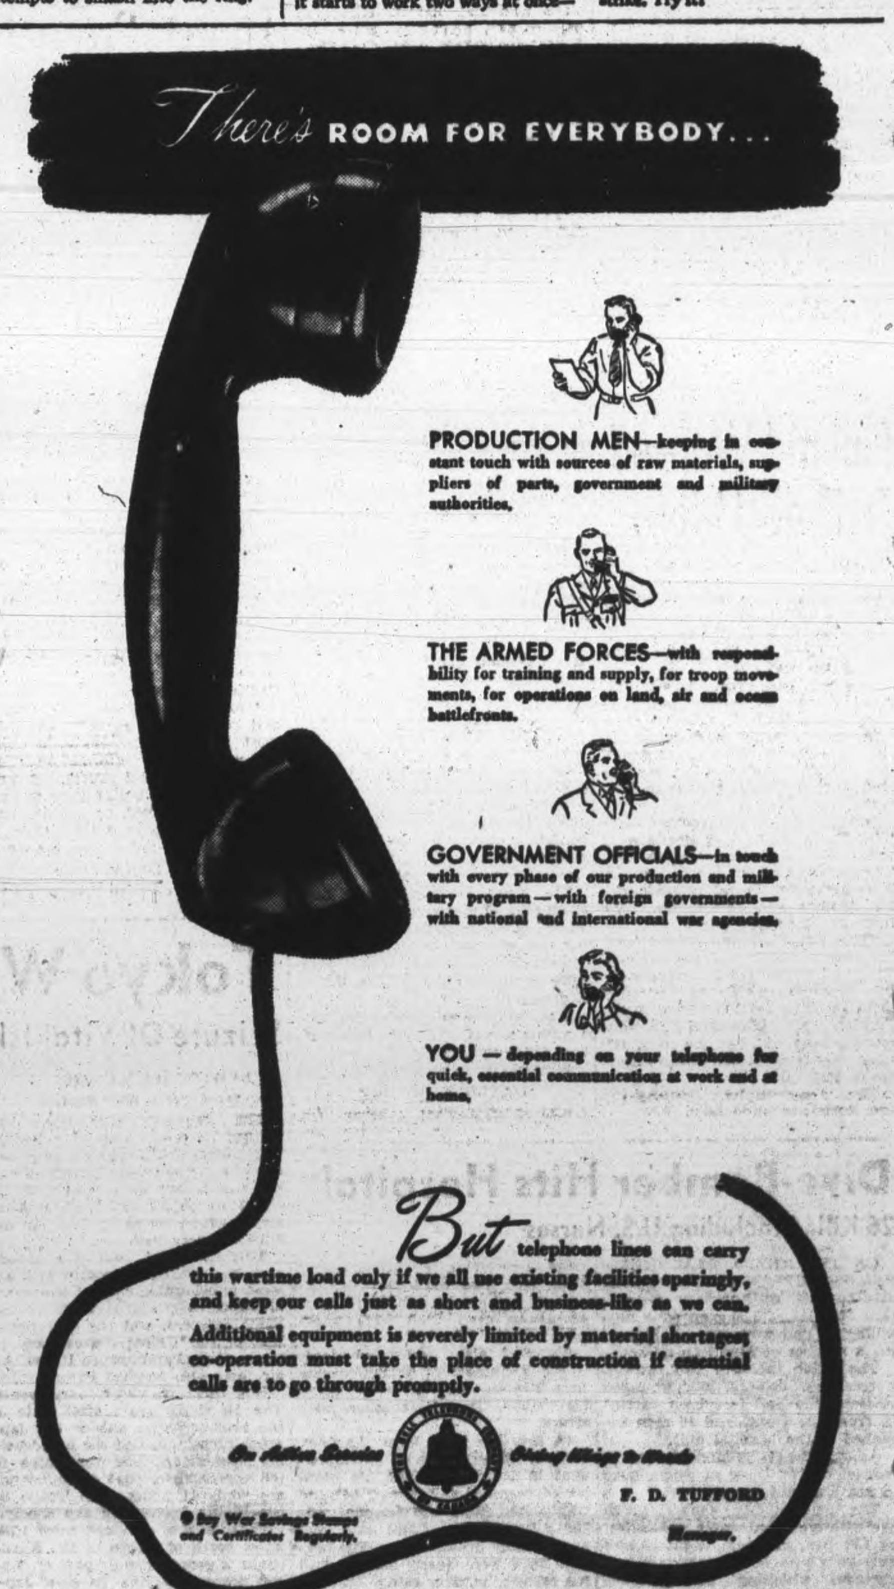
More than two generations ago—in grandmother's day—mothers first discovered Vicks VapoRub. Today it is the most widely used home-remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds. And here is the reason . . .

The moment you rub VapoRub on the throat, chest and back at bedtime it starts to work two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours—to ease coughing spasms, help clear congestion in cold-clogged upper breathing passages, relieve muscular soreness or tightness. It promotes restful sleep. Often most of the misery of the cold is gone by morning! That's why VapoRub is so good to use when colds strike. Try it!



Toronto Man Remanded On Second Charge

COBOURG, Feb. 8— (ENS).—Arthur Barr of Toronto, pleaded guilty Monday to obtaining board and lodging from a local hotel on January 15, without paying for it. He pleaded guilty last week to uttering a forged cheque for $10, and on both charges he was remanded for one week.

James Ellis of Longbranch, formerly Peterborough, pleaded guilty to stealing a truck, the date of the offense being February 6, and was remanded for a week. Ellis was arrested at Newcastle Sunday afternoon, just one hour after he stole a truck in Cobourg and by 3.30 the same afternoon was locked up in Cobourg jail.

William McGynn, of Collingwood, was told to get out of towwn quickly when he appeared in court on a charge of vagrancy. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman informed the court that McGynn was arrested in Percy township by Provincial Constable G. Hayes. The fact that he had been sleeping in barns had the farmers alarmed in that district.

"The jail here is overcrowded now with 'decent criminals without a bum like him in there. We would like to get rid of him," commented Mr. Deyman.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter dated his seven day term in jail back to Feb. 1.

"You are a free man, get moving," advised the magistrate.

Percy Walker of Cornwall, charged with the theft of $360 in cash and ration books from Mrs. Mary Wills in Haldimand township, January 23, pleaded not guilty and was remanded until next Tuesday, after which he will be given another week's remand.

Fails To Report.

James Riznik, age 20, of Courtice, pleaded guilty to failing to report for military training when so directed last November, and was sentenced to three days in jail, dating from Friday, and was accordingly turned over to the R.C.M.P. for escort to a military training centre.

The accused told the court that he had work to finish on the farm and that his mother had been ill at the time. His father was not strong enough for farm work, he said, and had a job with General Motors in Oshawa. He had received three deferments so far. Farmers in the neighbourhood, who had sons in the army, were jealous of the fact that he was still in civilian life, and had been writing letters in to to the government, the accused said.

Consable K. Bridges of the R.C.M.P. told the court that the accused already had had three deferments but had been refused another one. Riznik was not working steadily on the farm, the constable said.

"You ignored the notice when it was sent to you. Apparently you have an aversion to the army so the worst penalty would be to send you there," declared the magistrate.

Hun Paratroops Toughest Yet Encountered

By DOUGLAS AMARON,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 8 — (CP) — The Canadians are still talking about the foe they had to defeat to capture Ortona last December 27. There the Canadians found an adversary who showed no mercy, who knew and used every trick of warfare and whose courage was surpassed only by that of the Canadians themselves.

Methods used by the Germans are not condoned by the Canadians, but they do respect the courage which kept him fighting even when defeat was inevitable.

Paratroopers are Germany's shock troops. They are used where other soldiers fail and on this front they came into action half way through the Moro river battle after the Canadians had severely mauled a regiment of the Panzer Grenadiers.

Tribute To Canucks.

The Canadians ran up against some paratoroopers in Sicily, but so far as is known this is the first time they have been used as an independent regiment. The Canadians consider it a tribute to their own ability that the Germans saved their best for them.

For the most part, the Germans are young men and are ardent Nazis, brought up in the tradition of Hitlerism. They all carry pictures of the Fuehrer and although most of them no longer believe a German victory is inevitable, they fight fanatically.

For the most part, the Germans appear to respect international conventions. There have been incidents where Canadian stretcher bearers have been shot deliberately but these are the exception, and in some cases German first aid men have come out under fire to bandage the wounds of Canadians.

However, Cpl. Milton Spiegelberg of Kitchener, Ont., met two Germans who told him outright "we paratroopers don't recognize the Red Cross." These same paratroopers, however, were the first persons to take cover under it when the occasion arose.

Hospital Finances Much Improved

COBOURG, Feb. 8 —(ENS)— Although other hospitals have been having deficits in their maintenance accounts, Cobourg General Hospital in 1943 had a cash balance of $215.14. The hospital started that year with a credit balanceof about $20. When the depreciation reserve was deducted the net loss was a bookkeeping deficit of $1,402.25, but even this was much lower than the financial statement for the year before when the net loss was over $4,000. The excellent financial standing is due, it is stated, to careful management and the fact that special attention was devoted in 1943 to cleaning up delinquent accounts.

Total receipts were $30,765.08, which included $25,712.10 from patients and $1,883 from indigent patients. Among the grants were $1,271.90 from the provincial government, $800 from the counties and $600 from Cobourg town council. The exepnditures, exclusive of reserves, was $30,549.94 and included $15,653.01 for salaries, $3,986.48 for dietaries; fuel, $1,004.19; medical and surgical appliances, $3,520.66; X-ray, $691.44; light and power, $873.12 and drugs and medicines, $718.22.

Delightfully Vague

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP).—The Tokyo radio said today in a domestic broadcast that Japanese Vice-Admiral Teruo Akiyama had been killed in action "on the southern front," but gave no details. "He is a warrior who rendered meritorious services in crushing the enemy American fleet at one stroke in a night attack at the mouth of a certain bay during a certain month last year," said the broadcast.

Both worked at the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Company and their father saw three years' service in the last war.

Rows Continue Over Clerk's Job

COBOURG, Feb. 8 —(ENS) — Withdrawal of Roy Dodge from the list of four applicants for the job of deputy-town-clerk has not put an end to the dissension which has surrounded his original appointment to the position. Mrs. Clara Delany, at the last meeting of the Town Council, while speaking in support of Mr. Dodge, declared that in the case of two of the applicants, "the bailiff" had been in their homes.

E. A. Hircock, one of the applicants, stated Monday that he had sent a lawyer's letter to Mrs. Delany, demanding a retraction both in the paper and publicly at the next council meeting.

"I feel that I was included when she made the reference to the bailiff and I certainly was wronged by such a statement as it is not correct. I advised Mrs. Delany that if she didn't retract her statement insofar as I was concerned, I would take further action," stated Mr. Hircock.

Friends Present Watch To Flier

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 —(ENS) — Pilot Officer Jack U. Stephens, who has been spending a few days leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert G. Stephens, Seymour West, was honored by friends in the community Monday evening when more than one hundred gathered at the Stephen's home for a social time and presentation.

Many danced to the music provided by Arnold Bates, Peter Monoghan and R. McLaughlin while others enjoyed cards. The highlight of the occasion was the presentation made on behalf of the community, of a wrist watch. Mrs. E. J. Fairman read the presentation address following which the serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

P. O. Stephens received his education in Campbellford and won the J. A. Louck's Memorial Medal on his graduation from High School here in 1941. He was employed in the Bank of Commerce, first in Campbellford and later at Bloomfield and had advanced to the position of teller at the time of his enlistment in the R. C. A. F. in October, 1942. He received his basic training at Souris, Manitoba, and entered the I. T. S. at Edmonton getting his wings at MacLeod, Alta., on January 27.

Toronto Officer Named Agent-General

TORONTO, Feb. 8 —(CP)—Appointment of Major J. S. P. Armstrong of Toronto as agent-general for Ontario in England was announced by Premier Drew here late last night.

Arrangements for re-opening Ontario House in the empire's capital were completed by Premier Drew during his recent visit to London The premier stated last night that he had received late yesterday from Ottawa notification that Major Armstrong has been released from military service, and the announcement of his appointment followed.

Major Armstrong was in the insurance business in Toronto before the war and went overseas with the 48th Highlanders of Canada. He has been in charge of various instructional units in many parts of Britain.

"His business experience before the war, his wide military contacts during the war and his personal qualifications make him eminently suitable for this appointment," Premier Drew's announcement said.

"For the remainder of the European phase of the war and during the period of demobilization, personal contact with all branches of our armed forces will be of as great importance as the commercial phase and other activities connected with Ontario House."

Major Armstrong was born in Petrolia, Ont., in 1899 and was educated at Ashbury College, Ottawa, and the University of Toronto Schools. He is a past president of the Life Underwriters Association of Toronto.

He enlisted with the 48th Highlanders in 1923, went active with his unit at the outbreak of war and went overseas with the rank of captain. He attained his majority in 1940 and saw service with his unit in France for a short time in June, 1940.

In 1942 he was attached to special service brigade headquarters of the Commando school in Scotland and early in 1943 was second-in-command of the 48th Highlanders.

Since last April he has been adviser on combined operations at the Senior Staff College at Camberley, England.

Rural Schools Place Entries For Carnival

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 — Final details of the second "Young Campbellford Night" to be sponsored by local Rotarians here were announced at the Club's noon-day luncheon Monday. According to director W. A. 'Bill' Hogle the evening will be no mere repeat performance but a program of skating, racing and hockey contests in which local school pupils will compete with entrants from Warkworth and the surrounding rural schools in Seymour Township.

Invitations have been extended to some fourteen rural schools to attend and take part in the competitions and according to Mr. Hogle the dead-line for entries in the various contests has been set for Thursday evening. Both public and high school teams which have been lined up by the Rotarian's sports instructor, Pat Shannon, who is on hand at the club's expense five afternoons each week to supervise and coach the players, will give hockey exhibitions that are slated to get underway at 7.15 in the evening. In addition to the sports program, three clown acts and band have been arranged.

The entire proceeds of the evening will be used to pay the expenses of carrying on the Rotary's program of teaching skating and hockey to more than 150 local school pupils which is one of the biggest youth projects of its kind undertaken by a service club.

New Pastor Welcomed By Ministerial Group

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 (ENS).—Members of the Campbellford and District Ministerial Association held their February meeting Monday afternoon when they extended an official welcome to Rev. B. Babcock, who came recently to take over his duties as pastor of the Free Methodist Church.

The Association met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. R. Bryant and during the meeting, which was in charge of the president, Rev. G. N. Maxwell, they asked the secretary to write a letter of greeting to Rev. Donald McKay of Burnbrae, who has just returned after spending several weeks in Kingston General Hospital. Rev. J. R. Bick read selections from the book, "Preaching in the Early Church," by Dr. Hugh Kerr, and this was followed by an open forum on the context. At the close refreshments were served, and a motion conveyed the thanks of members to Rev. and Mrs. Bryant for their hospitality.

Something For The Soul

In the debate on the Speech from the Throne in the Senate a matter was raised by the Hon. Rupert Davies of Kingston which we think deserves more attention than it is likely to get unless a certain amount of informed public opinion can be rallied to its support. This is what Senator Davies said: "I was disappointed that there was no reference in the Speech from the Throne to our cultural life. A nation cannot become great merely by caring for the physical need of its people. It must care not only for the body but the soul. . . I have seen many art collections, and in my opinion we have at the National Gallery here one of the finest collections that can be found anywhere except in the very large art galleries of Europe. The trustees of the National Gallery are doing a good job in sending out loan exhibitions here and there, but this is not enough. When the Dominion Government is setting aside huge sums of money to defray the cost of new social legislation, it should, I think, earmark a certain amount for provincial art galleries and libraries, so that our young men and women who live long distances from the National Gallery may have an opportunity of participating in cultural advantages that would help them acquire a taste for the finer things of life. When our young people do acquire such a taste they will want better houses with more artistic furnishings, including prints of good pictures, and so on. In other words, they will become better citizens, and play a greater part than they otherwise would have been able to play in building up our nation".

• • •

This opens a subject of the utmost importance which, except for this single reference, has otherwise been neglected by Parliament. We are struggling every year to better the physical state of the Canadian people, but we appear to feel no similar obligation to better their intellectual state. Are we going to spend millions on social measures to give people physical security and health, and offer them no corresponding mental and cultural advancement? Does improvement in the standard of living mean no more than a physical improvement? Are we going to give greater leisure to our citizens, and leave them with nothing better to spend their leisure on than they have now? Canada needs many social changes and advancements. But she also needs an art, a literature and a musical life far beyond anything which she has at present. And until she gets these things, and until they thrive, she will never be a great nation. If any reader knows of a country which has achieved greatness without these things, we should be glad to learn its name.

The attitude of Canadian governments toward the cultural life of this country is well shown in the way in which it treats the royalties of Canadian authors. The London Free Press recently commented on that stupidity in these words:

"Bernard Shaw's suggestion in Britain that people in his profession—that of writer and playwright—'live precariously from month to month and acquire capital enough to provide for his dependents and educate his children only by windfalls' is painfully true. And his subsequent argument that the writer's windfalls should not be assessed for income tax purposes as settled income will arouse a hopeful cheer in the weary breast of every writer in Canada, or anywhere else. Is it not one of the many 'inequities' of the Canadian income tax law that a writer's royalties on the sale of his books are assessed for income tax on the basis of unearned income? It may appear in the eyes of accountants and actuaries that when a writer receives so much per volume, per year, as royalty, that this should be regular income. But they know nothing of the vagaries of the art of earning a royalty, the long years—decades in some cases—it has taken to write even one book, the meagre amount that is written on the publisher's check, and the black months of waiting for the royalty checks to force the mailman to hire a boy to carry his mail for him on the writer's avenue".

This policy is admirably calculated to strangle literary production in Canada. No Canadian can earn a decent living by writing books, unless he does another full-time job.

• • •

Physicians know that health of body and health of spirit go hand in hand. Canadian governments all try their skill at doctoring the body of Canada, but they do nothing whatever for the spirit and indeed seem ignorant of its very existence. Considering the way in which it is neglected it speaks well for Canada that its spirit is as strong as it is. We suggest that the Ottawa physicians provide a tonic for the Canadian spirit, or soul, as Senator Davies calls it; they will be surprised at the way in which a refreshed spirit will help to cure the ills of the Canadian body.

General McNaughton's Ill-Health

When Lieutenant-General A. G. L. McNaughton was replaced as General Officer Commanding the Canadian Army Overseas it was announced that his retirement was caused by ill health. We do not imagine that many people who are accustomed to reading and interpreting the news daily took that excuse literally. Generals rarely retire for any reason other than ill health, but that term, in its official use, may mean anything from incompetence to temperamental unfitness, from political or army stiletto-work to genuine physical illness. General McNaughton is in Canada now, and he says that his health is excellent; his blood-pressure needs raising but otherwise he is well. He has spoken of his health in so provocative a manner that we must assume that he is anxious to draw attention to the discrepancy between the official reason for his retirement and his own interpretation of the matter. He has tacitly challenged the Defence Minister to make a public explanation.

We expect that the Hon. Mr. Ralston will do so. General McNaughton is widely admired in Canada, and nobody wants to see him shabbily treated. If it is at all possible to place the full facts before the public it should certainly be done. All sorts of rumours about the affair are current, and one is especially persistent which says that General McNaughton was retired because he could not get along with General Sir Bernard Montgomery. In fairness to everybody, including the public, the matter should be aired as soon as possible.

It is undesirable, however, that the natural tendency to take sides in a quarrel should grow too strong in this matter. General McNaughton's interpretation of the facts, and Mr. Ralston's, may be quite different. If the General has been wronged, he must be given satisfaction, but if the Defence Minister gives a satisfactory and complete explanation of what has happened, that should end the matter. The McNaughton incident must not become a purely political issue. That is why the facts should be made public, and the matter settled once for all.

New Verse For National Anthem

For many years the second verse of the National Anthem has been in virtual disuse; many people think that the sentiments expressed in it are undignified, unworthy and unsuitable to a great English-speaking population; others have condemned them as un-Christian in tone. The verse in question is the one which goes:

O Lord Our God, arise,
Scatter his enemies
And make them fall;
Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On him our hopes we fix;
God save the King!

Now George Bernard Shaw has written a verse which he suggests might be acceptable as a substitute. This is it:

O Lord Our God, arise,
All our salvation lies
In thy great hands;
Centre his thoughts on Thee,
Let him God's captain be;
Thine to eternity,
God save the King!

Shaw has never been known to the public as a versifier, but we think that many people will like his second verse for the National anthem very well, and would be glad to see it adopted for general use. It expresses a thought which is admirably suited to a national hymn in a dignified and acceptable manner. If we neglect this verse it will be a long time before we get a better one.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Social Credit M.P. Sees Four-Hour Day" says a headline. To be specific, does he see it for farmers?

"The Soviet Union", says Dorothy Thompson, has recognized the creative power of private ambition". Then the socialists in Russia are still a few jumps ahead of the socialists in Canada.

A Toronto paper asks: "If Toronto is such a great home city how is it the Maple Leafs keep losing so many hockey games at home?" And the Ottawa Citizen ventures the opinion that it may be cause their imported players don't feel at home.

Who Was This Man Jane?

By COMMANDER LOUIS E. GULLIVER, U.S.N., Ret.
(In The Christian Science Monitor)

NEWSPAPER editors, professional naval officers, reference librarians, writers, statesmen, and many amateur swivel-chair strategists have a growing appreciation today of the labours of the man who conceived the idea for the one really comprehensive book about the world's navies, "Jane's Fighting Ships." Each year this "Who's Who" in the world of ships of war is eagerly awaited. Englishman by birth but known the world over for the singular niche he cut out for himself, Fred T. Jane was always semi-unreal to his readers, though his books attained the distinction of an Admiralty document. He passed on in 1916 but his successors carry on.

Fred Jane originated an idea of untold benefit to naval officers. It was this: Know everything about every rival warship and aircraft. Know their silhouettes, so that when they come within range, even fleetingly, you are aware of their nationality, armor, armament, tonnage, age, speed, fuel endurance, where built, and number of officers and crew. All this information and more besides about every warship in the world. Fred Janes gathered and printed.

Jane's is no mere naval reference book — at least to naval officers. It is perennially fascinating reading. Which in part accounts for the fact that 45 Annapolis classes of midshipmen have pored over 45 Jane's and loved them. His "Fighting Ships" are the most thumb-worn books in the famed Naval Academy Library.

FRED T. JANE'S father was Vicar of Upottery in England. Very little of son Fred is known, at least in the United States. Even the year of his birth is in controversy — his publishers say 1870, while Who's Who gives it as 1865. Fred Jane intended that only his books should be known, not the author and compiler.

This personal secrecy on the part of Fred Jane was inherent also in the uttery unique foundation stone of his "Fighting Ships." He had to rely in great part on being trusted to keep his mouth shut by the thousands of important naval men and others in all parts of the world from whom he had to obtain the details of warship construction even before the ships were launched, even while they were still in the blueprint stage.

Fred Jane at the very outset of his extraordinary career made no bones of his intention. He stated in the introduction to his first "Fighting Ships," 1898, that it 'is my aim to supply the details of warships that are obtainable only in confidential books." But just as boldly did Fred Jane announce to the naval and diplomatic world that those naval officers, those Governments, and those shipbuilders who saw fit voluntarily to supply him with photographs, up-to-the-minute detailed information, and sketches of warships need never be concerned that he would ever reveal this information prematurely.

HOWEVER much or little naval information came to Jane from other persons in all parts of the world, we have his word for it that "the greater number of naval ships in this book have been personally inspected, sketched, or photographed by me." The vast labours implied by that declaration are shown in his first "Fighting Ships." It contained not a single photograph but close to 1,000 pen-and-ink sketches "which I have made because they are much clearer than reproduced photographs." Jane sketched beautifully.

While it is not known that Fred Jane ever visited the United States, his work makes it apparent to naval men that he knew American warships almost as well as he did those of the British. In his native England, Jane was unofficially in possession of a "roving commission" as an officer of His Majesty's Navy. He frequently put to sea with the Channel fleet on North Sea manoeuvres, preferably in the tiny torpedo boats of 40 years ago that made rugged seamen of landlubbers—or else. It was ever the Jane idea to see the ships he wrote about with his own appraising and artistic eye. Once seen by him, they were his forever. He could describe in minute detail any warship on seeing her silhouette.

ASIDE from the vast labour involved in gathering every year the new information about future warships which the naval world awaited, Fred Jane contrived with writing and sketching tasks, the volume of which is virtually unbelievable. His working years were only 18 and the output in part consisted of 18 "Fighting Ships"; four "All the World's Aircraft," "The Imperial Russian Navy," "The Imperial Japanese Navy," "All About the Germany Navy," "The British Battle Fleet," "How To Play the Naval War Game," "Warships at a Glance," "The World's Warships," "Silhouettes of British Fighting Ships," "Torpedoes in Peace and war," "Heresies of Sea Power," "A Royal Bluejacket," a story; "His Lordship, the Passen and We," a novel, and the novel, "The Violet Flame."

Fred Janes, never pretending to be a prophet, wrote about naval picket boats and night sea fights in his war-game books 40 years ago. Moreover, his submarines "won" for the American Navy in the final battle between the German and United States navies in the same year (this at a time when undersea craft were barely out of the freak stage). He wrote also about rocket guns and aerial torpedoes.

Fred Jane was of today—never of yesterday, always of tomorrow, providing proof was at hand that new naval ships were planned. His vision is best shown by his "World's Airships and Aeroplanes" in 1909, when the only mention of naval aviation in the 1910 report of the Secretary of the Navy was that "Mr. Eugene Ely made an experiment in flying in a Curtiss biplane from the deck of the cruiser Birmingham. . . . For the purpose of carrying on such experiments the department recommends that $25,000 be authorized."

The battleship as a type is destined to continue in use 'through all the aeons of time" in the Jane judgment. "Our ancestors started the battleship idea, using the trunks of trees. Its main principles were carried on by Drake and Nelson. . . . The specialty of the battleship is to smash."

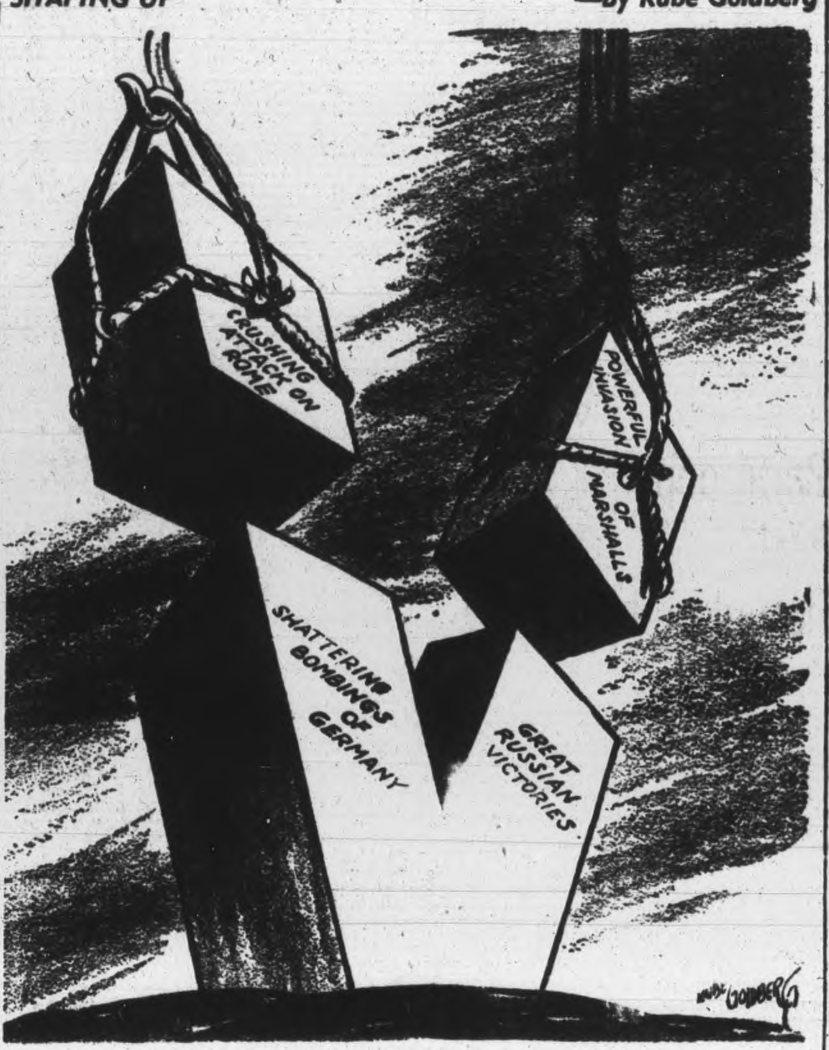
SHAPING UP

—By Rube Goldberg



LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Park Street, Peterborough, Feb. 5, 1944.

Sir,—Would you please allow me a few lines in your paper to express my opinion in the interest of the returned soldiers; I have been informed by a reliable source that during the Christmas rush in the Liquor Store they required extra help. Some one in authority asked an official of the Legion to try and get the help from the Legion, and no doubt he did and made sure they were all good red hot Tories; I think this matter of help should have been handled by Selective Service where the returned soldier would have got a square deal, no matter what his politics were; I would point out that they were not all returned soldiers who were employed on the Christmas rush; some of them were Tory ward heelers.

This same official of the Legion did not forget the returned soldier, but he surely remembered them when he sent out his circular letter under his rubber stamp signature almost telling them that it was their sacred duty to vote for the candidate for the City Council that he sponsored, not the returned soldiers. I have never heard of an ex-soldier trying to force another comrade to follow his ways and believe as he believes—excuse me, I am wrong, there is one whom Mr. Churchill calls "that evil man" who is running wild and at large in Europe; we don't want such tin gods in our fair city.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN SHAW.

RURAL TEACHERS' SALARIES.

Sir,—In some publications, as well as this one, much is being made of a statement that over 17,000 teachers receive less than $537 per year, or about the same as the cost of keeping a man or woman in prison for a year. The implication is that farmers and possibly those in other primary industries are not paying their teachers enough. I am sure that no one regrets this more than the farmer.

I am sorry that in not one of the publications which I read, was a statement given of the incomes of 17,000 farmers with the lowest returns from their farms. But all of us have read that very few farmers in the whole of Canada paid income tax in 1942, when the latest returns were made. That means that farmers with three children, an average-sized family, received an income of less than $1,200 per year. That allows less than $250 per person, which, I suppose, is the cost of keeping a man or woman in a concentration camp!

Please note that the income of less than $1,200 includes the value of farm produce, except that from the family garden, used in the farm home. It does not allow anything for wages for the farmer or his wife. I quote from a farm income tax form.

Direct cause of this low income is the urban demand for prices which allow a middleman profit (government enforced regulations make it possible for these to take too much of the consumer's dollar). Also the demand is for low-priced milk and other dairy products, eggs and poultry, and grain products, all out of proportion to those paid for other goods. These low prices which the farmers actually receive, do not enable them to pay their rural teachers decent salaries, or to install hydro, or live according to urban standards. There is really very little difference in costs of living between urban and rural districts. It is just that the urban dwellers demand so much more. Also, farmers wonder at the 14 per cent, reduction in the price of milk and the increased amounts spent on soft and hard drinks in urban centres.

The remedy is not to be found in placing in power a group, many members of which demand a 40-hour week, with double pay for overtime, but want cheap farm produce which denies short hours, overtime pay, and fair income to the farmers.

We do not want any 'isms' but just the election of better men and women and greater rural representation in our governing bodies. We want all our urban friends to be a little less inclined to enforce their selfish demands on the rural districts. A specific example is the daylight saving scheme, called a wartime measure. It does not affect the urban war industries on a 24-hour schedule, but it does deprive the farmer and his family who rise at six o'clock this time of year, of that extra hour of daylight in the morning when it is needed most. It sends little children off to the rural schools before daylight, and compels them to work in too dark school-rooms unlighted by hydro power. Meantime thousands of city dwellers do not get up till eight o'clock and grown up men and women go to work at nine o'clock, which is children's time! And some go at ten! Why do they sit up so late at night, using up precious hydro power?

Only when an urban-controlled government allows equalization of rural and urban incomes, will we have uniformity of teachers' salaries.

Many rural teachers in this county receive $1,000 per year.

"RURALITE."

R.R. 2, Norwood.

LOW-COST HOUSING.

Sir,—So far as I have seen, no one has yet suggested that the solution of the housing problem lies in reducing costs. We now see the wealthiest and best-housed cities in Canada planning to ask the Government to assist in building houses up to their standards, for their citizens, forgetting that the only funds that governments have to spend are collected from the people. To ask the Government to help pay the cost of our particular housing scheme is to ask it to take money from some people and give it to others, whose need may be less.

Is Government assistance the best means of providing houses for the poor? Is it the best means of providing employment? To both questions the answer is "No."

Government assistance will always go to those who are most successful in convincing authorities of their need. A wealthy city can hire experts to present its case and can count on the support of several members of parliament. The small community has no expert and only one member. The isolated farmer is without influence.

Loan companies will provide the bulk of the money lent under a government-assisted scheme, and will prefer to lend in cities on a government guarantee rather than to an individual elsewhere on his own security. Thus not only tax collections from the smaller communities will go to build the cities, but lendable funds will flow away from the small towns.

Employment in building trades in the cities will similarly draw men from the small towns and they will have to pay board and lodging before they can remit money to their families. Employment is most satisfactory when it is to be found within reach of a man's home.

As an alternative to government assistance, a 25 per cent reduction in building costs would stimulate building everywhere, would be fair to everyone, would give employment everywhere, and would make no man dependent on the favor of those in authority. We should seek the solution of the housing problem through inquiry and research—inquiry into all costs of building and owning a home, and research into ways and means of bringing those costs within reach of the common people.

E. J. YOUNG.

The Ration Book

The ration book is a very human document. It contains a whole lot more practical social security than is suggested by some political speeches. It provides actual food and drink. It is the constant companion of the person who holds the office of purchasing agent for the household. To be in a butcher shop, however, buying meat for a dinner which is supposed to be ready in a very short time and to discover that the ration book is elsewhere is to feel like a man coming home at three o'clock in the morning who suddenly discovers that his key is missing. Minor tragedy looms up when a housewife, on a shopping expedition, finds that her ration book has been lost.—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

A Bible Message

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the Lord your God. After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances. . . .

For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them shall be cut off from among their people. (Lev. 18: 1-3, 29.)

Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am the Lord. . . .

And I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. (Lev. 26: 2, 11, 12.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Trust ye in the Lord for ever: for in the Lord JEHOVAH is everlasting strength. . . . Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

Unconsidered Trifles

Master (to new cook): "We want you to show what you can do tonight, Jane. We have some rather special people coming for a musical evening. Do your level best, you know."

Cook: "Sure, sir, that I will. It's a long time since I did any singing, but you can put me down for a couple of comic songs, if you like."

◇ ◇ ◇

In the early hours the sleeper was roused by his nervous wife saying:

"John, I'm sure I heard someone coming up the stairs."

"What's the time?" he asked sleepily.

"Just two o'clock."

"That's all right," he said, turning over, "it'll be me."

◇ ◇ ◇

The street musician was tired, and the motorist agreed to give him a lift to the next town.

As they were racing at terrific speed down a hill, the motorist suddenly shouted above the noise of the car: "What instrument do you play?"

The musician shouted back: "The violin!"

The driver crouched over the steering-wheel, peering ahead. He yelled: "That's a pity!"

"Why is it a pity?" demanded the musician.

"It's a pity you don't play the harp!" yelled the motorist. "The brakes won't work!"

National Danger

Accusations charged with high emotion can be the blockbusters of the home front—as devastating as a four-ton high-explosive bomb. In a year forecast as "Victory Year," it may be natural for individuals and groups to relax and begin to think selfishly again. And the result could be a barrage of charges and counter-charges that threaten to divide the country.

Any division of this sort gives aid and comfort to the enemy. It almost doesn't matter who says this and who says that, or who is right and who is wrong. Victory will be delayed and made more costly by each home-front conflict. And there is danger that we, as a nation, may come out of the war more divided than when we went in, which can scarcely be scored as a total win.—Timmins Press.

Quebec Rumour

The rumour in Quebec legislative circles that Dr. Augustin Frigon, acting general manager of the CBC, is in line to head the projected Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission, is a possible explanation of the persistent delay in appointing a new general manager of the radio body. On the basis of seniority and promotion, Dr. Frigon is an obvious choice for the CBC general managership (he is now assistant general manager). But he would naturally not wish to undertake the CBC commitment if Premier Godbout had persuaded him to hold himself available for the top position in the Quebec publicly-owned power set-up. —Montreal Gazette.

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

If your child lacks a zest for food, it may be that his diet is short in very important food elements which, science has discovered, everyone needs for health. His growth may be stunted or impaired and he may be an easy victim to prevailing sickness.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in his diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins—all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child eats poorly, is thin or under par, why not start giving him New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

Fr. Marrocco Addresses Catholic Group

Rev. F. Marrocco was the guest speaker at the February meeting of the Catholic Women's League, held Monday evening in the K. of C. rooms, Simcoe street. The subject of Rev. Marrocco's address was "Lourdes, and reflections on the story of little Bernadette and the apparitions which she witnessed." "The qualities inherent in the little peasant girl,—humility, personal integrity, and patience in adversity—should prove to us an inspiration in our personal lives," said the speaker.

Miss Lillian Hurley, the president, was in the chair for this meeting, and introduced the speaker. Several reports were read, and that of the treasurer, Mrs. E. Riley, showed that a substantial surplus remained after financial obligations had been met. Funds were passed for social service needs, and also $10 was voted to the Navy League.

Miss Phyllis Cowie, accompanied by Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M., gave a solo, "Ave Maria," which was followed by the presentation of a film on the Holy Land, given by Mr. F. Galvin. At the conclusion of the meeting, Rev. J. T. Finn, the chaplain of the League, moved a vote of thanks to Father Marrocco for his enjoyable address.

W.M.S. Decides To Hold Special Meeting

The decision to call a special meeting of the Helen Roger and Frances Watt Auxiliaries, and the Senior W.M.S. group, was made at the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox United Church, held in the church parlors. The special meeting will be held to make a fair division of the funds from the Presbyterial, which was held in Knox Church on January 25.

After the opening service, the secretary read a letter from Miss W. Thomas, commending the Auxiliary for their gift of money to assist a girl at the Madras Christian College, India. A letter from head office in regard to contributions toward the relief fund for famine-stricken China and India was also read.

Mrs. J. Morrison took charge of the study book, after which Mrs. J. Allen conducted the devotional exercises. She was assisted by Mrs. A. Saunderson, Mrs. S. Thexton, Mrs. H. J. Mahoney, and Mrs. V. Grainger. Mrs. C. Weldon and Mrs. C. Gertley were chosen as the committee to meet ladies from other churches to arrange a program for World's Day of Prayer, to be held February 25. Mrs. H. Lewis is to take the study book for the March meeting, and Mrs. C. Weldon will be in charge of the devotional exercises.

The ladies decided to have a paper collection at a later date to help with the Auxiliary expense fund.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

The new prints for spring are shown in dresses made on suit lines, I saw such a smart one the other day in purple and white. It was called a peplum suit dress, made on very plain lines, and with three-quarter sleeves. It was worn by a woman who took a size 44, and it was very slenderizing. She wore the dress under her seal sack, with a flower turban in the purple tones, and purple gloves. This suit was also shown with a narrow brimmed purple sailor which had a pair of wings in a lighter shade, one on either side of the crown, coming toward front.

In speaking of millinery, a few words to tell you what to expect in about two weeks' time. There will be both large, medium and small hats worn. As you probably already know, the straight effect is good and the reason is on account of the new hair styles, which are very plain. For the younger girl, the style is the Dutch Bonnet, worn well on the back of the head, made chiefly in taffeta silk, with yards of veiling falling to the waist-line at the back.

Also shown are the small flower turbans, worn well back off the face, made in several shades of flowers, all very bright, and with narrow ribbon in streamers falling from one, or both sides.

In some styles of suits and coats, shown for spring it is proven that beauty can be casual and competent.

A style shown was a three-quarter length trench coat, of navy melton, worn over a plaid skirt, with small close fitting navy felt turban. This was exceptionally smart and very business-like to be sure. Another smart coat (British Fogger) was a dashing great coat in pure wool flannel, whipped in at the waist line with belt, and generous shoulders to envleop you for many seasons. This is shown in Paddington Gray, Bostwick Brown, Westgate Beige.

Home and School Association News

The Home and School Associations of Confederation and May's Schools, joined Monday evening, to observe Founder's Day, and the 25th anniversary of the Home and School Association. Mrs. L. M. Richardson was guest speaker, and discussed the founding of the association, and explained fully the seven point program of Home and School aims.

Mrs. James Goldie, the guest soloist, gave two solos, "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair," and "I Know a Lovely Garden." Mrs. H. Naish gave a paper entitled, "Concerning the Child," and Mrs. M. Parry gave a paper on the 25th anniversary of the Federation, telling what Home and School Associations and done and were doing.

Mrs. W. White, the president of Confederation Home and School Association, presided at the business meeting, and thanked all who had taken part. A short period of community singing was also enjoyed by the members, and light refreshments were served.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

One of the largest audiences in the history of Central School saw a delightful play entitled "The Melting Pot," which was one of the highlights of the "Founder's Night" meeting of the Central Home and School Association, held Monday evening.

The cast of the play was as follows: Mrs. Jones, (charwoman), Mrs. L. Groombridge; Miss Rank, (teacher), Miss S. Bennett; Mrs. Smith, (mother), Mrs. B. Fowler; Mrs. Founder, Mrs. R. Deyell from Queen Elizabeth School, a guest.

In addition to this well-presented playet, a candle lighting service commemorating symbolically the aims and objects of Home and School Associations, was held. The candles were lit by Mrs. L. Raper, Mrs. J. H. Quirt, Mrs. E. Wigg, Miss J. Buck, Mrs. E. Outram, Miss L. Esplen, Mrs. L. Gilders, and Mrs. R. Pearce. Miss A. Stout read a tribute to Mrs. A. Courtice, the founder, in honor of the 25th anniversary of Home and School Associations.

Mrs. D. Munro was at the piano for the community singing which followed the candle-lighting ceremony, and Mrs. L. Raper was in the chair for a short business meeting. Mrs. L. Gilders moved a vote of thanks to all participating in the program, and to Mrs. D. Rostocky, the program convener, who was responsible for a successful evening. Miss E. Richardson's class won the attendance prize.

A social half-hour concluded the evening, and refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Martyn and her committee.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL.

Founder's Night was observed by the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association on Monday night in the kindergarten room of the school. Mrs. A. Nelson, the president presided for the business and the program which followed.

Mrs. Nelson paid tribute to the memory of the late vice principal, E. R. Frost who passed away since the last meeting of the association and following one verse of "O God Our Help in Ages Past" one minute of silent prayer was observed.

The meeting decided to have a skating party for the children of the school. The time will be set when there is suitable ice and the party will be held at the Aberdeen Street rink. Reports of the various representatives and conveners of committees were heard. Mrs. A. Bacon read a very interesting article on character building and Mr. J. E. R. Munro introduced the new vice-principal Donald Munro who then spoke a few very suitable words of acknowledgement.

Roll call for mothers was won by Mrs. C. Pilon's room for the seniors and Miss O. Armstrong's room for the juniors.

Mrs. E. Chambers, president of the Home and School Council spoke on the aims and ideals that the creed covers explaining in detail the principles which guides the Home and School Associations.

Mrs. H. H. Graham, the speaker and one of the members of the association reviewed the Home and School history. The movement now in its 25th year started from a very small beginning and has risen to become a great influence in educational life. Mrs. Ada C. Courtice was responsible for the launching of the movement and it is to her memory that Founder's Night is observed. Mrs. Graham gave a review of the life of Mrs. Courtice and told of the early beginning paying tribute to the late Mrs. S. T. Medd of Peterborough who was the first representative of Trustees and who through the intervening years has given leadership and support to the movement.

On the death of Mrs. Courtice, the Courtice Memorial Library was started in 1924 and in that same year speakers were sent to the Normal schools to instruct teacher-students in the aims and ideals of the Home and School. The library since its inauguaration has been a great source of education and instruction in all subjects dealing with parents and children.

In closing, Mrs. Graham urged her hearers to accept the challenge given to them by the founders and to carry on to still greater efforts.

A very impressive candle lighting ceremony was held with the following members taking part, each representing one point of the seven-point plan, Mrs. A. Nelson lit the candle in memory of Mrs. Courtice; Mrs. E. Kingdon lit the red candle of health; Mrs. C. McBride the blue candle of home training; Miss O. Armstrony the gold candle of knowledge and learning, Mrs. R. Parnall, the gold candle of citizenship training and brotherhood; Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, the blue candle of vocational effectiveness; Mrs. G. McKinney the red candle of wise use of leisure time and Mrs. R. Kitchen the white candle of spiritual vision and character. Bobbie Craw represented childhood.

How Much is a Dollar Worth?

A dollar is worth as much as it can buy. For instance, during the last world war people paid .65¢ for a pound of butter..while you pay around 38¢ today. It is the same with shoes and the other necessities of life. In 1917, they paid $15.00 and you now pay $8.00 for the same quality. This means your dollar is worth more than the dollar of 1914-18. You get more for your money—because price ceilings and other anti-inflationary measures have kept the value of your dollar HIGH! And you will keep your dollar high in value by using money wisely. You protect your dollar's worth every time you buy a bond. Pass up some needless luxury..Pay off a debt..Refuse to hoard goods... And refuse to frequent black markets. That's how to make money with your present dollars! Remember, dollars are worth less if they buy less.

Make This Pledge Today!

I promise to give my support to keeping the cost of living down. I will buy only what I need. I will observe the ceiling whether buying or selling goods or services. I will pay off old debts, save for the future, invest in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. And I will support taxes which help lower the cost of living.

Keep Your Dollar Value High!

Grove Defeats Upper Canada College Seconds

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8 — Grove pucksters chalked up their first win in their exhibition series, beating Upper Canada College seconds 9-3 Saturday. The game was played on soft ice, at the village rink, but despite the fact that the ice was slow and sticky, both teams turned in a top-notch hockey performance.

The Grove boys started their scoring splurge in the early minutes of the game. Andy Harris stole the puck off the end of a college player's stick and split the defense to score, Larry Smart setting up the play. Then Giroux was waved off for cross-checking. Upper Canada pressed hard, but at 7:10, Harris again counted for the second score. A U.C.C. defenseman was penalized for tripping, and while he was off, Harris did the hat-trick by finishing a play set up by Giroux and Mackenzie. Hyde made some spectacular saves in the Grove net and the Grove boys had some fine chances which they could not make good on. Stinson of the College made it 3-1 a few minutes later when he rifled one in past Hyde near the end of the period.

Second Period

Both teams started out very fast at the first of the second. Harris got his fourth consecutive goal at 4:20, rapping in Giroux's shot. Five minutes later, Langmuir made it 5-1 on passes from Strathy and Eayrs, goals being scored while U.C.C. was short-handed. Strathy was sent off for tripping, and a minute later Langmuir followed him into the box for the same offence. Although playing with a two-man advantage, Upper Canada were unable to score, due to the good defensive work of Roy and Smart. At 10:10 Mackenzie counted for the Grove on passes from Giroux and Harris. O'Brien in the College nets had no chace on the play.

Third Period

The third period showed an improvement in the style of hockey for both teams. Three minutes after the start of the period, Harris made up his total of five goals by banging one in from a pile-up in front of the U.C.C. nets. Smart and Giroux drew assists on the play.

The College came right back, counting their second goal on a hard shot from the blue line by Hadden. Macdougal was sent off for charging and with Upper Canada short-handed, Langmuir hit the corner of the College net for his second goal of the game, and the Grove's eighth tally. Five minutes later, Upper Canada counted again on a shot by Riddle. There was no further scoring in the game until sixteen minutes of the period had gone by; Mackenzie took a pass from Giroux, and dumped it past O'Brien for the final score.

The brightest feature of the game was the clever hockey of Andy Harris. The tricky center counted five goals assisted in two others, for one of his best performances. Ian Hyde was very steady in the Grove nets, making some remarkable saves. His defense gave him plenty of protection, Shanly being particularly consistent.

Stinson and Hadden looked to be the pick of the College boys, and Browse was very good on offensive play. The Upper Canada boys returned to Toronto that night. The Grove squad is due to meet Birnie Hodgett's T.C.S. outfit this week, in a game scheduled to be played at Lakefield.

U.C.S.—Goal, O'Brien; defense, Telford, Holdroyd; centre, Browse; wings, Stinson, McEwan; subs, Rathman, Eastmure, Hadden, Riddle, Macdougal.

Lakefield—Goal, Hyde; defense, Patton, Roy; centre, Harris; wings, Giroux, Mackenzie; subs, Strathy, Langmuir, Eayrs, Smart, Shanly, Campbell.

Referee—Gordie Birch, Lakefield.

Scoring summary:

Grove Wins

Last Thursday afternoon at Port Hope Lakefield Prep. School Fifteen downed Trinity C.S. Littlesides 3 to 1 in a game featured by fast skating and hard checking. The second period saw three goals scored, one ecah by Gordon and Widdifield of Lakefield and one by T.C.S. Gibault added a third for L.P.S. in the last period to clinch the game. T.C.S. is to play L.P.S. at Lakefield this week.

WENT A.W.O.L.—Looking very ashamed of himself, "Rowdy" leaves his quarters on way to his court-martial at the San Diego Coast Guard base for going A.W.O.L. while on sentry duty, his first offence in 15 months' service. His punishment was a loss in rank, but he's since been promoted to boatswain's mate, first class.

Cowley Fourth In Scoring Race

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Herbie Cain of Boston and Lorne Carr of Toronto each added a single point to their totals during the last week to maintain their tie for leadership in the official National Hockey League scoring statistics.

In a week that was generally low-scoring as far as the top-notchers were concerned, Bill Mosienko of Chicago added four points to slip into third spot with a total of 52, four behind the leaders and one ahead of teammate Doug Bentley and the injured Bill Cowley of Boston.

Slackening of the pace of the leaders meant that for the first time since early in the season, the point-total of the pace-setters fell below the leading mark at the same period last year. A year ago, Cowley was leading the race with 58 points, compared with the 57 held at present by Cain and Carr. However, at this time last year Cowley had played in 38 games while this year Cain has been in only 33 and Carr in 37.

The assist race tightened during the last week, with Elmer Lach and Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens and Clint Smith of Hawks all bunched for first spot with 34 each, one more than Cowley. Cain continued as top goal-getter with an even 30, three more than Mud Bruneteau of Detroit and four more than Carr.

Mike McMahon of Canadiens remained the most penalized player in the league with 61 minutes in majors and minors.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Fans who have been following the games in the Public School Hockey League have been raving about the playing of Jeff Stock the tall kid who plays centre for the King George team, unbeaten leaders in the loop race. Evidently they have some right to rave, too, on the youngster's sparkling performance. All young Stock has done so far is to score 25 goals for his team in four league fixtures and he climaxed his season's record last Saturday morning when he fired nine goals in a game against Central which the King George team took by 11 to 1. Of course a lot of the credit for the centre player's unusual mark must go to his teammates who have been passing the rubber cleverly and feeding him effectively. But making allowances for that the player who can sink that old boot-heel behind the goalie when he gets inside the defence is a real asset and Stock has made good on most of his opportunities. On top of that he is clean as a whip, takes any amount of punishment and never stops trying. The King George School which has contributed a lot of fine players for Peterborough's O.H.A. squads including Jim Ellis, Bill Calladine, Les Burton, Jack Gardner and "Stew" Williamson is evidently ready with another prize recruit. Unfortunately there is no O.H.A. team to which the youngster can graduate.

Peterborough boys in the services manage to get in the sporting picture wherever they are stationed. Thus Bob Cauley, son of A. E. Cauley, who is training with the R.C.A.F. at Richmond, Que., has been in the limelight as a member of the Richmond R.C.A.F. in the Quebec Intermediate League. Bob formerly played with the Peterborough junior O.H.A. squad, and incidentally the whole outfit including Coach Archie Weir and Manager Johnny Mervin are all in uniform. A Quebec paper, reporting a recent game, tells how the Peterborough boy scored the goal that tied up the battle with the Army squad. "Shortly after Planche's return to the ice Cauley took a pass from Daman at the Army blue line, skated in and let go with a sizzling shot that beat Dion and tied the game at 2-2." The same paper says: "Bob Cauley who has taken Dave Hall's place with Rivard and Daman on the second Richmond line is playing some nice hockey with the Flyers. Bob incidentally scored his first goal in the Intermediate League last night."

Former Champ Ill

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg who once held the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world is in hospital in Chicago in a serious condition. Sonnenberg who was in Uncle Sam's services until recently made both the heights and the depths of athletic fame. After winning the world crown with his body-smashing flying tackles Gus married and later divorced the screen actress Judith Allen. After that a series of heart attacks took Sonnenberg to the lower rungs of the wrestling ladder necesitating a long layoff. Back on the comeback trail, the entry of the United States into the world war diverted the former champ once more. He entered the armed forces and little more was heard of Dynamite Gus until news arrived recently of his serious illness. Sonnenberg had never wrestled in Peterborough but local followers of the game followed his career through the medium of the sport pages and his name is familiar to all who know anything about wrestling.

Evidently Whipper Billy Watson's recent trip to St. Louis where he tossed Tony Felice in less than five minutes has been a triumphal success for according to Phil Lawson, Watson's sponsor and coach, Promoter Tom Packs of St. Louis, one of the most successful wrestling impressarios in the business, has offered the Whip contracts for four main bouts in that city. Watson and Lawson made the 1,500 mile trip to the Missouri mat centre and then the Toronto star took exactly four minutes and 50 seconds to convince the St. Louis fans that Canada can and does produce wrestlers with a capital "W". Lawson declares that the mat experts in St. Louis said that they hadn't seem any one more spectacular than Whipper since Gun Sonnenberg was in his hey day as a mat star.

Threat From The North

After losing so many junior puckchasers to O.H.A. and professional ranks, it was thought at one time that Northern Ontario could consider themselves fortunate to ice a team strong enough to challenge for provincial junior "B" honors this winter, says Chick Appel in the Stratford Beacon-Herald. Latest word from that district however, contains the information that they are seriously considering the formation of a junior "A" contender, with Bill Carroll at the helm. And if Mr. Carroll goes ahead with his proposed plans it is said that "the O.H.A. champions will have a real battle on their hands when they take on the northern contenders. With so many promising junior players performing in senior ranks, and many youthful huskies literally burning up the juvenile circuit, Carroll would line up an entry that would be every bit as strong as the teams currently being touted as Memorial Cup contenders by O.H.A. tub-thumpers. To back up that prediction, Vic Copps of the Timmins Press comments: "Local men who have seen the best of this year's junior O.H.A. teams in action are willing to put up their cash that the locals can match the best in the southern circuit. This is born out by the fact that many of the Porcupine boys who would be with the district's junior "A" club are superior to the northerners now burning up the O.H.A. campaign."

Evidently the Oshawa drive to revive minor league baseball last summer was not just a flash in the pan for George Campbell in his sport column tells of a big event tomorrow night that shows that interest is still keen. Here it is: "Wednesday, February 9th, is going to be a big night for the players of the Oshawa Minor Baseball Association. It will be recalled that baseball came back to Oshawa this past summer, thanks to the hard work and untiring efforts of a small group of Oshawa sportsmen who got busy and organized an association, arranged for the sponsorship of 6 teams of minor age and entered a Juvenile team in the O.B.A. playoffs. Victors Sports & Cycle team, coached by Joe Childerhose, will receive "The Lynbrook Park Trophy" donated to the Oshawa Assn. for annual competition, by Fred McBrien, well-known Brooklin district sportsman. It's a very handsome trophy, too. Members of the championship team will also receive windbreakers, gifts from their sponsor, at the affair. League championship crests will be presented to Victors and runners-up crests to the Coca-Cola team. However, all teams, Victors, Coca-Colas, Cay Lumber, Victory Billiards, Bill's Place and Arenas are invited to attend and bring along his "lady friend." It's to be a presentation affair, with very short speeches. A "Big League" baseball picture, movies with sound, will be shown and then there will be a dance. There's to be refreshments served too."

Opera In Italy

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 — (AP). — Opera Singer Grace Moore says she has been asked by the Allied military government to form a company of American opera stars to perform soon for troops in Italy at the 200-year-old San Carlo Opera House in Naples. Miss Moore said she hoped the Naples performance can be given by early summer.

BASEBALL WORRY—Dilemma bothering Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, involves a heap of baseballs—perhaps he's wondering how many his team will knock out as home runs this year. Scene occurred at Bear Mountain, N.Y., as Rickey inspected the Dodgers' spring training grounds.

Rich Jeweler Buys Dodgers

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP).—The New York Journal-American said yesterday favorable action was expected within 48 hours of an offer that would transfer control of the Brooklyn National League Basball Club to a syndicate of New York business men.

Involves Ebbets Estate.

The paper said the head of the syndicate, Max Meyer, was to confer to-day with George V. McLaughlin, president, of the Brooklyn Trust Co., which has controlled the Dodgers for the last decade.

The deal pending involves the estate of the late Charles Ebbets, whose heirs own 50 per cent. of the club stock.

The Journal - American said Branch Rickey's contract as president of the club would be fully respected if the negotiations are successful, the position of Manager Leo Durocher would become "uncertain."

The paper said Meyer was "a great admirer" of Casey Stengel, who recently resigned as manager of Boston Braves.

However, it added Durocher probably would be retained through the 1944 season.

Meyer, a wealthy jeweler, was said to be a lifelong Dodger fan, who had made three previous bids for control of the club.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Opinion sampling: This corner recently mentioned the possibility of staging a post-war United States collegiate baseball tournament, which would be in line with organized baseball's plans to build up the game in high and prep schools....We have had comment on the subject.

Apart from uncertain spring weather, uncertain gate receipts and short seasons that end before interest reaches a peak, the principal objection to big-time college baseball is that the football coaches don't want it....Pointing out that Notre Dame, which used to produce plenty of big leaguers, dropped from the baseball picture when Knute Rockne's grid teams hit the headlines, one minor league leader added: "College hurts a ball player. He doesn't get the competition he would in the minors."

Touching 'em all:

Mike McCormick, former Reds' outfielder now at McClellan Field, Calif., still holds a high school record for throwing a foobtall. Shortly after Mike heaved the pigskin 70 yards, one foot, two inches in 1934, the event was dropped from California school competition....Off his last few starts in Florida, don't overlook Abe Herschberg's Black Badge in your Kentucky Derby dope.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Babe Ruth, the king of swat, yesterday celebrated his 50th birthday with a party at his New York home which is practically a baseball museum with its numerous trophies and gifts from the years when he was slugging out as many as 60 home runs in a season and rolling up a total of 714 circuit clouts, not including 15 homers in world-series games as a member of the New York Yankees.

The swatsmith expressed a wish to go overseas to entertain the troops but said he had been warned he could not stand the trip by half a dozen doctors. He weighs about 240 pounds now and, to keep down the avoirdupois, he bowls four games each day and plays golf in the summer to a moderate degree. "My knees give out on me," he explained.

The Jamestown, N.Y., Falcons of the Pony Baseball League will be operated independently of the St. Louis Cardinals this season, it was announced yesterday at Buffalo by Harry Bisgeier, owner of the club which operates under a franchise formerly held by Hamilton, Ont.

Veteran Sinks

Joe Tinker, infield star of the Chicago Cubs two generations ago, was reported to have taken a turn for the worse at the hospital in Orlando, Fla., where he is suffering from a combination of ailments aggravated by influenza.

Tippy Larkin, New Jersey scrapper, yesterday found he tipped the scales at 140 pounds for his New York bout Wednesday night with Lulu Constantino. Larkin has posted a $1,000 forfeit that he will make 137 pounds or less at the weigh-in time for the 10-rounder.

Signs Contract

In contrast to his holdout activities one year ago, Lou Novikoff revealed at his Los Angeles home yesterday he had signed his 1944 contract to play outfield for the Chicago Cubs once more. Lou did not do so well when he finally returned to the diamond last season.

Tom Burlington of Cleveland Barons continued to lead the scoring parade in the American Hockey League with a total of 55 points, two more than his teammate Lou Trudel. Third place was taken over by another Clevelander, Les Cunningham, replacing Gaston Gauthier of Hershey, according to the table announced yesterday.

Lefty O'Doul, pilot of the San Francisco Seals since 1935, was mentioned yesterday as the prospective successor to Casey Stengel as manager of the Boston Braves, who resigned when the club changed hands. Failing O'Doul, President Bob Quinn may promote Bob Coleman, coach of the Braves.

Staff Changes

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Defence Headquarters last night announced that Brig. H. W. Foster, 41, of Montreal, Commander of the Canadian Forces which participated in the Kiska operation, is returning to the United Kingdom to take over a senior appointment, and that Brig. W. H. S. Macklin, 43, of Ottawa, has been appointed to command a Brigade in Canada.

McSpaden Wins Phoenix Open Beating Nelson

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 8 (AP) — Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia, the winter season's top golf money winner, added a $1,000 war bond to his earnings by shooting a 70 for a two-stroke victory today over Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, in an 18-hole playoff to decide the Phoenix Open.

Deadlocked Sunday at the end of 72 holes with 273's, 11 strokes under par, Nelson and McSpaden were still even and still shooting better than par golf at the turn yesterday.

McSpaden parred the first six of the last nine, while Nelson took bogies on the 11th and 15th holes to drop two strokes behind.

Nelson, recent winner of the San Francisco Victory Open, in which McSpaden was runner up, picked up a stroke on the 16th when McSpaden got into trouble and took a bogie. But the match reached the turning point on the 17th where McSpaden ran down a spectacular 35-foot putt for a birdie three.

Both came in for par fives on the 18th, McSpaden one stroke under par for the 18 and Nelson one over.

The Philadelphian was in difficulty only once on the first nine. His tee shot went into the rough on the 305-yard fifth. Although tree branches interfered with his swing, he pitched safely to the green.

Nelson took a birdie four on the first hole and a birdie three on the fifth, but lost a stroke to par on the seventh where he was trapped three times.

They ended the nine with cards of 35 each, one under par.

Nelson's prize for second place was a $750 war bond.

Minors Discover 500 New Players

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 — (AP) — Minor league baseball has added 500 players to its contract lists since the close of last season by a careful combing of the bushes and appears to have quieted fears of any immediate manpower shortage.

This was the consensus of baseball men who conclude a four-day mid-winter session with a National League meeting to-day.

Although 3,100 men are now on the minors' National Defence list, the 10 leagues expected to operate in 1944 will require only 1,260 when they have pared down to their player limts. Actual reserve list totals are unavailable due to draft depletions since the last compilation, but National Association reports indicate that the figures are about average for this time of the year.

The ten minor leagues expecting to operate this year are the International, Pacific Coast, American Association, Southern Association, Eastern, Interstate, Piedmont, Pony Appalachian and Ohio State (not in process of organization).

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — (CP).—Baseball leagues will be organizing soon for the 1944 season. They'll have to consider the Army-R.C.A.F. order barring members of those services from sport competition with civilians. Some of the best ball teams in the country last season were service clubs. London Army cleaned up in the East, taking the Ontario Intercounty title as well as the Dominion title of the National Baseball Congress. Its defence of those titles is prohibited by the new restrictions ....Congress attempts to expand its Dominion-wide play-offs this year will be hindered by the secvice restrictions, perhaps stopped altogether. In any event the Congress has announced it will inaugurate a movement to promote minor baseball for boys aged 15 and up. The idea is to organize league and provide umpires and coaches.

There'll Come a Day:

With the S.R.O. sign on the Montreal forum for a Toronto-Canadiens game, Hooley Smith buzzed Hap Day for a couple of ducats. Hap happened to have a pair of employee tickets from a game at Chicago and handed them over. Smith thanked him profusely and hurried off. I haven't heard from Hooley since," chuckles Hap, "but I will, brother, I will!"

Incidentally:

Jack Tomson, former Reginan who saw the N.H.L. with New York Americans before the war, is a native of Uxbridge, England, and hoes to play hockey in England after the war. "That hundred a week and a good job in summer would just hit me right," says Tomson, now 26, and in the navy....When Dit Clapper of Boston joins the services, Mush Marsh of Chicago, will be the active player with the longest continuous N.H.L. service. Mush, 35, joined the Hawks in 1928 after helping Regina Monarchs win the Memorial Cup. Clapper joined Bruins in 1927.

Hall of Fame:

George (Buck) Boucher brother of Frank and a former N.H.L. star, says Joe Malone, Frank Nighbor and brother Frank Boucher are all "musts" for hockey's hall of fame. Malone set the all-time scoring mark of 44 goals in 22 games with Montreal Canadiens in 1917-18. Buck Boucher comments: "He could stick-handle better than any of them and he was like an eel."

St. Kitts Takes 3-Point Lead

By The Canadian Press

With only five more scheduled games to play, St. Catharines Saints went into a three-point leadership in the Senior O.H.A. race last night by disposing of lowly Navy 5-3 on Toronto ice, after the Sailors had played a two-game exhibition series at North Bay and Sudbury. Incidentally, the Tars have a busy program immediately facing them with a fixture in Hamilton tonight and a return tilt at St. Catharines to-morrow evening, making five starts in six days all told.

Barlow put the Bluejackets into an early lead against Saints with the first tally of the game but the visitors quickly drew abreast and the count was 2-all at the close of the first period. St. Catharines did the only scoring in the second to forge ahead 4-2, then finished out the engagement 5-3.

The Sailors were without the services of Scotty Milne, injured at Sudbury, while Jud McAtee was back in circulation with the Saints and rang up one of the tallies. Leading scorer for the winners was Paul Nudric, with two.

Hockey Playoffs Slated For East This Year

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 8 (CP) — Both Allan and Memorial Cup finals will be played in the East this year, Frank Sargent, president of the C.A.H.A. said here last night in announcing dates and venues for the 1943-44 Senior and Junior playoffs. The National Junior final is booked for Toronto and the Senior final at Toronto, Montreal or Ottawa. Both series will start April 15.

Manitoba, its Senior hockey comprised entirely of services teams and therefore barred from competing, is the only branch not represented in the senior field. The eastern dates and venues are as follows:—

SENIOR (All best-of-five)

Eastern Canada:—

Series A—Quebec A.H.A. vs. Maritimes A.H.A. March 23 and 25 at M.A.H.A. ice, balance at Q.A.H.A. ice, March 28 and 30 and April 1 if necessary.

Series B—O.H.A. vs. Ottawa and District A.H.A. March 23 and 25 at Ottawa, balance at O.H.A. ice March 27 and 29 and April 1 if necessary.

Eastern Final. April 3, 5 and 8, and 10 and 12 if necessary.

If Q. A. H. A. wins, series A and O. H. A. wins series B.

First two games in the Eastern final at O. H. A. ice April 3 and 5, balance at Q. A. H. A. ice April 8 and 10 and 12 if necessary; if Q. A. H. A. wins series A and Ottawa and District A .H. A. wins series B, first two games at O. A. H. A. ice, balance at discretion of C. A. H. A. officers; if Ottawa and District wins series B and M. A. H. A. win series A. First two games at Ottawa, balance at discretion of C. A. H. A. officers; if O .H. A. wins series B. and M. A. H. A. wins series A. First two games at O. H. A. ice, balance at discretion of C. A. H. A. officers.

Junior:

Eastern Canada.

Series A (best of three) Q. A. H. A. vs M. A. H. A. All games at M. A. H. A. ice March 28 and 30 and April if necessary.

Series B. (Best of three) O. H. A. vs Ottawa and district A. H. A. All games at O. H .A. March 28 and 30 and April 1 if necessary.

Eastern final (best of five) — April 1, 3 and 5 and 8 and 10 if necessary. (If Q. A. H. A. and O. H. A. meet in the final, first two games to be on O. H. A. ice, third and fourth if necessary on Quebec ice and balance of series on O. H. A. ice; if finals are from the other branches, C. A. H. A. officers will decide venue of game.

The C. A. H.A. reserves the right, Mr. Sargent said, to change the length of series, venue or dates of games if in its opinion such a change is necessary.

The association's annual meeting will be held at Montreal April 10.

BALTIMORE — (AP). — Sgt. Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, last night made his second appearance in the ring as a referee and war bond salesman when the gloves which he said were worn in his fight with Bob Pastor were sold for $16,000.

Boxers Gather At Algiers For Title Tilts

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 8— (AP) — Allied pugilists of all weights and ranks began arriving to-day for their final tune-up for the free-for-all Allied championship bouts scheduled to start in Algiers next Monday.

Many of the fighters, professional and amateur, were pulled out of the fighting points especially for these bouts. Some still wore the dirt of the bitter campaigning around the Cassino (Italy) sector when they checked into fight headquarters at nearby Palm Beach, a palm-fringed rest camp by the sea.

Cpl. Charles Sherman, of Greenville, Miss., is regarded as a dark horse in the lightweight class. He scored a stunning upset in the early eliminations when he defeated Pte. Vincent J. Gawlatto, of Philadelphia, who twice had reached the finals of the Golden Gloves and Diamond Belt competition in New York and Philadelphia.

There will be in all 84 finalists among American, British, French, Polish, Greek and other Allied troops. Each bout will consist of three two-minute rounds. In event of a draw an additional round will be fought.

Bruins Tangle With Canadiens

By The Canadian Press.

The man saying nothing and keeping his fingers crossed is Art Ross, whose Boston Bruins can be riding alone in fourth place in the National Hockey League by Friday morning—if everything goes right.

In tonight's only N. H. L. game the Bruins entertain the Canadiens, and there's a slim chance that Boston may pull out another win and get back into the fight for the runner-up positions.

If the unexpected happens and the Bruins, always formidable on their own ice, should humble the Canadiens tonight, they will be tied wtih Chicago for fourth place, and they travel to Chicago on Thursday night.

The Bruins now are a game behind the Hawks and two and a half games behind Toronto. On their series to date however the Canadiens have the edge on the Bruins, having won three out of seven with two tied, and with Toe Blake back in the line-up the Canadiens will be no easy mark tonight.

Fire Station And 20 Men Recommended

In his twenty-second annual report to the city council, Monday night, Fire Chief Gimblett sharpens on the proposed annexation of North Monaghan areas the point of his perennial recommendation of the erection an auxiliary fire station in the south end .

"I would recommend the building and equipping of a bungalow station in the southern section of the city," has become a sterotyped suggestion, but Chief Gimblett adds from the midst of annexation discussions: "When the sections south and west of the city are annexed that this station be manned by 20 men, pumper and ladder truck, 10 men on each platoon."

Chief Gimblett also recommends a salary increase for the members of his department "on the sliding scale as submitted to the council."

"I would also recommend that 10 more men be added to the strength of the Department, five men for each platoon to conform with the Fire Department hours of the Labor Act."

Some other proposals include: installation of 12 more hydrants; purchase of 1,000 feet of 2½-inch hose to replace that which ha been worn out and discarded; that the Chief's coupe be dealt in on a new car at the end of the year; that more alarm boxes be added to the system.

That a complete fog-nozzle set be bought for Pumper No. 3, the same as the two other pumpers.

This is recommendation the council likes to contemplate until they take a clearly focussed look at the cost: "I would recommend the purchase of a 75-foot aerial service truck for the Central Station."

Chief Gimblett closed his review with an appreciation for the cooperation he received from the council last year, with a special word for the chairman and other members of the fire and light committee; and also an acknowledgment of the help from other officials of the city.

And he remembers his staff as follows: "I wish to express my appreciation to the officers and members of the Department for their loyalty and co-operation during the year."

Chief Gimblett reported 578 alarms in 1943, transmitted as follows: 154 by telephone, 35 from boxes, 22 verbally, 6 by automatic sprinklers, and one 'Chief's special'.

"This was an increase of 118 alarms and seven fires over the previous year. Forty-two fires were of more or less serious nature, responsible for a loss of $51,458.93. One fir accounted for one-third of the total loss."

Improvements during the year: receipt of a 600-Imperial gallon combination pumper from LaFrance Company; purchase of 2,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, and 1,000 feet of 1½-inch hose, and Chief's coupe was overhauled and painted.

Inspector's Report

Captain Archie McDonald, Fire Prevention officer, reported to Chief Gimblett the following inspections last year: stores 2,494; homes 29; chimneys 191; specials 62; hospitals 11; public institutions 12; schools 28; churches and Sunday Schools 36; factories 97; hotels 24; theatres 12. Total 3,001.

Re-inspections: stores 316; homes 2; chimneys 103; specials 4; hospitals 1. Total 426.

Fire prevention orders served last year 19. All completed.

Fire Marshall's orders:

Served in 1941, 3; completed in 1943, 3.

Served in 1942, 10; completed in 1943, 10.

Served in 1943, 12; completed in 1943, 7.

Appeal entered against 2. Orders to be inspected by the Fire Marshal, 2; Extension of time granted by Fire Marshal, 1.

Buildings demolished, 13.

Chimneys repaired or rebuilt, 25. Burning off grass off vacant lots, 14 hours.

Big Finnish Hall Burns In Sudbury

SUDBURY, Feb. 8 (CP) —Damage estimated at $22,500 was caused here Monday by fire which gutted the Finnish Hall, recently returned to the Finnish Association of Canada by the custodian of alien property. The building was seized in 1940.

Equipment owned by the Sudbury Boy Scouts and Sea Cadets, whose headquarters were in the hall, was lost in the blaze. Signal lamps, band equipment and records valued at about $1,000 were included in articles lost by the Sea Cadets.

The fire was thought to have originated in the basement near the furnace and the building was a mass of flames when firemen arrived.

explain why an official statement said Gen. McNaughton left the command because of ill health when press reports of an interview quoted the General as stating he was "all right."

Gen. McNaughton conferred with Prime Minister Mackenzie King for four hours yesterday at the Prime Minister's residence. The meeting apparently was cordial but both refused to discuss the meeting.

The care of the returned serviceman and woman—what they wanted and what they would expect—was touched on by speakers yesterday.

Flt. Lt. James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North), 35-year-old British Columbia member just back from service in the Mediterranean area, said all the returned men should receive a gratuity on the basis of one month's pay for an officer, the scale being one month's pay for each year of service overseas or 18 months voluntary service in Canada.

The allowance to the man taking an educational course should be $75 a month, plus service allowances and medical care, he said. The soldier settler on the land should be given his farm outright where he had remained on it five years.

G. S. White (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) said the whole pensions scale should be reviewed by the Pensions Commission. There should be no immigration until veterans and other Canadian workers had been placed in jobs.

F. D. Shaw (ND-Red Deer) said too many men already discharged from the forces had to appeal to their members of parliament to obtain "simple justice."

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) said the n[illegible] government wage-control order wa[illegible] totalitarian in conception and should be rescinded. The whole question of wage stabilization should be examined by a House committee.

Flt. Lt. Sinclair said the order was not in accord with Liberal thought.

2,000 Prisoners

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 8—(CP).—Between 1,800 and 2,000 prisoners-of-war are at present employed in pulpwood and timber camps in the Thunder Bay area, Lt.-Col. R. S. W. Fordham, director of labor projects prisoners-of-war, a unit of the Federal Department of Labor, said here yesterday while attending a meeting of district timber operators.

German Troops Score Victory

LONDON, Feb. 8 — (CP). — German troops have wrested the railway station of Perusic on the Belgrade-Split Railway from its Partisan defenders after a fierce two-day battle, a communique from the Yugoslav Army of Liberation acknowledged to-day.

The Nazis were rushing reinforcements to what apparently was developing into a major battle between Perusic, 80 miles south of Zagreb in the Croatian Province of Lika, and the Adriatic Sea.

In the Bosnia-Sanjak area Partisans smashed an Axis detachment near Brod, killing 40 Germans and wounding many others.

Marshal Josep Broz (Tito) announced a "well-known Mohammedan commander" had come over to the Partisan cause with 3,000 of his armed men.

Obituaries

MRS. ALFRED W. SAUNDERS.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Saunders, wife of the late Alfred W. Saunders, passed away on Monday at the home of her son, William E. Saunders, 85 Aylmer Street. Ailing for nearly three years, Mrs. Saunders was in her 71st year.

She was born in Manvers Township, the daughter of the late John W. Sisson and Elizabeth Kidd, and came to live in the city from Bethany 16 years ago. Holding membership in St. Paul's Church, Bethany, she was active in church work up until the time of her illness.

One daughter, Mrs Charles Davis of Peterborough, and two sons, William E. of Peterborough and Amos A. of Port Hope, survive. Mrs. Saunders also leaves three brothers, Isaac Sisson of Oshawa, Hugh of Lindsay, and George of Peterborough, a sister Mrs. Charles Smith (Annie) of Bethany; and four grandchildren, one of whom is in the armed service overseas.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 1 p.m. from the residence of her son, William E. Saunders, 85 Aylmer Street, with services conducted by Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church. Interment will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery, Lifford, Manvers Township.

MRS. HILTON DOIDGE.

PLAINVILLE, Feb. 8 — (ENS).— A shadow of gloom was cast over the entire community on hearing of the death of Mrs. Hilton Doidge in the Cobourg General Hospital Wednesday evening. Mrs Doidge had been admitted to the hospital about two weeks previously with pneumonia.

Prior to her marriage seven years ago, Mrs. Doidge was Verna Thackeray, a daughter of Mrs. Eldridge Thackeray and the late Mr. Thackeray of Roseneath, and for several years was the head telephone operator at the Cobourg Exchange.

Since coming to Plainville, where she has been a member of the United Church, Mrs. Doidge had won a host of friends as in Cobourg and Roseneath.

Left to mourn her passing besides her husband are her mother, Mrs. Thackeray of Cobourg, three sisters, Mrs. E. J. Campbell, Roseneath, Mrs. Harold Harper, Fenella, and Mrs. Foster of Cobourg, also two brothers, Barton and Earl Thackeray of Roseneath.

The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon at the Plainville United Church, where an estimated 500 relatives and friends attended. A short service was held in the chapel in Cobourg earlier in the afternoon with Rev. M. C. Fisher conducting the services.

The pall-bearers were all neighbors, Alexander Buttar, Edgar Bowman, William West, Donald Kent, Allen Dines, and Kenneth Curtis. Interment was made at the Bible Christian Cemetery, a short distance from the church.

Algiers radio said. The famous Benedictine Monastery is on the crest of the hill).

Five hundred Germans have been captured by United States troops in the Cassino area.

Patrols continued to probe German positions along the British 8th Army front on the Adriatic, the bulletin said.

Twenty-four German planes and two gliders have been downed today's communique said, adding that five additional Nazi aircraft were reported destroyed Feb. 4.

Allied medium bombers rained explosives yesterday on German troops and supplies at Cisterna, key communications centre 26 miles southeast of Rome.

Fighter-bombers also lashed at rail and road targets behind the German lines, the communique said. Medium bombers attacked rail yards at Viterbo and oil storage tanks at the port of Leghorn.

Allied fighters, flying many patrols over the beachhead, broke up a number of Nazi air attacks.

Five Allied planes were lost yesterday, the communique said.

Morley Shaver Appointed To City Trust

Appointment of Morley E. Shaver, City Treasurer, to the City Trust Commission for five years by the Council last night was the first deviation in a long time from the practice of extending the terms of the five men who administer the municipal sinking funds and realty.

Mr. Shaver succeeds A. A. McIntyre, former mayor and alderman, whose last reappointment to the Commission was in February 1939. He was proposed by Aldermen Cotton and Ovens; and Mr. McIntyre was nominated by Alderman Curtis and Glover.

The council divided in committee on the second reading of the appointing bylaw as follows:

For McIntyre—Aldermen Curtis, Glover, Mark and Swanston.

For Shaver: Aldermen Cotton, Ovens, Sands and Dutton and Mayor Hamilton.

Alderman Sullivan was acting as chairman of the committee, in the customary rotation around the aldermanic semi-circle, as Mayor Hamilton vacated the chair for the second reading. Possibly that occurrence furtuitously deprived Mr. McIntyre of a supporting vote, presuming that Alderman Sullivan might have leaned toward him.

Mayor Hamilton recognized that possible coincdience, and before resuming his seat he mentioned it, and asked the members who had voted for the Curtis-Glover amendment whether they were satisfied with the issue of voting. The division had followed the ordinary formality and routine, and no objection was expressed by any of the aldermen.

The appointment of Mr. Shaver was confirmed in the third reading without a recorded vote as one or two of those who had supported Mr. McIntyre joined the committee majority.

In the brief discussion, Alderman Ovens said he felt that Mr. McIntyre had had a lengthy experience on the Commission, but Mr. Shaver would bring to the City Trust the valuable asset of his financial knowledge. "It is true that we need a building man, but we will have a building ispector. What we need, as I see it, is a man with financial experience."

Alderman Glover pointed out that Mr. McIntyre had served a special purpose on the Commission in a way that no other member probably could do, and that was as a supervisor of the city property in its care. "As alderman and mayor for ten years, Mr. McIntyre gave a good deal of time and attention to city affairs, and I feel that he will continue to do a good job for us. I also think the Commission have not made a bad job of what they set out to do."

Dartford Home Is Destroyed By Fire

WARKWORTH, Feb. 8 — (ENS) —The home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tally, Dartford was completely destroyed by fire about seven thirty Monday morning. A lighted lantern caused some gasoline to explode which was the cause of the fire.

Most of the contents were saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

This British War Poster, reproduced with official permission, typifies the spirit of the Empire's soldiers. Private Jones of Canada Unlimited is just such an individual, and it is to him we owe our future.

Meet PRIVATE JONES OF CANADA UNLIMITED

Private Jones would have remained plain Tommy Jones in less perilous times. But then he would never have known experiences which have colored his life and framed his thinking. Trifling experiences like troubled feet. Profound things like the fierce joy of action. Countless things that have built his body and his mind—and have given him a vision of a Canada Unlimited in which, in the not-so-distant day, he will be a happy, unfearing, contented worker.

* * * *

In Canada Unlimited, Private Jones, once again plain Tommy Jones, will have opportunities such as he never imagined existed. A grateful country will see to his proper rehabilitation. If he desires education, he shall be educated. If he wants a farm, he shall have a farm. If he wants to labor with his hands, he shall labor with his hands. If he wants to labor with his brain, he shall labor with his brain. For Canada Unlimited is just that, a land of limitless spaces and unbounded resources . . . to reward initiative.

Of course, the vision of Private Jones is not just a dream. It is the reality of a Tomorrow that we can create.

We create this Tomorrow with the money we lend for Victory, for in these savings of ours are also the seeds of Peace, the fruits of a new world and a new way of doing things.

For Private Jones, for ourselves, and for this Canada of ours, it is of paramount importance that we buy and hold more and more War Savings Stamps and Certificates and more and more Victory Bonds.

For these are the dreams of which stuff is made!

IDENTIFICATION SOUGHT

Several rugs and a camera thought by the police to have been stolen from automobiles are awaiting identification at the police station. There are also three pairs of skates left in an unlocked car and brought to the station for safe-keeping.

FIRE IN OFFICE.

Fire which broke out in the office of the Peterborough Lumber Company, Monaghan Road, at 12.53 this afternoon, brought the entire fire brigade into action. The fire was small, one in a partition, caused from steam pipes, and damage was estimated at about $50.

TO WRESTLING FANS.

War Savings Stamps night at the wrestling bouts at Brock street is next Tuesday night and not to-night as published last week, J. A. Jebson, local chairman of the Food Industry's campaiagn pointed out to the Examiner to-day. Fans who are getting ready to help out in the February War Stamps drive are asked to overlook this mistake in dates and to save their enthusiasm for Tuesday the 15th.

FIRE REPORT.

Two alarms in the afternoon Monday and one this morning make up the report of the Department. A fire was started by grease from the oven at 44 George street north, home of R. Minard, at 2.08 p.m., but it was put out without any damage being incurred. At 6.38 p.m. there was a chimney fire at the residence of F. Shaw, 36 Lafayette avenue, and at 9.30 this morning another disturbance of the same nature at 84 Lansdowne avenue, home of J. Gagnon.

ACE BAILEY EXPECTED

Last but possibly not least on the list of subjects for the Kinsmen dinner parley at the Empress Thursday evening is the subject of playgrounds. Alderman Sands invited Mayor Hamilton and members of the council to attend. "I am glad to see somebody outside the council is beginning to take an interest in civic projects." Irvin "Ace" Bailey is expected here to say something about the rink plans. Alderman Dutton is being given 15 minutes to tell about the hospital situation.

LIGHT FIRE LOSS

Peterborough's fire year began with many alarms, 77, but loss of only $525 as reported for January by Chief Gimbeltt to the council last night. Damage to buildings was estimated at $475 and $50 to contents.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

Lieut. Allan Park, son of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park and Mrs. Park, is still dangerously ill as a result of wounds suffered in the Italian fighting. Previously reported seriously wounded, word was received to-day by his mother from the Director of Records, Ottawa, that there has been no change in his condition.

A C.E.F. ANNIVERSARY

Twenty-eight years ago Monday, February 7, the 2nd Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces in the last war left Salisbury Plains, England, for France, an anniversary which probably holds a permanent place in the calendar of the veterans of that unit which included a Peterborough detachment.

BLOOD DONORS

The first clinic of the week on Monday morning was attended by 73 donors, of whom 24 represented the C.G.E. and Genelco plants, with groups also from the Quaker Oats, Canada Packers, J. J. Turner's Sons, Westclox and Outboard Marine. Highest individual donation of the day, his eighth, was made by Howard Blewett of the C.G.E., and Preston McCann of Whitaker's recorded his seventh contribution. There were donors in from Westwood, Keene, Omemee, Millbrook and Apsley.

PROMOTED OVERSEAS

Military District No. 3 announces the promotion overseas from the rank of captain to acting major of Captain Ross L. Davidson, formerly of Peterborough, whose wife now resides at Ottawa. Major Davidson was commissioned in 1933 as second lieutenant with the 4th Machine Gun Battalion and upon re-organization became a lieutenant with the Prince of Wales Ragers. At the outbreak of war he enlisted with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Back Payments Refused For Education

Until Alderman Sands and Dutton opened an attack on it, the Board of Education's application for half the money paid in lieu of taxes by Wartime Housing Limited for the past three years and including 1944 was going to go through on the requested 50-50 basis.

Eventually it was decided to give the Board 50 per cent, but only 50 per cent of the amount received from Wartime Housing this year.

A resolution by Aldermen Ovens and Cotton to give the Board 50 per cent of the $14,800 received by the council from the company was supported by Alderman Glover and Mark, but the decison of the majority was to keep the money received for the last three years and let the Board in on whatever amount comes through for 1944.

Mayor Hamilton had recently been advocating a gesture of acquiescene to the Board for the sake of fanning the little flame of good-will between the two bodies, and Alderman Glover argued in the same vein last night that the net result would not affect the ratepayer. However, the motion was defeated. Those who lined up against it were: Curtis, Sullivan, Sands, Dutton and Swanston.

Sgt. Ray Lean Hurt In Italy

Official word has been received by Mrs. Edith Lean, 417 Rogers street, that her youngest son, Sgt. Raymond Lean, has been wounded in action in Italy, January 31, while serving with a Toronto Regiment.

Sgt. Lean enlisted in August 1940 at Picton with the 1st Midland Regiment and prior to joining the Army was employed at the Johnson Construction Company. After training in Canada, he went overseas in April, 1943, and transferred to his present Toronto unit. In November, he was part of a contingent to land in Italy, which has only recently gone into battle.

A brother, Pte. Wilbert N. Lean, is serving in that area with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Bancroft Boy Aged 18 Dies In Italy

BANCROFT, Feb. 8—(ENS)—Private Donald Frederick Thomas, eighteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas of Bancroft died of wounds January 29, as a result of action with the Canadian forces now in Italy.

Donald enlisted with the Prince of Wales Own Rifles on April 20, 1942, only training in Canada six months going overseas in September of the same year.

The family had received a letter just prior to receiving a telegram of Donald's death, from their other son Eddy who informed the parents at that time that Donald was fine. Eddy enlisted with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and has been overseas three years ago last August and is now twenty-two years of age.

PTE. DONALD THOMAS

The father is also a seasoned soldier having fought through the last Great War and also tried to go overseas in the present conflict but was turned down medically. He was not contented with his failure to go over with his sons so he enlisted in "A" Company, 2nd (R) Bn. of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment spending nearly two years with the unit before he transferred into the Veterans' Guard being in service with that unit for ten months after which he was honorably discharged medically unfit.

Deloro Union Granted Appeal

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Mr. Justice C. P. Plaxton to-day granted an application by an American Federation of Labor union for intervention in an application by an Employees Committee for certification as collective bargaining agent at the Deloro Smelting and Refinery, near Belleville.

Hearing of the Employees' Committee application was scheduled originally for to-day, but in view of the application for intervention being granted it was postponed to next Tuesday.

AIRWOMAN ALICE KAY

AIRWOMAN ANNA KAY

CPL. ROBERT KAY

AC.2 JAMES KAY

Two daughters and two sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Kay, 536 Chamberlain Street, are serving in the armed forces. Both girls serving in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. have U.S.A. on their shoulders indicating they were born in the States. Alice was employed as a stenographer at the De Laval, and Anna was a comptometer operator at the C.G.E. prior to enlistment. Both are at No. 1 Wireless School, Montreal. Both boys enlisted from the Collegiate. Cpl. Bob Kay is with the R.C.A.F. ground duties crew at Winnipeg, and AC.2 James Kay is in a wireless school at Montreal.

Naval Auxiliary Granted $375 By City Council

The grant of $250 to the Women's Auxiliary of the Navy, as recommended by the finance committee last week, to help defray the cost of Christmas ditty bags sent to the local men in the naval service, was increased to $375 by the council last night on Alderman Swanston's motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton.

"It is now evident that the committee was misinformed, and acted on the information which it had," said Alderman Dutton. "We did not wish to discriminate between the forces, and least of all against the Navy. If it had not been for their sacrifice, the story of the war up to the present would have been different."

When grants were being made to the women's auxiliaries of the Army and Air Force last November, the council was advised by the president of the Women's Naval Auxiliary that they did not need any financial help from the city in preparing Christmas ditty bags for the Peterborough men at sea.

Mrs. F. D. Craig, convener of that committee of the Naval Auxiliary in charge of buying Christmas gifts, wrote the council last night, in part, as follows:

"It is true that last autumn the president of our organization, without consulting the Auxiliary, and particularly our committee, informed your body that the Auxiliary would not requqire any financial assistance in sending Christmas Ditty Bags.

Why such an answer should have been given at a time when our treasury contained only $500, and it should have been common knowledge that between 400 and 500 sailors would have to be taken care of, has been a mystery to most of us."

Mrs. Craig informed the council that her committee was instructed by the Auxiliary to fill bags for the Peterborough boys in the Navy, and those instructions were carried out, with the result that the total cost exceeded the funds in the treasury.

"There was no 'buying splurge' as one of your members put it. We bought the supplies we needed at wholesale, and as you will see from the financial statement enclosed, the average cost of filling the bags was $3.17; somewhat less than the previous year when it was $4.62.

If providing comfort at a cost of $3 each for the Peterborough boys in the Navy, many of whom are being tossed about in corvettes, destroyers and minesweepers in winter weather on the Atlantic at the present time, is considered extravagant, then we will have to plead guilty. But, I assure you that we mothers in the Auxiliary who have boys in the Navy and who spend two or three times that amount every month of the year sending parcels to them will differ from you."

Mayor Hamilton said the council had given the two other auxiliaries about a dollar for each parcel, and the Naval Auxiliary had sent 425 Christmas parcels. "And I know you can't pack much of a box for $3."

Alderman Cotton said it was unfortunate the misunderstanding had happened. "But, it was not the fault of the council. If they had come to us in the first place they certainly would not have been refused."

Alderman Oven said neither the council nor the committee could be blamed for the incident. "I understand they will have between 700 and 800 boys to look after next Christmas."

Establishment Of Family Court With Juvenile Division Suggested

The desirability of giving attention to the establishment of a family court in Peterborough with a juvenile division in which sympathetic consideration could be given to problems affecting home life and the welfare of the child was stressed by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Peterborough branch of the Children's Aid Society, in an address to the Peterborough Rotary Club Monday on "Juvenile Delinquency."

Miss Young, from her experience in dealing with such problems, told of the main causes that in her opinion were responsible for juvenile delinquency and then outlined some suggestions that might help to remove the causes of such delinquency.

"Juvenile delinquency," the speaker said, "is very much in the forefront these days. The trouble is that so much is said and written and so little done about it."

It was impossible to get the picture from statistics, she said. In Peterborough there were 40 juvenile court cases in 1940 and in 1943 the number had increased to 62 but those figures really did not mean very much because some of the juveniles tried last year were for trespassing on railway property—a charge that had not been laid for some time.

However the Canadian figures in which juveniles had been judged delinquents by the courts were more helpful. They showed an increase from 7,613 in 1939 to 11,758 in 1942. That was an increase of 52 per cent and should occasion some thought. "We must be concerned with such a condition," said Miss Young, "if we do not want to take a retrograde step."

Pointing out that there were two phases of the problem to be considered, first the question of how to treat the child who had been declared delinquent and second the removing of the causes of delinquency, Miss Young dealt with some of the background of juvenile delinquency.

Home Most Important

The most important factor, she submitted, was the home. There the child got its attitude toward the school and the church and society in general. Where large families had to live in one or two rooms, she submitted, children would find it impossible to get the proper attitude. Then there was the broken home, where families were regarded lightly, and the home in which marital strife interfered.

Another problem was that of the mothers who were working in factories, unable to give their families the attention they should have. Still another was that of the inadequate parents who knew nothing of the responsibilities of parenthood.

"There is another matter that is giving us serious concern," said Miss Young. "That is the fact that many children are thrown into economic independence before they are adult enough to measure up to their responsibilities. They leave school at 14, are given jobs where they earn from $14 to $20 a week. They are big shots with lots of money to spend before they have grown up to the job."

Among the suggestions made by the speaker for dealing with the problem, in addition to the establishment of a family court, were the providing of economic and social security for each home, proper medical care, foster homes for delinquents, a greater use of churches as centres for recreation, the appointment of a social worker on school staffs to link up the home and the school and help remove the causes of delinquency and a closer scrutiny of working permits, granting them on the ability of the pupil to measure up to the job, rather than merely on an age basis.

The whole situation, Miss Young declared, was a real challenge that called for leadership from those qualified to give it. She pointed out that in certain phases of the work the Children's Aid Society was unable to act because the staff was not nearly big enough to deal with such problems.

Rotarian C. S. Cummer who introduced the speaker and Rotarian James Dutton who moved the vote of thanks both voiced a tribute to Miss Young's services during the six years she has been superintendent of the Children's Aid Society here. The vast improvement that has been made in the general situation and the much higher rating that the local Society now enjoys were credited to the work that the superintendent has done since coming to Peterborough. President George A. Gillespie in passing on the vote of thanks also voiced appreciation of the assistance Miss Young had given the Soldiers' Aid Committee.

Pte. G. Torrance Draped In Blanket Leads Companions Disguised As Donkey To Safety

Pte. Grant Torrance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Torrance, 866 George street, had a narrow escape in Italy, when he and several companions escaped from positions near the German lines, by camouflaging themselves as a driver and donkey. The story appeared in the Army newspaper "Red Patch." Both Pte. Torrance and his brother, William, are serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

A former Bancroft boy, Sergt. Jack Milne, with the Hastings and Prince Edward carrier platoon, devised a clever bit of camouflage to escape from a ticklish spot on the Italian front.

Sergt. Milne was in charge of a group consisting of Cpl. Sexton, Montreal; Pte. Torrance, Peterborough, and Pte. Reed of Trenton when they found themselves in an advanced post under German shell-fire. The danger became worse when they were signalled to move, as a British barrage was to be laid down in the area they were occupying. Every time they attempted to leave, however, the Germans lobbed a few more shells in their direction.

The Canadians escaped by simulating the appearance of a donkey with panniers. Cpl. Sexton and Pte. Reed bent forward and were covered with blankets. Then Pte. Torrance draped a blanket over himself and stooping like an Italian peasant boldly led the strange animal over the skyline to safety without a shot being fired. The men even brought their weapons with them under cover of the blankets.

"No mention is made as to how the doughty sergeant got back but it is presumed that he was in one of the packs on the donkey."

Brinton Carpet Nears $900 For War Victims

In the whirl of present day events which crowd so thick on one another, that they are here today and by tomorrow are in a large part forgotten, it is well to pause for a moment and pay tribute to the very evident sincerity of purpose that has characterized the work of some people or groups on behalf of the war effort.

As in all other things, this has come to the forefront in a number of instances through the work done on behalf of the objects that the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund seeks to assist. It demonstrates that this opportunity for much potential good had not only been grasped, and unlike the trend of every day events, has been maintained with a steadiness of purpose that exhibited a depth of character that is symbolic of the true path that peoples in general must travel to attain that better world, but delayed through the actions of those who place self first, and let the devil take care of the rest.

Contribute 68 Times

A much better world could very easily be brought into being if all the peoples on this earth could come to show the same consideration for the wants and needs of others in distress such as has been demonstrated by the employees down at the Brinton Peterborough Carpet Co., Ltd. While they are far removed from the affluent class, they keep steadily on at the self imposed task of rendering voluntary assistance through the fund to the people of Britain, today marking the 68th time their name has been recorded in this daily column for the fund.

This brings their total close to the $900 mark, the amount actually standing at $883.90, counting the $9 listed today.

One personal gift is listed in the name of Brian Cherney, which was handed in by Irving Moldaver, which it seemed might savor somewhat as coming from a bet, although no definite information of such was given, and then a collection from the penny box in LeBarr's Sports Shop on Charlotte made by the secretary of the fund on Saturday, and amounting to $1.45 is also included in this day's list.

Norwood Dance Wednesday

This Wednesday, February 9, a dance is being held in the Town Hall at Norwood, sponsored by the Women's Institute of that place, in which the Get-Together Girls' Club are to have a share in the receipts, from which they are going to assign a portion to the fund. This group sent in a donation from a similar event quite recently, and since they number only seven girls who have caught a vision of their potential for doing good, they are to be encouraged in the work they set out to do.

What Council Did

Appointed City Treasurer Shaver to the City Trust Commission for 5 years succeeding A. A. McIntyre.

Bought the Allin Ice Company land and buildings fronting on Townsend and Rink streets as an optional site for a hockey arena.

Extended for five years Canadian Nashua Company's lease of its premises at a rental of $1,500 a year.

Received the first report of the civic hospital project, submitted by Alderman Sands.

Decided not to renew the garbage collection contract, but to transfer this work to one of the municipal departments.

Refused to split credit with the Board of Education to the extent of half the $14,000 received from Wartime Housing as substitute for taxes for the last three years. This was only a book-keeping division.

Conversion Of Nicholls Hospital Into A Civic Hospital Erection Of Building Proposed

Proposals for the conversion of Nicholls Hospital into a civic hospital on a broad basis contemplating the erection of modern buildings were presented to the Council, last night, by Alderman Sands, chairman of its special hospital committee.

The ultimate purpose and scope of the institution as conceived by the committee is set forth in the following clause of the report.

"The Board of Management of the said hospital shall give its energies and thought to the supplying of complete and satisfactory hospital accommodation, treatment and facilities as required by the best hospital practice, for all the citizens of the said City of Peterborough."

The recommendations also provide for representatives participation by the Peterborough County Council on behalf of the residents of the county.

Authority to undertake this enterprise would be sought by the City Council through a Private Bill of the Ontario Legislature.

Proposals pertaining to the Nichols Hospital Trust endowment and to a board of management of the new hospital are features of the draft plans which Alderman Sands read to the council.

"Your Special Hospital Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Special Hospital Committee has held several meetings and drafted recommendations for changing the management and for the better future development of the present Nicholls Hospital. A joint meeting has been held with a Special Committee of the Nicholls Hospital Trust and these problems were discussed.

2. Several members of the Special Committee of the Nicholls Hospital Trust during the meeting with your Committee requested that the membership of the Board of Management as contained in Clause 5 should be changed to provide that two members shall be appointed by the Nicholls Memorial Investment Trust. Your Committee did not agree to this but noted the recommendation.

3 The recommendations which have been approved by your Committee, and which were generally approved by the Special Committee of the Nicholls Hospital Board, are as follows:

(1) That on behalf of the citizens of the City of Peterborough, the Council of the said City will accept the transfer of the present lands, buildings and equipment constituting Nicholls Hospital by the said Trust to the ownership of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

Endowment Fund.

(2) That the present endowment fund of the Nicholls Hospital Trust, said to amount to approximately $242,000.00, shall be retained and shall not be diminished for any purpose whatever by the Trust, the name of which shall be changed to the Nicholls Memorial Investment Trust, but that the proceeds of the said endowment shall be paid to be used by the Board of Management as it sees fit for the supplying of hospital facilities in the said hospital.

(3) That on behalf of all the citizens of the said City, and for their benefit, the Council shall seek a Private Bill at the Ontario Legislature by which a Board of Management which shall have the full responsibility and charge of governing and managing of the said hospital lands, buildings and equipment, shall be constituted.

(4) This Board of Management shall be named the Board of Management of the Peterborough Memorial Hospital, and the Hospital shall be named the Peterborough Memorial Hospital.

(5) This board of management shall have its membership constituted as follows: Five members to be residents of the City or County of Peterborough, of which no more than two shall be members of the city council, and to be appointed by the council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough; the mayor of the said city; the warden of the County of Peterborough or his appointee; one member to be appointed by the women's auxiliary of the hospital; one member to be appointed by the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council of Ontario who shall be a ratepayer of the city or county of Peterborough.

(6) The board of management of the said hospital shall give its energies and thought to the supplying of complete and satisfactory hospital accommodation, treatment and facilities, as required by the best hospital practise, for all the citizens of the said City of Peterborough.

Provision For Deficits

(7) Any deficits incurred by the board of management in the operation of the hospital over and above monies received by subscription and other sources of revenue by the board of management, shall be raised by the said council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough by the levying of a rate annually upon all the taxable property of the said city in a manner similar to other funds raised by taxation and collected by the said council.

(8) The council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough undertakes with the co-operation of the board of management the responsibility of planning and erecting and equipping any future buildings required for the supplying of sufficient and improved hospital facilities for the benefit of all the citizens in the City of Peterborough, and the council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough shall provide to the board of management such finances as may be required for the payment of the cost of the said buildings, equipment and facilities in the manner provided by the Ontario Municipal Act by which the municipality is empowered to raise funds under money bylaws.

(9) The hospital shall be managed and operated by its board of management for the benefit of all the citizens of the County of Peterborough under the following terms and conditions:

(a) When the council of the County of Peterborough shall have entered into an agreement with the council of the City of Peterborough by which the county shares in the cost of maintaining the hospital services and the erection of new buildings and facilities.

(b) Under this agreement the county council shall levy and collect annually upon all the taxable property of the county a special rate for the purposes of the hospital.

This special rate collected by the county council shall bear the same ratio to the amount raised by taxation in the City of Peterborough in the same year as the population of the city bears to the population of the county, the ratio used for this purpose being the same as used for the then current year for sharing the costs between the city and county of the administration of justice expenses."

Consult Both Boards

The council formally received the report last night on Alderman Dutton's information that the Board of Nicholls Hospital at its annual meeting yesterday did not have time to consider it.

"My idea in presenting it tonight," said Alderman Sands, "is to let the other members of the council know what your committee has done so far."

"Before anything definite is done, I think the committee should consult the Board of St. Joseph's Hospital because a problem may arise which will have to be faced. It is not likely to be in the immediate present, but the committee might have to make some agreement with the Board of St. Joseph's in case anything might happen when a new hospital would be built. That is, the hospital in Ashburnham might suffer when we have a new civic hospital built."

Alderman Sands said the committee had not recommended the appointment of a member of the old Board of Nicholls Hospital to the proposed new hospital. The council had been taking the view that there should be an entirely new basis of management, that something should be done to remove an old feeling of a religious problem in the city, and that possibly "if one of the old Board was left on, that feeling might continue."

Alderman Dutton suggested that for the present we should simply "receive the report of the committee," because the Nicholls Hospital Board did not have time to consider it at their annual meeting Monday (yesterday). He said he had urged that an early meeting of the Board be called to deal with the report.

"Let us wait until we get any counter-proposal regarding a representative of the old Board on the new one," said Alderman Swanston.

Alderman Dutton advised that some respect should be shown for the views of those members of the Nicholls Hospital Board who had been long in its service. From their experience they might be able to make a valuable contribution to a new hospital and its plans. Alderman Dutton said he agreed with Alderman Sands' reference to removal of any religious problem, "but we should not lose sight of the fact that a hospital without the consolation of religion would be a poor place indeed. But, it is unfortunate when sectarianism gets into a situation and prejudices the whole of it. I think we are being more tolerant and that is a good thing. I do not minimize the splendid benefactions we have received through Nicholls Hospital, but I feel that we must be on a broader basis than we have in the past."

Alderman Sullivan said he appreciated the gesture of Alderman Sands in his reference to St. Joseph's Hospital before a final decision was made. "We are all aiming at one thing in regard to our hospitals and that is to secure for the people the best service they can get."

QUEEN MARY.

An interesting part of the program of the Founder's Day meeting of Queen Mary Home and School Assocation was Founder's ceremony, conducted by Mrs. G. H. Moore. For this ceremony, an attractive tea table, centred with a decorated birthday cake and a tall cream taper, around which nine yellow and blue candles in silver holders were ranged, was read.

To commence the ceremony, Mrs. G. Reader read a tribute to the late Mrs. Ada Courtice, the founder of Home and School Associations, and Mrs. T. J. Carley lighted the tall centre candle in her memory. This was followed by the reading of the Nine Goals of Home and School Associations," and a candle was lighted for each goal by the respective leaders.

The firrt goal, "Good Homes," was read by Mrs. J. Leslie; the second, "Sound Health," by Mrs. W. J. Hardill; the third, "Equalized Educational Opportunites," by Mrs. J. Fry; the fourth, "Conservation of Human Values and Natural Resources," by Mrs. C. H. Speeran; the fifth, "Safety," by Mrs. H. G. Carleton; the sixth, "Vocational Adjustments" by Mrs. S. M. Ward; the seventh, "Constructive Leisure Activities," by Mrs. E. Montgomery; the eighth, "Civic Responsibility," by Mrs. William Fanjoy; the ninth, 'Active Spiritual Faith," by Miss Dorothy Hooey.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. F. W. Harris, who gave an address entitled "The Plain Miss Parkers, Who Contributed So Much To Our Way Of Life." Mrs. C. H. Crowe was in the chair for this meeting, which was opened by the reading of the Home and School creed by Mrs. James Matthews, followed by a short talk on the late Mrs. Ada Courtice, the founder of Home and School Associations, by the president.

During the evening, two vocal numbers were given by Mrs. R. L. Hale, accompanied by Mrs. H. V. Dobson, and Miss Marie Adams played a piano solo. The president praised the children of the school for their splendid work during the recent paper collection, when they gathered ten tons of paper for salvage, and Mr. O. M. Steer read a letter from the Ontario Salvage Committee in Toronto, thanking the school for this work.

The banner for the attendance of parents at this meeting went to the Kindergarten and Mr. Steer's class. At the close of the meeting, a social hour was spent arrangements for which were in charge of Mrs. Clare Collins and her committee. Mrs. O. M. Steer and Mrs. E. R. Shirley poured tea, and the girls of Grade 8 served.

Mrs. Stanley Braund reported on the program for the next meeting, when the guest speaker will be Lt. Col. W. Baptie, O. C. of the Canadian Active (Basic) Training Centre, No. 32, Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

DOMESTICITY IS PROFESSION

Bride Should Fit Herself For Housekeeping as For Any Other Career in Life.

IF I could give one piece of advice more earnest than any other to every young bride, I would say: Make a profession of domesticity. Make an art of cookery. Make a science of running a budget. Put just as much intelligence and hard work into studying how to be a good housekeeper as you would into preparing yourself to be a doctor, or a lawyer, or a private secretary.

Don't think that marriage is an invitation to sit down on the do-nothing stool and let George do it, and that because you have a husband who is legally bound to support you that you can spend the balance of your life playing bridge and going to bargain sales. Don't delude yourself into thinking that because you can't be fired for laziness and trifling and general incompetence that it gives you the privilege of loafing on your job.

Some Wives Chiselers

You may get by with it. Lots of wives do. There are plenty of women who spoil good food for forty years and throw half of their husbands' earnings into the garbage can without ever learning how to make a biscuit that is fit for human consumption, or to turn a house into a home. Don't be one of these feminine chiselers who makes marriage nothing but a graft.

It is a curious thing although domesticity is women's hereditary calling and the one they plan and desire to follow, they look down upon it with contempt. You will hear them say disparagingly: "I'm ONLY a housewife." Or: "I wish I knew some way to make money, but I have never done anything but keep house."

And because they think their occupation neither romantic, nor thrilling, nor profitable, millions of women never bother to perfect themselves in it. They never even try to learn how to make decent coffee, or to cook the kind of a dinner that keeps a husband walking the straight and narrow path back to his home of an evening.

Yet the fate of every family lies in the hands of the woman who is at the head of it. Juvenile delinquents and philandering husbands don't come out of happy, comfortable, well-run homes. Whether children grow up strong and sturdy, and men are still in their prime in their sixties depends upon how they are fed more than upon anything else. And Mother's thrift is the foundation on which nine-tenths of the fortunes are built.

So, I would say to the starry-eyed little bride: If you want to hold your husband's affections, don't bother so much about trying to keep young and beautiful and preserving a willowy figure as you do about making him comfortable. Concentrate on turning out an A-1 job as a housekeeper and manager who can run the domestic machinery so smoothly he won't even hear the wheels go around.

Furthermore, consider this, that in making yourself an expert housewife your acquire one of the best trades that women can follow and one by which they can always and anywhere make a living. For the demand for interior decorators and fashion designers and radio crooners, etc., fluctuates according to good times or hard times, but people will always be hungry three times a day, and there will never be enough good cooks to go around.

Feeding people will always be women's best bet, and when one does this superlatively well, people will wear a path to her door. A few women have made fortunes in some spectacular venture, but thousands of women have made comfortable livings out of boarding houses. Only those have failed who laid down on their jobs.

Hence, I urge every bride to make a fine art of housekeeping. Let her fit herself for it as she would for any other career, so if the time ever came when she would be thrown on her own resources and needed to support herself she would have a good money-making profession at her fingers' end.

Solicitor for the Executor.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, February 9.

GREAT STRIDES may be taken on this day in a determined attack on all lagging and static or crystallized conditions which have frustrated cherished objectives of major importance. This opportunity should be acted upon with all resources, both business, public and private, drawn upon for attaining these ends, albeit their high pressure should be reasonable, definitely regulated and directed and not forced to explosive heights or squandering of energies and assets. Wise counsel is dependable in indicating new ways and means or diverting ambitions into entirely new channels. Keep impulses, emotions and temper under rigid control.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of great enterprise and initiative, possibly in fresh lines of endeavor or in applying new methods or formulae to old propositions or objectives. Swift and decisive action is required for aggressive performance, but not to the point of shattering or squandering the energies, by flying into impulsive or emotional explosions. Keep calm, but persistent. Accept the friendly support or advice of those qualified to give it, either in public or private enterprise. Keep amiable and agreeable for lucrative work.

A child born on this day may have great energy, creative ability and ingenuity, which it will be inclined to demonstrate with decisive, brilliant and effective blows. Restraints in emotions and impulses might enhance its success.

Orchid Is Given City Councillors

A bright little orchid for the city council was contained in a letter from an anonymous mother last night expressing the hope that the woodpile would be changed into ice for the summer.

This letter signed by "A Worried Mother," congratulated the council for its forethought in buying emergency wood. "I think you all deserve credit. The fuel has helped a great number of citizens when the dealers were short. I do sincerely hope that you will get a supply of ice for the citizens. I read in the Examiner that you were considering the handling of ice. We were very short of ice last summer, and mothers with small children found it hard to keep milk. Please help us out this summer with our ice supply."

Miss I. Weddell Regent Of Jeanette Scott I.O.D.E.

Miss Isabel Weddell was elected regent of the Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. at the annual meeting of the Chapter, held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Richarson, 295 Monaghan Road, and annual reports on all phases of activity of the Chapter were given in addition to the election of officers.

Other members of the executive for 1944 are as follows: Honorary regent, Mrs. Fred Hooper; first vice-president, Mrs. E. Spurway; second vice-president, Mrs. J. Turner; secretary, Miss Mary Medd; treasurer, Mrs. M. Comstock; assistant treasurer, Mrs. K. Robertson; educational secretary for 1944 is Mrs. R. Honey; Echoes, Mrs. R. Chenoweth; press, Mrs. G. Gillespie; standard bearer, Mrs. E. Westbye; war convener, Mrs. L. Sorby; head counsellors, Mrs. J. C. C. Dawson, Mrs. G. lors, Ms. J. C. C. Dawson, Mrs. G. Dobbin, Miss C. Hodgens, Mrs. C. Cadd and Mrs. J. A. Nornabell.

The retiring regent, Mrs. W. B. Gordon, presided at the business meeting, and heard annual reports from all conveners and secretaries. The financial report showed that $565 had been realized from the garden party, rummage sale, and fall tea, sponsored by the Chapter. During the year, money had been given to the Chapter's adopted ship and school, Canadian Legion, Institute for the Blind, Community Chest, Polish Relief, Camp Libraries, British Prisoners of War, Sailors and Minesweepers, British Children's Fund, British War Victims' Fund, Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, H.M.C.S. Peterborough, Seamen's Comforts.

Members of the chapter assisted at the Blood Donors' Clinic during the year, helped at soldiers' dances in the camp canteen, visited the camp hospital, helped on tag days, and assisted in the packing of overseas parcels at Christmas.

Social representatives were chosen for the month of February, to attend all I.O.D.E functions, and it was announced that visits would be made to the camp hospital, and that four members would assist at the Blood Donors' Clinic. Members of the chapter will also be in charge of the entertainment at the Uptown Recreation Centre on Thursday.

At the conclusion of the reports, a vote of thanks to Mrs. W. B. Gordon, the retiring regent, for her excellent work and leadership was moved by Mrs. G. Rishor.

Fine Gael Party Leader Strong Speaker

By SEAN O'CATHAIN
Canadian Press Correspondent.

DUBLIN, Feb. 8 - (CP). — In the hands of Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, leadership of the Fine Gael Party, principal Opposition group, in the Dail (Parliament) should lack no virility or forcefulness. He is recognized by members of his own Party and Government members as being one of the strongest speakers on the Opposition benches.

O'Higgins is only the House Leader of the Fine Gael, succeeding W. T. Cosgrave who retired because of ill-health. Gen. Richard Mulcahy was elected January 26 as Party Leader but holds no parliamentary seat.

Like so many other Irish Leaders, O'Higgins' background is the volunteer movement for Irish freedom and the jail.

His father, Dr. O'Higgins of Lei, was shot and killed in 1922. His brother, Kevin O'Higgins, vice-president of the Executive Council and Minister of Justice in the Cosgrave Government, was murdered by unknown assailants at Bootерstown in 1927.

Served as Colonel.

A colonel of the Free State Army and Director of Army Medical Services, he resigned that post in 1929 and was elected to the Dail as member for North Dublin. From 1932 onwards he represented his native Lei, Offaly.

Cosgrave's surprise resignation may be said to close a chapter in Irish history because it removes from the political scene—except as a back bench member of the Dail—in the person of the small, almost timid, always courteous Cosgrave, one of the leading architects and builders of the Irish Free State.

Like many who surrounded him later in the Sinn Fein movement in the early years of the century, Cosgrave entered public life through the Dublin Municipal Council in 1909. He later was one of the first to join the militant side of the movement for Irish independence. He fought in the Dublin Union during the 1916 Rising, was captured, sentenced to death, and, following commutation of sentence, spent a period in Portland Prison. Shortly after his release in 1917, Kilkenny elected him a member of the House of Commons, pledged not to attend the British Parliament, and when the first Dail was constituted he became Minister for the local Government.

Took Up Arms.

Still later, as President of the Executive Council, he engaged in armed strife against his old friends and colleagues, steadfast in the determination that the State which had been accepted by the majority of the people should be maintained and permitted to function.

When Cosgrave's Government fell in 1932 it was generally attributed to its Public Safety Act which set up a military tribunal for trial of political offenders and since that time the Prime Minister Eamon De Valera has led the Eire Government.

John Carroll, chairman of the Irish Livestock Exporters' and Traders' Association, told the annual general meeting of the association that "in the realm of Irish farming the year 1943 was one of outstanding achievement in the production of essential food for the needs of our people."

American Doctor Likes Health Plan

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) —Dr. Henry Sigerits, professor of the History of Medicine at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, said in an interview here Monday that the Canadian plan for National Health Insurance "is a great step forward, and progressive doctors in the United States welcome it because it will help us in our fight for organized services there."

Visiting Toronto to address a meeting Monday night under the auspices of the Health League of Canada, Dr. Sigerist said medical care should be free, just as education .... the present situation of a person getting sick and then paying the doctor must be reversed; the doctor must be paid to see the man before he gets sick."

Need 32 Millions

PITTSBURG, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Plans to raise $32,000,000 this year to aid Jews in a war-torn Europe were outlined yesterday at the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds as a part of 12-point program for rehabilitation, resettlement and relief of Jews now suffering under the heel of Nazism.

Odd Hiding Place

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8 —(AP). — M. J. Copp won't be using the front seat of his automobile soon as the hiding place for his hard-earned dollars — especially 2,700 of them. He told police he hid that sum there recently, drove the car several times, sent it to a garage to be washed—and later discovered his loss.

NCO's Training Near Front Along Adriatic

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 7—(CP)—A school for non-commissioned officers where soldiers come down from the line for two weeks' freshening up and training is being run by a Canadian infantry brigade within shelling distance of the Adriatic front.

Commanded by Maj. A. F. Mitchell, a permanent force soldier from Scotland who joined the Canadian Army in St. John, Que., the school handles about 100 men a course, most of them privates whom their officers believe are prospective N.C.O.'s and the others lance corporals and corporals.

Maj. Mitchell said one of the main purposes of the school is to teach the soldiers management of men. They have proved themselves good soldiers in the field, but they lack the necessary training to command men on the barracks square.

"A man may be a hero on the battlefield and still not be a good N.C.O.," Mitchell said. The school builds self confidence, emphasizes drill, spit and polish, regimental traditions, altertness and other qualities from which emerge leadership.

There are elementary and advanced courses on weapons, use of ground, first aid, map reading, concealment and camouflage, field cookery. They are "old stuff" to most of the men but there are many points they may have forgotten.

Lectures freshen their memories and lessons of the recent fighting bring the teaching right up to date. About one quarter of the course is devoted to drills and principles and another quarter to applying them.

Good Teachers

There are lectures from officers in other branches of the service, artillery, tanks, engineers, and on one recent course a tank was brought to the school and the men learned from the crew about the tank itself and armored warfare generally.

At the end of the course, the soldiers return to their units, not necessarily as N.C.O.'s, but to whatever post they held before. The school is not intended to train N.C.O.'s for immediate use, but to provide a sound background for men who later may be called upon to lead.

The soldiers enjoy the break from front line life and the opportunity to brush up on things they have forgotten and to gain more knowledge.

Cpl. S. G. Seruby, Belleville, Ont., liked it because he learned something new about map reading. Other men who have been to the school includes Ptes. E. H. Brown, Guelph, Ont., T. J. Holland, Belleville, Cpls. Robert Wright, Marmora, Ont., Steve Moore, Sudbury, Ont., Paul Boulaine, Brantford, Ont., L. Cpls. Alex Devitt, Toronto and Bobcaygeon, Ont., Aurel Mercier, Cornwall, Ont.

Will Build Nation

LONDON, Feb. 8—(CP Cable). — The Canadian army of today will play the same great role as the army of the First Great War in the Dominion's history—it will be the foundation on which to build a nation, George V. Ferguson, executive editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, said in a broadcast review of what a group of eight Canadian editors have seen and heard and the impressions they have received in the first few days of their tour of Britain.

Davis Wins

WASHINGTODN, Feb. 8—(AP). —A month-long undercover wrangle in the United States Office of War Information culminated last night in the announcement of the resignation of three top-ranking New York officials of the Overseas Division which is headed by Robert E. Sherwood. The settlement was plainly a victory for O.W.I. Director Elmer Davis.

Nazis Dominate All High Ground

By REYNOLDS PACKARD

ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Feb. 8 — The Germans intensified their efforts today to wipe out this beachhead, increasing their artillery fire to the highest degree yet, also resuming sneak raids in the daytime.

Last night the enemy also airbombed the beachhead several times, while maintaining a constant checker-boarding of the beachhead with shells.

In the last 48 hours I've seen, heard, and dodged more shelling than all the rest of the time I've been here.

From the mountain range between the beachhead forces and Rome the enemy stares down into every secret military spot. To put it facetiously, this beachhead army is living in a goldfish bowl.

The Germans are pouring many thousands of shells into the beachhead day and night, with some concentrations in a single small area receiving as many as 700 or 800 shells within 15 minutes. Much of this shelling obviously is intended to be harassing. Comparatively little damage has been done to military objectives.

Latvians Called

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 — (AP). — The German-controlled Riga radio last night broadcast an order that all Latvian men born between 1904 and 1906 report to the colors. It said that the Inspector-General was also calling up men born between 1919 and 1921.

OVERDOING EXTRA TRICKS

GOING AFTER extra tricks is vital to successful play in match-point duplicate, in which you are trying to score just a bit better than other people playing the same hand. But there is such a thing as over-emphasizing that strategy. If one method of play gives you, according to your sound judgment, a result which will be either a tie for top or a tie for next to top, and the other presents the alternative between a top and a bottom score, the first method is clearly preferable.

North: ♠ 7 6 5 ♥ J 10 9 ♦ A Q 8 ♣ A Q J 3

West: ♠ A Q J 10 8 ♥ 5 3 ♦ 9 4 3 2 ♣ K 9

East: ♠ 9 2 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ 8 6 5 4 2

South: ♠ K 4 3 ♥ A K Q 7 5 ♦ J 10 6 ♣ 10 7

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass
4 ♥

At other tables, North hopped to 4-Hearts on his second turn, which was sound with his strong holdings in the minors, especially sitting over the one member of the opposing side who had bid. It took a good deal of confidence for South at this table to bid the 4-Hearts when his partner had made such a weak raise.

South, upon seeing West's lead of the diamond 2, realized that, if West had both of the minor suit kings, he could take 12 tricks, discarding two spades on the clubs and losing only one trick, in spades. That would entail trying both minor finesses. Without further ado, therefore, he played low from the dummy. East won with the diamond K and returned his spade 9, producing three tricks in that suit and setting the contract.

A bit more of thinking by South should have shown him that he risked a bottom score by doing that, as against a possible top. The club play was so much more important, as furnishing needed spade discards, and also West was clearly trying to get his partner in the lead to come through the spades. South should have taken the diamond A, cleared trumps, then tried the club finesse. The method he used would have been justified only if he reckoned, perhaps late in the game, that he had no chance to win unless he peeled off several clear top scores, in which event "shooting" tactics might have been justified.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 5 2 ♥ 9 6 4 ♦ A K 10 8 6 4 ♣ A

West: ♠ Q J 9 7 ♥ A 8 3 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ 10 6 5

East: ♠ A 10 4 3 ♥ K 5 2 ♦ J 3 ♣ 9 8 3 2

South: ♠ K 6 ♥ Q J 10 7 ♦ 9 2 ♣ K Q J 7 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If South responds to diamonds first with clubs, and then with hearts, and finally reaches 3-No Trumps, what is the soundest defense?

Omemee Women's Missionary Society Votes $10 for China, India Relief

OMEMEE, Feb. 8—(ENS)— The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church, Omemee, was held on Thursday afternoon, at the parsonage, with Mrs. Read, leader of Group No. 1 in charge. After a short worship period Mrs. V. Lang, president, took the chair for the business session.

The Roll Call was responded to, and reports were heard from the various departments of service. Mrs. H. Deyell was appointed as an official delegate to attend a meeting of the Lindsay Presbyterial which will be held in Cambridge street, United Church, Lindsay, on February 8. In answer to an appeal for special funds for China and India relief the ladies voted to send $10.00 from the reserve fund of the auxiliary.

An announcement was made regarding the World's Day of Prayer for Women which is to be observed on February 25 in Christ Church Anglican, Omemee. There was some discussion regarding the next regular meeting of the W.M.S. which will be the annual sewing meeting.

For the program, Mrs. Rea again took the chair, and announced the theme, "The Bible, the Common Possession of the World Church". After the singing of a hymn, a delightful little story of an old Korean gentleman and a young missionary, was read by Mrs. G. Overholt. With Mrs. Rea explaining their present-day significance, various passages from the New Testament were read in turn by the members of the group, namely: Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Haygarth and Mrs. Overholt. A prayer of thanks for the common possession of the Bible was offered by Mrs. Rea.

Miss Lillie Race then delighted the ladies with a piano instrumental. The Study Book Chapter, "Grace for Living" was also given by Miss Race, and stressed Grace for living and working together in the home and in the church. After the closing hymn was sung, Rev. R. M. Patterson led in prayer. The ladies of the group served a dainty lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

Mission Fields' Work Reviewed

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 — (ENS). — Reports from several mission fields were heard with interest by members of St. Johns W. M.S. at their February meeting on Friday which was held in the Sunday School Hall of the church with the president, Mrs. J. D. Mills, presiding. At the opening of the meeting the president directed attention to a report covering the recent C.G.I.T. banquet and again spoke of the petition for refugees entering Canada which had been previously presented to members, but had not been completely signed. A letter from Miss Rorke in the mission field at Trinidad was read and members were asked to remember Miss Ruth Churchill and Dr and Mrs. Mitchell, three other missionaries, in their prayers.

A list of the books that could be found in the local library and were suitable for the further study of missionary work, was given by Mrs. E. C. Roberts and copies of this were presented to members. The visiting committee for the month of January reported 49 calls. Mrs. D. Stillman read a communication dealing with the Christian Stewardship secretary's work, and following this the president urged the members to attend the Day of Prayer service scheduled to be held in the United Church on February 25. The ladies were also invited to attend the special meeting in the Salvation Army Hall on February 8 at which Mrs. Colonel Ham, the Territorial Home League secretary, will be the guest speaker.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. W. F. Scott, and a feature of this was the life story of John Marsh, given by Mrs. J. Mitchell. Mrs. Edward Bates gave a vocal solo and the chapter from the study book, entitled "For All of Life" was presented in dialogue form by Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. Rannie. This showed the representation method used to embody the Spirit of God and teach it in as simple a manner as possible.

Paramushiro Difficult Isle To Invade

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 —(AP) — Paramushiro, which now has had a taste of naval bombardment, is the northernmost of the home islands of Japan.

It is about 790 miles southwest of the American base on Attu Island in the Aleutians and is more than 1,600 miles from Dutch Harbor, the United States Navy's northernmost Pacific base.

Paramushiro is in an area where fog and storms often blanket large areas, facilitating secret approach but at the same time covering the actual targets of an attack.

Despite these weather uncertainties, Japanese installations on Paramushiro have been bombed from the air on a number of occasions since the United States reoccupied the Aleutians and therby moved their forward bases within bomber range of the Kurile Island group.

Some of the earlier heavy raids were made by army bombers, but recently the Navy has reported its planes making attacks on the Islands.

In recent months, the frequency of the attacks have stepped up, leading to speculation in some quarters that a softening-up operation was in progress.

The chain of the Kurile Islands linking Paramushiro with the home island of Honshu presents a menace for any landing attempt on Paramushiro. Aircraft cover could be augmented from the multitude of bases spotted down through the island chain and in the mainland.

Action at Paramushiro brings the Pacific war close to Russia, a neutral in the Pacific conflict. The island is separated from Kamchatka Peninsula by a narrow strait.

2 Senior Officers Get Promotions

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP)— Promotion of two senior officers of the Canadian Army Medical Services to the rank of Acting Major-General was announced here today by Defence Headquarters.

The promotions:

Brig. George Brock Chisholm, C.B.E., M.C., 47, of Oakville, Ont., Director General of Medical Services at Defence Headquarters, to be Acting Major,- General, effective Feb. 1.

Brig. R. M. Luton, C.B.E., M.C., 52, of Halifax, Director of Medical Services, Canadian Army Overseas, to be Acting Major-General, effective Feb. 7.

Gen. Chisholm has been Director General of Medical Services for the Army since Sept. 7, 1942. Since then he has instituted a number of changes in procedure in Army Medical Service practice, including the Pulhems system of reporting on an individual's fitness for service and for classification.

Gen. Luton has been at Canadian military headquarters in London since Oct. 17, 1939, first as senior medical officer, later as Deputy Director Medical Services, and since Feb. 19, 1941, as director. He has been responsible for the organization and administration of Canadian hospitals and medical units overseas.

for your business

These ten competing banks are:

Bank of Montreal — The Bank of Nova Scotia
The Bank of Toronto — The Provincial Bank of Canada
The Canadian Bank of Commerce — The Royal Bank of Canada
The Dominion Bank — Banque Canadienne Nationale
Imperial Bank of Canada — Barclays Bank (Canada)

A chartered bank is the custodian not only of your money on deposit but also of your secrets concerning that money.

A CHARTERED bank is an institution where the details of your bank account are kept secret.

It is called "chartered" because its permission to do business and the conditions and restrictions under which it may do business, are contained in a charter granted and kept up-to-date by parliament, the finest democratic free institution of government that man has yet devised. This charter is an Act of Parliament laying down all of the conditions which safeguard your money.

Ten competing chartered banks are the very opposite of a State Monopoly such as would come about if all the banks were rolled into one by nationalization. Under State Monopoly, if you failed to get accommodation at the one bank, you could not go to any one of nine others to seek it. You can today.

Bridgehead Battle Is Raging Germans Claim Big Gains

Nimitz Aiming At China Coast

By WILLIAM HIPPLE—Associated Press War Correspondent

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 9—(AP).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, radiating confidence and satisfaction after returning from an inspection of Kwajalein, said yesterday his aim is to get the forces under his command moving across the Pacific and setting up bases in China.

In an unusual statement at his press conference, the commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, said his object is "to get our ground and air forces into China as early as possible."

"In the last analysis," he continued, "I do not believe we can defeat Japan from the sea alone."

Startled correspondents asked him if that remark was "on the record."

"Certainly," he answered. "That's the simple strategy of the Pacific war. I believe the Japs can only be defeated from bases in China because they draw food, iron and other supplies from Manchuria and China, and as long as they have access to these they will be difficult to beat.

"Furthermore, we want air bases in China from which we can deliver air raids — not sporadic ones—but like those the Germans are receiving."

When reminded that most of the

Post-War Job Survey Shows Slight Increase Over 1939

KITCHENER, Feb. 9—(CP).—Post-war employment prospects show an increase of five per cent. over 1939 and 21 per cent. over 1943, on the basis of the first 10 reports submitted by business men in the Kitchener-Waterloo survey for post-war planning, it was announced today by S. H. Sutherland, manager of the business research department of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Early reports also indicated that 40 per cent of local firms, both large and small, have definite plans for expenditure on expansion of their plants in the "target" year.

As returns from business houses began coming in, it was noted that employment in 1943 was down five per cent. from that of 1939, reflecting the movement of men and women into the armed forces. Firms questioned showed an average of 11 men and one woman in uniform.

Seventy-one persons are making a canvass of the 773 firms and business houses in Kitchener-Waterloo, George W. Sawin, chairman of the employment committee, said today. Of the survey generally he said: "This is private enterprise at work to avoid mass unemploymhent in post-war years."

Idea of the 100 per cent. canvass of all business is to learn what both large and small businesses were doing before the war, what they are doing during war years and what is hoped to do in the post-war period, Mr. Sawin explained.

"The head of every firm has the individual responsibility of trying to provide an opportunity for all his employees. The employee's responsibility, on the other hand, is to co-operate with the management so that both have a chance to earn a fair return for their contribution to produce goods and services," he said.

Questionnaire forms have been sent to 370 farmers in that portion of the Kitchener-Waterloo district which has been included in the survey area, it was said by Fred M. Snyder, chairman of the farm resources sub-committee.

As in the urban areas among householders, only a representative number of approximately 10 per cent. is being canvassed in rural areas.

Earth Swallows 3-Yr.-Old Child

PITTSTON, Pa., Feb. 9 — (AP). —The earth split open and swallowed a three-year-old child here yesterday, and miners still dug to-day in search of her body.

The child, Jule Ann Fulmer, was buried alive in a cave-in over an abandoned anthracite mine.

Her aunt, Mrs. Marie Mitchell, told the story of the tragedy:

She and Jule Ann and the child's five-year-old brother David were walking along the sidewalk. Mrs. Mitchell peeled a tangerine and handed it to Jule Ann, and the child fell behind a few steps.

Then the earth cracked.

"I leaped back, pulling Jule with one hand and knocking David back with the other," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"But the rush of earth tore Jule from me. There was nothing I could do to save her. She just disappeared."

Most of this mining city of 18,000 is undermined by coal workings. For several years there have been cave-ins, wrecking many homes and buildings. The subsidences take place when rotting mine timbers suddenly give way.

After Jule Ann disappeared, the miners entered the yawning hole—40 feet deep and 10 feet across — and began digging. The work went forward under flood lights during the night while thousands watched.

A second "squeeze" or subsidence occurred last night and the rescue crews installed protective cribbing. They worked in relays, suspended in the deep hole by ropes, and passing up the dirt in buckets.

Island Capture To Speed Attack

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

ABOARD A JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP, KWAJALEIN, Feb. 9 (AP) — Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said Saturday the capture of Kwajalein Atoll of the Marshall Islands was of great strategic value and will "serve to speed up the tempo" of the Pacific war.

Admiral Nimitz, commander of the Central Pacific, and Lt.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson, army commander in the same area, held a press conference after inspecting action scenes in the quick capture of Kwajalein, the world's largest Atoll.

Nimitz observed that Kwajalein's seizure with neutralization of the enemy's other bases in the Marshalls, "definitely shortens communications to the South Pacific and the Southwest Pacific."

"The major obstacle in the Pacific," the Admiral continued, "is not so much the Japanese as the distance."

Asked whether invasion of the Marshalls, following up on the conquest of the Gilberts last November, meant that the Pacific war was going to be pushed without waiting for the finish of the European conflict. Nimitz replied:

"I believe the actions speak for themselves. That's another war over there. We are going ahead as fast as we can."

Assessing the Japanese strength in the Pacific, Nimitz said he had believed for some time that the enemy air power, particularly naval air power, now is considerably under its peak.

American Bombers Aid Chinese Troops

CHUNGKING, Feb. 9 —(AP) — United States medium and fighter-bombers have ranged over French Indo-China and Central China bombing and strafing Japanese rail and river transport in support of the Chinese for the past two days, a communique said today.

Bombers sank four Japanese cargo boats on the Yangste river and probably sank two more and a large barge on Monday.

Japs Boost Plane Output

Turning Out 1,200 Fighters a Month

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—An estimate that Japanese factories are turning out aircraft at a rate of 1,200 or more a month came from high quarters here today, coupled with a report that the Japanese—like the Germans—are concentrating on defensive types.

This report on Japanese production, about 100 per cent higher than most guesses made since Pearl Harbor, would go far to explain the enemy's apparent ability to keep replacing his heavy losses, and indicate his reserve of planes has not been reduced appreciably.

In a little more than a month, from Jan. 1 to Feb. 6, the Japanese lost more than 700 planes in the Pacific—more than 200 of them destroyed on the ground. The total was nearly 60 per cent of the estimated Japanese monthly output.

This rate of loss becomes significant, despite the recast estimate of production, in the light of the enemy's dependence on aircraft to hold his outer defence lines. The ability of the United States Navy to move almost at will in the Pacific, underlined by the seizure of the Marshalls and the shelling of Paramushiro, couple with growing pressure in the New Guinea-New Britain area, means the Japanese fleet is virtually confined to "home waters."

Krivoi Rog Encircled On 3 Sides

15,000 Nazis Killed At Nikopol As City Captured

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 — (AP). — Russian troops closed in on the iron centre of Krivoi Rog to-day from three sides and also advanced in the direction of the ports of Kherson and Nikolaev after breaking the long and tenacious German defence in the Dnieper Band at Nikopol.

Hitler at Krivoi Rog may have repeated his characteristic mistake in Russia—waiting too long before retreating. He lost 15,000 dead and 2,000 captured as well as enormous stores of booty at Nikopol, a major source of manganese essential for hardening German steel.

The Germans have large numbers of infantry, tanks and artillery at Krivoi Rog. There was no sign of withdrawal despite the threat of encirclement. The only railroad still open to the iron centre leads to Dolonivka, a junction 40 miles west of the Nikolaev-Kiev line.

Food Scarce.

The army newspaper Red Star said the 10 encircled Nazi divisions near Cherkasy were being exterminated and that the officers and men in the death pocket were losing hope. The dispatch said officers no longer could encourage the men with hopes of rescue, because the best landing fields have been taken by the Russians and the others are washed by rains and deep in mud. The Germans were receiving food only by parachute, and much of this was falling into Russian hands.

Red Star reported the arrival of spring in the Dnieper Bend after one of the shortest and mildest winters in generations. The newspaper said "roads exist only on maps," since they are quagmires of sticky mud.

Fliers Continue Daily Bombing Against Europe

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Feb. 9 —(AP) —United States Marauders roared back to Northern France to pound German "Atlantic Wall" installations to-day for the third time in little more than 24 hours together with R. A. F. medium, light and fighter-bombers.

The daylight formations crossed the Channel after R. A. F. night bombers struck objectives in Germany and France, including the Rhone Aircraft Engine factory at Limoges, without loss.

British Bostons, Mitchells, Mosquitoes, Typhoons and Hurricanes joined in the assault on Nazi installations in Northern France which were attacked twice by Marauders yesterday, and have been bombed almost daily for two months. Fighters escorted the bombers.

Some big bombers were observed returning later from the direction of Boulogne and Calais as other formations were setting out.

Yesterday's Flying Fortress attack on Frankfurt was the third such assault on that city in 11 days.

A communique said 19 German planes were downed during the Frankfurt operation, American fighters accounting for 16 while the others fell to the bombers. Two other Nazi planes were destroyed by R. A. F. Typhoons over Brittany.

Allied loss for the day was 25 planes— 12 heavy bombers, one medium bomber, one light bomber, two fighter-bomers and nine fighters—the communique said.

Allied Fliers Rain Bombs On Cisterna

Americans Occupy One-Quarter Of Battered Cassino

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 9. — (AP). — Allied planes poured tons of bombs yesterday on Cisterna to cripple that main strongpoint of the Nazi line around the invasion bridgehead south of Rome, while Allied troops struck out in "aggressive patrol activity," Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

German patrols also were active in this vital sector, and Nazi artillery continued a heavy shelling of the beachhead.

Two-engined bombers in morning and afternoon raids pounded buildings in Cisterna where the enemy had concealed tanks and guns, and crewmen said the bombs levelled a large part of the town, 15 miles north-east of Anzio.

Cisterna had been a model town of the Pontine agricultural development. The Germans have converted it into a fortress. From it they have launched some of their fiercest attacks on the beachhead.

British troops have taken new heights in the Gargliano region, near Castelforte, four miles north-east of captured Minturno, front dispatches said.

Attacking Cliffs.

The German communique asserted the Nazis had advanced several miles in the bridgehead area, capturing 700 prisoners. "Strong enemy counter-attacks with support of tanks and naval artillery were repulsed," the bulletin broadcast by Berlin added.

A dispatch to Stockholm by the German - controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau declared the waters off Nettuno "looked like a ship graveyard" as a result of the German air attacks on Allied shipping.

American troops battling into Cassino on the main front have occupied about one-fourth of that town, front dispatches said, and at one time they fought to within 75 yards of the Benedictine Abbey on Mount Cassino.

An attack was launched in the pre-dawn darkness yesterday to take the cliffs surrounding the monastery on the mountain. The Germans have held the mountain top for six days of stern battle.

Allied planes flew 1,500 sorties throughout the day, striking at German troop concentrations, airfields and railyards over a wide area, and losing not a single plane. Five German planes were destroyed.

More guns were brought up to join the artillery barrage supporting the assault against Cassino to the southeast, and fighting continued in the streets of that key town. United States forces made slight gains in the mountains to the northwest.

Hold High Ground.

Bishops Criticize Allied Bombing

LONDON, Feb. 9—(CP). — The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Chichester criticized Allied bombings of German cities today in the House of Lords.

"Recent attacks upon cities like Hamburg, Frankfurt and Berlin seem to me to go a long way beyond what hitherto has been declared the policy of the Government and the bomber command," the Archbishop of Canterbury said.

"The policy of obliteration is openly acknowledged," the Bishop of Chichester asserted. "That is not a justifiable act of war."

The Archbishop, head of the Church of England, also criticized a tendency "to exult and gloat" over the destruction of German cities and towns "among some of our people."

Replying as leader in the Upper House, Lord Cranborne said the R.A.F. never had indulged in pure terror raids.

Lord Cranborne said 80 per cent. of the German fighter planes now were tied down to combat Allied attacks.

"That has greatly facilitated the efforts of our heroic Russian allies to liberate their own country from the Nazi yoke," he said.

He said almost the entire Krupp armament works covering two square miles had been destroyed at Essen. Attacks last summer on Hamburg cost the Germans 400,000,000 man hours, he added.

"It is to me full justification for the present bomber campaign," he said. "I cannot give the Bishop of Chichester any hope that we shall abate our bombing policy. On the contrary, we shall continue it in increasing power and with more crushing effect until final victory is secured."

German Embassy Employee Deserts Post Joins Allies With Valuable Information

ISTANBUL, Feb. 9—(AP).—A German who deserted the Nazis was identified by Allied spokesmen today as Erich Vermehren, clerk to the military attache in the German Embassy here and a son of the German authoress, Petra Vermehren.

Vermehren's wife, the former Countess Elisabeth Plettunberg, accompanied him. His mother now is in Lisbon.

The 24-year-old attache and his wife declared they deserted the Germans because they were disgusted with Nazi brutality. He is said to possess detailed information of greatest value. At the German Embassy he served directly under Dr. Paul Leverkuehn, assistant military attache in Turkey.

Vermehren said he and his wife reached Allied-controlled territory despite every effort by Germans in Turkey to apprehend him. Under investigation by the Gestapo, he disappeared several days ago. German Ambassador Franz Von Papen interrupted a vacation in the Bursa Mountains to rush back to Istanbul in order to direct an investigation of his disappearance.

Catholic Prelate Lashes Russian Ideas Of Freedom

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP).—Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, in sharply-worded criticism of Soviet agitation against the Vatican, declared yesterday that it is only natural for the Roman Catholic Church to be opposed by a government "that has between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 political prisoners doing slave labor in Russia."

"No democratic nation has charged the Vatican with 'lack of sympathy'," the Catholic prelate said in a statement.

"Only the Fascists, Nazis and the Soviets have done so and that is because the Vatican condemned all three."

The government-controlled press in Soviet Russia published charges that the Vatican supported Fascism—Franco in Spain and Mussolini in Italy—and Nazism in Germany. Today, Tass (Soviet news agency) quoted a German refugee along the same lines, and Msgr. Sheen commented:

First Fell Flat.

"The second blast of the Soviets became necessary because the first fell flat."

The Tass story was written around a pamphlet by Leonard Mannaberg emphasizing what was termed "the leading role the Vatican played in the Fascists' and Nazis' rise to power." It was published in New York and distributed in the United States.

Sheen said, "When the Soviets declare that the Vatican is the enemy of democracy, they mean it is the enemy of their kind of democracy."

"The Vatican teaches that democracy 'does not consist in the power to lay unreasonable and capricious demands upon subjects' must necessarily be opposed by a government that already has between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 political prisoners doing slave labor in Russia.

Germans Absorb Terrific Defeat

LONDON, Feb. 9 — (CP). — Yugoslav Partisans have inflicted a "devastating defeat" on the Axis troops near the town of Gacko, 45 miles south of Sarajevo, a broadcast communique of the Yugoslav Army of Liberation said to-day.

No further details of this engagement were given by the communique, which said that units of Gen. Draja Mihailovic's Chetniks were brigaded with the Axis forces.

Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) also announced a battle has been raging for the past 20 days between Partisan forces and a German-Bulgarian army in the Zlatibor area of Western Serbia. More than 200 Axis troops have been slain, the Yugoslav bulletin added.

Other clashes were reported from widely separated parts of the irregular front, the communique said, adding that a German ammunition ship recently had been sunk by a British warship in an unspecified locality off the coast.

Chinese Forces Gain In Burma

NEW DELHI, Feb. 9.— (CP). — Chinese forces have scored further gains against the Japanese in the Hukawng Valley in Northern Burma but on the Arakan front north of Akyab the Japanese still are on the offensive against Allied hill positions, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia headquarters said today.

The Chinese have wiped out pockets of enemy resistance and cleared the west bank of the Tanai River west of Toipha Ga where the Chinese are seeking to push out the enemy to allow completion of the new Ledo road through the area.

R.A.F. and U.S. bombers were active over the north Burma area, attacking Japanese communications, transport, barracks and ware houses.

The communique disclosed that on Monday night Japanese planes dropped a small number of bombs on the east coast of Ceylon, island stronghold in the Indian Ocean, but no damage or casualties resulted.

Patrol Skirmishes On Pescara Front

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, Feb. 6.—(Delayed).—(CP Cable.)—Small-scale patrol activity over ground soaked by two days of rain was the only fighting reported by the Canadian corps of the 8th Army in the coastal and Orsogna sectors of Eastern Italy during the week-end.

Western Canadian troops along the Adriatic coast itself met machine-gun opposition south of the Arielli river where the Germans are guarding the road to the seaport of Pescara.

Further inland, south of the town of Tollo, the enemy is less alert and central Canadian patrols reported no contact.

Criticism of Nettuno Action Bit Hasty

Hitler Plans To Annihilate Beachhead With Huge Force

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

London newspapers are looking with paundiced eyes at the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead operations south of Rome, and suggest the Allies have been too cautious about forging ahead when they first landed and there was virtually no opposition.

Time may, or may not, justify this harsh criticism, but it strikes me we lack facts to warrant such sweeping conclusions as yet. The London Daily Herald, which is among those disappointed, seems to furnish its own excellent answer when it said: "We do not yet know enough to criticize or account for the state of affairs."

We may get a better view of things after the big battle which seems to be boiling up at the beachhead.

Hitler indicates determination to annihilate the beachhead force as part of his delaying action in Italy. Marshal Romel, one of the master tacticians of the war, is reported to have been rushed to the scene.

The Nazis have had time to move heavy reinforcements from the north, and have even brought in a contingent of Hitler's elite guard, or Schutzstaffel.

The enemy may be superior numerically, and they have the advantage of positions on high ground overlooking the beachhead. Hitler also has flung into the air more warplanes than the Nazis have displayed in this theatre in a long time. German artillery is hammering the Allies.

Latest reports say our positions in the beachhead have been further consolidated and bristle with men and guns. This beachhead is 30 miles wide and eight miles deep. With Allied superiority in the air, and a naval fleet off-shore to back up the Allied land forces, we have a right to expect our men to win through. But they haven't got the battle in their pockets yet.

As regards the criticism, it should be pointed out first that indications are this amphibious operation was intended as a diversionary venture. It wasn't, for example, expected to capture Rome, or anything of that sort. Presumably it was hoped that it would draw German troops away from the main battle line to the south and thereby enable the Allied armies to get ahead with their offensive, which has been badly delayed by weather.

Well, the landing didn't work out that way, but it did force the Nazis to rush troops from the north to the beachhead.

Students Voice Grievances

Stage Sing-Song To Attract Attention

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9—(CP)—An official statement released last night from No. 3 Wireless School, R.C.A.F., at suburban Tuxedo said a "short disruption" had occurred during the day's "normal routine" and that an inquiry had been ordered "into the cumstances surrounding the occasion."

No official explanation of the "short disruption" was given but airmen at the school said trainees and instructors took "time out" from their studies and engaged in a half-hour unscheduled and unrehearsed sing-song to draw attention to grievances of personnel.

They said studies were resumed later Sqdn. Ldr. W. C. Fisher, chief instructor, advised them that Air Vice-Marshal T. A. Lawrence of No. 2 training command would grant an interview to instructors.

The airmen said they were sympathetic with the instructor who were compelled to remain at night for special instruction, and that there were grievances also over questions of promotions. They also objected to "petty officiousness."

Commanding officer of the station is Group Capt. A. Walmsley.

Jap Resistance Crumbles At Kwajalein

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 9 — (A P) — All organized Japanese resistance has been snuffed out on Kwajalein, world's largest atoll, and to-day American warships and planes are diverting fire power from that nerve centre of the Marshalls to the fortified atolls.

In the midst of these developments, the overall strategists spoke hopefully of getting "our ground and air forces into China as early as possible" for a showdown against Japan.

The United States Navy imposed a policy of semi-secrecy last night in announcing its fleet and air arm are swinging punches elsewhere in the Marshalls. The Navy did not disclose the targets, since communication between those supply-severed bases and Japan are precarious and lack of the information would seriously impede the enemy.

Meanwhile, airfields on Roi and Kwajalein Islands in Kwajalein Atoll are being repaired and modernized to send planes daily against Marshall bases, already largely neutralized and virtually stripped of air cover.

Based at Kwajalein's spacious lagoon, a large and as yet unchallenged fleet—not even attacked by enemy submarines — was alert against attempts to succor the enemy's Marshall garrisons.

The present minimum yearly salary is $300.

Phones Speed War

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP).—George L. Long of the Bell Telephone Co. stated figures here recently to show the part played by telephone in war work. He said 450 long distance and local calls are made for every fighter plane of a certain type that comes off the assembly line; 12,000 for a bomber, 50,000 for a corvette and 63,000 for a 10,000-ton merchant vessel.

Warn Germans Not To Falter

LONDON, Feb. 9.— (CP).—Germans on the home front who fail to make their proper contribution to the war effort will be subject to "energetic counter-measures," Lt.-Gen. Kurt Dietmar, spokesman for the German High Command, said to-day in a Berlin broadcast recorded by the British Ministry of Information.

Speaking in what he described as the "shadow of a second front,' Dietmar scathingly rebuked German civilians for their "hide-bound mentality" at a time when "on all fronts the enemy has gone over to the offensive."

"More fronts are likely to spring up," he was quoted as saying. "The hour demands that we make our position as strong as possible by drawing upon all our reserves.

"Our most important weapon in the face of developments to come is our reserves. Care must be taken to use them sparingly. The German soldier's physical and moral strength is not inexhaustible. The High Command is well aware of this and knows that—necessary as husbanding these reserves is—it is linked with the urgent problems of how to mobilize all available manpower for the fighting forces.

"The home front and the army depots in the rear have to make their contributions alike. But if the rear becomes a burden it fails in its real duty, which is to help the men on the battlefield. Such a hide-bound attitude calls for energetic counter-measures."

Student Nurses Will Aid In V.O.N. Work

The Board of the Victorian Order of Nurses, in a meeting Tuesday night under the chairmanship of James Dutton, president, granted its approval on an application of the University of Toronto to have students of the university's Public Health course obtain practical experience through association with the local Order in its work. Affiliation experience is to be arranged for two students, one during the month of April and one in May.

At the meeting, first of the current year since the annual meeting held in January, Mr. Dutton welcomed the new members to the Board, and 17 in all were present. Part of the business consisted of submissal by the Finance Committee of a budget for 1944.

Audit of income and disbursements for 1943 showed a total of $6,762.76 in receipts and $5,894.09 in expenditures. Outstanding items contained in the financial statement were as follows. Income: Community Chest, $2,500; City of Peterborough, $2,500; Nurses collections, $1,249.55; Metropolitan Life. $488.61. Disbursements: Salaries, $3,960; Substitution and relief, $962.50; Auto operation, $469.56; Medical and surgical supplies, $59.51; Telephone and telegraph, $156.21; Advertising, $105.03. In addition to the total shown for ordinary disbursements, there were capital disbursements aggregating $176.49.

Make 478 Visits

The report of Miss Mary Ross, supervisor, for the month of January revealed a total of 478 visits and 174 cases under the care of the Victorian Order, an increase of 39 over the corresponding month last year. During January 80 new patients were admitted, of whom 13 were prenatal, 20 mothers and babies, and 47 medical and surgical. The division of all cases by religious affiliation shows 105 Protestant patients and 69 Roman Catholic.

Once again bedside nursing took the predominant part of the nursing staff's time. The breakdown of visits paid indicated 47 prenatal, 11 pneumonia, 29 flu, 224 other types of medical and surgical cases, and 140 to mothers and babies, of which 41 were for purposes of nursing care and 99 for instruction. One staff conference was held, one operation was attended, and the nurses were in attendance at the Blood Donors' Clinic on one evening.

The full cost of Victorian Order services was received in 142 of all the visits made, and in 100 cases part-payment was received. There were 40 free bedside visits, 20 visits made to Metropolitan policy holders, and the remainder was represented by visits of a non-chargeable, educational nature.

Would Encourage Plowing Matches

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Because wartime food needs require knowledge of better cultivation methods essential to increased production, plowing matches should continue to be held in wartime, it was stated yesterday by Senator J. J. Duffus, Peterborough, at the Ontario Plowmen's Association convention here.

"I am not convinced that the cancellation of the international plowing match was an advantage and I believe more has has been lost than gained," said Senator Duffus. "Too often plowing is done in such a manner as to constitute abuse of the soil. That is a potent reason why plowing matches should be continued and in increasing numbers."

J. A. Carroll, association secretary-manager, referred to criticism of plowing matches which claimed that the time employed in plowing small patches was not justified. He said this criticism was irresponsible and the merit in soil-turning did not lie in speed.

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (C P) — H. H. Mount Cassino overlooking it, and still cling to the corridor leading to the town.

On the 8th Army front a German patrol of 60 men, with weapons including flame throwers, thrust into Allied territory, near Orsogna but Allied forces killed 14 of them and captured six. The rest of the Nazis fled, abandoning their flame throwers. First dispatches did not indicate whether the troops beating back this thrust were Canadian or other units of the British 8th Army. A Canadian corps holds the right flank of the 8th Army's front, running inland from the Adriatic to the mountains of Central Italy.

In addition to the air blows at Cisternia, the Allies bombed railyards at Siena, north of Rome.

Allied warships joined the assault, bombarding Formia, on the Gulf of Gaeta below the bridgehead and blowing up an ammunition dump.

Heavy bombers blasted railyards at Verona and Prato and airfields at Tarquina and Vitero, while fighter-bombers lashed at shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

The communique said medium bombers poured tons of explosives on Cisterna in morning and afternoon raids, demolishing buildings in which the Germans had concealed tanks and guns. Returning fliers said the bombs flattened a large part of the town, which is the main German strongpoint of their line facing the bridgehead.

Nazi pressure against the beachhead south of Rome has risen to the highest pitch since the Allies passed over to the defensive last Thursday, but no significant change in position were noted in field dispatches last night after tank-supported German infantry attacks developed against British and American lines.

Meantime on the main 5th Army front to the south-east the Germans still remained in control of three-fourths of shattered Cassino, although Reuters News Agency reported last night that United States forces gained an edge of the town. Action on the 8th Army front farther east remained confined to patrol activity.

The dispatch said German captives looked ridiculous in their snow coats with sweat rolling down their faces as they trudged to the rear.

Nikopol was taken only after the bitterest house-to-house fighting, front dispatches reported. Stores of booty were abandoned by the enemy and a Russian communique said "the victory has returned to the country one of the largest industrial centres of the Ukraine."

German prisoners were quoted by the communique as saying that Hitler had ordered the Nikopol bridgehead to be held at all costs. Formidable defences in depth, dominated by heights manned by powerful siege guns, were blasted by the Russian onslaught.

Reporting the bridgehead victory, the communique said the Russians "dismembered enemy troops into sections and....routed seven divisions. A large group of Germans was driven to the Dnieper and completely wiped out."

Forty other towns were captured in the Russian drive, which liquidated the tip of the German army's easternmost position in Russia.

As Gen. Malinovsky's army converged on Krivoi Rog from Apostolovo, 22 miles away, other Russian forces under Gen. Nikolai Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev were steadily crushing the remnants of 10 German divisions trapped near Cherkasy 65 miles further north.

On the Baltic front, Russian troops under Gen. Leonid A. Govorov were driving on the big German defence stronghold of Luga, on the Leningrad - Pskov - Warsaw railway. The Soviet communique said they had advanced 10 miles in the past 24 hours against strong enemy resistance. Further south several towns fell to Gen. M. M. Popov's forces in the Novosokolniki area.

The Nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau hinted in dispatches from the Estonian capital of Reval that the Germans expected Govorov to by-pass Narva, and the Germans were reported to have already evacuated the towns of Vinnistu and Pharispea on the Gulf of Finland.

Lions Are Told Nationalism Is Dangerous

Canada has a great opportunity to draw together the United States and the British Empire into a world organization of peace and goodwill provided she does not act in a spirit of selfish nationalism, it was said by T. J. Carley, K.C., in an address to the Lions Club.

Speaking on the subject of "Canada and its Problems," Mr. Carley stated that Canada should develop a lively interest in international affairs in order that she may indeed become what Prime Minister Churchill has described as "The Linchpin of Peace," binding together in mutual goodwill and understanding the Empire and the United States, and ready to play a significant part in preserving world peace and world trade."

He reviewed the trend of relations in recent years between Canada and the nation to the south, emphasizing tariff changes and closer industrial relations that have grown out of the war. The scale of tariffs that used to be imposed had been reduced in 1937, and now tariff on defence materials had been removed, with the States spending large sums of money in this country, such as was the case with the Alaska highway and military airlines.

Trade Grows

Growth of Canada's export and import trade were pointed up by Mr. Carley, who showed how exports had risen from 380 million dollars in 1939 to 885 million in 1942. A corresponding increase was also noted in imports, with one billion, 300 million in 1942 as against 496 million the year the war began.

Referring to the statement of General Eisenhower that the war would be over in Europe in 1944 on the consideration that everyone do his utmost at his own particular job, the speaker gave some time to discussing several of the problems whose solution would be imminent when the fighting stopped. What Canada can do in regard to social security he believed would largely depend on what place the country holds with other nations after the war; and any plans for large-scale immigration would have to face the fact that very few immigrants could be expected from the British Isles. There, Mr. Carley said, manpower would be needed for protection and all the brains available could be used in rebuilding and reconstructing national life from the damage that war had wrought.

He expressed emphatically a warning against two lines of harmful thinking which, he said, a number of Canadians are prone to. These were extreme nationalism, and on the other hand extreme colonialism, which was the view that nothing done in Canada by Canadians was, or could be, right.

Stan Darling introduced the speaker and the vote of thanks was moved by J. E. Girven.

Good Friday Services Planned By Ministers

The February meeting of the Peterborough Ministerial Association was held in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday. Those present were Dr. E. W. Young chairman, Revs. F. W. Craik, W. A. Filer, B. E. Dawson, H. J. Mahoney, Clayton Kidd, E. J. Whan, H. L. Roberts, Majors R. Bamsey and John C. Wood.

Several matters of interest were discussed including a review of the Week of Prayer services. Arrangements were made to hold services on Good Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Major John C. Wood, the new pastor of the Salvation Army Temple, was welcomed to the association. The secretary was instructed to send a letter of commendation to the Examiner for their comprehensive reports of the Week of Prayer services. Dr. E. W. Young was appointed representative to the executive of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Rev. Clayton Kidd gave an illuminating address on "The Minister as a Shepherd." He compared the function of the shepherd as outlined in Ezekiel 34, Psalm 23, and Jesus' command to Peter in John 21. The true shepherd must possess three qualifications—(a) to feed his sheep, (b) to minister to the diseased and the broken-hearted, (c) to seek those who are lost or have been driven away from the fold.

Girl Recruits Get $1.05 While Waiting

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP) The Defence Department announced today a pre-enlistment allowance of $1.05 a day will be paid all volunteers for the Canadian Women's Army Corps from the time of arrival at a reception centre until attestation or rejection.

The allowance equals the basic rate of pay for C.W.A.C. privates, and puts women on an equal footing with servicemen, who have been receiving a pre-enlistment allowance.

Under the ruling, transportation from the applicant's home to the reception centre will be furnished and meals provided en route. Meals and lodging, or an allowance to cover these items, will also be provided while the recruit is at the reception centre. These benefits apply whether or not the application is accepted.

If accepted, the recruit may, following attestation, be given a brief leave without pay, in which case she will be furnished with a return trip travel warrant.

"I'm my own boss now!"

Every business started as an idea in the mind of some individual. Every shop—every farm — every factory — every worthwhile enterprise from banks to movie theatres, came into being because some individual had faith in an idea and the courage to back it.

Every Canadian has this right . . . the right to build his future in his own way—to go into business for himself if he chooses—and to reap the reward of his enterprise. So it has always been. That is the very essence of our free way of life, the solid foundation of our greatness as a nation.

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE? It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march.

5 Young People Charged With Car Theft

COBOURG, Feb. 9 — (ENS) — James Dillinger, age 19; William Shannon, aged 18; Patrick Kelly, age 17; Dorothy Saylors, age 17, Therese Dick, age 17 all of Toronto, appeared in police court yesterday on a charge of stealing a car on January 25th in Clarke Township, the property of Cecil Burley of Newtonville.

Kelly pleaded guilty while the others entered a plea of not guilty, all electing trial by magistrate. The five, along with Frank J. Sweeney, were arrested on January 25 at Deseronto by Chief E. Langton, while they were sitting in their parked car. After being removed to the jail, the six prisoners made an escape while in an outer room of the jail, all being recaptured with the exception of Sweeney.

Cecil Burley, garage owner of Newtonville, testified that during the night of January 24th someone entered his garage via a window and opened the doors, taking a 1937 Pontiac coach belonging to him. Chief Langton of Deseronto told the court that at 1.30 p.m. he found a car parked near the town with six people in it identifying the five in court as being in the car. At that time he didn't know it was a stolen car but took the six to the jail for questioning. Patrick Kelly had been in the driver's seat when he came upon the car, the chief stated.

Second statement.

Provincial Constable J. B. Driscoll of Belleville, testified that he questioned the five at Belleville and got statements from them, which they later repudiated and new statements were taken. In the second statements, the five said that Kelly and Sweeney had stolen the car at Newtonville after the car in which they had driven from Toronto, broke down at Newtonville.

Provincial Constable William Thompson of Bowmanville said that he found an abandoned car near the garage from which Burley's car was stolen. In the ditch was a soldier's pay book which had been partially destroyed, and piecing it together he found that it had been owned by Frank J. Sweeney.

The two girls swore that they had been picked up in Toronto by the three boys now in court and that a fourth bay, whom they knew as "Baldy" had been driving the car. They admitted that their first statements to the police were incorrect and that the real story was that "Baldy" and Kelly had stolen the car.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter dismissed the charge against the two girls and reserved his decision in connection with the charges against the three boys, remanding them for one week.

Council Pleased With Road Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —Final completion of work on County Road No. 30 drew a note of appreciation from harassed members of the Seymour council at their meeting Monday afternoon. Known to Seymour residents as the English Line, its condition raised a storm of criticism at the December meeting of the Counties Council, following reports that the road, which had been under repair since November 15, was impassable as late rains bogged down vehicles attempting to use it.

Now in good condition, after the Counties Road Commission had taken the rap, Seymour councillors felt it was time to voice their feelings and in consequence authorized the clerk to write a letter of appreciation to the Harvey Construction Co. for their work on the road.

Reeve William A. Rowe presided for the session and he and the clerk were given routine authority to sign a petition requesting the statutory grant from the department of Highways. The following accounts were passed:—Fred Hay, sheep killed, $13; J. H. McArthur, sheep killed, $110; W. A. Wynn Estate, sheep valued, $3.90; Bell Telephone $3.21; Counties' Treasurer, charity, $8.75; Campbellford Herald, printing, $4.25; Percy Telephone $457.85; W. Stephens, registrations and telephone collections, $21.34; Municipal Finance Association, $5; D. T. Petherick, clerical assistance $5; D. T. Petherick road supt., $11.70; J. Macoun, labor, $4.50; F. Dorrie, cutting brush $4.40; Murray Petherick, cutting brush, $6; W. Thain, labor, $1.30.

Poultry Meetings Are Being Planned

COBOURG, Feb. 9 —(ENS) — Agricultural representative Ralph C. Banbury is planning a series of poultry meetings for Northumberland County, to be held during the week of February 14th as follows:

Wooler Hall, 2.00 p.m. on February 15th; Warkworth Hall, 8.00 p.m. February 15th; Grafton Hall, 2.00 p.m. February 16th; Coldsprings Hall, 8.00 p.m. February 16th; Campbellford Library, 2.00 p. m., February 17th; Harwood Hall, 8.00 p.m. February 17th; Roseneath Township Hall, 2 p.m. February 18.

J. E. Bergey of the Poultry Dept. Ontario Agricultural College, will be the speaker. Emphasis will be placed on baby chicks and laying hens but turkeys and other fowl will be considered. The programme will be supplemented by a set of slides "Profitable Poultry Keeping" which should be of interest to those in attendance.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb 9—(AP).—"Just to see what would happen, women assembly line workers at Bell Aircraft Corp. pasted $18 on the skeleton fuselage of an Atracobra P-39 for smokes - for - soldiers' fund. Six days later when the plane rolled off the line it bore contributions ranging from pennies to a $100 bill and totalling more than $4,000.

Cheese Making Shows Drop Of 186,217 Lbs.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —The Trent Valley Cheese and Butter Company, largest manufacturers of cheddar cheese in Northumberland County reported a drop of 186,217 pounds of cheese in their annual statement of 1943. This decline was the result of some 2 million pounds less of milk being delivered to the factory which operated for but 7 months last year though it is completely equipped for winter manufacture. The average number of patrons, who live within a fifteen-mile radius of the plant, was 85 during the summer months but this figure swelled to 125 during December, when most other plants had discontinued for the season.

According to the statement presented by Secretary M. H. West, a total of 3,853,570 pounds of milk were used in the manufacture of 331,174 pounds of cheese for an average of 11.63. Fat totalled 123,521 pounds, making 2.68 pounds of cheese for every pound. The average butterfat content of the milk was 3.2 per cent while the value of butter fat from cheese averaged 47.41 cents; from whey buttter, 1.65 cents; from bonus, 5.36 cents; from the quality premium 1.99; to make the total average value of butterfat 56.41 cents.

Gross Receipts

In all the Company grossed $80,214.56 of which $65,847.17 was from cheese alone; $2,891.10 from whey butter; $6,623.48 Provincial bonus; $2,462.25 premium on quality; $2,390.56 milk subsidy. With production costs deducted this meant patrons got an average of $1.80 per hundred pounds of milk.

During the business of the meeting, for which President G. G. Stephens presided, members voted to have the Company purchase the new filter disc strainers for all patrons. W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, Peterborough, spoke on the sediment testing done last season and other matters of interest to the producers.

Officers or 1944 were named as follows—President, G. G. Stephens, Secretary, M. H. West; Auditors, Owen Clark; Directors, W. F. Scott, Walter Scott, Henry Forestell, Charles Ross, David Meiklejohn.

Charged With Failing To Pay Insurance

COBOURG, Feb. 9 — (EUS) — Firts case of its kind in Cobourg, James Gillard was charged in police court, yesterday, with breach of the Unemployment Insurance Act and the case was adjourned until Febuary 15. The charge was laid by Edgar Lewis Horning of Peterborough, and read as follows:

"That James Gillard of the town of Cobourg, Province of Ontario, did employ in the said town of Cobourg, Mrs. Lillian Pickford, in insurable employment as defined by the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940, during a period of 27 weeks, from July 1st, 1941 to January 3rd, 1942, and during a further period of 81 weeks from January 5, 1942, to July 24th, 1943, and did fail or neglect to pay unemployment insurance contributions in respect of the employment of the said Mrs. Lillian Pickford in the amount of $12.34, being 46 cents per week for the first period mentioned and in the amount of $41.31, being 51 cents per week for the second period mentioned, in each case within 72 hours after Saturday of each week respectively, the day on which wages became payable to the said Mrs. Lillian Pickford for the said periods, as required by the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940, and subsection 2 of Section 6 of the Regulations dealing with contributions approved by Order-in-Council P. C. 3581, dated May 23rd, 1941, as amended, and did thereby commit offences against the said Act, as regulations made thereunder."

St. John's Y.P.U. Meets

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —The topic, "Right or Wrong," taken by Miss Esma Cole, and presented in the form of a quizz formed an interesting feature of the weekly gathering of St. John's Y.P.U. Monday evening. Misses Connie McKelvie and Esma Cole were in charge of the meeting and they were assisted during the worship service by Miss Helen Keller. Miss Ruth Rutledge contributed a piano solo and encore to the program and the meeting concluded with games.

GIVEN REMAND.

COBOURG, Feb. 9 —(ENS) — Paul Eugene Laprade of Bowmanville, formerly of Quebec, was remanded until Friday of this week when he appeared in police court yesterday on a charge laid by Constable D. Herbert of the R. C. M. P. He was charged with failing to keep his divisional registrar informed of his change of address during the period of April 20, 1942, to January 20, 1944.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb 9—(AP).—"Just to see what would happen, women assembly line workers at Bell Aircraft Corp. pasted $18 on the skeleton fuselage of an Airacobra P-39 for smokes - for - soldiers' fund. Six days later when the plane rolled off the line it bore contributions ranging from pennies to a $100 bill and totalling more than $4,000.

Cheese Making Shows Drop Of 186,217 Lbs.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —The Trent Valley Cheese and Butter Company, largest manufacturers of cheddar cheese in Northumberland County reported a drop of 186,217 pounds of cheese in their annual statement of 1943. This decline was the result of some 2 million pounds less of milk being delivered to the factory which operated for but 7 months last year though it is completely equipped for winter manufacture. The average number of patrons, who live within a fifteen-mile radius of the plant, was 85 during the summer months but this figure swelled to 125 during December, when most other plants had discontinued for the season.

According to the statement presented by Secretary M. H. West, a total of 3,853,570 pounds of milk were used in the manufacture of 331,174 pounds of cheese for an average of 11.63. Fat totalled 123,521 pounds, making 2.68 pounds of cheese for every pound. The average butterfat content of the milk was 3.2 per cent while the value of butter fat from cheese averaged 47.41 cents; from whey buttter, 1.65 cents; from bonus, 5.36 cents; from the quality premium 1.99; to make the total average value of butterfat 56.41 cents.

In all the Company grossed $80,214.56 of which $65,847.17 was from cheese alone; $2,891.10 from whey butter; $6,623.48 Provincial bonus; $2,462.25 premium on quality; $2,390.56 milk subsidy. With production costs deducted this meant patrons got an average of $1.80 per hundred pounds of milk.

During the business of the meeting, for which President G. G. Stephens presided, members voted to have the Company purchase the new filter disc strainers for all patrons. W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, Peterborough, spoke on the sediment testing done last season and other matters of interest to the producers.

Officers or 1944 were named as follows—President, G. G. Stephens, Secretary, M. H. West; Auditors, Owen Clark; Directors, W. F. Scott, Walter Scott, Henry Forestell, Charles Ross, David Meiklejohn.

Charged With Failing To Pay Insurance

COBOURG, Feb. 9 — (EUS) — Firts case of its kind in Cobourg, James Gillard was charged in police court, yesterday, with breach of the Unemployment Insurance Act and the case was adjourned until Febuary 15. The charge was laid by Edgar Lewis Horning of Peterborough, and read as follows:

"That James Gillard of the town of Cobourg, Province of Ontario, did employ in the said town of Cobourg, Mrs. Lillian Pickford, in insurable employment as defined by the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940, during a period of 27 weeks, from July 1st, 1941 to January 3rd, 1942, and during a further period of 81 weeks from January 5, 1942, to July 24th, 1943, and did fail or neglect to pay unemployment insurance contributions in respect of the employment of the said Mrs. Lillian Pickford in the amount of $12.34, being 46 cents per week for the first period mentioned and in the amount of $41.31, being 51 cents per week for the second period mentioned, in each case within 72 hours after Saturday of each week respectively, the day on which wages became payable to the said Mrs. Lillian Pickford for the said periods, as required by the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940, and subsection 2 of Section 6 of the Regulations dealing with contributions approved by Order-in-Council P. C. 3581, dated May 23rd, 1941, as amended, and did thereby commit offences against the said Act, as regulations made thereunder."

St. John's Y.P.U. Meets

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —The topic, "Right or Wrong," taken by Miss Esma Cole, and presented in the form of a quizz formed an interesting feature of the weekly gathering of St. John's Y.P.U. Monday evening. Misses Connie McKelvie and Esma Cole were in charge of the meeting and they were assisted during the worship service by Miss Helen Keller. Miss Ruth Rutledge contributed a piano solo and encore to the program and the meeting concluded with games.

GIVEN REMAND.

COBOURG, Feb. 9 —(ENS) — Paul Eugene Laprade of Bowmanville, formerly of Quebec, was remanded until Friday of this week when he appeared in police court yesterday on a charge laid by Constable D. Herbert of the R. C. M. P. He was charged with failing to keep his divisional registrar informed of his change of address during the period of April 20, 1942, to January 20, 1944.

Family Court For Peterborough?

The suggestion has been made in several quarters that a Family Court would fill a want which has become apparent in our growing city. A Family Court is a place for the settlement of small differences and for the control of small offences, including those which are proper to a Juvenile Court; a Family Court, indeed, includes a Juvenile Court within itself.

* * *

The magistrate's court in a city of this size is a busy place, and it has not the time for disputes and charges which are, from a purely legal point of view, trivial. The local magistrate enjoys a high reputation and his court is distinguished for its scrupulous attention to matters of law and procedure. But he should not be burdened with cases which do not strictly come within his province, and which require a sociological, rather than a legal, solution. In a magistrate's court the charge must be definite, and someone must plead either Guilty or Not Guilty; but there are many cases in which guilt is either small, or about equally shared by plaintiff and defendant, and these cases need slow and patient unravelling. They are properly concluded by good advice, rather than by a sentence or a dismissal. They should not be added to the work of a busy magistrate. The proper place for them is a Family Court.

* * *

Disputes between husband and wife, cases of neglect to children, cases in which children are out-of-hand, cases of juvenile delinquency — these can all be handled in a Family Court and advice, caution, probation or commital to a corrective institution can be meted out there. These problems cause real distress, and they need careful arbitration by someone trained for the job. The formality and the legal machinery of a magistrate's court are ill-adapted to their nature.

* * *

A Family Court for Peterborough might be gained in one of two ways. The Council might apply to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to appoint a Judge for such a court in this city, and might recommend someone for that position; alternatively the County might choose to unite with another county, or two other counties, to maintain a judge for this work, and he could hold his court once a week or so in the principal towns of each county. Peterborough has not, as yet, enough work to keep a Family Court busy in this city, and so perhaps the second plan would be the more satisfactory one. But those who are most familiar with social conditions in this city think that a Family Court is needed here to deal with appropriate cases and we hope that steps will be taken to establish one. Many a case which goes to a Family Court stops there, and many a juvenile delinquent takes the advice which he receives in such a court to heart, and mends his ways. As things stand at present, he is not checked until he is ripe for the magistrate's court, by which time it may be too late to keep him from further serious trouble.

Taxation By Withholding

It has become commonplace to say that the war has forced many things upon us which we would never have accepted in peace. But the war is in its fifth year, and no one can say that the end is in sight yet; therefore we must be careful that the things which were forced upon us by war's exigencies do not become matters of habit. Efficiently simple as some of them are, they are undemocratic and dangerous.

A first-rate summing up of the dangers concealed in one of our wartime short-cuts to efficiency is given in the current issue of the New Yorker. This is what it says: "We have given about a year's thought to the withholding principle of taxation (not to be confused with the pay-as-you-go plan) and are now ready with our conclusion. Our belief is that withholding is a bad way to go about collecting tax money, even though the figures may show that it gets results. It is bad because it implies that the individual is incapable of handling his own affairs. The government as much as says: We know that, if left to your own devices, you will fritter away your wordly goods and tax day will catch you without cash. Or it says: We're not sure you'll come clean in your return, so we will just take the money before it reaches you and you will be saved the trouble and fuss of being honest. The implication is an unhealthy thing to spread around, being contrary to the old American theory that the individual is a very competent little guy indeed. The whole setup of our democratic government assumes that the citizen is bright, honest and at least as fundamentally sound as a common stock. If you start treating him as something less than that, you are going to get into deep water, in our opinion. The device of withholding tax money, which is clearly confiscatory, since the individual is not allowed to see, taste or touch a certain percentage of his wages, tacitly brands him as negligent or unthrifty or immature or incompetent or dishonest, or all of those things at once. There is, furthermore, a bad psychological effect in earning money which you never get your paws on. We believe this effect to be much stronger than the government realizes. At any rate, if the American individual is in truth incapable of paying his tax bill by himself, then he should certainly be regarded as incapable of voting all by himself, and the Secretary of the Treasury should accompany him into the booth to show him where to put the X".

We had better think over these words. The efficiency and ease of the present system of tax collection, in which the employer acts as unpaid tax-gatherer for the Government, and the employee works under a perpetual garnishee, may appeal so strongly to Ottawa that there will be a move to continue it indefinitely. The old, troublesome way, with the direct responsibility which it places on the individual, is healthier in the long run.

Simple Aid For Teeth

The Ontario Department of Health has been doing some research in the matter of tooth decay, testing a theory that the presence of fluorine and phosphorus in drinking water tends to check this evil. They now point out that people living in the Ripley district, near Kincardine, keep their teeth many years longer than most of us, and have remarkably few cavities. In Ripley fluorine and phosphorus are present in the normal water supply, and are thus consumed both by drinking and eating home-grown fruits and vegetables. The Department intends to investigate a district north of Belleville where a like condition is said to maintain.

If it can be conclusively shown that fluorine and phosphorus in the water supply check tooth decay it should be possible to put them in all water supplies, and presumably to give the coming generation good strong teeth. What an inestimable advantage that would be! The miseries of toothache, the painful hours with the dentist, and the ills which are attributable to decaying teeth could be avoided, and the acquirement of false teeth, which is a common necessity of middle age, would be rare. Let us hope that subsequent investigation will bear out what is already found, and that the next few years will see these valuable and harmless tooth-preservatives added to every supply of drinking water, as chlorine commonly is today.

NOTE AND COMMENT

What Canada really needs is a Blocbuster.

Perhaps money still talks, but we can't even bend an ear before the tax collector has ours.

The Winnipeg Tribune's idea of a supreme optimist is the man who says: "That will be a lesson to them".

A 12 years old girl in Cleveland has represented herself as being 19. She will go on doing that for at least another 18 years.

According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, conditions favourable to longevity are to be found in Greece and the Balkans. But not just at the moment.

A vegetarian who neither drinks nor smokes recently celebrated his 100th birthday in Oklahoma. It must have seemed much longer.

Newspaper wags all over Canada seem to be making jokes about women's hats these days. Frankly, we don't see anything wrong with the hats. Are we short-sighted, or can it be that our sense of humour has been dulled?

"I am utterly against any attack on youth", says the Bishop of Oregon; "because a girl dresses joyously she is not seeking to ruin men". That is a pleasant change from the gloomy tone which is common in discussing youth.

Education—But For What?

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

A GREAT number of people whose opinions must be respected feel that education during the twentieth century has been a failure; it has attempted to adjust itself to the general revolution taking place in the world, and it has not succeeded. Sometimes the failure is traced to a beginning in the nineteenth century, when education failed to come to grips with the industrial revolution; sometimes it is brought nearer to our own day, and placed in the 20's of this century. But the admission of failure is general. Has anyone been heard to declare that modern education really fits the young for life?

THE dispute about education has been more active in the United States than in Great Britain, and some of the discontent of our neighbours has crossed the border to Canada. In Britain the break with the medieval ideal of education has never been complete; in the U.S. the link with that ideal was always weak, and existed only in a few schools and universities on the east coast. More and more the opinion has grown that the lack of a medieval background has allowed American education to drift away from its true course and has allowed fads, vagaries, errors and license disguised as liberty to invade the universities, and to produce a large group of college-bred illiterates. The situation has been reached where the possession of a B.A., or an M.A., or even a Ph.D. does not necessarily imply the possession of a wide general culture or a mind well based on the wisdom of the past. Of what arts are these M.A.'s masters? Of what philosophy are the Ph.D.'s doctors? Can anyone answer both truthfully and proudly?

THESE are the problems which have produced Mark Van Doren's book "Liberal Education," which the Oxford Press has recently brought out. Van Doren's book is one which no educator should neglect, and it should be on the book-list also of all Boards of Educaiton. It is a very important book, and its importance will grow as the years pass. Van Doren goes to the root of the educational problem and discusses it in plain words; his style, in fact, is almost Emersonian; every sentence contains an idea, and every idea must be digested before passing on to the next one; he has compressed a great disquisition on a great subject into 178 pages, but there is more sense in them than in a shelf of ordinary books on education.

VAN DOREN'S idea of education is both great and simple; he thinks that it should fit the student to live the life of a free man. He does not hold with "education for democracy," though he thinks that everyone should have the same education and that the best; he does not hold with education "for" anything. The acquirement of specific skills is supplementary to education, not its chief end. Van Doren is only able to take this simple view because he is quite sure what he means by the word education; to him it means skill in reading, writing, reasoning and understanding combined with a careful study of great books which have shaped the world's thinking and served as a foundation for our civilization. He has no use for literary men who know nothing about science, or scientists who know nothing of poetry; he wants his historians to be versed in mathematics, and his physicists acquainted with religion: how else, he asks, can they really know anything? His idea of education is frankly medieval, but let no ardent champion of contemporaneity scorn him for that; the Middle Ages produced scholars in its universities who, narrow and foolish though they sometimes were, had a real body of knowledge stored in their heads; can we say the same? Van Doren's medievalism is considerably in advance of our time.

THE hope of democracy, says Van Doren, lies in truly Liberal Education. "Democracy wants millions of one-man revolutions, if only because the result might be a nation of persons worth organizing," he says in one place. And in another, "Democracy depends for its life upon the chance that every man will make all the judgments he can. When he falls short of that he gives his government another name. He is no longer at home in the republic of the mind, where, since thought is free and only merit makes one eminent, he is less than a slave." These are matters of the utmost concern today, but few people are debating them. Van Doren quotes Matthew Arnold as saying "Our society is probably destined to become more democratic; who or what will give a high tone to the nation then?" Surely it is the duty of democratic people to see that they do not create an era inferior in tone to an era of aristrocracy? Old as democracy is, the lesson has not yet been learned that freedom for every man brings heavy responsibility for every man, and that he must equip himself to carry his responsibility well. Truly Liberal Education, says Van Doren, will help him in his task all through life, and will teach him to face life, and death, like a man and not like a bewildered, bamboozled child.

Underground

Almost a fourth of the population of Belgium is actively engaged in the underground; the rest are passively doing what they can, according to the chief of the Belgian underground in America.

The underground works along military lines and if one command post is cut off another takes over, the Belgian chief explains. If one man dies there is another to take his place—"the flame never flickers; resistance never ceases."

"Of the armed force, I can assure you it is one of the best small armies in the world. By day, its members are farmers, tradesmen, teamsters. By night, they are mobile, well-equipped troops trained to strike with deadly speed and skill.... Nowhere in the world is there more implacable hatred for the Germans, more determined opposition to them, more intelligent organization to combat them.

"When the hour strikes, you may be confident that courageous Belgians will be waiting to lead your troops to the German strongholds, for every one is known and charted."—Don Eddy, in American Magazine.

The Capitalists

The "capitalist" is also receiving his share of criticism. Who are the capitalists? They are presumably men with money—men who by frugality and enterprise have been able to amass savings, in any quantity. In that event every man who holds a Victory Bond is a capitalist. He's a man who is building up a cash estate, either to extend his business interests at the opportune time, provide for his old age when his earning capacity may be impaired, or to leave a nice nest egg to the members of his family,—all worthy ambitions.—Chatham News.

PERHAPS JOE IS NOT IN A DIPLOMATIC MOOD —By Thomas

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

WHEAT FOR NEEDY LANDS

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—I notice that you quote a western contemporary (Lethbridge Herald, Alta.) as saying: "But when peace comes, we can only maintain Canadian people at work by producing what we can trade and sell. To the West that means wheat and pork, beef and coal, timber and salmon. Nature has provided that we can produce great surpluses of these commodities over what we use."

As you know, for a variety of causes, already the hog production scale across Canada is out of balance, with 65 out of every 100 of this year's hogs expected to come from western feed-troughs. When, or by what process, this sudden disparity—induced by war and crop failure—is likely to be corrected is beyond my economic knowledge. It may well be that our agricultural economy will never revert to its pre-war status?

Be that as it may, I like to think that one of the earliest effects to flow from "unconditional surrender" of today's foes, will take the form of an increasing tonnage of "world wheat" flowing from lands where it is plentiful to lands where it is scarce. If the United Nations really are determined to factualise the aims of the Atlantic Charter, i.e., giving "access on equal terms to the trade and raw materials of the world" to all nations, this should automatically widen and deepen this international wheat traffic? With universal "security", I see no reason why the populous small countries should continue to try to grow inferior breadgrain at between $2 and $3 per bushel—while far superior wheat is available from the big surplus producing countries at far lower valuations?

My understanding is that, under the terms of the International Wheat Agreement (the second effort!), Canada's quota of the total traffic in world wheat has been set at 40 per cent. In the last pre-war year, this vital traffic in the major cereal had been hammered down, by the fear of today's struggle, to 490 million bushels—as against 890 million bushels a decade earlier, i.e., in 1928. If we are all in earnest about a fairer and better-fed world, I see no reason why we should not aim at getting back, at least, to the 900-million-bushel mark? This would mean 360 million bushels from Canada!

These Weekly Editors

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE editor of the Northern News, published at Kirkland Lake, has had enough kidding. Every time he reads about the editor of a weekly newspaper the implication is always that to hold such a post is to live the quiet life of contemplation. To be truthful, we've always had that idea ourselves, hoping the day after tomorrow to retire and buy some small paper in the sticks and live happily ever after. It would be a healthy life, lots of fresh air by day and no interruptions in our lamp-lit study by night.

But this editor in Kirkland Lake says it's not so. He admits that we city fellers have to stand in line for street cars and hamburgers and beer, but he says our streamlined and frantic lives are nothing at all. We should try sometime, he says, "to put together one whole paper—just once a week."

"There are ads to solicit; any business man in this town knows you can't fix up an ad in a minute—especially with the war to discuss. News items don't whip up from nowhere: each one involves a phone-call or a chat. Copy must be sent up, which takes time, especially when subscribers drop in with a cheery word and perhaps a year's subscription in advance. Pages must be made up, the paper run off, folded and wrapped for mailing. That weekly deadline is far more ominous and relentless than any flashing light for a big-city press run.

"And all this doesn't take in the time involved in bookkeeping, bill-collection, fishing and hunting trips and other positive essentials."

Well, what do you make of that! Here's a man who thinks he's hard-pressed yet his diary-of-the-week says nothing about anything tougher than wrapping papers. Fact is this man's shirking his responsibilities to the world. Take our diary for one day, if you please. We are obliged to wrestle with Lord Halifax's pronouncement and give the world the truth; we have to write comprehensively and with erudition of the Government's plans for the postwar; our military reports have to be boiled down so that we can despatch our decisions to General Eisenhower on what he's to do tomorrow; there's a scolding we've got to give the Viceroy of India about that matter of the native populations that we looked into yesterday after supper; there are 200 unanswered letters in our basket which we must attend to by noon; and—well, you can see the man up in Kirkland Lake's a piker even if we don't mention what we do in the afternoon.

No, brother. You can't frighten us out of that paper-in-the-country dream. The honest sweat and toil of wrapping papers is a noble and rewarding occupation compared to the exhausting mental strain of having to run the universe from a seat in the Capital of this great nation.

Toronto Star and Excess Profits Tax

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IN its issue of Wednesday the 2nd, The Toronto Toronto heads its leading editorial, "Keep the Excess Profits Tax." We must confess that we rubbed our eyes when we read the heading and we rubbed them still harder when we read the article itself. We are forced to one of two conclusions: Either the writer of the article does not understand the present Excess Profits Tax Act, or else The Star is quite indifferent to the fate of those businesses which have found it a heavy burden.

The Toronto Star is a very wealthy organization. It is a large metropolitan newspaper with the largest circulation in Canada. Its profits have no doubt been huge for many years, and it has probably built up large resources. Other businesses have not been so fortunate.

The Excess Profits Tax Act is purely and simply a war measure and nothing else. We are glad to see the James Committee urges its elimination as soon as possible. To keep it in effect for any length of time after the war will probably mean the ruination of thousands of small businesses with resulting loss of opportunities for employment of labour. Where the tax does not bring actual ruin to a business, it will leave it without reserves with which to expand and thus provide employment.

The Act is, in our opinion, misnamed. It should have been called "The Regulation of Profits Act. The word "Excess" is misleading and enables The Star—the sudden convert to Socialism—to say "The very fact that profits are excessive—the word means beyond reason—is sufficient warrant for taxing them heavily." The facts are that the Government fixed profits arbitrarily at the average of the four years 1936-7-8 and 9. No matter whether the profits of a business were huge during those four years—as The Star's probably were—if they remain within the four-year average the owner of the business can still keep 80 per cent of them. If, on the other hand, a business was having a hard time—due to varying causes—during the four-year period and its profits were abnormally low, and if due to the war or good management or some other cause, they exceed the average of the four-year basic period, the Government takes 30 per cent of the average and 100 per cent of any profits above the average, keeping 80 per cent permanently.

In the meantime many businesses have been unable to set aside reserves for new machinery or other vital necessities of business. We are sure The Toronto Star would not have advocated keeping in effect such a punitive measure as the Excess Profits Tax Act during its early days when it was struggling for a foothold in a city of less than 200,000 against the competition of three morning newspapers and two other evening papers.

After the war there will be need for fairly heavy taxation if all the plans for rehabilitation and social security are put into effect. These needs can be met by the Income Tax and the Corporation Tax without the unequal Excess Profits Tax, which helps the big and the prosperous to keep down the little fellow.

A Bible Message

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily. And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power....

Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances, (touch not; taste not; handle not; which all are to perish with the using;) after the commandments and doctrines of man? (Col. 2: 8-10, 20-22.)

Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us: for thou also hast wrought all our works in us.

O Lord our God, other lords beside thee have had dominion over us: but by thee only will we make mention of thy name. (Isa. 26: 12, 13.)

No Need To Get Hysterical

We must rid ourselves of the type of thinking which shrugs off "atrocity stories" as "propaganda." At the same time we must avoid swinging to such futile emotional extremes as did one United States senator (formerly of the "anti-war" crowd) who cried hysterically that we must "bomb Japan out of existence" and "hang the Mikado." Even if Americans were disposed to exterminate the Japanese people, modern air bombing has not been developed to a point where massacre of 75 million persons is feasible—and we fail to see what would be attained by executing the cloistered figure-head, Hirohito, even if he were within hanging distance.

Let us make it clear to the Japanese now that Americans won't be satisfied with screaming, "Hang the Mikado"—and then forgetting. Every Japanese officer or soldier, connected in any way with the crimes against American and other Allied prisoners of war, must be punished with death or long imprisonment as a common criminal, if and when we lay hands on him. And plenty of such criminals will fall into our hands on the day of unconditional surrender.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

No More Seats On The Stage

David Garrick, who had set out for London from Litchfield, trudging along beside the great Sam Johnson in that endearing vignette of literary and artistic history, had, after vicissitudes, made a great success in Shakespeare's Richard III in London, in 1741.... After this success, Garrick had acted at Drury Lane, brilliantly from the point of view of contemporary taste, between 1742 and 1745. His management of Drury Lane from 1747 onward and the important reforms in stage structure and in the standards of acting belong to a different story from ours. Yet his influence upon the colonial stage is perfectly evident.

For one thing, he took a strong stand against the age-old custom of allowing the fashionable and privileged gentlemen to sit on the stage during the performance. It was a custom which, a hundred and fifty years earlier, had driven Shakespeare's great contemporary, Ben Jonson, to furious but unsuccessful protest. This reform of Garrick's seems to have been immediately in the American productions. For the recurrence on numbers of colonial playbills of the statement "no Person, on any Pretence whatever, can be admitted behind the scenes" is interpreted by authorities like Odell to mean the prohibition of seats upon the stage. An excuse for this prohibition in the colonies could be made because of the limitations of stage space. In a performance, for instance, of Garrick's own version of Romeo and Juliet in New York in the winter of 1762, the advertisement states that in order that Juliet's funeral procession may be conducted with "the necessary decorum, we must renew our application to the gentlemen, to give us the entire use of the stage." Thus Garrick's Drury Lane innovation echoes over-seas in the provincial little shows of our New World.—From "Shakespeare in America," by Esther Cloudman Dunn. (New York: Macmillan.)

The monthly meeting of the Scouters' Club will be held at the home of Skipper Groombridge, 296 Rogers Street, at 8 p.m. Wednesday. All officers are asked to attend.

Craft Show.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the Scout craft show will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at 296 Rogers Street prior to the Scouters' Club. Members please take notice.

Registration.

We are pleased to report that two more groups have completed their registration. St. George's 3rd Peterborough and Mark Street 13th Peterborough sent in all necessary papers

George Street.

The George Street Pack has found it necessary to change its meeting night from Wednesday to Tuesday at 6:30 from now on. At the last meeting Mrs. Charlton McBride, a member of the group committee, was present. During the evening several tests were passed and an investiture ceremony was held. At the investiture Jack Rolly and Dennis Bell added their names to the world-wide brotherhood of Scouting as they became Cubs. The following were successful with their tests: Claude Johnston, George Brotherstone, Bruce Sine, Lionel Althouse, passed time; C. Johnston, D. Bell, J. Rolly, Milton Lalonde, book balancing; B. Sine, Reginald Lashmar, D. Bell, James Morgan, hopping. During the week-end a friendly game of hockey was played between the George Street and St. Paul's Packs on the Aberdeen Street rink, with the former coming out victorious with the score 6 to 0.

St. James' Troop.

A banquet was held at Scouter Leggitt's home for the members of the Troop who were successful in selling Christmas greeting cards to the value of $10 or more in the 1943 season. The following qualified: Gordon Scriver, Gerald and Albert Bradley, Herbert Bray, Donald Floyd, Edward Cummings, Bill Harrison, Bob Ferguson, Ronald Palmer, Bill Sheppard, Cub Jack Mason and Cub Ronald Leggitt. Mr. Littlefair, chairman of the Group Committee, presented the boys with their registration cards, and Commissioner E. Wolfe presented Albert Bradley with the following proficiency badges, carpenter, basket worker, auto mechanics, and handyman. Following the business, Commissioner Wolfe entertained with one or two numbers on the piano, also played a duet with Cub R. Leggitt. At the progressive crokinole game in which all participated, Gerald Bradley and Bob Ferguson came out the winners. The ladies who assisted in the work of the banquet were Mesdames Cooke, Davis, Sr., Davis, Jr., Sheward, and Leggitt.

St. John's.

The Pack—32 Cubs played along the jungle path at the last meeting. The items for instruction were first-aid, knot tying, and tenderpad instruction. One or two new games and songs were taken up and arrangements for hockey were made for Saturday morning. The Cubs under Mr. Ferguson and Raksha are working at a new project and were very busy all Saturday afternoon in spite of the rain. Clarence James passed in knotting.

The Troop—Scouter Tom Speed of Vancouver Island again visited the Troop and assisted Scouter Ford in his work. This may be Tom's last visit as he expects to be transferred to another military centre during this week. Roy Fitzgerald and George Coros passed their compass tests during the evening. On Saturday some of the Scouts went on a hike with Scouter Speed, returning to town about 6 p.m. in a very damp condition, but with their zeal as high as ever.

St. John's Mothers' Auxiliary.

At the last meeting of the Auxiliary the request of the local committee in charge of the campaign to help equip the new naval craft named after our city, H.M.C.S. Peterborough, was taken up and a sum of money allocated to that work. Another $5.00 was donated to the B.P. Chins Up Fund.

Sacred Heart Mothers' Auxiliary.

The February business meeting of the Sacred Heart Scout Group Mothers' Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneally on Tuesday last. Mrs. Freeman occupied the chair and conducted the meeting. Reports were received from the following committees, Mrs. Grady Quilt Committee, Mrs. Kenneally Social Committee, and also from the secretary-treasurer.

In response to the appeal of the Red Cross for supplies for the housewives for the corvette Peterborough, it was decided that the Auxiliary donate the items for five of these articles. The Group Committee and the leaders of the Cubs and Scouts will be invited to attend the next business meeting, which will be held on March 7. Mrs. O'Rourke offered her home for this date. The repeating of the mothers' promise brought the meeting to a close. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Boy's Helmet Found.

The Cub who lost his headwear at the recent showing of pictures at the Murray Street headquarters can obtain same by calling 3067.

Attention, Group Committees.

A meeting of Group Committee members will be held during B.P. Week, probably Wednesday 23. Please reserve that date. Refreshments will be served.

2nd Armour.

Hewitt Hamilton led the Pack in the opening grand howl. Relays of law, promise and Union Jack were played. Akela instructed the Pack on knots and the uses. Kenneth Pammett, Peter and Hugh Rose received their white neckerchiefs. Doug Britnell was made seconder, and received his armlet. A competition medal will be given to the six for the most points per month starting next Tuesday. Sixers and Seconders will have to be on the alert and get the full attendance in their sixes.

8th Wolf Cub Pack.

The regular meeting of the 8th Peterborough Pack took place in St. Andrew's Sunday School. A new chum, Ronald Edwards, was welcomed into the Pack. The Red Six have the best record for attendance and dues for the month of January. The following Cubs have a perfect record of attendance: Sixer Robert Hutchinson, Grant Reader, Lang Thompson, Grant Harrison, Howard Harrison, Sixer Greer Elcome, Robert Reader, Fred Russell, and Don Sisson. The following is the standing in the inter-six competition: Green Wolves 425 bones, Tawny Wolves 420 bones, and the Red Wolves 380 bones. The meeting closed with the grand howl, led by Sixer Bill Friskin, and a prayer by Dr. Young followed by the National Anthem.

Herbert Tucker Heads Phone Co.

APSLEY, Feb. 9 — (ENS) — The annual meeting of the Apsley Telephone System was held in the Public Library, with John Tucker chairman for the meeting and B. Lean secretary. The auditor, Mrs. A. T. Staples, read the auditor's report, which showed a balance of $119.90 in the bank and the company in good standing. A great deal of improvement has been made on the line this year and four new telephones were installed.

Directors elected for 1944 are: John Tucker, Joseph Tucker, Wellington Lean, Albert Hall, Herbert Tucker. Directors met at the conclusion of the annual meeting and appointed: President, Herbert Tucker; vice-president, John Tucker; secretary - treasurer, Wellington Lean; auditor, Mrs. A. T. Staples; lineman, Albert Hall.

Special Service.

A father and son service was held in the United Church on Sunday evening. Max Smith presided at the organ and a full choir of men and boys led the service of song and rendered an anthem "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Wilbert Johnson sang two solos, "On Calvary's Brow" and "Softly and tenderly." N. Wilson read as the lesson the parable of the Prodigal Son and Mr. Robb gave a splendid address on "The Boy Who Came Back" based on the parable. Dan Whitmore and Jack Tucker took up the offering.

Slides Shown.

Lantern slides "Scenes from the Mediterranean," were shown on Saturday night in the United Church, but owning to the rain, sickness and several meetings there was a very small attendance.

Personals.

Mrs. W. Everett has returned from a two-day stay in Lakefield and Peterborough.

Miss Doris McColl of Lasswade is able to be out again after her sickness.

Mrs. H. Washburn of Peterborough is visiting her father and sister, Neil Whitmore and Eva Whitmore.

Mrs. Syd McCauley of Oshawa is visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs. Dan Whitmore.

TAMBLYN Talks 'Good Grooming'

In these days of "Rations and Ceilings" it is well to remember that there is still no "Rationing" on "Good Grooming" which may today, as always, be attained at a minimum of cost and effort and with similar results—the payment of large dividends. It is a fact that the very knowledge that our appearance is correct, tends mightily to add to the confidence with which we daily confront the various problems that arise. Yes, regardless of the nature or scope of the work in which we are engaged, it is highly important that rather than become the victims of a self-imposed "Ceiling" on our morale, we take full advantage of the added assurance that may be gained by the more rigid attention to our personal appearance. So may we suggest a visit to your nearest Tamblyn Store where you will find for your selection a most complete assortment of the necessary "Toilet Requisites" for both sexes, many of which are included in this list of

Landis Invites 6 Staff Sergeants

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—All it will cost five army sergeants to witness the 1944 world series eight months hence is their sixth sense.

They will be the guests of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's 77-year-old commissioner. They wrote Landis that their "sixth sense" told them they would be back to attend the fall classic. The sergeants, presumably fighting overseas, advised Landis they would like to have the honor of being the first holders of tickets for the 1944 series games "no matter where played," and in so doing would be made "very happy."

Landis said he did not know where the soldiers were stationed, where their homes were or anything concerning their background. They merely signed their letter: "S-Sgt. Rodney N. Lewis, S-Sgt. Philip H. Candiloro, S-Sgt. James C. Putnam, S-Sgt. Eisl G. McFillen, S-Sgt. Steve J. Nester."

Landis sent them a letter, saying: "More power to your sixth sense. You have a date with me at the 1944 world series Contact with me in time. We will see the ball games together."

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Although reduced by war conditions to three teams the City Basketball League at the Y.M.C.A. has been organized for the season and the schedule will get under way with a game on Saturday night. The three teams who awill compete for the Chester Kemp Memorial this season are the C.G.E. outfit led by Joe Stewart, the Orphans skippered by Pete McArthur and Tony McIlveeen's Soldier team from the Military Training Centre. It has been hoped that the senior team of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Training School would have entered and rounded out the league into a four-club loop but the decision of the school management has been against such move and accordingly the City League will operate with three teams, the smallest roster in its history. C.G.E. sparked by Stewart and Harry Currie will be strong while the McArthur team will probably have Baird, Jim Ferguson, Steve Csumrik and other players in line and ready to give the Electricians a real battle in the opening contest Saturday and all through the schedule. Little is known as to the strength of the Soldiers. The Camp outfit has lost some of the players who were with the team in the House League but the gaps may have been filled in by recent arrivals.

There seems to be no end of battling behemoths for the wrestling jousts around the country judging by the number of new arrivals in Canada recently of big and powerful birds from across the border. One of these is the Pacific Coast heavyweight champion big Frank Sexton who was to have battled Dick Hogan here last night. Another is the huge Vic Holbrook who was recently discharged from an American commando unit and who returned to the wrestling game as soon as he was out of uniform. Holbrook showed his wares in Peterborough last night for the first time, after cleaning up a series of bouts on the Pacific Coast. He is one of the biggest of the mat giants, weighing 250 pounds and standing six feet five inches and can move plenty fast. And then the well-known Strangler Bob Wagner has returned to the wrestling wars on this side of the line. A few years ago he used to be one of the best known villains in the mat game and could arouse the ire of patrons at the Maple Leaf Gardens and in Montreal as few bad men ever succeeded in doing. Wagner has wrestled all over the world and since the war broke out has been travelling up and down both sides of North and South America.

Looking After The Kids

The manner in which minor hockey is being promoted in Oshawa is clear from this paragraph from George Campbell's Oshawa sport column: "Oshawa 'City League' officials can be proud of their 12-team hockey organization again this winter. Every Thursday night they hold forth and puck fans who take in these games are never disappointed. The youngsters give everything they have and their ability is encouraging. Right now there are several prospects in the Bantam, Midget and Juvenile ranks who are showing that with just a little more experience, they'll be ready to try for a place on the Generals' line-up within a year or two.. With only one exception, the three groups are each formed of 4 well-balanced teams. Kinsmen Bantams, who have yet to be scored upon in 5 games, are the exception. Through the luck of the draw, they obtained several outstanding players and are running away with the Bantam competition. Oshawa Hockey Club officials would do well to look these games over. In the 6 games played on Thursday of this week, 8 goal-minders registered perfect shutout performances. There were two scoreless draws and 4 other games were all "shutout" victories. Young Reddoch, a Midget with Kinloch's is also filling in as a goalie for Oshawa Laundry Juveniles and he had a shutout to his credit in both games Thursday night. And, oh, yes, by the way—the 'City League' players and officials didn't like the idea of having to play in slush and near-water on Thursday night. After all, we do have an artificial ice arena here and and the players should have good ice."

* * * * * *

There is evidently plenty of hockey material in the R.C.A.F. in the Belleville district. Ken Colling has the following to say about the talent playing with Mountain View Bombers and 6 R.D. teams: "At the head of the Bombers is Sergt. "Dutch" Cain formerly with the Montreal Maroons in the N.H.L. Cain has such puck celebrities as Pat McReavey, ex-Boston Bruin starlett, Lou Boudreaux, last year with the Quebec Aces, Aube from the Montreal Royals, the veteran Dan Cowley, who is the steadying influence with the Bombers and other former senior players to toss in against Flight Sergt. Dickens' second place Repair Depot sextette. The "Six-Ardee" pucksters haven't lost a start and added to their prowess by holding Coach Padre Maika's strong Trenton team to a one-all draw. Although they do not boast of any former pros, or individual stars, Coach Dickens' Repair lads have team work and play together as a unit. These Air Force games are attracting larger crowds each Monday and Thursday night and tonight's Bomber-Repair Depot game should give the fans something to shout about. This is the style of hockey the fans like, all out and no quarter asked or expected."

Another Storm Brewing

Judging from the following comment by Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal more trouble is still brewing over Army participation: "Commandos lost the services of another couple of players on Saturday night through a ruling by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Art Seafred and Doug. Calhoun, two players from the Toronto Industrial League, were warned not to play with the Ottawa Quebec League team on Saturday night under threat of suspension by the C.A.H.A., and the resulting squabble is certain to draw the attention of National Defence authorities to the unique situation of an Army team competing in organized hockey these days. There's nothing like one of these player squabbles to bring a few hitherto beclouded facts into the open. It now seems officially admitted that the "Toronto Hockey League," a flourishing loop embracing Maher Shoe, People's, Tip-Tops and Royal Canadian Army Service Shamrocks, comes under the heading of organized hockey, controlled by the C.A.H.A. Ottawa club officials feel there has been an oversight in permitting the Toronto Army team to compete this long while contravening the National Defence ruling barring Army teams and players from leagues other than garrison loops. This rule has been made abundantly clear in a series of army hockey bulletins, and leagues all across the Dominion have been broken up as a result. The latest breach was first brought indirectly to the attention of Army authorities by Toronto papers. The disclosure was made shortly after the Ottawa Club, in search for a few players to fill up ranks depleted by the Army ruling, picked up Seafred

RANGERS SCORE — New York's downtrodden Rangers managed to hold the Chicago Black Hawks to a 4 to 4 tie in a National Hockey League game February 6, on Madison Square Garden ice. One of the Rangers' four points is shown being made here, with Bob Dill shoving the puck in the net in spite of the efforts of Goalie Karakas of the Hawks, who goes to ice in vain attempt at making a save.

Krippler Karl Davis Loses To Whipper Billy Watson

It was a tense struggle. Davis, as always fought ferociously and gave the people's choice some bad moments. There were times, indeed, when it loked as if the popular favorite was due for a shellacking for the Texan turned it on whenever he got a chance and carried the fight to the champ repeatedly. But Watson took all that the big battler from south of the border handed out and had enough left to win decisively. Needless to say the victory met with general approval.

The first fall took 22 minutes and there was plenty of lively action before Davis broke in front by tossing the champion. For the first few minutes the two tested each other with arm holds in which the honors were even. Then Davis began tossing in rabbit punches and elbow smashes and Watson returned the compliment. The Whip had the better of that exchange. Minute after minute the two big fellows tried all their wrestling lore on each other and neither had much of an edge. Finally however Davis cut loose with a barrage of punches and after he had softened up the champ quickly applied his punishing toe hold and took the fall with it.

Puts On Pressure

The Texan had the edge in the early stages of the second round and for a while it did not look as if Watson was going to weather the storm, especially when he was tossed out of the ring. But he came back fighting and for the next few minutes Davis must have thought that he had been tossed in with an infuriated tiger. The Whip, working at top speed, concentrated on the Texan's left arm. First he punished it with a wrist lock, then he hammered it with a series of punches and cracked the arm over the top strand of the ropes. Keeping up the pressure he twice flipped big Davis to the mat with the whip, applied with plenty of power. The Texan was almost ready for the cleaners after the second one and it was an easy matter for Watson to clamp on the commando hold and it was all over. After it had been applied for a few second Davis sagged to the mat, out cold. The fall took 12 minutes.

However the big boy from the south revived quickly and he was still full of battle when the last round started. In fact he tore at Watson like a wild man and soon had the champ in difficulties. The crowd complained that the Texan was using the tape on his hand to rub across Watson's eye. Whatever he was using gave the Whip a lot of trouble but Watson rode out the storm and then returned to the attack. He finally got his chance to slap on the commando again and Davis, standing on the apron of the ring in an attempt to break the famous grip, was counted out by Referee Bert Maxwell. As the count finished Watson pushed the helpless Texan off the platform altogether and then jumped high in the air to show his joy over the downfall of the tough boy from down yonder. The fall was greeted by wild cheers from the fans.

Davis had taken quite a ride from the crowd and at one stage a woman fans attacked him with a pin.

A New Sensation

Owing to the fact that Frank Sexton failed to make train connections at Toronto last night's crowd got an opportunity to see one of the wrestling game's new sensations in the person of Vic Holbrook, big blond bomber from the Pacific Coast who stands six feet five inches, tips the scales at 250 pounds and formerly played football for the University of California Holbrook substituted for Sexton in the semi-final against Roughouse Dick Hogan and the mustached bad man failed to enjoy the shift. The Housepainter didn't carry enough armament for a battler as big and fast as Holbrook proved to be but he went down fighting. In fact he tried every form of skullduggery in his repertoire but the blond giant had an answer for them all. Finally after 22 minutes he got a chance to engulf Hogan in a hold that was new to Peterborough fans, a punishing grip in which the general idea is to bend your opponent into something resembling a pretzel. He applied it with so much gusto that the Housepainter was glad to concede the fall to avoid further punishment.

Al Bunny Dunlop and Irish Pat Flanagan, two boys who would rather wrestle than eat and thereby different from a lot of the mat artists who only wrestle because they want to eat clashed in the opening battle and the two Toronto grapplemen staged one of the liveliest affairs of the season. They tossed in all kinds of rough tactics and in between did some wrestling too and the result

Joe Louis continued his uninterrupted reign as the world's heavyweight boxing champion four years ago tonight by defeating Arturo Godoy of Chile in a 15-round bout at New York. A crowd of 15,567 saw the South American boxer give a good account of himself before Louis turned on the heat to gain the judge's decision.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 — (AP). — Speaking of baseball, as a lot of folks have been lately, Lieut. James L. Bates of Winston-Salem, N.C., tells this story....About a year ago six American merchant ships went to Murmansk on a "four-month" trip that was stretched to eight months when convoys to the north Russian port were temporarily discontinued....To pass the time they formed the "White Sea Baseball League" with six teams of navy armed guard gunners and merchant seamen....The gunners fashioned bats out of timber found on the docks, made baseballs of cores from old rubber boots, yarn from old sox and sweaters and covers from discarded shoes and used hot shellmen's asbestos gloves for mitts.... They even played night games by the light of the midnight sun..... Wonder what those guys think about the rigors of northern training?

Names in names:

The American Falls, Idaho, high school basketball team is called the "Damsiters"—because there's a big dam near the town on the Snake River....And Teaneck, N.J., High (one of the few which considers wrestling an important sport) tabs its team's the "Highwaymen" because a six-lane road passes the big red schoolhouse....Opponents of the Fort Bragg, N.C., soldier courtmen have tabbed them the "Braggarts."

30 Top Horses Saved In Barrie Fire

BARRIE, Feb. 9. — Thirty thoroughbreds, including the noted stallions Archworth and Worthmore, a number of mares in foal, and a number of young stock were saved in a spectacular blaze last night which burned for hours in stables on the stock farm of W. H. Wright, one of Canada's leading breeders.

A two-day-old colt foal lost his life when rescuers were unable to get through the flames and smoke to its burning stall. The dam of the young foal was saved. The Wright farm, formerly the Brookdale farm of the late Simon Dyment, is one of the landmarks of the district west of Barrie.

The fire broke out, it is believed, in the west end of the south barn. Flames were shooting high and the reflection lit up the surrounding countryside. Many volunteers rushed to the farm to assist the Barrie Fire Brigade and farm employees in getting he stock from the burning buildings.

The firefighters succeeded in preventing the flames from reaching the east barn in which 13 mares in foal were stabled. The stallion barn at the north in which Archworth, King's Plate winner, his illustrious sire Worthmore, and the young sire Mark Cowell, were stabled, was reported saved. One section of the stallion barn caught fire from sparks which rocketed in all directions and dropped on snow-covered roofs. This fire was put out. Firefighters said it was fortunate there was no wind or all the barns might have been levelled.

Fourteen head of young stock, including the first get of Archworth, were stabled in the section of the barn where the outbreak is believed to have originated. Stablemen and their volunteer assistants fought their way into the barns to open stall doors and lead these young thoroughbreds to safety. The yearlings and two work horses were turned loose in one of the spacious paddocks.

The stallions, Archworth, Worthmore and Mark Cowell, were led to barns on nearby farms. A number of mares expected to foal shortly, were vanned to Thornhill. The brood mares were led from their stalls as a precautionary measure after all of the horses had been rescued. The imported stallion Playtime II. was not on the farm.

Seventy-one years ago, the farm was the scene of the running of the Queen's Plate, now the King's Plate. Mignonette, owned by R. R. Pringle, was the winner of the race.

Boston Blanks Canadiens 3-0

By The Canadian Press.

Montreal Canadiens moved on from Boston to Toronto to-day for the second stop on a two-week circuit away from home ice, with Coach Dick Irvin confronted with the problem of what to do about Canadien cast-offs who occasionally rise to haunt the league-leaders.

The Canucks will be facing one of those problems in Toronto on Saturday night when they test the former Canadien Paul Bibeault in the Maple Leaf nets. They faced another here last night in the person of Bert Gardiner of the Bruins who rose to the heights to administer a 3-0 shutout.

It was the second shut-out of the season for the Canadiens, both at the hands of former Canadien goalies. Bibeault turned the trick the first time in Toronto January 11. Gardiner's feat last night gave them their fourth reverse of the season, and lifted the Bruins into a tie for fourth place in the standings.

The Bruins were full value for their win last night, presenting a defensive wall the Canadiens could not pierce and unleashing an attacking drive that brought results once they recovered from a bit of unsteadiness early in the game.

Buzz Boll led the Bruin attack with a couple of third-period goals that sewed up the game after Boston had held grimly to a 1-0 lead given them by Rookie Russ Kopak late in the first period.

Lowly Sailors Upset Hamilton Team

By The Canadian Press.

The trailing Toronto Tars of the Senior O.H.A. series uncorked one of the season's surprises last night at Hamilton in handing the Majors a 6-5 setback in overtime, thus enabling St. Catharines Saints to continue with a three-point lead in the race. Doug Runions tied up the game in the closing stages of regular time, making the count 4-4 but Navy came through with two goals to Hamilton's one in the extra session.

Livingstone was pacemaker for the Sailors with three goals and the other scores were distributed among Laycoe, Barlow, Benson and Cameron, the latter securing the winning tally in 7.21 of extra play. Shillington led Hamilton scorers with two counters, while Robertson, Conick and Runions had singles.

In the Junior A series, Oshawa Generals registered an easy 10-2 victory over Young Rangers at Toronto for their 19th victory of the season, but did not increase their lead of four points over St. Michael's in Group 1 because the Toronto Collegians took the measure of Falcons 6-2 in the Students' first appearance on St. Catharines ice. Brantford Lions, at home to Galt, administered a 5-2 defeat to the Kists. The net result was St. Catharines, despite last night's loss, continued to hold top position over Galt in Group 2 by a two-point margin.

The outstanding junior display of the night was the first-goal performance by Smith of Oshawa Generals, with Ezinicki and Love running in two goals apiece against Toronto Young Rangers. Jimmy Sadler of St. Mike's was the scoring star in the encounter at St. Catharines, being the only player on the ice to register two tallies. In the Brantford-Galt affair, Evanchen of the Lions was the only two-goal performer. Incidentally, Lions, in the bottom spot in Group ., came from behind to take the verdict from the Kists after Podolsky scored the only counter of the initial period.

Barons Defeat Hershey Bears

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons extended their lead on first place in the American Hockey League to seven points last night by defeating second-place Hershey Bears 5-4.

It was their 11th straight victory for the league leaders who have not lost a game since they became head of the league about two months ago.

Bears, the high-lined team until Barons took over, have lost their 10th game in 39 starts. They tied six others. Cleveland has chalked up 27 victories and five draws in the same number of starts.

However, Hershey remains the pace-setter in the eastern division of the league.

Pete Horeck scord two of the Barons goals last night and Phil Hergesheimer, Tommy Burlington, and Lou Trudel shot the others.

Billie Hudson, Hec Pozzo, Drummond and Billy Moe tallied for the Bears.

Plaza Billiards Beat Lakefield

Plaza Billiards defeated the Lakefield team, Monday night, by 7 to 3 in a game in which the heavier Peterborough team had the edge all the way. Only the good work of Edgar in the Lakefield nets saved the score from going into double figures.

Carpenter and Conway each scored two goals for the winners and Neiman, Kennedy and McDougall each registered once.

The three Lakefield counters were scored by Hopkins, Montgomery and Henry.

The two teams are matched to meet again in Lakefield on February 17.

Plaza Billiards: Goal—Dorsett, defence, Wade, Brockley; centre, Carpenter; wings, Conway and Kennedy. Alternates: Neiman, McDougall, Daly, Menzies, Outram, Lipsett.

Lakefield: — Goal, Edgar; defence, Wasson, Northey; centre, Twist; wings, Loyst, Henry. Alternates: Trude, Hopkins, Carveth, Jewell and Montgomery.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Herbie Cain, Boston, captured sole possession of first place on the National Hockey League's high-scoring list last night when Bruins whipped Montreal Canadiens 3-0. The veteran left winger assisted in two of the goals to put himself two points ahead of Toronto's Lorne Carr.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 9 —(CP)—The war's favorable progress has inspired British sports promoters to do some long-range forecasting on hockey's international possibilities.

The enthusiasts are Air Commodore A. C. Critchley, Calgarian whose success in England is measured in cement manufacture and promotion of greyhound racing and ice hockey, and Arthur Elvin, managing director of Wembley Stadium in London. Both anticipate hockey will become a major sport in the United Kingdom's post-war era.

Importation of Canadian players will be necessary to rebuild the English league but Critchley has plans to make the league self-sustaining. He hopes to establish leagues comprising the United Kingdom's smaller centres. At first it is likely these leagues will need financial help from profits of the major circuit but Critchley expects them to pay for themselves in time.

Obviously, with rinks available in these smaller centres, English players would be developed to feed the major league.

Elvin has even more ambitious plans. "I am looking forward to an early post-war day when an international ice hockey league is formed, including Canadian, American and English teams," he says. "Modern air transport will make such a league simple. There will also be a British league with Scotland and the English provinces joining up with the London clubs."

Elvin was probably sober, too, when he made that statement. Other hockey authorities, nobably managing director Red Dutton of the National Hockey League, have envisioned trans-Atlantic hockey leagues made possible by air travel.

Bill Entwhistle, the Toronto Star's authority on British sport, has this comment on Elvin's ideas: "We'd say if N.H.L. hockey was put in London, Glasgow, Birmingham and Manchester that's about all you could expect at N.H.L. prices. London could take care of the south of England, Birmingham the Midlands; Manchester would take care of Lancashire and Yorkshire; Glasgow would have all of Scotland's loose bawbees."

Whatever happens overseas, it is certain there will be considerable hockey in Europe after the war and Canadian players will be in great demand for some years. Rapid hockey expansion in Canada and United States is also a certainty. To complicate the situation, the supply of players will not be great for a year or two after the war because enlistments have to some extent hindered development of juniors.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Following the recent proposal by President Ray Dumont of the National Basball Congress that players be permitted to run the bases backwards (to third base) if they wished after making a hit, a number of freak suggestions have developed for the alleged improvement of playing codes. Yesterday, Lieut. George Wells of Fort Lewis, Wash., a former college basketball coach, advanced the theory basketball would be speeded up if teams were permitted to shoot at either basket. He also suggested the addition of a sixth man to the team.

Coach Joe Dienhart of Purdue University also suggested yesterday that five personal fouls be allowed in a basketball game instead of four. He would give a player three fouls in the first half and two more in the second period before being chased from the floor.

Businessmen said to be identified with the Seattle baseball club of the Pacific Coast League have purchased the Vancouver Athletic Park, a baseball and soccer stadium, it was announced yesterday at Vancouver, B.C.

Although he may have difficulty making the weight, Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N.J., rules an 8 to 5 favorite for his 10-round lightweight bout with Lulu Constantino of New York at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Bill Dickey, veteran catcher of the New York Yankees, has signed his 17th annual contract, it was announced last night by President Ed Barrow, the reported salary being $20,000. Dickey's hits were credited with clinching the American League pennant and subsequent victory over St. Louis Cardinals in the world series last season.

French Retires

Oliver French, with the St. Louis Cardinals' chain for 15 years, announced his retirement as president of the Rochester Red Wings March 1 to enter private business in his home town of Charlestown, Mo., He had been with the Rochester club since 1936.

Harold (Red) Grange, galloping ghost of the University of Illinois grid team a generation ago, at Chicago yesterday named Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota and Chicago Bears as the greatest of all football stars and gave his No. 1 choice of grid coach as Bob Zuppke of Illinois.

War Cost Bill For 1944-45 Tops 3 Billions

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — (CP). — Two divisions are in prospect for the House of Commons to-day and, with adoption of the Address in reply to the Throne Speech, Finance Minister Ilsley is expected to submit a statement giving details of the $3,650,000,000 War Appropriation Bill for 1944-45.

Last night the House defeated by a vote of 173 to 20 a C.C.F. sub-amendment to the Address which said the Government had failed to take the necessary fundamental steps to ensure a full program of social security.

Immediately after the vote J. S. Roy (Ind.-Gaspe) moved a new sub-amendment stating the Government had failed to limit Canada's war participation to the promises made by Government leaders in 1939, assert Canada's partnership in Allied conferences provide public to meet existing unemployment or grant exemption from military service to fishermen and farmers.

Just before adjournment at 11 p.m., Maurice Lalonde (T.-Labelle) said he believed Mr. Roy's motion was out of order. Discussion will continue to-day.

After Mr. Roy's sub-amendment has been dealt with, the House will turn to the Progressive Conservative amendment which claims the Government has failed to make adequate provision for service men and women on demobilization, provide adequate measures to aid agriculture, establish a suitable national code for labor, or lessen "bureaucratic controls."

In the division on the C.C.F. sub-amendment, Progressive Conservative and Bloc Populaire members voted with the Government, the New Democratic and C.C.F. groups against it.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D.-MacLeod), had a brisk exchange with M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader. He said he protested Mr. Coldwell going into Alberta and saying the New Democracy group was the weakest in the House. Mr. Coldwell had been wrong several times in the past—for instance, when he had said no men should be sent overseas in the war.

Mr. Hansell said Mr. Coldwell had supported the Progressive Conservatives in demanding a statement on the retirement of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Army commander overseas.

"Let me say that if this country had listened to my friend there would have been no Gen. McNaughton over in England in the first place," Mr. Hansell said.

Prefers Tim Buck.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation had given more publicity to the C.C.F. group than to other House parties rolled into one.

The New Democracy members had tried to work with the C.C.F., said Mr. Hansell.

"Someone has said that maybe Tim Buck will be their adviser," he added.

"Maybe he will, eventually; I do not know. But I will say this: I am not a Socialist. I am not a Communist—but if ever I were one I would rather follow Tim Buck than the member for Rosetown-Biggar (Mr. Coldwell).

"Tim Buck makes no bones about it. He tells you what he means."

Mr. Gladstone said there was need for restoring confidence in Parliament as an institution for safeguarding equality of rights and equality of opportunity for all.

Speeches Ill-Timed.

Members had freedom in theory but not in practice because of the party system, said Mr. Gladstone. There should be a new system under which defeat of a Government measure would not mean defeat of the Government. The question of confidence or non-confidence in the Government should be decided by another vote.

Mr. Gladstone said speeches in the House often were ill-prepared, irrelevant and wasteful of time.

Procedure in House committees should be widened to allow the study of departmental administration, giving parliament greater authority over expenditures.

The Civil Service system should be revised to give better recognition of merit and deal more effectively with incompetence.

Senate reform was being called for, said Mr. Gladstone. Senators of all parties should take the lead in organizing themselves into a non-partisan group to give greater service to Canada.

Agriculture had become a scientific, mechanized industry, and agricultural colleges must be financed more generously. Farm prices must be scaled upwards, he said.

"Our prisons are becoming comfortable hiding places for those who would escape military service," said Mr. Gladstone. These men should be put to work on the farms, in the forests, or in the mines.

He said the public is becoming critical of over-staffing of the armed services with officers and that many men in the Reserve Army now considered their training futile. Whatever steps were taken to maintain a permanent defence organization after the war, it should not be permitted to develop into a costly military aristocracy.

In the post-war period, finance and business should not be permitted to develop monopolies by interlocking directorates or in other ways, said Mr. Gladstone.

Gestapo Group

Mr. Johnston said National Selective Service was a "Gestapo" organization in the way it ordered men to certain jobs when they could serve better elsewhere.

Mr. Knowles said his party was skeptical about anything being done by the Liberal Government on the social credit security program forecast in the Throne speech. Nearly 2,000,000 jobs would be required by Canadians after the war and concrete steps should be taken now to meet the basic requirement.

Mr. Bourget said he hopes the government will not place any restrictions on the number of children in a family who may benefit from payment of family allowances.

Uncle Billy Hassell

Girls and boys and their Mothers and Fathers will welcome the glad news that Uncle Billy Hassell, considered by thousands to be the outstanding radio personality in Western Canada, is to broadcast in person from CJBC.

In a partnership with the "Daily Province" British Columbia's largest newspaper, Mr. Hassell ran radio station CKCD for sixteen years. His work in the interest of his fellow man was so interesting—colorful and successful that it became an institution in that city. Many people said they would rather listen to his broadcasts than anything they received during the year. Of him G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P., then Mayor of Vancouver said:

"Soon after the start of the war Mr. Hassell sold his radio interests and retired for — two months. Then bursting with inactivity and longing to get back into the battle, he decided to write and tell stories for girls and boys. Realizing the urgent need for a broadcast that would be clean, wholesome and constructive—and having five girls and boys of his own, he fully realized how urgently Young Canadians needed an ethical education and decided to weave the great fundamentals of truth, right, justice, co-operation, loyalty and all the other great constructive laws into stories so that girls and boys would fully understand them and clearly realize their vital importance. For ten months Uncle Billy wrote and told his stories from CKWX without remuneration of any kind. He was so successful that his audience and mail amazed the sceptics and exceeded that of the largest shows. He has received 70,000 letters in appreciation of his stories in Vancouver alone—"

Another—"As a story teller Uncle Billy is supreme — the whole family listens spell bound."

Mr. Hassell brings us an all-Canadian broadcast that has competed successfully with the best produced anywhere. One that is clean, wholesome and constructive. Listen to this great raconteur . . .

Nazis Reported Using New Shell

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9 — (AP) — Another alleged German "secret weapon"—a rocket shell covering the target with a blanket of heavy gas ignited by an incendiary bomb —was described to-day in a Zurich dispatch to the Dagens Nyheter.

The dispatch, quoting a technical expert living in Germany, said the shell could be fired from a rocket gun at great distance and the gas, inflammable but not poisonous, would be touched off by a fire-bomb dropped by plane.

The story said the weapon had been used on a limited scale against the Russians at Sevastopol, but gave no indication of its effectiveness.

The same expert described a compressed air rocket gun supposedly capable of firing 1,000-pound shells containing booster charges exploding at certain altitude to give the projectile additional range. He said the Nazis intended to use them to bombard London and the other English towns.

Norway Quislings Will Desert Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9 (AP) — The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter said to-day that Quisling SS troops in Norway are reported ready to aid any Allied invasion of Norway. It estimated total Quisling troops at 4,500.

It is common gossip tnat members of Quisling's Hird (Norway's Nazi-sponsored SS Legion) plan to kill their leaders and go over to the invaders when and if they land, said the newspaper. An article reviewing latest advices from Norway asserted the morale of the Norwegian SS has been dented sharply by reports that the German-sponsored Scandinavian "Viking" Panzer Division has been encircled by the Russians in the Ukraine. There were believed to be about 800 Norwegians in the division, which also was made up of Danes, some Finns, and Netherlanders.

Premier King Denies McNaughton Story

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 —(CP) —Prime Minister King yesterday termed "pure invention" a report published in Ottawa that Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, was likely to be taken into the Federal cabinet as Minister of Reconstruction.

Asked if it was likely Gen. McNaughton might be taken into the cabinet later, the Prime Minister shook his head and said that "nothing like that is being considered."

Winch Changes Views In Legislature

VICTORIA, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Premier Hart, speaking yesterday in the Throne Speech debate in the British Columbia Legislature, expressed surprise at the "change of attitude" adopted by Harold Winch C.C.F. Opposition Leader, in the latter's speech last Thursday

"I listened with a great deal of interest to the address of the honorable leaders of the Opposition the other day, and was greatly surprised at the change of attitude regarding the institution of the policy of Socialism in this province should his party attain power," said Mr. Hart.

"I wish to quote a statement reported in the press in which the Honorable Leader of the Opposition said:

"'A C.C.F. Government, be it Provincial or National, would not institute Socialism immediately, as our opponents would lead people to believe, but we would definitely immediately proceed with the first steps designed to meet the requirements of the people and to lay the foundation which will mean the ultimate establishment of an economy based on Socialist principles.'

"This is too entirely different from speeches he has made on previous occasions. He has brought to this House a six-point program which is definitely national in character.

"Five of these six points already have been taken care of by the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

"Point number three of the six-point program alludes to 'democratic participation by the people in control of economy.' This no doubt is the kernel of the Socialistic policy of the C.C.F. Party. The Leader of the Opposition, however, failed to develop this theme more specifically. On general principles, however, this Government is opposed to portion of the policy outlined because it means Socialism."

OBITUARIES

MRS. E. McCULLOCH

NORWOOD, Feb. 9 — (ENS) — Word has been received by Mrs. G. Baker of the death in Los Angeles of Mrs. E. McCulloch, January 30, following an operation. Labor Minister Names Service Boards

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Minister Mitchell announced today the establishment of Regional Selective Service advisory boards, designed to facilitate regional operations of National Selective Service, in British Columbia, the prairie provinces, Ontario and Quebec, with a fifth board to be set up later in the Maritimes.

Each board will be organized under the chairmanship of the regional director of Selective Service. Other members will include representatives of the Regional Mobilization Board, Unemployment Insurance Commission, organized labor, Munitions Department, and the Prices Board.

It is expected representatives of the Defence Department and Agriculture will be added later.

Arthur MacNamara, Director of Selective Service, said the boards have been inaugurated "for the purpose of bringing into the open National Selective Service problems as they may bear on each particular region."

"Each board will have authority to take required action within the limits of existing regulations, and may make recommendations to Ottawa regarding Selective Service policies and procedures in general," he added.

"It is felt that the boards will assure the carrying out of Selective Service regulations in a manner suited to the needs of each part of the country."

Functions of the boards will be supplementary to those of the National Selective Service Advisory Board, which consists of representatives of organized labor, employers, veterans, agriculture, and government departments and agencies.

The National Board meets at Ottawa regularly to advise the direction of National Selective Service on the utilization of manpower in the prosecution of the war and the administration and enforcement of Selective Service regulations.

9 Column Newspaper Rejected By Editors

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—A proposal to change the present eight-column standard newspaper page to one of nine narrower columns as a newsprint conservation measure was discussed here yesterday at a meeting of the Ontario Provincial Dailies Association.

A majority of the 21 newspaper representatives present opposed the change, which, it was said would mean a possible 10 per cent. saving of paper. Many members felt the proposal was impractical unless adopted on a national scale.

The association accepted an invitation from Senator W. Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig Standard, to hold its June meeting in Kingston. Roy Thomson, president of the association and publisher of the Timmins Daily Press, presided at yesterday's meeting.

Many Prizes Offered Victory Gardeners

More than 600 applications for Victory garden plots have already been received by the Horticultural Society, according to a note from W. C. Wilks, who is assuming responsibility for this community project in the coming season.

"The Horticultural Society has planned a special meeting for Victory gardeners on February 28. George Rush of the Ontario Department of Agriculture will be the speaker and door prizes of vegetable seed collections will be awarded."

The society is co-operating with the City Council, and under the chairmanship of W. J. Smith an attractive prize list has been compiled and will be distributed when printed. Mr. Wilks quoted an estimated valuation of the Victory gardens last year at $1,500,000 for the Province of Ontario alone.

The city of Guelph sponsored one of the most successful community efforts. Their citizens planted 425 lots, planted 350 bags of potatoes, and harvested more than 1,400 bags "at a conservative estimate," Mr. Wilks reports.

Further announcement of plans for the meeting on February 28 will be made later.

7 Liberals Object

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP) — Seven Liberal members of parliament from British Columbia constituencies asked in a letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, which they made public yesterday that the new Federal Wartime Wage-Control Order be rescinded, on grounds it is detrimental to the war effort and is having a detrimental effect on the people of Canada. The letter was sent to the Prime Minister after the members met in caucus.

Court Convicts Pelland On Car Charge

Maurice Pelland, former Three Rivers, Que., youth, was convicted in police court this morning on a charge of the theft of the use of an automobile, the property of D. A. Wilson, but another charge against him of stealing an overcoat belonging to Joe Csumrik and valued at $35 was dismissed.

The overcoat charge was heard first with Crown Attorney V. J. McEldery, K.C. prosecuting. Pelland handled his own defence.

Joe Csumrik testified that his coat had been taken from the cloakroom of Canada Packers where he was employed and he had not seen it since.

"Did you see me take it?" asked the accused.

"If I had you wouldn't have got away with it," replied the witness.

After a trial within a trial a statement allegedly made by the accused to Officer Archie Menzies was admitted.

Too Sleepy

Pelland declared that for four days previously he had not had much sleep because of a trip to Kingston to join the Air Force and that he was not fully awake when he made his statement.

The officer was allowed to read the portion of the statement dealing with the case being heard. In it Pelland said that he had stolen an overcoat from the C.P. property and had sold it in Toronto for $10.

There was no defence evidence but Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., dismissed the case, stating that the evidence showed that Pelland admitted stealing a coat but there was nothing to show it was the particular coat with the theft of which he was charged.

When the theft of the use of D. A. Wilson's automobile was being considered Wilson testified that the car had been taken from outside his residence on Elcome Crescent and that he next saw it at the Scarboro police station.

Ran Out Of Gas

Jack Maloney, 16, swore that he and Pelland took the Wilson car from Elcome Crescent and started out for Toronto. He said they ran out of gas at Scarboro and left the automobile there by the side of the highway. Maloney testified that he himself drove the car.

Officer Archie Menzies was allowed to read a statement allegedly made by the accused in which he admitted being with Maloney when the Wilson car was taken and of abandoning the machine outside of Toronto when they ran out of gas.

Magistrate Langley registered a conviction against the accused on the evidence and sentence was deferred in that case and also in several others in which Pelland had entered a plea of guilty.

Careless Driving Costs Man $22

Pleading guilty in police court, this morning, to a charge of careless driving, Arthur Pond was fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C.

It was stated that Pond driving his car east on Charlotte Street had started to make a turn into Park Street and that the machine skidded and the rear fender had struck and knocked down a woman pedestrain who had been injured.

"The street was very slippery," Inspector J. F. Reid stated, "I suppose the carelessness was in not having his car under control," remarked the magistrate in imposing the fine.

A. N. Clinnert entered a written plea of guilty to a traffic charge of swinging too wide in making a right turn. As a result of his action it was stated an accident had been caused.

A fine of $5 and $2.50 costs was imposed.

2 Peterborough Fliers Now Presumed Dead

Sgt. William K. Ferguson, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, Edinburgh street, who was reported missing after air operations in January 1943, is now for official purposes presumed dead, according to the R.C.A.F. casualty list released today.

Attached to a fighter squadron, Sgt. Ferguson went overseas in 1942 and he was missing shortly before his 23rd birthday. After graduating from the Collegiate, he was employed by Mutual Life.

A second name appearing on today's list is that of FO Gerald W. Fitzgerald, who was reported missing after a raid on Hamburg in August, and who is now for official purposes presumed dead. A few months ago, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald, King street, received word that he was believed to be buried in Holland. FO Fitzgerald was a former Quaker Oats employee.

Cupid Right On Job For Valentine's Day As Greeting Card Sales Show Increase

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 —(C P) — Cupid will be no wartime casualty this Valentine's Day, say Canadian greeting card manufacturers, who estimate stock has gone up about 50 per cent. in this country since war started.

Four years of war and an increasing paper shortage haven't stemmed the national urge for hearts and flowers, the card experts say, and they predict bigger and better Valentine sales in Canada this February 14.

Chief reason listed for "the exceedingly heavy demand in all forms of greeting cards" during the last four years is the "wartime separations" caused by enlistments and the restrictions on travel, communication and the family budget.

Dr. H. M. Yelland New Chairman Of The Nicholls Hospital Board

Dr. H. M. Yelland was elected chairman of the Nicholls Hospital Trust at the annual meeting of the Board Monday afternoon. He succeeds C. F. Kitney, and Dr. Yelland's former office as honorary secretary is taken by Charles Lacheur.

E. Bruce Fowler is secretary-treasurer, John Hornal, superintendent, and Miss Edith G. Young, superintendent of nursing.

The members of the Board and their representation are:— Harold Baptie, Knox church; Rev. E. J. Whan, Park Street Baptist; Vincent Eastwood, Murray Street Baptist; Dr. G. Stewart Cameron, St. John's; E. B. Fowler, St. Andrew's; C. F. Kitney, St. James' United; Charles Lacheur, All Saints; T. A. Mackay and Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch, St. Paul's;

J. W. Pierce, Trinity United; A. J. Throop, Mark Street United; R. H. Parsons, St. Luke's; W. R. Turner, St. Andrew's; Dr. H. M. Yelland, George Street United; Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick, Nicholls Hospital Medical staff; Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell, associate member representing the Women's Hospital Auxiliary; and representing the City Council: Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Dutton, Alderman Ovens, Fred L. Roy and E. R. Wilson.

The only change in the Board of last year is the substitution of Rev. E. J. Whan for Rev. C. C. Boyter in the Ministry of Park Street church.

Report for 1943

One of the significant reflections of the operation of Nicholls Hospital stands forth from the report of John Hornal as superintendent.

"t was necessary to refuse 221 patients admission because of lack of accommodation. There were doubtless many other persons who would have profited by hospitalization if it had been available but for whom no request was made by their physicians because they knew such a request was useless, or because they considered the need was for others among their patients.

These facts are present to point the very great need for additional hospital accommodation in this community."

3,070 Patients

Numbers of patients treated during 1943 was 3,080; a decrease of 46 from 1942.

Number of patient-days treatment was 40,137; an increase of 1,506 or 3 per cent.

Average length of patients' stay was 13.07 days.

Number of live births 457; a decrease of 47 from 1942.

Number of deaths was 141; still births 10.

Average number of patients in hospital daily was 110.

This is an average occupancy of 81.48%.

Number of operations: major 554, minor 951; total 1,505.

Number of radiological examinations was 1,198; an increase of 123 over 1942.

Number of laboratory examinations was 11,396; and increase of 1,702 over 1942.

At the close of 1943 we had 146 employees on our staff, 18 of whom are employed on a part time basis.

"These statistics are a record of increased activity in almost all departments except maternity. This department was closed during the first three weeks of 1943 which is at least a partial explanation for the decrease here. It is interesting to note the average daily occupancy of the maternity beds and infants' cots, which each total 20, was 13.56 or 67.9%. In the remaining 95 beds the average daily occupancy was 82.79 or 85%.

The average length of patients stay 13.07 is the highest in recent years with the exception of 1940 when it was 13.43. In 1942 the average length of patients stay in all public hospitals in the province of Ontario was 11.6. This longer average daily stay may partly be explained by the fact there is not adequate provision in the community for aged and senile patients who require some care but do not require hospital service.

Through the kindness of the Women's Auxiliary cubicle screening was provided in the two public wards which had not previously had this type of screening. Also through the assistance of the Women's Women's Auxiliary who contributed $1,500.00 toward equipment the old Central Service Room on the second floor was made over into a Diet Kitchen. This enabled an improvement in the food service and at the same time released the old Diet Kitchen for a work room for the Nursery which was badly needed. The $1,500.00 provided by the Women's Auxiliary also covered a new refrigerator for the nursery feedings.

The purchase of a good second hand two Roll return feed flatwork ironer for the laundry was made possible by a loan from the Women's Auxiliary. This ironer is reducing the labor cost and improving the service of the laundry.

The problem of increasing costs has given the Board of Trustees great concern and to meet these in part it was decided that on the first of March, 1943, all rates (including public ward other than indigent) should be increased 25c per day. It was also decided that from that date the charge for all babies should be 90 cents per day.

An occupational therapy service was provided in September and this began an experiment which promised to be a valuable adjunct in the treatment of patients. This however, had to be discontinued in November on account of Mrs. Doty's removal from the city.

It is with deep regret that the passing of Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield in late December is noted. His loss is felt both as a medical man and as a friend.

During the year Dr. J. Wright of Millbrook became the eighth member of the Medical Staff to join the Armed Services, when he accepted a commission in the R.C.A.F. It is sincerely hoped that he along with the other members of our staff, Medical, Nursing and lay, who are in the Armed Services may be spared to return to us.

During the year Miss Annie McKenzie resigned as Laboratory, and X-ray technician to take a course at the Toronto General Hospital. Her position was filled by Miss Jane Beattie, a graduate of Guelph General Hospital, who had had special training with Dr. McNabb of the Provincial Department of Health.

Mrs. Audrey Munro resigned in June as assistant dietitian and Miss Margaret Smith, Ph.B. (Chicago), M.Sc. (Wisconsin) was engaged to take her place.

In addition to the assistance received from the Women's Auxiliary and the Alumnae Association the following are gratefully acknowledged:—

The gift of layettes for needy children contributed by the Thursday Club.

The gift of $25.00 contributed by Dr. J. J. Hamilton.

The gift of linen serviettes and a blanket by an anonymous donor.

Remembrances to patients and staff at Christmas time from Anthony's Fruit Market; W. H. Hamilton, Silverwood Dairies Ltd., Wonder Bread Ltd., Dr. E. A. Hammond and the Women's Auxiliary.

Lift Chinese Ban

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 —(CP)— President Roosevelt signed a proclamation yesterday putting into effect the repeal of the Chinese Exclusion Act and fixing a Chinese immigration quota of 105 persons a year. The ban on Chinese immigration was repealed by Congress last December in a move sponsors said would offset Japanese propaganda claims that the United States discriminated against Orientals.

Theatres Help In Stamp Drive

"Spend a dime and share the pot" is the arresting and beckoning slogan of an idea which has been accepted by the management of Peterborough's three theatres as an aid to the local Food Industry in its February campaign to sell War Savings Stamps and Certificates.

Here is how it operates, and Lionel Browne and Paige Rowell said yesterday it has been a helpful agency for War Savings Stamps in Port Hope for a year.

In the theatre lobby you receive an envelope with a stub; put a dime in the envelope and keep the stub; then put your envelope, with your dime, in a special box for that purpose; and once a week there will be a draw for War Savings Stamps.

That is how simple it is. This auxiliary method of helping the Food Industry in its campaign begins Thursday night in all three theatres. Then.... the first draw will be in the Regent Theatre Monday night; the Centre Wednesday night and the Capitol Thursday night.

The plan is being advertised with complete information as to its details, and it continues for two weeks.

Hockey Gloves Net $28.20 For War Victims

This has so far been a very poor season for the prime Canadian sport of hockey hereabouts due to a number of reasons, among which the lack of accommodation and the type of winter that has prevailed so far would play a considerable part.

Wishing to give a helping hand to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, T. I. Hill of 97 Robinson Street made three pairs of hockey gloves for the purpose of raising money, and these were made the prizes for a draw which was sponsored by the Industrial Service Department of the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., supervised by H. A. Cranfield.

The draw for these prizes was made at the Employment Office by Perry Kitchen on Saturday, February 5, and resulted in first prize going to R. Burns of the Tool Room Department, with ticket No. 268, second prize being won by E. Kimball of the Porcelain Department with ticket No. 62, while third prize went to C. Graham of the Steamfitters' Department with ticket No. 172.

The total proceeds on this amounted to $28.20, which was turned in by Mrs. Kathleen Warren, and is included in this day's receipts for the fund. The gloves were splendidly made, and had the season been more favorable for this national sport hereabouts, undoubtedly they would have provided a much greater attraction with its consequent advantage to assist the objects for which this labor of love to help others would have provided. The fund management is grateful to the donor of the gloves and all who participated in helping to raise this money for the fund.

Final From Kaleidoscopes.

When the campaign was on for the special Christmas donations, the Roy Powell family made and donated over one hundred kaleidoscopes to the fund for the purpose of raising money, and all but six were sold at that time to raise over $25 for the fund.

Since that time, the sale of three of them have been reported in this column, and when two others were sold on Monday, a little draw was held for the lone survivor, which incidentally had been over to England and back again, and this raised a sum of $1.40 at the Morning Coffee Club, so another $1.90 appears to the credit of this effort, which happens to be the best of its kind among the four similar efforts arising from the work of this one family.

Valentine Parties.

This next few days in all probability will see a number of Valentine parties being held, and since the general theme of this festive occasion is one of friendship, nothing could perhaps be more appropriate than that they should display a type of friendship that is of the highest, by making them the means of giving the hand of practical help to those who have suffered from air raids over Britain. This suggestion is worthy of your highest consideration.

Camera Theft Charge Dropped

A charge against Gerald Sweet, 18, of stealing a camera belonging to N. W. Finnie, Brock street, was dismissed in police court this morning after the crown's evidence had been heard.

Sweet was defended by John A. Bradshaw. Finnie stated that the camera had been left in his car parked outside his garage and had disappeared.

The witness said that the camera produced in court was the same kind as his and in about the same state of wear but he could not identify it positively.

John Loucks, Jr., cousin of the accused, said that the camera in court had been purchased by him from the accused for $3. Nothing was said as where Sweet had obtained the camera, he said.

No Identification

Magistrate Langley dismissed the charge on Mr. Bradshaw's motion. The only evidence of theft, he pointed out would lie in recent possession of stolen goods but the stolen goods would have to be identified positively. In this partciular case His Worship said there had been no identification of the camera.

Loucks told the court that the watch had been taken from his coat in his house sometime between January 15 and 20. Sweet, he said had been at the house on the 15th.

Harold Hampton testified that Sweet had asked him to buy a wrist watch for $10 and said that he had "hooked it." Hampton said that he did not purchase the watch.

Court adjourned for luncheon at that stage.

Municipal Board Gives Approval To Annexation Applications

Approval of the North Monaghan applications for the annexation to the city of the two areas of the township which have been the subject of negotiations and petition for the last three months was announced by the Ontario Municipal Board at the conclusion of its third sitting here yesterday afternoon.

A technical change in procedure was the basic difference between the Tuesday meeting and its progress on the one hand and the second meeting of the Board several weeks ago. At that adjournment the Board suggested to the township council that the application for annexing the southern area should take the form of a bylaw passed by the township council, and not by petitions directly to the Board from the residents. In that respect the council would then have adopted the same manner of approach as in its original project on the west side of the city which had been submitted as an application embodied in a bylaw.

Asked to Forward Draft

R. S. Colter, K.C., chairman of the Board, told the city and township representatives yesterday that the desired order would be signed when its draft had been forwarded to the Board. W. P. Near was the assisting Commissioner at the session.

The County Council renewed its objections to truncated block south of Lansdowne street and between Park street and Monaghan road, cut off at St. James street, as agreed upon by the city and township, and not continuing to the Otonabee River as desired by the county.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., representing some of the residents in that area south of St. James street who sought annexation, said that he did not feel himself properly before the Court because he was not positive whether his clients represented a majority of the residents in that southernmost section.

"Since I was engaged I have not had time to determine the number and percentage of those in that area who wish to come into the city," Mr. Gordon said. "My people say that when sewer and water services are provided on a street, its residents have a better chance to borrow money from a lending company, when they are part of the city, than they would have if they wished to build on township property."

May Go To Legislature

Presumably Mr. Gordon was registering his appearance before the Board on this mission with an eye to the eventual consideration of the Municipal Board's annexation order by the Private Bills committee of the Legislature.

Reeve M. H. Johnston explained that the whole area south of St. James street was supposed at one stage of the negotiations to be going along with the rest of the Park-Monaghan Road area. "They had a petition that was supposed to be sufficiently signed, but a counter-petition was brought out by residents who were opposed to annexation. That is the area Mr. Gordon is talking about. The township council did not see fit to pass a bylaw to include that section, in view of the fact that the counter-petition had come in."

"My clients say that some of those who signed it were non residents," Mr. Gordon remarked. "But, we are not in a position to insist on any rights, but we just want to submit them at this stage."

V. J. McElderry, K.C., restated the county council's attitude which was slightly changed in its proposed western boundary.

The county had urged that the boundaries of the southern area be Erskine avenue on the west side, south to Cameron street, to Monaghan road. That block was amended yesterday, clipping off the westerly area from Monaghan road to Erskine avenue. The county also objected to the section south of St. James street to the river and between Park street and Monaghan road being omitted from the annexation project.

Adjust Details

Mr. Colter told the assembly that the Board was not making any directions as to assessments and all other such questions which the city and township councils would have to consider and try to bring within mutual agreement. Nor would the Board set a date when annexation should become effective. That would be left to the Private Bills committee for their approval to the Legislature.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., township solicitor, explained that the township had bought certain lots in the prescribed area, presumably at tax sales, but did not wish to keep possession of them if the city took over the entire area.

"That is a matter for adjustment between the two municipalities," Mr. Colter said.

"They are agreeable people, and we don't expect there will be any difficulty," Mr. Kerr replied.

"I am sure you all are agreeable people," Mr. Colter continued. "The agreement that has been reached to this present stage is evidence of that disposition. I wish to compliment you all because it is so much better to have come together than to have some decision made that might leave some dissension."

Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township, stated that he had always found the city representatives fair and reasonable and easy to get along with. From his experience he felt that he could trust the city, and that was what he was going to keep on doing in future negotiations.

Among those present yesterday were: Reeve M. J. Johnston, Deputy-Reeve A. W. Archibald, and Councillors Grady and Roberts, with F. D. Kerr, K.C., representing the applicant township; Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Dutton, John R. Corkery and W. F. Huycke, K.C., and City Clerk Outram and City Engineer Parsons for the city; Reeves Mather and McIlmoyle, V. J. McElderry, K.C., and Mrs. J. A. Spurway for the county; and G. W. Craw and K. G. Wightman, Public School Inspector, and J. F. Strickland, K.C., for the Board of Education.

Effective This Year?

Reeve Johnston said the wishes of the North Monaghan people were that annexation should become effective this year, and that the final agreement should be concluded and the Board's Order received in time for the approaching sessions of the Legislature. To that proposal, City Clerk Outram said he did not think it was practically possible to complete the assessment of the two township areas for city purposes in time for this year, and that the city would be content to have annexation begin at January 1, 1945.

Mr. Strickland asked that consideration be given to the Board of Education's concern about the school term in its relation to the incidence of annexation.

If new teachers had to be engaged the Board should have ample time to arrange for staff changes before the beginning of the September term.

These were some of the details which Mr. Colter said would have to be the subject of discussion and adjustment by the municipal representatives.

Victims Bombed Out Send Thanks To War Workers For Present

NORWOOD, Feb. 9 (ENS) — The following letter was received by Mrs. David Starke of the Donegal War Workers from Mrs. L. Blake, Suffolk, England, for a quilt she had received.

Ipswitch, England,
30th December, 1943

Dear Mrs. Starke:

"You will no doubt be interested to know that I am the proud recipient of your kind gift of bed cover. My daughter and I were bombed out on June 2, 1943, at 5:30 a.m., escaping injury through the safety of a Morrison shelter. It was a hit and run raid and we just got into the shelter when the place was hit and we had to leave in our night attire. I felt terrible and had lost my glasses and teeth. It was not an enviable position to be in. My daughter adopted a rather frightened attitude at first, but when she knew I was not injured in any way she bucked up wonderfully. She has a lot of dark, curly hair, and looked a complete sketch with it all covered with soot and plaster, needless to say we were nearly choked.

"We went to a first aid house and had a cup of tea and then went to the house of relatives. You can imagine we were a lot of bother as we could not get out without clothes and they had to do all the running about for clothing coupons and clothing. The W.V.S. (Women's Voluntary Service) is really wonderful. Anyway we are now fixed up in a house quite in a different district, but it takes a lot of getting used to.

"We have managed to get a wireless set and Christmas Eve we were listening to the carols, when a knock came to the door and a man with a torch said these are for you and your daughter and I thought Father Christmas had come to us.

"The parcel contained sweets, cocoa, chocolate, face flannel and your gift of bed cover. This made a complete change to our outlook on things as we had been recalling previous Christmas eves and had never had one like this. I think the war will soon be over now, but of course we are not far from the coast and this makes it easy to get at. Again thanking you, and by the way I received jam from the Women's Institute, Courtland."

Splendid Cough Relief, Mixed in Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough syrup that can be depended upon for quick results, and gives you about 4 times as much for your money. And no trouble—it's so easily prepared.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it's your favorite cough treatment. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Red Editor Flays Vatican Policy Charges Pope Partial To Fascism

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 —(AP) — Following is a resume of passages of the article in the February 1 issue of Izvestia, official Soviet newspaper, in which the writer Dmitri Petrov declared that the policy of Pope Pius XII is pro-Fascist:

"As reported by a Reuters News Agency Washington correspondent the Foreign Policy Association of the U.S.A. has just ended an exhaustive review of the foreign policy of the Vatican.

"The association after a detailed study concluded 'a period of unprecedented anti-clericalism derived from the permanent connections between the Vatican and Fascism and the support by the Vatican of Mussolini's policy.'

"This can be expected in Italy. The association points out that 'friendly as well as hostile commentators think the long-lasting tie between the Vatican and Fascism will bring about hatred as well as persecution.'

"The Lateran agreement concluded February 11, 1929, between Mussolini and the Vatican became the corner-stone of the Vatican's policy in its attitude toward Italian Fascists.

"This agreement, which regulated regulations between the Fascist State and the Church, was Mussolini's victory in that he obtained for himself the support and leadership of the Italian Church.

"As was known even before the Lateran agreement, the Vatican to please Mussolini, approved the dissolution of the Italian Christian Democratic Parties in which the voices of Fascist opposition continued to be heard.

"Proof that this co-operation was not purely nominal was given by the clergy when priests and bishops agitated for acceptance of Fascist candidates and participated en masse at elections.

Says Italians Opposed.

"This happened with the blessing of the Vatican despite its proclaimed restraint of participation in active political life. As ascertained by the association at that time, the Vatican in fact smothered any opposition to the Fascist regime." Petrov then cited what he said were the association's declarations on the Pope's attitude toward the conquest of Ethiopia.

"It is quite natural that the broad masses of the Italian people turned against the Vatican which supported the African march of Mussolini," Petrov went on.

Next the writer took up what he termed the Vatican's "unglorified role" in the Hitler-Mussolini adventure in Spain.

"When Italy attacked France," Petrov continued, 'The Vatican remained silent. It is typical of its foreign policy that it was one of the first to recognize Petain's regime which was established by Hitler.

"The magazine Civilia Catholica, organ of the Jesuits, appealed to Italian soldiers to shed blood for the cause blessed by religion." It meant it openly approved the extermination of the peoples of Yugoslavia, Greece and other countries of Europe.

"In fact the Vatican sanctioned pro-Fascist activity of Italian Cardinals and Bishops who acted for the support of Mussolini and his war policy.

'Now the tune has changed. Pope Pius XII's declarations of equal love

What shall we do with VICTORY?

We are going to win this war. No one doubts that. The road may be hard still, and long still, but it can lead to only one goal. One of these days we shall wake to find that the last shot has been fired . . . the last war cloud has been swept from the sky . . . Victory will be here, shining like a sunrise. Victory, with all its possibilities—all its opportunities and all its problems! Has anyone thought what we shall do with it?

For Victory is not an end but a beginning. It is a doorway through which millions of us will come crowding eagerly into a new and bright but uncertain world. Millions of us . . . pressing back from our war jobs . . . men and women from the fighting services, men and women from the arms plants. Has anyone thought what we shall do? Has anyone thought how our enthusiasm and strength and goodwill shall be turned to good account—for Peace?

Goodness knows there will be plenty that will need doing. There will be tens of thousands of new homes to be built in our cities and townships and hamlets and on our farms. There will be equipment and furnishings needed to outfit these homes. There will be thousands of miles of new roads to lay down—thousands of miles of old roads to improve and light.

There will be bridges to throw across our rivers and ravines . . . railroads to modernize and electrify and provide with new rolling stock . . . a great programme of rural electrification to carry out—to lighten the lives of farming folk. Factories, offices, stores, will need new machines, new elevators, new lighting installations. Recreational and entertainment centres will be required—new ball parks, theatres, sports arenas, swimming pools. Enlarged universities, schools, libraries, hospitals and civic centres—Canada will need many such, and their planning, building, equipment and operation can find employment for tens of thousands of us.

We need not wonder what we can do with Victory. But we should be wondering, now, how we shall do it! We should be wondering what part we each can play in winning the coming peace. Those of us who are home-makers should be wondering what we shall do about our post-war dwellings. Those of us who are industrialists should be wondering what we shall do about the modernization of our plants. Those of us who market and merchandise, should be wondering how we can better our shops and stores and warehouses. Those of us who have the gift for civic leadership should be wondering about the housing needs, the cultural and recreational needs of our communities.

For this country of ours is heading for peace. And peace, make no mistake about it, will demand just as mighty an all-out effort from us as war. That is why, while there must not be the slightest relaxation of our all-out efforts to win the war—we must plan for the post-war future and we must start planning today!

Many governmental, municipal and industrial groups already are active upon such planning. Many individuals are planning. But more planning is needed; more is possible. For, by planning today, we prepare ready-made markets for the post-war tomorrow—markets which will absorb our fullest productive effort and thus create full and gainful employment for everyone.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LIMITED

Quebec Labor Laws Opposed By CCF

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 — (CP) — The C. C. F. Council Monday announced its "opposition to the new Quebec Labor legislation" and its intention "to co-operate with the Trade Union movement in securing proper labor laws for the people of Quebec."

(Two new labor laws were given royal assent in Quebec last week. They forbid public services employees to strike and set up a labor relations board to supervise enforcement of the new legislation compelling employers to recognize any union of which 60 per cent of their employees are members. They also make collective bargaining compulsory).

The text of the resolution as announced by the Provincial Council was as follows:

"The Quebec C. C. F. Provincial Council hereby records its opposition to the (new) anti-labor laws, calls on all members of the C. C. F. to assist in every way the struggle of Trade Unions in Quebec for justice and fair treatment and declares that the C. C. F. will be prepared to co-operate with the Trade Union movement in securing proper labor laws for the people of Quebec.

Britain Seeking Young Leaders

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—Britain is beginning to cast a somewhat anxious glance over the bald pates and hoary heads that dot her parliament and wonders whether youth shouldn't have more representation in the ancient House.

The unexpected victory over the Conservative candidate of 31-year-old Lieut. Hugh Lawson, Common Wealth, in the Skipton by-election has brought up the question of age and youth in parliament.

At present there are less than 200 members in the 615-member House who are under 50 and there seems to be a general desire developing in the electorate to have younger men in the Commons. Skipton only served to confirm this growing opinion.

A number of political observers believe all parties will have to enlist younger men as candidates and the tendency will probably also be to choose men who have been in the services or who are still serving in the navy, army or airforce.

Must Grow More

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP)—Deputy Agriculture Minister W. R. Reek of Ontario yesterday told more than 300 members of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association in three-day annual convention here that potato growers in the province this year must emphasize increased production per acre rather than increased acreage. Ontario will not be able to supply its own consumer needs, Mr. Reek said.

Timber Control Kept After War

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 (CP)—Some form of timber control may remain in effect "for a period" after the war, delegates were told today at the 36th annual meeting of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association.

E. W. Ross, president of the association, in his annual address, added that "although timber control caused many inconveniences to the lumber industry without it, we might have headed towards inflation very rapidly."

He went on to say:

"With such a tremendous demand for forest products in war-time, there was a great danger of a runaway market with stocks being, in many cases, turned away from essential war uses.

"It is believed in some quarters that some form of timber control should remain in effect for a period after the end of the war to stabilize prices and distribution."

He remarked that there was "little reason for concern" about the use of substitutes for wood after the war "although it seems to worry many engaged in the lumber industry."

Timber Controller Allan E. Williamson suggested that the association "act as liaison among organizations concerned with post-war salvage and surplus."

Doctors Interested In Tooth Decay Theory

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9 —(CP)—If absence of tooth decay near the Bruce County village of Ripley is ever positively traced to chemical content of the water, London probably will try out those chemicals, Dr. C. H. Harris, M.O.H. said today.

Dr. Harris indicated that officials of the local public health office are watching with rising interest provincial investigations into the cause of the recently discovered absence of tooth decay in the Ripley district.

Theories have been advanced that the prevalence of fluorine and phosphorus in the drinking water, or even in the grain and vegetables of that district may be a factor. But nothing definite as to the reason has been announced by provincial health authorities.

Obituary

PETER BROWN

NORWOOD, Feb. 9 (ENS)— The funeral of Peter Brown, a resident of Dummer township, took place recently from the Tedford Funeral Home. The last of a family of six, he had spent all his life in this community. Mr. Brown, who passed away at the home of Mr. Arthur Lee, was over ninety, his exact birth not being recorded.

Floral tributes were from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lee, Mrs. Ruth Bovare and family and Mrs. Frank Haddlesey.

The pall-bearers were Dan Sampson, Oliver Saltern, William Buck and Charles Little.

Interment was in the Norwood cemetery.

Logging Played Big Part At Norwood Site

NORWOOD, Feb. 9 (ENS) —The Women's Institute held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Gaden. The early history of Norwood was given, citing logging as the most important industry.

The treasurer reported a total of $76.45 in the funds and the directors' reported donating two quilts to the I.O.D.E. and two to the local Red Cross. Final arrangements were made for the dance on Wednesday evening. It was decided to donate $10 to the Red Cross for the prisoner of war fund and $10 to the central fund of the W.I. Cigarettes are to be sent to Fl. Lt. Bruce Baker and Capt. J. Foote in prison camps and to Sgt. Ross Clarke and PO. F. Haddelsey in hospital.

The ladies planned a euchre party at Kings Hotel, February 25 to raise funds and a bazaar around Easter. Blood donors from Norwood branch have been Mrs. H. Goden, Mrs. C. Davey, Mrs. L. Edmunds, and Mrs. W. Gallaher. The next sewing meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. L. Edmunds, February 11. Mr. W. A. Richardson then spoke on the history of Norwood.

Discussing some of the early residents who lived down the Havelock road, he recalled that Dan Woods had a cooper shop where they made pork barrels. In those days pigs were not shipped on foot, but were killed at 325 and 400 pounds. The side pork was placed in one barrel and the hams and shoulders in others, he said. It was cured in brine, sometimes sugar and salt petre were added. A lot of the pork was kept for a year and sold to the lumbermen, the Rathbornes and Gilmours. Thomas Buck made square timber and some logs 60 feet long were drawn down the ninth line.

Mr. Keeler of Colbourne built the first building where the grist mill now stands. It was to saw lumber for making shanties.

The first tavern was built on the property where Mrs. T. Morrison's house now stands. Later Mr. Richardson's father bought the hotel and made a home of it where he died 97 years ago. Mr. Richardson's grandfather walked to Peterborough at the age of 103 one year before he died.

The Keeler saw mill was changed to grind the wheat as the farmers had to walk to Peterborough with grain on their back to be ground The bread at that time was very dark in color, Mr. Richardson declared. Mr. Raddon was the first baker, making loaves two pounds in weight and four pounds for a large loaf. Thomas Howson had a wagon shop across the road from the mill where sleighs and wagons were made.

"Westwood had the first post office and Norwood was first called Northwood by the people at Crooks' Rapids, now Hastings. For a time the people at Hastings had trouble getting across the river, then a bridge was built. The ice destroyed it and a second one was built and it was wrecked by logs. Finally the government put in the dam and locks that are now in us.

The first church was built on Ridge street. It was a long building used as a school during the week. Later a frame church was built where the United Church now stands. This was sold to the Salvation Army who moved it down the street and with an addition is now the Orange Hall.

"The early schools were built where Mr. M. Grovers' house now stands and John Moore was the first principal of the grammar school. Another was later built near the Anglican church. George Reynolds bought it for a dwelling and it was later burned.

"The mail was taken to other towns by stage three times a week."

Continuing the speaker told how John Findlay and Richard Nichol built a factory where the Presbyterian church now stands. It was a fire casualty and the new building was built where Findlay's factory now stands. At first the fair was held where the Presbyterian church now stands and the horses were shown driving up and down Queen street.

for all people in the fourth anniversary of the war and at Christmas 1943, does not conform with the Vatican's practical policy which not only has maintained diplomatic relations with Hitler but helped Hitler strangle the Italian people, including Catholic groups opposed to Fascism in Germany as well as Italy. Under such conditions opposition to the ideas of the Vatican cannot help but grow in Italy.

Fascism Hated.

"During the Fascist regime in Italy the Vatican has played into the hands of Fascism which at present is despised and hated by the people.

"By supporting Hitler and Mussolini the Vatican went out of its way to discredit its own policy.

"Now the Vatican assumed the course of preaching love of all peoples. The fact remains that in the great historical battle of all freedom-loving peoples against the enemy of humanity the Vatican has assumed the position of a direct accomplice of Fascism.

"The peoples in Italy have realized the ruinous policy of Mussolini. They became more and more convinced that the policy of the Vatican was closely connected with Mussolini, this captive of the German. No wonder thier hate of Hitler now also includes the Vatican.

"The Vatican is harvesting the fruits of its own policy. Its permanent friendly ties with Fascism, its direct aid to Hitler and Mussolini, had aneffect on the Vatican and not only in Italy.

'Catholics who live in England, America, Spain, Poland and other countries as well as the Italians, are becoming convinced of the pro-Fascist character of the Vatican's policy.

"Therefore the Foreign Policy Association is right when it foresees the beginning of a period of unprecedented anti-clericalism."

Cancer Patient Asks Study Of Doctor's Work

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — (CP)—Harry Leader, Liberal member of Parliament for Portage la Prairie, called today for study by "a competent tribunal" of the work of Dr. J. R. Davidson of Winnipeg in the treating of cancer.

"I want definite action and no side-stepping," said Mr. Leader, describing himself as a cancer sufferer for many years who had been helped by Dr. Davidson's methods of dietary treatment.

The Government, Mr. Leader added, took the position that the medical council within the National Research Council should study Dr. Davidson's work. He expressed fear this examination would not be final. There should be some "conclusive" study.

Dr. Davidson had been overworked and suffered a heart attack.

"I am a living example of this man's work," said Mr. Leader.

He had feared Dr. Davidson would die and his knowledge be lost. Another doctor had said Dr. Davidson "did not play ball" with the rest of the medical profession. The value of his work had been doubted by the rest of the profession.

Mr. Leader said he had offered himself for examination to show the value of Dr. Davidson's work.

Dr. Davidson's serum treatment was a development of his research work with mice. He had sought means of preventing cancer as part of public health work. His treatment had aided "hundreds," and his name was becoming known the world over.

A number of California institutions had offered him facilities to continue his work.

You CAN make your teeth far brighter!

Impartial laboratories made hundreds of tests. Scientists checked their findings with photoelectric measuring devices and authorize this statement: Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands... brighter than any of them—bar none! These results have been double-checked by identical twins who made practical in-the-home tests...by dental clinics...by dentists in their own offices. The result is always the same: Pepsodent Powder makes teeth far brighter. Get Pepsodent Powder today to make teeth bright as they can be!

Protruding teeth made this boy self-conscious ...and backward in school. But, when modern dentistry corrected his teeth, his looks and his whole mental attitude were changed. Today, dentistry can do wonders in correcting crooked, misplaced, and unsightly teeth. Chipped or broken teeth, too, can be recapped like the movie stars'. So watch children's teeth carefully. Visit the dentist regularly. It's the truth . . . a child's personality and future may depend on how well teeth are formed, how bright and clean they look!

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gladstone Forsyth, 183 Reid street, are celebrating their sixth wedding anniversary to-day. Mr. Forsyth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forsyth, are also observing their wedding anniversary to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Graham, Millbrook, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Moretta Pearl Graham, to Wilfred Arnold Gillis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gillis, of Cavan. The marriage will take place February 12.

Mrs. R. J. Kearns, 111 Stewart Street, was hostess for the February meeting of the fifth troop, scout and cub parents' auxiliary held on Tuesday evening, and Mrs. G. Webb the president, who was in the chair, welcomed several new members to the group. "Scouting" was the theme of the meeting, and was briefly outlined by Mrs. Kearns in a short talk. A social hour followed the short business meeting, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Dance At S.S. No. 9

Almost 200 people, from Douro, Otonabee, Peterborough, and Ennismore, attended a dance held recently at S. S. No 9, sponsored by Miss Camilla Cavanagh, teacher at S. S. No. 9, with the co-operation of Mr. John Allen, Mr. Michael Ross and Mr. John Ryan, trustees of the school.

Dancing to music by the Leahy orchestra was the feature of the evening, but tables of cards were also provided. A supper was served by the ladies of No. 9 section and proceeds of the evening, amounting to $75, went to war purposes.

Neighbors Have Party

A very enjoyable evening was spent recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Laing, Port Hope Highway, when about fifty neighbors and friends gathered to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Strong, who are leaving the community to live in Peterborough.

Mr. Ira Robson, acted as chairman for a short program which included songs by Mr. H. Batten and Mr. B. Preston, and a reading by Mrs. Nelson Parrington. An address was read by Mrs. C. Laing, and the guests of honor were presented with a tri-lite floor lamp.

A social evening was spent in playing euchre and crokinole, and at the conclusion of play, refreshments were served.

Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Erwin Pruner, 110 Lansdowne Street, was hostess recently at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Paul Holmes, nee Helen Johnston, and the bride received many pretty and useful gifts. A social evening was spent by the Group, and dainty refreshments served.

Those present were: Misses Elsie Johnston, Barbara Pearson, Kay Tully, Florence Reid, Viva Harris; Messrs Paul Holmes, E. Edwards, Joe Wright, H. Neal, J. Meehan, E. Jones, E. Pruner, G. Fairers. Those who were unable to attend but sent gifts were Mrs. D. Penrose, and Misses June Moore and Mary Twomey.

Canon Robertson Guest Speaker

Canon W. P. Robertson conducted the devotional period of the February meeting of the senior Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, held Tuesday afternoon, and continued his series of talks on the various symbolisms used by the Lord during his ministry. The topic of his address was the promise that "He that followeth me, shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

The vice president presided over the business period in the absence of the president, Mrs. G. S. Cameron. The treasure spoke regarding the 1944 budget, and ways and means were discussed as to the manner of raising the increased allotment. The study book chapter was reviewed by Mrs. J. Cridland, and the subject was "Power of the Printed Word," dealing with the "Evangelical Movement" now under way in Latin America.

Mrs. F. D. Craig volunteered to represent St. John's Church at the organization meeting for the "World Day of Prayer" and Mrs. D. Eldred and Mrs. R. Cooper were appointed to represent the afternoon branch of the W.A. on the visiting committee. Tea hostesses for the month of February are Miss F. Gladman and Mrs. J. A. Gibbs.

Bible Passages Read As Part Of Knox Program

"The Bible, the Common Possession of the World Church" was the theme of the worship service conducted by Mrs. William Dale, at the February meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church, held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Pitchford, 115 Morrow St. Some of the best-loved passages of the Bible were read by Miss Mary Morton, Mrs. H. Williamson, and Mrs. H. Welbourne, and Mrs. I. Oesch read a story, "The Great Fraternity."

"The Joy of Work Skilfully Done" was the title of the chapter of the study book, 'For All of Life," introduced by Mrs. J. T. Donaldson. This chapter tells the story of the efforts of missionaries in Asia and Africa to improve the living conditions of the farmers. Some idea of how missionaries and workers in Christian Agricultural Colleges are giving these peoples a chance to become better citizens, was given by stories read by Mrs. H. Williamson, Mrs. E. G. Miles, and Mrs. G. W. Denike, and a brief "Who Am I" quiz was conducted by Mrs. Donaldson.

Mrs. Ernest Mesley, the new president, presided for the meeting. The Christian Stewardship secretary read a report, and Mrs. D. Gourlay gave a report of the recent meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial. It was announced that the World Day of Prayer would be February 25, and the coming appeal for funds to help famine sufferers in China and India was also announced.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mary Morton, 485 Albertus Avenue, and the invitation of Mr. Andrew McKenzie, to meet at his home for the Easter Thankoffering meeting in April, was accepted.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Wednesday, February 9

In these days of shortages of so many foods that we have been used to, it makes it very interesting and helpful to pick up a paper or book and read some new recipe which do not require more than our ration points to make.

Many times we will have our first course planned for the family dinner, yet are at a loss to know what dessert to serve, something tasty, yet coming within our limits. Below are two or three recipes that I have tried and have found good.

Grapefruit Snow Pudding.

2 teaspoons plain gelatin, 1½ cups of boiling water, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup grapefruit juice, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, whites only.

Dissolve gelatine in cold water for five minutes, add boiling water and fruit juices and sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved, and set aside until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites stiff and add to mixture. Beat all until white and frothy and let stand in a cool place for about one hour or until thick. Serve either with whipped cream or a thin custard, made with the yolks of the eggs.

Princess Louisa Pudding.

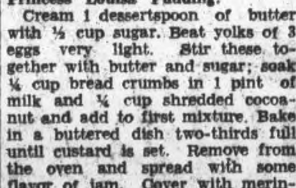
Cream 1 dessertspoon of butter with ½ cup sugar. Beat yolks of 3 eggs very light. Stir these together with butter and sugar; soak ¼ cup bread crumbs in 1 pint of milk and ¼ cup shredded cocoanut and add to first mixture. Bake in a buttered dish two-thirds full until custard is set. Remove from the oven and spread with some flavor of jam. Cover with meringue made of whipped whites of eggs, and serve either hot or cold.

Date Muffins.

½ cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, ¾ cup milk, 2 cups pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder. ½ teaspoon salt, ½ pound dates.

Cream butter, add sugar and egg beaten light. Sift together three times the flour, baking powder and salt, add to first mixture alternately with milk. Beat thoroughly and add dates, which have been stoned and cut in pieces. Bake in well-buttered muffin tins in hot oven, 375 degrees.

Don't Blame Your DRUGGIST!



BLAME THESE 2 THUGS —plus INCREASED DEMAND for Any Shortage of BUCKLEY'S REMEDIES

When you ask for a Buckley Remedy and your druggist says, "Sorry, I'm temporarily out of stock", don't blame him. The ingredients that have made Buckley's cough and cold remedies famous, come from all over the world, and Hitler and Tojo sometimes delay their arrival, so that you cannot always get the Buckley remedy you want just when you want it. So, don't wait until a bronchial cough, chest cold or grippe strikes you. Get your Buckley's Mixture, White Rub, Cinnamated Capsules, Throat Aids or Cough Drops at the first opportunity and have them on hand to nip oncoming coughs or colds in the bud. See your druggist at once!

ALLURING LACE—The long skirted evening frock of black net or lace is always attractive and in good taste and when it is of net plus lace it is that much nicer. Here is a charming frock, high of neck as are so many evening frocks. It uses black net for bodice yoke, sleeves and skirt and cobwebby black lace for the lower portion of the bodice and for the peplum. A cluster of Spring flowers in off white shaded to pink and pale lilac gives a festive touch to the black background.

Life Membership Given To W.M.S. Past President

Mrs. E. M. Davis, president, was hostess to the members of St. James' Auxiliary of the W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon for their February meeting.

Featuring the afternoon's program was the joint report of the recent W.M.S. Presbyterial meeting, held in Knox United Church, and presented in excellent resumes by Miss M. Deyell and Mrs. Wesley Rose, the delegates. Another pleasing event was the presentation of a W.M.S. life membership pin to the retiring president, Mrs. Rose, who has given five years of faithful and efficient service in this office. The appreciation of her colleagues was expressed by Miss M. Deyell. Fine reports were heard from department secretaries and included temperance by Mrs. E. Beavis and Christian Stewardship by Mrs. W. K. Sloane.

With Mrs. Rose and her gruop in charge, the members were led in a service of worship, when brief scripture passages were read by five members and a reading given by Mrs. B. Pitchford. A musical program was enjoyed, when Mrs. E. Wood and Mrs. Davis sang in duet the selection "Close to Thee."

Mrs. E. Johnson, a new member, sang for her solo "Jesus Is Always Near.' Mrs. George Wallace acted as accompanist.

Mrs. Sullivan Heads Auxiliary

Mrs. J. E. Sullivan was elected president of St. Peter's Council Women's Auxiliary of the Catholic Church Extension, at a meeting held in the Knights of Columbus club rooms, when officers for the present year were installed as follows: President, Mrs. J. E. Sullivan; treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Blackburn recording secretary, Mrs. W. J. Hickey; convener of vestments, Mrs. George Lynch; convener of linens, Miss T. McNamara; social convener, Mrs. J. R. Corkery.

The primary purpose of this group is to help the smaller missions throughout the diocese of Peterborough, and ways and means of raising money were planned, beginning with a tea, to be held March 17, followed by the raffling of a blanket, for which tickets will be sold in the near future.

At the close of the meeting, Miss L. Hurley moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mrs. J. H. Corkery, to the retiring executive, for their splendid work during the past year.

Song Recital Given In Aid Of War Victims

The British War Victims Fund benefited from a recital in the Y.W. C.A. recreation room, Tuesday evening, given by pupils from Thursa G. Williamson's studio. Miss Roma Williamson, elocutionist, assisted and Miss Elsie Chambers was accompanist.

The program was as follows:

Heart's Love and Early One Morning, sung by Margaret McElroy; My Boy Willie, When Love Is Kind, and The Lark in the Morn, by Marion Williamson; Love Is Meant to Make Us Glad, The Fairy Pipers, and Vespers, by Joy Edgar; The Story of Genevra, by Roma Williamson; Come Lasses and Lads, All Through the Night, Daughters of Erin, and Annie Laurie, by Leona Northrop; Underneath a Cyprus Tree, A Shepherd in a Shade, and Fine Knacks for Ladies, by Mary Medd; I've Been Roaming, and Gathering Daffodils, by Marion Williamson; Dedication and Request by Margaret McElroy; I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly, Linden Lea and Care Flies From the Lad That is Merry, by Joy Edgar; Henry V at the Siege of Harfleur, by Roma Williamson; How Beautiful are the Feet, and Come Unto Me, by Mary Medd; Rose Softly Blooming, and My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair, by Leone Northrop.

For Thursday, February 10

Continued high tension and ambitious purpose and objectives are indicated by the predominant astral interventions, particularly where fresh, exceptional and unforeseen opportunities present. These may be reorganized, revamped or possibly drastically changed with important help from co-operative sources either business, financial, public or private. Quick and aggressive action may be needed with audacious new tactics or systems, ready to jump into a breach, but do not go to excessive or rash heights. Be conservative, but bold and resourceful, and shun wild ventures and risks.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate important openings for making definite progress and the accomplishment of many desired objectives, mainly by means of new, untried, unusual or novel methods or constructive ideas of a practical but radical aspect. Originality and innovations count and entirely reorganizations may be demanded. But be guided by dependable suggestions or counsel of those of experience and insight and not by personal force. Public support may be needed for promotion of brilliant plans or purpose. Seek such with amiability and tact.

A child born on this day may be energetic, ingenuous, original and independent in thought and action, but may gain by assistance of those more shrewd and conservative.

DOROTHY DIX

MARKS OF GIRL'S SELFISHNESS

Compare Her Appearance to Family's; Does She Prevail in Differences of Opinions?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a single man and I would like to get married. I have given a lot of thought to the subject and I have come to the conclusion that there are two ingredients for a happy marriage. One that the girl be physically appealing to me, and secondly that she be unselfish.

The first is, of course, easy, but the second is more difficult. And I am wondering if I couldn't find out about whether a girl is selfish or not by putting a series of test questions to her? Can you make up a brief list of questions along these lines that I can use?

J. V.

Tests of Selfishness

ANSWER— I agree with you that it is highly desirable for a man to find out before he pops the question to a girl whether she is selfish or not, but I don't think he can do it by asking her questions, no matter how adroitly they are framed. Naturally she would give herself a clean bill of health and represent herself to be an altruist who never had a selfish thought in her life.

For it is the essence of selfishness that those who possess that fault are never aware of it. They think they are perfectly justified in grabbing the best of everything for themselves and forcing everyone with whom they come in contact to give way to them and serve them. That it is only because the party of the other part is unreasonable and self-centred that makes them raise any protest over being trampled upon.

The only way in which you can get a line on a girl's ego is to observe her daily life and conversation, and even that is not always a true test, because many a girl who turns out after marrage to be she-who-must-be-obeyed was before marriage a little appeaser who did nothing but yes-yes the man she was trying to catch.

Still, the best that a man, who is a seeker after the Patient Griselda type of wife, can do is to take note of certain happenings that show which way the winds of disposition blow in a girl. First, let him observe her relationship to her family. Does she always look like something out of Vogue, while the balance of the family appear to have been fished out of the ragbag? Does Mother toil in the kitchen while she reads a novel in the parlor? Are the little brothers and sisters practically slaves who wait upon her? Does everything in her home revolve about her pleasure and comfort? If so, then she is little Miss Grabit.

Also, let him consider whether when he and the girl have any difference of opinion on a subject whether they don't compromise it by doing her way. If he finds out that he always goes to her church, or to the movies she prefers, or with the people she likes, and if she never lets him forget a birthday, or an anniversary, or if she never fails to remind him to send flowers or candy or whatnot, then let him beware. The answer is she is selfish to the bone.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am married and working outside the home. My father, whose health is poor, lives with us. He does the housework and gets the meals, which I appreciate beyond words, but he seems to have the idea that he is being made a goat and is very unhappy. I have offered to pay him for his work but he will not listen to such thing. What can I do in this situation?

UNHAPPY DAUGHTER.

The father supplements this letter by writing:

My daughter did not mention that I have always been very active and out-of-doors a lot and meeting different people all the time, and

LIFE ASSURANCE FIGHTS INFLATION

Policyholders' savings important contribution to War Effort and Post-War Reconstruction

One of the many distinctive services performed by Life Assurance in these urgent times is the mobilization of the people's savings against the insidious but none the less devastating enemy — inflation. Thus millions of men and women, advised by a worthy and highly-trained group of their fellow-countrymen who "sell" Life Assurance, withhold their savings from the luxury market and set them aside to secure protection and well-being for themselves and their loved ones in the unknown days to come.

In the past year alone, the million policyholders of the Sun Life of Canada have set aside $112 millions of their savings in the form of Life Assurance premiums.

During the war years there has been a marked increase in the basic service rendered by Life Assurance—personal and family protection in the time of greatest need. The Sun Life of Canada, since September 1939, has paid out 365 million dollars to policyholders and beneficiaries, a really significant contribution to the stability of national family life in time of emergency.

Election Act To Be Amended

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)— Samuel Factor (L., Toronto Spadina) was chosen Tuesday as chairman of the Commons committee which will study the Election Act with the view to amending it to facilitate the taking of votes of members of the armed forces at the next general election.

Mr. Factor said at the committee's first meeting that the problem presented considerable difficulties with Canadian service personnel now in many parts of the world. Regulations used in the last election in 1940, when almost all the Canadians overseas were in the United Kingdom, would have to be changed considerably.

State Secretary McLarty said the first job of the committee would be to decide the best method of taking the soldiers' vote. Consideration should be given to methods used in Australia and New Zealand.

It was agreed the system of voting in United States, now the subject of a controversy, was so different from that in British countries that any decision reached there would be of no help in dealing with the Canadian situation.

All angles of the problem should be studied, Mr. McLarty said, including the possibilities of proxy voting.

Chief Electoral Officer Castonguay has prepared drafts of his proposals for amending the Act and the committee decided to engage the services of Harry Butcher of Bunnichy, Sask., to act as counsel. He has acted in a similar capacity in previous sessions.

Clarence Gillis (CCF, Cape Breton South) said he intended to press his proposal that members should be elected directly by the armed forces to represent them in the House of Commons. These members would be additional to the 245 members who represent constituencies in Canada. The armed forces representation would be on the same basis as the unit of population used for civilian constituencies.

The committee at a subsequent meeting will consider whether its terms of reference are broad enough to go into this matter, which deals with the Representation Act rather than the Election Act.

FIGHTS IN ITALY—Cpl. Kenneth (Ted) Kavanagh of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment enlisted in June, 1940, going overseas in July, 1941. He has spent the last six months in Sicily and Italy, and was with Herbert Osborne in Italy when he was killed. In his last letter he said he hoped to see his wife and family soon.

St. Lawrence Bridge Stalled For 8th Time

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP).—The House of Representatives voted yesterday to extend for the eighth time the dates for starting and completing a bridge across the St. Lawrence River between the United States and Canada at or near Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Congress approved in 1933 the creation of the St. Lawrence Bridge Commission and authorized it to construct the bridge. The starting and completion times were extended by Congress in 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

Yesterday's measure calls for starting construction within two years and completion within four years of the date of approval of the Bill.

Omemee And Kamloops Pilots Describe Bagging Heinkel III

By F-L. R. KIPP, R.C.A.F.

Frequently, during the time I spent as an instructor at No. 11 Service Flying Training School, Yorkton, Sask., I wondered what I would do if a Hun should suddenly cross my sights. At that time, in the peaceful Canadian skies, the possibilit yseemed very remote. But I still couldn't resist speculating. Would I freeze on the controls? Would I pretend I didn't see the Jerry; or would I go in boldly like a seasoned ace?

It certainly never occurred to me that the first Hun I saw would be the first one I should see go down in flames, another Jerry swept from the skies with lead from my own guns following machine-gun and cannon fire from the guns of my friend, Flying Officer Johnny Johnson, of Omemee, Ont.

During two years instructing at Yorkton, I watched young Canadians graduate as pilots, receive their wings and get posted Overseas. They went away with young men from England going home to seek revenge for what the Germans had done to London. With them went hardy sons of Australia, New Zealand and other parts of the British Empire as well as Americans who had joined the R.C.A.F.

I began to feel like a soldier who carries a rifle through a war without ever firing a shot, but finally the longed-for overseas posting came through. The vision I had in my training days, of activity over enemy territory returned.

Throughout operational training in England and four operational trips I never saw an enemy aircraft. I began to think that perhaps Pete and I were too late, that those before me had swept the skies clear, or that the Luftwaffe only flew on Hitler's birthday.

Saw First Jerry.

But my worries were soon dispelled, December 12th, 1943, will always mean more to me than just thirteen days until Christmas. It will always be remembered as the the day I saw my first Jerry, not only saw him, but watched him go down in flames.

On that Sunday afternoon, Johnny was accompanied by his navigator, the husky, dependable Jimmy Gibbons of Vancouver. With me Flying Officer Pete Huletsky of Montreal, a pair of Easterners and a pair from the West. We crossed the coast at low level and headed inland at a healthy clip. Pete was busy checking courses and keeping a keen watch for unfriendly aircraft. The visibility was good as we went over France. It was interesting to see farmers below us as they went about their work, clearing freshly-fallen snow, carrying in wood and doing other tasks. Some waved at us as we went racing by; others gave us a casual glance and then went on with ther work, only to turn quickly again as though startled at seeing aircraft without swastikas showing on the wings.

In places the country appeared rough, and the farms did not look too prosperous. After all, I thought how could they under German domination? But we did notice cattle grazing, and some of those T-Bone steaks on the hoof made our mouths water.

With Johnny and Gibby leading, we cruised some distance over France, steering clear of danger areas, hitting our turning points on the button, thanks to the excellent navigation of Gibby. We hadn't seen a sign of enemy aircraft, and it was very similar to an ordinary training flight.

Spot German

Suddenly the silence of the afternoon was broken. Over our radio came the voice of Johnny in the leading aircraft. "There's one", he said.

Looking ahead, and slightly above us, I saw my first German aircraft. It was a Heinkel medium bomber. To try and explain my feelings, and I'm sure those of Pete, is difficult now. I'm certain that my pulse rate trebled in those brief seconds. I remember I was amazed at the fact that instead of having the "bags of panic", I had anticipated, the excellent training we'd had made it almost second nature to expect enemy bandits.

It didn't take long for our Mosquitos to overtake the Jerry, and Johnny went in on the attack while we lagged back, protecting the rear. What a show! And we had a ringside seat, as did a few Frenchmen below us. They were gathered in a small group to witness the destruction of another unit of Goering's Luftwaffe that had helped despoil France.

Here we were, standing by, taking in a performance that would make a Stanley Cup final look like a Sunday School picnic from the viewpoint of thrills. We saw the first Mosquito belch fire from machine-gun and cannon and the Hun seemed to shake all over. Then it's port motor caught fire and we knew that Johnny and Gibby had really scored.

As suddenly as they had attacked, Johnny and Jimmy broke away and I realized that we were expected to go to work. I felt like a ball player who sits on the bench all season and then suddenly, in the final game, gets pushed into action by the coach with instructions to "Go get em".

"I don't know who pushed us, unless it was intuition, training and Johnny. As we went in, I heard Johnny's voice coming over the radio. He was saying .... 'Go get him Kipp, give him the works."

Before I realized it, I was doing just that. As we attacked, there were parts of the enemy port engine and fuselage flying past our Mossie. I saw strikes, and suddenly the enemy starboard motor caught fire, then the fuselage, and more parts than you'll find in a dollar watch started to fly off the Heinkel. I couldn't help wondering what kept the aircraft in the air. But it didn't stay for long. In less time than it takes to tell, it was all over. Jerry started to go down in a slow dive. We followed, so close that we could see the black crosses on the fuselage very plainly. He hit the ground and a great belch of flame shot skywards.

On Training Trip

We later learned that the Heinkel was undoubtedly on a training trip and I can't help but think of the difference in training conditions at home and in Europe. At home the training is carried out through the British Commonwealth Air Plan, with no fear of enemy aircraft interrupting. Hitler is up against a different proposition in the training of his aircrew.

Pete and I were mighty happy at seeing the Heinkel crash, more so I imagine than Johnny and Gibby. This was our first, they already had destroyed one and badly damaged another on a previous trip.

We reformed and continued on the course we had plotted. A few minutes later, Johnny's voice again came over the radio. "There's another one Kipp, straight ahead", he said. Once again, with Johnny leading the way, we repeated the tactics we'd used on the first Jerry. We saw strikes, then smoke, and the Heinkel started toward the ground. We'd reached a position almost immediately above an enemy airfield, and considered it high time to start scampering. We were therefore unable to determine whether or not we'd got a double or just a single for the afternoon's work. But Pete and I were certainly convinced it was a great Sunday afternoon. What say Johnny?

By FO. JOHN JOHNSON, R.C.A.F.

You're right, Kipper, it was, and I'm sure you'll agree that we should hand out a bouquet to Jimmy Gibbons, my navigator, and a mighty fine one, too. Jimmy is a genius at navigation, coupled with six-foot-two of perfectly condition and co-ordinated manhood. I'm only the chauffeur. Jimmy figures out the course and tells me what to do, and I do it.

The little job that Kipp has told you about was an operational one, slightly different from those we were accustomed to. I suppose that's what made it so interesting. However, we had careful briefing, perfect weather, and our trip to the first landmark was more or less uneventful. Thanks to Jimmy's perfect navigation we were exactly on course. The French countryside passed below us in such a manner that it almost had a lulling effect.

I suppose I must have sounded excited when I sighted the Heinkel and passed the word along to Kipp. As I advanced the throttles and closed in dead astern, the cannon and machine guns commenced their muttering bark at the touch of my finger and little pieces, about the size of dollar bills, started to fly off the enemy aircraft. We saw fire break out in the Hun's port motor and then my sight ceased to function and I peeled off. I looked at Jimmy and he was grinning, which I knew to be a good sign.

We watched Kipp and Pete get in their bursts and saw the starboard motor break into flames. Then there were flames from the fuselage and Kipp, as he peeled off, let go a shout of glee that came over the inter-com. No wonder. Jerry had gone down, crashed, cartwheeled and burst into flame in a snow-covered field.

In a happy voice Jimmy gave me the correct course and we moved on, until we came on the second Jerry about 5 minutes later. With my sight unserviceable, I just had to let go and trust to luck, in the longest burst I ever fired. Once again Jimmy was grinning as we got out of the way to allow Kipp to come in. I understood the reason for his grin, when he announced strikes on the wings and fuselage of the second Heinkel.

As Jimmy and I circled, after Kipper had made his attack, we couldn't see a sign of any other aircraft in the air but ourselves. So it would see that Kipp's point-blank three-second burst had finished the job on Jerry No. 2.

Jimmy gave me the course for home, and that was that. To-night I watched him play hockey, a defenceman on the station team. If the game had finished in time, I'll bet he'd have been back at the camp playing the trumpet with the station orchestra for a small dance being held. What a guy and what a navigator—husky and somewhat bashful, Jimmy, who just grins when we knock down one Jerry, grins again when we get a "probable" on a second, and does the same thing as he says "Thank you, sir,' when congratulated by the commanding officer on the success of our little sortie.

You're right, Kipper, it was quite a Sunday afternoon.

Imported Fruits Given Ceiling

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 —(CP) — The Prices Board today announced establishment of price ceilings on 49 kinds of imported fruits and vegetables—based on the United States price ceiling if one exists or on the price paid by the importer.

The main group affected by today's order includes artichokes, asparagus, broccoli, brussels sprouts, beans, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, egg-plant, endive, lettuce, parsley, peas, peppers, radishes, rhubarb, shallots, spinach, sweet potatoes, watercress, yams, apricots, cranberries, nectarines, pomegranates, persimmons, quince, canteloupes, cherries, limes, melons, pineapples, tomatoes, raspberries, strawberries, and tangerines.

"On each of these items, when imported by a wholesale distributor, a maximum mark-up of 17 per cent. of his selling price is permitted," the board said.

"When they are impoted by a retailer buying directly in carlots, a maximum mark-up of 41 per cent. of his selling price is allowed, while other retailers are permitted to add a mark-up of 35 per cent. of their selling price."

On tomatoes and watermelons the mark-up is not to exceed 25 per cent., 44 per cent., and 35 per cent. respectively.

Board officials said the mark-ups were computed to make allowances for shrinkage, wastage and other factors.

Toronto Police Seeking Women Attackers

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Toronto police, who detailed squads of men to-day to guard women workers going to and from war plants in the West-Central area, have announced they are holding two men on nominal charges of vagrancy for questioning in connection with two assaults on women war workers yesterday morning.

One of the women assaulted yesterday, Mrs. Charles Harper, lost her left eye as a result of a brutal attack which broke her spectacles and left her face bruised and bleeding. The other was Patricia Brand, whose spectacles also were smashed but who escaped serious injury. Both are workers at the John Inglis Company plant.

to be cooped up in the house alone from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 at night gets on my nerves, so it does not seem as though I can go on much longer. If I were out meeting people, it would make a world of difference.

UNHAPPY FATHER.

Father Should Cook in Restaurant

ANSWER—Why not bring a little commonsense to bear on the solution of your problem. Inasmuch as the father must evidently be a good cook, why does he not get a position in some restaurant, or even behind a lunch bar in a drug store where he will be away from home and meet people and earn a salary? In these times when any sort of competent cook is hard to get he could easily find a part-time job that would not be beyond his strength to fill.

The mind has so much to do with the body that it often works a miraculous cure in restoring ailing people to health, and my bet is that if this elderly man gets out where he will see people and be busy that he will not only be made well, but be a little ray of sunshine in his daughter's home, instead of a pall over it.

was an exciting tussle. The crowd got a kick out of the clash, especially when Flanagan was on the offensive. At one stage he dropped Dunlop twice with deadly accurate mule kicks and later he bowled him over a couple of time with well-aimed flying tackles and the fans just ate that up. The battle ended in a draw when Referee Maxwell counted both men out as they mixed things up on the arena floor after going through the ropes. Dunlop managed to get one hand caught in the strands and under that handicap took quite a lacing from Flanagan. The count came just before full time was up.

Referee Bert Maxwell returned to the job as third man in the ring and had the unusual experience once of getting an approving tap on the shoulder from Bunny Dunlop after a decision that favored the strong man. Fred Scates announced the gladiators and took care of the timing.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL.

"The Home and School movement is a living monument to the work of Mrs. Ada Courtice," said Mrs. E. Chambers, president of the Home and School Council, who was guest speaker at the King George Home and School Association meeting on Tuesday night. Mrs. Chambers took as her subject "The History, Aims, and Ideals of the Home and School Association."

The speaker said that Founder's Day dated back to 1916, when the Home and School movement was started by Mrs. Ada C. Courtice. Mrs. Courtice, whose ancestors came over on the Mayflower, was born in Bloomfield, Ontario, and started a private school for girls near Toronto, where she taught until 1916. She was a member of the Local Council of Women in Toronto, and, sitting in on the Board of Education meetings, her sympathies were aroused by the letters from parents which were read to the board.

She saw the influence in the United States of the National Congress of Parent and Teacher, and so started a similar movement in Canada.

"Following the death of Mrs. Courtice in 1924", continued Mrs. Chambers, "The Courtice Memorial Library was started. This library is available to all Home and School Associations."

Mrs. A. G. Stock, the president, was in the chair. Mrs. S. Mitchell, sang, "Land of Hope and Glory," and 'A Brown Bird Singing," and Mrs. R. C. Searles played two violin solos, "Romance," by Weienious-ski, and "The Cambric,'. from a negro operetta.

An educational address on current events was given by Mr. F. E. Kerr, and the attendance book was won by Miss M. Squire's room. Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Scriver and her committee at the close, and the announcement was made that Father's Night would be held in March.

28 Rinks Enter Bonspiel For CPC Trophy

By HERB MARTIN.

Playing on the fastest sheet of ice that has been in the rink this winter, a full quota of twenty-eight from clubs all around this district started out at 9.30 this morning in quest of the Canada Packers Trophy.

A. Dusbourg, of Kitchener, last year's winner, was on hand to defend the cup, but after looking over the entry list it would appear that he would have his hands full.

Ray P. Best, chairman of the bonspiel committee, welcomed the vistors, hoped they would all have a good time, and the bonspiel was on.

Boston Bruins grabbed off a 3 to 0 win over the fast-flying Canadiens last night. The loss will not hurt the Frenchmen very much but the victory was a lot of help to the Bruins as the race for playoff positions levels away into the fourth quarter. The Boston club needed that one and they played good hockey to hand the Canadiens the second shutout they have sustained this season. The rookie Kopak put the Bruins in front with a first period goal, the second session was scoreless and then the veteran Buzz Boll salted the win away with two counters in the last twenty minutes. The win put the Bruins tied with the Chicago Black Hawks for fourth place in the league race.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

WREN GWYNETH FLOWERS

After more than a year in the Royal Navy, Wren Gwyneth Flowers says she would not have missed the experience for anything, although there are times she has been homesick for Canada and her relatives in Peterborough.

"I am on radio work and find it most interesting. It consists of operating a switchboard, and radio telephone work and includes talking to ships and naval aircraft. Communications are the most interesting department of any service, especially, I think, the Navy.

"The Women's Royal Navy is, as the name implies, a definite service, part of the King's Navy, and not an Auxiliary force as the other two services are. We Wrens are very proud of this and the long line of traditions behind us."

In On Pushes

She explains that the girls work in "Watches" of eight hours, unless there is a "push" on, and then they are on duty for as long as they are needed. This is happening more frequently and Wren Flowers is now on combined operations, which has many new angles. Formerly stationed in Liverpool, her new post, which is secret, has proven much to her liking.

"You of course hear about the air raids on England. They are few and far between now. While I was in London on leave some time ago, there were two or three raids, but nothing serious. Then too, occasionally some of the coastal areas are shelled. I have met a number of Canadian boys over here, and while they are anxious to get home, they have been reasonably happy over here and I think England has taken them to her heart."

Wren Flowers lived in Peterborough for several years with her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Flowers, 417 Dublin St. and attended Queen Mary School.

Watch Your Letters

The importance of letter writing to soldiers overseas, and what should or should not be written in them, has been gone into thoroughly by John Steinbeck, war correspondent, who has had plenty of opportunities on which to base his observations.

"A group of men sit down together and they do not know one another but in a short time the wallets come out and pictures are passed about, pictures of wives and children. This is taken as a matter of course. No one is bored with it. And if a letter has been received, even a dull letter, it is usually read aloud and everyone is interested. And if the letters are worry letters, the man shows it in his face, and the Army doctors say that he often gets sick and doesn't even know what caused it."

Whining letters are particularly condemned. There's the wife who has been living with her in-laws and things are not going well. She writes that they are spoiling the baby and the baby is sick. She wishes she could move away but there isn't enough money and she hasn't been feeling well herself. Nothing you could put your finger on but just run down.

"He finished reading letter and his face was filled with worry. 'She's very delicate', he said. He pulled out the inevitable wallet and showed a picture of her. 'I wish she could go to California', he said. 'I wish I could send her.' He turned the letter over and there was a postscript which said: 'I don't know how long I can keep this up. I have to think a little bit of myself, and after all, I'm not getting any younger.'

"There was the threat, the thing that was putting worry in his face. He was putting in tremendous days of work and at night he had to go to bed with the picture of his wife going off with another man. And he would get no rest and after a while his stomach would go to pieces and he would be hospitalised.

Send Them Anyway

"Another man brought out a little book and in it were columns of dates and check marks, a year of them, a check mark for every day in the year. Every day a letter was written, they weren't terribly interesting letters, but one was written every day, and though he was late in knowing, he knew what happened every day, and there was no worry in him.

"This is a great time for wives. They will never in their lives be so beautiful as they are now. Their eyes will never be so bright, nor every kindness and every gentleness remembered the way it is now. They have great power now and so many of them misuse it. So many use it to hurt and to worry. And a man in the Army hasn't time for these things in the daytime. Only when he should be sleeping at night can he consider the overtones of letters or think up possible reasons why there are no letters.

"A man feels trapped. If something is wrong, there is nothing in the world that he can do about it. A large number of men have only one revenge for treatment of this kind. When they finally realize they are ignored and forgotten, they go out for other women. Their self respect demands it. But they are a curiously faithful crowd. They want terribly to be related to one woman and they build a picture of perfection which couldn't possibly be true, and they only abandon it when they have to.

Organized Effort

More praise is being sung about the great work the U.S.O. in the United States is doing for men in uniform, by LAC Roger Barrie, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barrie, 635 Water street, who has been stationed at Windsor, but has spent most of his spare time in Detroit.

Home on a recent leave, LAC Barrie said that he had made many visits to the main U.S.O. centre in Detroit where the men were given every facility they could think of. There were lounge rooms, rooms for bowling and other sports, reading and symphony lounges and a canteen. Everything is without charge, and a regular meal usually consisted of sandwiches, coffee, hot dogs, jam, bread and butter. The canteen also furnishes cigarettes. The food is supplied by a different organization each night.

There is a large staff of hostesses on duty and the girls will eat with the men, dance, play cards or escort them to any of the listed parties they care to attend. Universities and other organizations wanting service men at their parties, must fill out questionnaires and be sponsored by five people, before they are put on the U.S.O. invitation list.

Different times at the centre, this airman saw several famous stage personalities and attended symphony concerts, for which free tickets are always available. One night Olson, of the Olson and Johnson team was there, the new Henry Aldrich performer, and Marjorie Lawrence of the Metropolitan Opera. Another night the man who checked their coats, was a well known Detroit banker.

Transportation for soldiers is free of charge too, and conductors and pedestrians are helpful about directing boys, when they know the routes. Once LAC Barrie was late in setting out for Windsor, and he was trying to locate a taxi to get him to the train in time. He finally flagged one and when he driver found out the trouble he drove four miles out of his way to get him to the tunnel; the occupant of the taxi paid the fare.

The U.S.O. also furnishes a list of free lodging houses for the men. They are dormitories, often in hotels, run by the Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A. and other church organizations. He said that he generally stayed at the S.A. hostel and the men were always served coffee and hot doughnuts before retiring to immaculate beds. Some of these places are open all night and others are listed as closing at 2 o'clock. Full directions are given for reaching them.

Another custom, LAC Barrie noticed there, was that the gates are opened for service men to board the trains 15 minutes before train time, and civilians get what space is left.

Engine Room Artificer Stanley Gordon McDermott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. McDermott, 521 Chamberlain street, has been promoted from stoker first class following graduation from the Royal Canadian Navy's Mechanical Training Establishment on the west coast. He will continue his studies in electricity at the Navy's advanced training classes now being held at the University of Alberta, Edmonton.

Crop Yield Down

TORONTO, Feb. 9 —(CP) —The average crop yield of Ontario farms in the last 10 years showed a decrease from the preceding decade and immediate steps should be taken to put abandoned and deteriorating farms back into efficient production, Dr. G. L. Christie, President of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph said yesterday in an address to the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

KILL THE CORRECT HAND

RUINING the dummy, by taking out early the side entry for its long suit, is a principle of defensive play understood by everybody except relative beginners. But there are many times that fundamental should be reversed, and applied instead to the declarer's holding, killing the suit you know he holds by elim'nating his only possible side entry for it.

Seeing the spade Q lead from West, East acted almost automatically, coming up with his A so he could at once knock out of the dummy the luscious club A which stood as a positive side entry to help the declarer bring in the dummy's diamond suit.

That made it easy for South. Not worried about any suit now, as removal of the spade A left him with all safely stopped, he promptly gave up a diamond trick by leading a low one from the dummy. East played low and let West get that with the Q. Of course the defenders could have collected the two heart tops now, holding the declarer to 3-No Trumps, but they didn't do this. West returned a club, thinking that East probably had something there, and the declarer ran that suit and diamonds, too.

The beans were spilled, though, the moment that East returned a club to the second trick. He should have reckoned that he could not kill the diamonds if, as was almost sure, South had two of them, as he could duck one round and drop the others. South was marked with the spade K, from West's opening lead of the Q. If East had either ducked the opening lead, or won with the spade A and returned the suit, he would have killed South's club suit and given the declarer a sound thrashing.

Allies Repel Six Counters Across Anzio Beachhead

Cassino Battle Continues Through 7 Fiery Days Tanks Push Along Streets

Americans Recapture Some Ground In Bitter Encounters; Entire Allied Force On Defensive

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 10—(AP).—The Germans have launched a strong attempt to break through Allied lines on the Anzio beachhead, striking at six points along the Anglo-American defence perimeter, Allied headquarters here announced today.

Meanwhile, on the main 5th Army front, violent street-fighting continued at Cassino.

The fiercest of beachhead attacks came in the area north and west of Carroceto (Aprilia) where heavy fighting continued as British forces sought to stem the enemy plunges.

Three of the enemy thrusts were directed against American positions west of Cisterna but they were beaten back and some ground was recaptured.

An Allied headquarters spokesman said the position of the beachhead as a whole was a defensive one at present, with the Germans probing the perimeter from the northern coastal area to its southern extremity.

Allied forces struck heavily at German gun positions, communications and other targets just in front of the beachhead line, but these apparently did not prevent the Germans from building up their strength. The violence of the German artillery fire was increasing and the pressure of the German attacks was mounting.

The fighting at Cassino went into its seventh fiery day with no rest for either side.

In Smoke and Dust

Under a grim canopy of smoke and dust from mortar and artillery fire, the Germans clung to the greater part of the town, following to the letter their orders to resist to the bitter end.

Tanks rumbled through the streets and engaged in short sharp clashes at point-blank range. Allied troops crept among the stones to stab, shoot and kill with grenades the foe concealed in dugouts and ruined buildings. The Germans thus lost a few strongholds.

Northwest of the town Americans slowly approached the crest of Mount Cassino after having reached a point at one time within 75 yards of the ancient monastery at the peak.

This hill was being used by the Germans as the keystone of their defence as Cassino at its foot, and the Americans were showering one side of it with artillery and the other with bombs as they worked their painful way through pillboxes and emplacements held by the Germans as tenaciously as the cellars of the town itself.

Spare Monastery

Some of these pillboxes were protected by concrete walls at their mouths, and the Germans in them were receiving supplies at night. They were using the monastery itself as an artillery observation point, but the ancient landmark of christian culture still had been spared by Allied artillerymen.

Shells whizzed around the old towers where many civilians were reported sheltering, but there was no confirmation of reports that the monastery had been hit.

The Germans put in counter-attacks both north and south of Cassino to relieve their position, striking up Mount Albaneta, 1½ miles northwest of the town where they were repulsed.

South of Cassino they struck in the mountainous sector of Mount Ornito, 2½ miles northeast of Castelforte, but on this Garigliano river

Trapped Nazis Surrendering; Supplies Scarce

By EDDY GILMORE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Feb. 10. —(AP) — Russian Armies within eight miles of Krvoi Rog appeared to-day to have badly outflanked the iron centre from the south as some of their divisions streamed southwestward toward Kherson and Nikolaev on the Black Sea.

With strong Soviet formations poised for a blow from north of Krivoi Rog, others threatened the city of 197,000 from the south and east. To the rear, other divisions were chopping to btis the German 8th Army trapped in a narrow pocket near Cherkasy.

Advanced mobile Russian columns struggled through mud about 60 miles away from Khersor situated at the mouth of the Dnieper river. The large German garrison there has faced another Russian force across the Dnieper for months and the Nazi position was scarcely less perilous than that at Krivoi Rog. Nikolaev is 30 miles northwest of Kherson and is in peril of the third and fourth Russian armies of the Ukraine driving west from the Postolovo.

End Is Near.

A detailed map of the 10 German divisions trapped near Cherkasy showed the Russians were eight miles from Koesun, centre of the death ring. Seven Russian spearheads were driving in for the kill. The encircled area is 27 miles long

Strike Cripples Barge Industry

DETROIT, Feb. 10 (AP)—Production of Diesel engines for invasion craft was stopped this morning, a General Motors Corporation spokesman reported, by a strike affecting 3,000 employees at the corporation's Detroit Diesel engine division.

The spokesman said picket lines at the gates kept the day shift away from the plant.

The dispute began yesterday, the company said, when a small group of employees protested the discharge of a United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) Union committeeman for what was described as restriction of production.

The second shift yesterday reported in full, the spokesman continued, and an agreement was reached with union officials that production should be continued pending settlement of the grievance.

No comment was immediately available from the union.

Bombs Smash Brunswick, Gilze, Rijen

U.S. Planes Stage 10 Major Attacks In 13 Days

By W. W. HERCHER, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP) — U.S. heavy bombers today attacked targets at Brunswick in Central Germany, army headquarters announced.

Heavy bombers flew the 450-mile path to the German aircraft manufacturing centre, and the Berlin radio said savage fighting developed.

At the same time formations of other four-engined bombers smothered the big Nazi fighter base at Gilze-Rijen, Holland, and strong forces of U.S. two-engined bombers flew against military installations in Northern France.

The Gilze-Rijen attack probably knocked out many enemy fighters which would otherwise have been in the air against the bombers attacking Brunswick.

No figures on planes shot down on the Brunswick attack or on Allied losses were available immediately.

Hit Plane Plants

Several aircraft parts assembly plants are situated at Brunswick, including the Brunswick-Waggum Assembly factory which was hard hit previously. The city of about 200,000 persons was staggered with 2,000 tons of bombs in 23 minutes during an R.A.F. night attack Jan. 14, between the two previous American assaults.

The U.S. airforce now has conducted 10 major operations against the continent in the last 13 days.

The Marauders hammered at installations backing up the Nazis' Atlantic wall in Northern France for the third straight day after flying 550 sorties in 48 hours without a single loss.

The extended daylight sweeps across the Channel began immediately after R.A.F. Mosquito bombers ranged over unspecified targets in Western Germany last night.

Japs Expect Large Scale Attacks Soon On Malaya, Burma And Dutch East Indies

LONDON, Feb. 10—(CP)—Japanese military experts believe a large-scale offensive by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's forces in the Pacific is imminent and concede the possibility that sea-borne troops may be landed successfully in Malaya, Burma and elsewhere, the Berlin radio quoted a Tokyo dispatch as saying today.

"The offensive probably will be amphibious and synchronized with a land attack," said the dispatch. "The Japanese high command is preparing against landings at a number of points in Burma, Malaya, the Andamans and even in the former Dutch East Indies.

"In view of the great length of the coastline it is thought the enemy might well succeed in establishing one or more bridgeheads."

Post'War Training Grants Clarified For Soldiers

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP).—Pensions Minister Mackenzie announced today a number of changes in the post-discharge re-establishment order broadening the scope of the legislation which provides funds for vocational training and the completion of education for members of the armed forces.

Principal changes remove the restriction that vocational training and completion of education must be carried on in Canada. Many thousands of discharged personnel, who lost the right to benefits under the order because they entered war industry, are made eligible once more for the grants.

Under the changes for university education, discharged personnel may enter any university or college "of educational standards approved by the Minister." Provision is made that in the case of vocational training and completion of education, the Minister may approve the payment of grants to persons residing elsewhere than in Canada in special cases where training outside the Dominion is deemed advisable.

"At the outset of the war many fine American boys, for instance, came to Canada to enlist in our navy, our army and our air force," Mr. Mackenzie said. "We were glad to avail ourselves of their services at that time. We have a moral responsibility, even though they are citizens of another country, to assist in their rehabilitation the same as we do for Canadian service personnel. These amendments make that possible."

The amendment affecting men already discharged will permit them to take advantage of training grants under the post-discharge re-establishment order within 12 months after discharge or cessation of hostilities, whichever shall come at the later date. Under the previous regulation these benefits

Loaded Bus Hits Dwelling House Several Injured

HAMILTON, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Twenty-four persons were injured, none seriously, when a Hamilton Street Railway bus went out of control on Cannon street East and crashed into the home of Thomas Ross early today.

The force of the impact jarred the foundation. The bumper of the bus was found in the cellar after the vehicle had ground its way through a heavy brick verandah post and the floor.

The injured, including the driver, William Nauman, were removed to hospital in two ambulances and two police cars. Some were given first aid by Mrs. Ross.

Panic threatened when the crash occurred and women screamed as the trapped passengers began milling to get to the exit door. Several men in the back of the machine cautioned the occupants to remain calm and soon a side door was opened and the passengers left the bus hurriedly.

Those in the front part of the bus received the full force of the impact and had to be aided before they could get out.

Mr. Ross said the crash "sounded like an earthquake," cracking plaster in every room and buckling the floors. The impact, he added, threw the cement foundation blocks 10 feet in the basement.

No cause was determined immediately for the accident, the bus swerving suddenly from the street to crash across the sidewalk, demolished a cement pillar at the front of the Ross home and smash forward into the front of the house.

While Ross, cleaning shoes in the basement, thought the impact was an earthquake, his wife, who thought he had been fixing the furnace—thought it was a gas explosion. Then she ran to the front of the house and found the bus practically in her living room.

Ross aided police and passersby to extricate the driver, who was pinned to his seat by the crumpled bus front.

Included among those admitted to hospital were Harold Stage, leg and chest injuries, Harold Gornall, fractured ribs, William Bennett, broken leg, fractured ribs and shock, and Florence Tylodsky, leg and arm injuries.

British Fighting In Balkans

LONDON, Feb. 10—(CP).—Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced in a broadcast communique from his Yugoslav headquarters today that his guerillas have been joined by British units on Hvar—a strategic island which foms a bridgehead into the Balkans. Naval and military quarters in London said they had no report of any landing operation, however, and assumed it had not yet developed on a large scale. Any such operation would be directed from Algiers.

The British fighting alongside Tito's Partisans might be commandos, Marines or small army units put ashore in connection with naval activity, or might be groups of Britons who escaped Italian prison camps in northern Italy, it was pointed out.

It has been disclosed that British liaison groups are with the Partisans and that extensive supplies are being moved across the Adriatic to the Yugoslavs.

The Partisan communique also said British naval units had sunk four German sailing vessels off the Dalmatian coast.

The bulletin gave no details concerning operation on Hvar, saying merely:

"Our units and British units are operating successfully at Veliko Grablye on the Island of Hvar."

German troops were on the offensive in the coastal sector of Slovenia and Tito reported particularly heavy fighting around the mountain town of Kocevje, where the invaders were trying to get control of rail lines and highways leading to the port of Susak, a few miles east of the Italian naval base of Fiume.

Thirty miles below Susak in Lika Province in Croatia Axis troops and Partisans were locked in battle between Senj and Ogulin with indecisive results.

One hundred and twenty-five miles down the coast a German column was ambushed and routed at the town of Sinj, 15 miles northeast of the port of Split.

Diplomats Working To Pave Way For Invading Armies

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP).—Diplomatic preparations for the invasion of Europe appear to be in full swing here and in London, now with Spain, France, Italy and Finland as focal points of developing Allied foreign policy.

The objective is two-fold — to split off from Germany as much outside support and co-operation as possible, and to pave the way for invading forces striking from both the north and south.

Expected developments include:

France—Broadened recognition of the authority of the French National Committee of Liberation at Algiers which will assure its right to govern liberated areas of France until reasonably normal civil machinery can be set up to give them a voice in government.

Italy—Reconsideration of the whole question of keeping King Victor Emmanuel in power, a step which may result in his getting out before the Allied armies reach Rome; also expansion of the territory in southern Italy under the jurisdiction of the Italian government.

Spain—Close observation of the means which the Franco government employs to make good its announced intention of maintaining "strict neutrality." This is what the Allies want, instead of a "neutrality" favorable to Germany.

Finland—Use of whatever diplomatic measures may be possible in conjunction with Russian military actions, such as the recent bombings of Helsinki, to get Finland out of the war. Some authorities believe it still is not too late for the Finns to make peace with Russia and Britain and preserve their territorial integrity but they have little time in which to act.

A change in the American policy toward the French committee, headed by General Charles de Gaulle, was foreshadowed by disclosure in official quarters yesterday that the subject is under consideration by President Roosevelt and the United States War Department. Some announcement may be forthcoming from the White House relatively soon.

Reserve Army Cuts Training

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP). — A policy of streamlining has been adopted by the Canadian Reserve Army, cutting training from 40 to 30 days, reducing the number of full-time personnel and dropping units unable to maintain "satisfactory strength," it was announced to-day.

Defence Headquarters said that while the necessity for the Reserve Army remains unchanged it is possible "in view of the improvement in the military situation and the increased efficiency that has been achieved," to decrease the intensity of training during 1944.

The new 30-day training period—similar to that in peacetime—will be made up of 15 days' summer camp and 15 days' training in local headquarters.

Reduction in the number of full-time personnel is made possible, the announcement said, by the fact that training of part-time officers and non-commissioned officers has reached a stage where they are "sufficiently qualified" to instruct units without assitsance. While no statement was made as to future of the full-time personnel, it was indicated in Army circles that they would be absorbed into the Active Army.

Provision has been made in the new policy for further intensive training of officers and non-commissioned officers and specialists.

May Disband Some.

While no general change in the structure of the reserves is said to be contemplated, it is proposed that some measure of "streamlining" be made to ensure that all units maintain a "satisfactory standard" of efficiency. Units unable to make this grade will remain inactive until the end of the war.

It is not known immediately what reductions will be made in the numbers of administrative and training staffs, nor what units will be subject to "streamlining" developments or become dormant. This will be decided only after the situation in each district has been assessed by the district officer commanding and his recommendations submitted to defence headquarters.

Meanwhile, the role of the reserves is summarised as follows:

Chinese Oust Strong Jap Unit

NEW DEHLI, Feb. 10—(CP)—Chinese troops have driven the Japanese from their strong positions eight miles west of Taro in Northern Burma, an Allied communique said today, but ran into determined enem resistance 10 miles northeast of Taipha Ga in their drive to clear the way for the new Ledo road.

To the southeast British patrols operating on the Arakan front, where Japanese forces have made slight advances, discovered Tuesday night the town of Taung Bazaar which fell into the enemy's hands last week, had been evacuated.

The Japanese were still attacking west of Kaladan but Allied patrols repulsed three attacks Sunday, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

In the Tiddim sector of the Chin hills British troops were consolidating their positions around Fort White. Other forces smashed two enemy units near Sumprabum, 80 miles north of Myitkyina in Northern Burma.

Huon Campaign Nearing Finish

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 10—(AP)—Australian troops pushing up the New Guinea northeast coast are expected to make contact soon with American troops only seven miles away, practically ending the Huon Peninsula campaign which began five months ago.

An Australian officer at Allied Headquarters today expressed expectation of contact of the two forces and commented "the Jap is thoroughly beaten."

Late reports placed United States troops which made an invasion landing at Saidor Jan. 2, at old Yagomia, 15 miles below Saidor and only seven miles from the Aussies who have beaten their way along the coast 130 miles through jungle and bush in the past three months.

Today, Olen Clements, Associated Press War Correspondent, reported there was evidence that the Japanese have abandoned Madang. American bombing crews sweeping low over the base saw indications the enemy had blown up buildings there not already destroyed by repeated Allied bombings.

Clements said Australians of another force which has been fighting toward Madang in the Ramu valley have found Japanese soldiers dead of starvation and disease along trails in the rugged Finnisterre mountains, indicating they had been unable to get supplies from the Madang base.

Baltic Peoples Hate Nazis, Fear Reds

Business Men Suffered Under Russians, But Farmers Liked The System

By ROBERT STURDEVANT, Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10—(AP). — One of the world's strangest guerilla armies, composed of Russian parachutists, rebellious Balts and German deserters, is harassing the Nazis behind their Baltic defence lines as the Red Army presses them ever harder from in front.

It is a strange situation in these Baltic States which, taken into the Soviet in 1939, again face the prospect of Russian occupation.

Soviet troops are storming through Estonia, northernmost of the little countries, and the Germans have withdrawn the civilian population from Narva, eastern frontier town on the east bank of the Narova River, along which the Germans had built a defence line from the Gulf of Finland to Lake Peipus.

Construction of the Narova line was hampered to some degree by the strange guerilla army which has been hiding in the forest depths since the Russians retreated in 1941.

Some sources declare the Germans are the most hated people in the Baltic States, but that the Russians are the most feared. The paradox of the Baltic region, therefore, is that although the Nazis are despised, they are nevertheless getting some assistance from the natives as a result of the fear of Russia.

How much popular support the Russians will have when they have re-established themselves in the Baltic States is difficult to estimate. Property owners and business interests suffered most under Soviet rule in 1939 and 1940. Some tenant farmers felt benefits from the Soviet form of government and may welcome their return.

Curiously enough, about 2,000 Estonians are fighting in the Finnish army against Russia.

Britain-France Sign Pacts

Indicates Closer Co-operation After The War

By ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 10 —(CP Cable)— The new financial and mutual aid agreements, signed Tuesday between Britain and the French Committee of National Liberation, received wide approval here as assuring closer Anglo-French co-operation during the war and strengthening the foundation for post-war collaboration.

The Times said the agreements are "public proof of the growing vitality of relations between new France and this country .... The French Committee of National Liberation emerges from them with enhanced prestige and authority."

The Daily Telegraph said the agreements "point forward beyond co-operation in war to close concord for restoration of France as a great power."

London's French newspaper, France, applauded the arrangement and said "the two agreements are a happy augury for Franco-British co-operation after the war. It illustrates the consolidation of French participation in the common war effort."

Reds Dictate To Finland

Warns Russia Will Set New Border

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 —(AP)—Red Star, organ of the Red Army, gave an editorial warning to the Finns today that Russian forces, not Finnish collaborators with Hitler, would determine Finland's border.

At the same time it indicated more air raids against the Finns are coming.

The last official publication outlining the front showed the Finnish battleline touching the Gulf of Finland at a point 11½ miles north of Leningrad, and reaching across the Karelian isthmus to Lake Ladoga at a point 55 miles from the former capital of the Czars.

The front line held by the Finns now is the nearest threat to Leningrad since the Germans have been driven back into Estonia west of Leningrad and almost to Luga, southwest of the city.

The pre-war Finnish-Russian border was about 20 miles north of Leningrad on the Gulf of Finland shore and about 40 miles from the city on the shore of Lake Ladoga.

The front north of Ladoga has not been officially defined, but the Finns never have been able to penetrate deeply into the Soviet Union.

Drew Starts Reform In Education

Names 7 Men To Carry Out Proposed Changes

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)—Seven important appointments in the Ontario Department of Education were announced by Premier Drew last night in what he termed a major step in the government's program "to put fresh vigor into the provincial school system."

Dr. J. G. Althouse of Ailsa Craig, Ont., dean of the Ontario College of Education at the University of Toronto, was named to the new post of chief director of education. Premier Drew's statement termed Dr. Althouse "a recognized authority on Canadian education," who enjoys the confidence of Ontario educationists.

Dr. V. K. Greer, chief inspector of elementary schools, assumes the position of superintendent of elementary education, and A. G. Hooper, high school inspector, takes the post of superintendent of secondary education.

Dr. J. D. Campbell, C. F. Cannon and F. S. Rivers, principal of Ottawa Normal School, become assistant superintendents of elementary education. They will work under Dr. Greer, who is also named adviser of educational finance.

The seventh appointment is that of S. D. Holmes, science master at a Toronto Collegiate, as editor-in-chief of textbooks. Premier Drew's statement noted that the purpose of education should be to develop personal character and a sound attitude towards the community, the nation, the empire commonwealth and to humanity, and textbooks were vital in this regard.

This sweeping reorganization of the department follows thorough study of the requirements of the department, and appointment of Dr. Althouse as chief director is made in order that this program may be framed with due reference to educational thought in other parts of Canada, the premier stated.

Liberals-C.C.F. Tangle In House

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—The sonorous throne speech debate blown sky-high by a bitter Liberal-C.C.F. exchange, the House of Commons awaited further developments today with more party excitement than has been in evidence since the session started two weeks ago.

Yesterday the House had expected to vote on a sub-amendment to the address in reply to the throne speech, moved by J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspe) Tuesday night, and then proceed to the main Progressive Conservative amendment. This would have cleared the way for introduction of the war appropriation bill and a statement by Defence Minister Ralston on the position of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian army commander overseas.

Instead, the second speaker of the day—T. C. Douglas (C.C.F.-Weyburn)—criticized what he called the government's "failure" to disallow an act of the Saskatchewan provincial legislature which extended its life.

From there Mr. Douglas, Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader, went on to say only Prime Minister Mackenzie King, of all the cabinet members, had spoken in the throne speech debate; that the Liberals had failed to live up to promises made after the 1935 election; that the government had given no guarantee that social security proposals in the throne speech would be carried through; and that agricultural policies had not worked to the benefit of the farmer.

Protest from the Liberal benches as Mr. Douglas spoke turned into applause as Agriculture Minister Gardiner, himself a Saskatchewan member of parliament and long experienced in the public life of the Prairie province, rose to reply.

The excitement of the House grew as Mr. Gardiner talked and more members hurried to their seats from the corridors. The sub-amendment remained before the House at adjournment.

Mr. Gardiner said the ministers were to be commended, not condemned, for not speaking in the debate since it was considered essential that the debate be shortened as much as possible.

Mrs. Ball Is Hostess To Fairview W.A

FAIRVIEW, Feb. 10—(ENS)—The February meeting of Fairview Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Wesley Bell with a fair attendance. Mrs. Everett Cockburn was in charge of the devotions.

During the business period in charge of the president, Mrs. Wm. Fowler, the ladies made plans for a pot luck supper which will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 18, at 7 p.m.

Letters were received from Lorne Mullen, Bob Fettus and Gordon Mullen acknowledging Christmas parcels they received overseas.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. H. H. Mutton.

A quilt for Red Cross was finished during the afternoon and lunch was served.

"Thanks To Syntona I Feel Better Than In Many Years"

Was Formerly Rundown. Back Ached; Stomach Out of Order. Had Many Boils. Says The Herb Medicine Gave Her Grand Results.

"I really haven't felt so well in years, as I do right now, and I give Syntona all the credit for my improvement in health," said Mrs. Gladys Moore, 110 Edward Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"A few weeks ago I was miserable and in a very bad rundown condition. My stomach was badly out of order and my appetite was poor. What little food I did eat gave me heartburn and sour acid risings. I felt tired and so nervous I couldn't get my proper sleep at night. Sometimes I had rheumatic pains all through my joints and muscles and my back felt lame and sore. Then, I began to have boils, one right on top of another—terribly sore and painful. Nobody will know how I suffered with them.

"I often read what people all around here said about Syntona, so I decided to get some. Truly, it seemed this medicine was made for me alone. In a matter of days it relieved the sour condition and distress in my stomach. Then, as I kept taking it, I could almost feel the improvement that was taking place from day to day. I was eating better, the aches and pains gradually went away; I could feel my strength and energy coming back to me. Now my nerves are relaxed, I am getting sound sleep at night and, best of all, I am entirely free from boils. I am certainly happy to recommend Syntona to all others who suffer as I did."

Institute Plans Leap Year Dance

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10 (ENS)—The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall Monday, with the president, Mrs. R. Jones, presiding.

Several letters of thanks for Christmas parcels were received from sick and shut-ins around the village. Plans were made for a Leap-Year dance in the hall on February 29. A pair of flannelette blankets were purchased and donated to a family that had been burned out, and the treasurer reported a bank balance of $54.11.

A letter was read from the Federated Women's Institute, soliciting money for an emergency fund and $22 was granted.

The insurance on the library books has expired and is to be renewed with Mr. E. Fennell, and insurance is to be put on the piano and contents of the cupboard.

During the program, Mrs. James Freeman gave a reading, "St. Peter at the Golden Gate." Misses Shirley and Beverley Bennett gave two vocal duets, "Keep On Smiling" and "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There." Invitation are to be sent out to former members of the Junior Institute to join in the March meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. McCutcheon and Mrs. W. Woodbeck and a social half-hour enjoyed.

MONTREAL, Feb 10—(CP).—Munitions Minister Howe said here last night that more than 700 men serving on Canada's merchant ships have lost their lives at sea during the present war, and "about the same number of Canadian seamen serving on the ships of our Allies have also made the supreme sacrifice."

Newspapers Rap English Bishop

LONDON, Feb. 10 (CP)—Criticism by the Bishop of Chichester in the House of Lords yesterday of Allied bombing policy brought criticism of the Bishop himself in morning paper editorials.

The Bishop criticized Allied bombing of what he called "non-combatant, non-artillery and non-industrial objectives" and referred to obliteration bombing.

"It might have been thought such an attitude would have passed with the failure of appeasement which demonstrated how few Germans are reluctant to tread the path of unprovoked aggression as long as it was easy," the Daily Telegraph commented.

Bishop Chichester "allows himself the luxury" of protesting bombing, said Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express. The newspaper added: "We are not aiming to destroy German and Italian monuments, but war factories, government departments, military headquarters placed next door to them. As for Rome—if the Germans defend the city, they must be held responsible."

The Daily Herald challenged Lord Lang, former Archbishop of Canterbury, that people "exult and gloat" over bomb damage to Germany and said "if he is talking without evidence he should stop. He should have sense to realize that his accusations would be most useful to Goebbels."

The Herald contended that people "soberly accept" the government's contention that bombing is necessary "if the sufferings of Europe are to be relieved at the earliest possible moment" and added "it is not beyond the power of the United Nations to convince even inhabitants of enemy countries that bombing is inevitable and its purpose is the salvation of mankind."

German Attack Attained Initial Success

By HOMER BIGART
New York Herald Tribune Correspondent Distributed by The Canadian Press

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD Feb. 8 (Delayed)—It now may be revealed that a German counter-attack on the night of Feb. 3 attained initial success and succeeded for several hours in trapping thousands of British troops in a salient that then existed North of Carroceto and South of Rome.

Fortunately, the enemy was able to interpose fewer than 1,000 troops between the isolated British spearhead and the main Allied force. These troops were supported by six or eight 60-ton Tiger tanks that appeared at dawn on Feb. 4 on a ridge, only a few hundred yards from a highway which was the only possible route of escape.

The remarkable work of tank destroyers in knocking out four Tigers aided in restoring the situation. In the fierce, confused fighting, the British infantry not only broke up the trap but took 300 prisoners.

Lose Equipment

The bulk of the British force was extricated. Some equipment was lost.

Until late Friday, the situation remained disturbing. Reserves were put on the alert by the enemy capture of high ground dominating the main highway and preventing tanks from coming to the aid of the isolated force. A counter-attack was launched from the main Allied line narrowed the gap somewhat while British 25-pounders held off German reinforcements.

The German attack started an hour before midnight Thursday. Every enemy gun seemed trained on the long, thin salient where the British spearhead had halted 18 miles from Rome.

Their salient was about two miles long and scarcely a mile wide. The Germans were quick to exploit this extended position.

At 11.50 p.m. Tuesday enemy infantry was pouring through a wide breach and captured three British tanks. Reserves were alerted. At midnight came the disturbing news from the left: "Situation very bad. No answer from left flank."

It was estimated that at midnight, nearly a battalion of Germans had broken through. They overran the main highway far behind the British line and for a while the salient was tightly sealed.

Oddly, the Germans failed to maintain pressure frontally. Some forward units were therefore able to fall back and, in bitter fighting, clear the highway. The gap was closed at 2.30 a.m., and an hour later some companies were able to report: "Situation normal."

Tanks Routed.

Several enemy pockets remained, however, and toward dawn the Germans began pouring in again from the right.

Dawn found Mark VI tanks (Tigers) squatting on the low ridge a few hundred yards east of the highway. Tank destroyers took them on and, ignoring casualties, finally succeeded in driving them off.

But now the pressure on the left had increased greatly.

At 11 o'clock, the Germans threw in fresh troops and sent a large number of tanks against both sides of the neck of the salient. For a while contact was maintained by motorcycle messengers who sped down the highway under mortar and rifle fire.

At four o'clock, an Allied relief force attacked from Carroceto with a mission to close the one-mile gap.

To reach their lines of combat, the British relief force sped by truck up the highway plastered by enemy shells. The moving was remarkably free of casualties—only one driver was wounded.

As in most battles, opportunities for a decision were forfeited by both sides. The Germans failed to commit enough troops to seal off the salient. The British, with too few tanks among the forward elements, passed up the opportunity to capture hundreds of Germans in crashing through to the main defensive line. As it was, scores of Germans went free because at the moment no infantry was at hand to round them up.

Finns Seeking Way Out Of War

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10—(AP)—Peace-hungry Finland, caught as a German ally in the middle of a war she never wanted, was reported seeking a way out today on the basis of an American warning to act at once.

A Helsinki dispatch said there was a "possibility that preliminary decision were taken" at a cabinet session last night and added that the Finnish public "knows how important" any decisions will be.

At the same time the independent Helsingin Sanomat, making the first Finnish editorial comment on Secretary of State Cordell Hull's recent statement, said when the United States appeals to Finland to "step out of the war, this finds a deep echo among our peace-loving people."

While apparently seeking a path to peace, Finland is sending many children to Sweden to escape the horrors of any further air attacks such as those carried out Sunday night on Helsinki by Russian bombers.

The children began arriving in Sweden yesterday by plane and more are due today by air and boat. It is estimated in Stockholm that Sweden at present is sheltering 9,000 Finnish children.

applied only during the first 18 months after discharge.

"The change in this regulation was deemed advisable because, at the present time, many discharged persons are entering war industries in temporary dead-end jobs and may require training when such work is discontinued," Mr. Mackenzie said.

"These men in producing munitions of war, are still serving the country and contributing their part to the war effort. To deprive them of the opportunity to receive vocational training because of this temporary work would not be just nor in keeping with the spirit of Canada's rehabilitation program."

Other amendments permit the minister to extend the vocational training period beyond the 52 weeks at present existing for persons who require such additional training in order to earn a self-supporting wage.

Provision is made to give training to pensioners at any time as required, while a period of hospitalization or temporary incapacitation on grants and allowances is not taken into account when determining the period within which vocational training must be completed.

A further amendment will permit discharged persons to start on a rehabilitation training program while in hospital. These persons, as well as those employed, may take correspondence courses with fees paid by the state. In the case of employed persons, correspondence courses will be authorized only where suitable part-time or evening courses are not available.

Meat Rationing May Be Lifted

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—Consideration now "can be given" to abolition of meat rationing and discontinuance of meatless Tuesdays, Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question.

The Minister's brief statement followed a review by Agriculture Minister Gardiner of the Canadian Meat Supply situation, in reply to a question by John Blackmore, new Democracy Leader, as to whether permitting Canadian producers to dispose of some beef in the United States.

Mr. Gardiner gave the House figures on sharp increases in slaughterings which shortage of shipping space and congested storage made it difficult to handle.

But the Prices Board in a statement later said the meat-control situation would have to be reviewed "in relation to the needs of the United Kingdom."

"All present regulations will remain in force so long as the needs of the United Kingdom continue and provision for the necessary transportation arrangements can be worked out," the Board said.

Folowing Mr. Gardiner's statement Mark Senn (PC—Haldimand) asked whether the Government, in view of the situation would consider meatless Tuesdays.

Mr. Ilsley replied that "consideration can be given to that."

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, asked if consideration was actually being given to it and Mr. Ilsley replied: "perhaps I should have said 'will be given.'"

"What happens to be a surplus at the moment is due to lack of shipping facilities to move the surplus product immediately."

Steps were being taken to provide additional shipping space. The Meat Board has been able to accept immediate delivery of some 7,000,000 pounds of beef for export and this had an immediate effect on cow prices which firmed on all markets.

"There is every reason to believe that in future all surplus beef available will be handled and lifted as offered for export," Mr. Gardiner said.

Steps had also been taken to export surplus supplies of mutton and lamb in an effort to create a better market condition.

Robt. A. Elliott Dies Suddenly At Deloro Home

MARMORA, Feb. 10—(ENS).—The sudden passing of Robert A. Elliott at his home in Deloro about 6.30 p.m. Wednesday came as a distinct shock to the whole community.

Returning from a meeting in Toronto Wednesday morning on the C.P.R. train, which arrives at Bonarlaw at 12.40 p.m., he became ill. On reaching Marmora, he received medical attention from Dr. H. Crawford, who also attended him at his residence throughout the afternoon.

Mr. Elliott was widely known throughout Ontario for his business activities. At the time of his death, he was general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, Limited, with which he had been connected for about thirty years. He was a native of Woodstock, and a graduate of Queen's University. The late Mr. Elliott was chairman of the Deloro Safety Committee since its inception, and took a prominent part in all affairs pertaining to the welfare of the community in which he resided. He was Reeve of the village of Deloro for some years following a long term as councillor. In politics, he was an ardent Conservative and was in turn secretary and president of the Riding Association.

Mr. Elliott's high standing in his profession was reflected in his election last year as president of the Association of Professional Engineers.

Mr. Elliott had a keen interest in sports of all kinds, but chiefly in baseball. He was a past president of the O.B.A.A., an honor which came to him as a result of work in Central Ontario. Chairman of the last Hastings County Victory Loan drive, he was also a member of the United Church, attending St. An-

Police Theory Dubbed Absurd In Murder Case

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, 28-year-old daughter of the slain Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, last night described as "completely absurd and untrue" a veteran police lieutenant's theory that her mother was accidentally killed in her hotel room here Jan. 19 after they had engaged in a struggle for a revolver.

The latest theory advanced in the puzzling case was given yesterday by Lieut. John Quinn, one of the first officers to arrive at the scene of the crime. It climaxed a five-hour Coroner's inquest and contradicted previous theories that labelled the fatal shooting as the crime of a mysterious gunwoman.

Quinn's views on the slaying immediately were termed "too fantastic and "ridiculous," by Williams, a United States State Department attache, and as "fantastic beyond belief" by Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Robert A. Roos. Later, Mrs. Goodbody, who was not present when Quinn testified, asserted:—

"I'm withholding nothing. I've told everything I know that happened. I've told it over and over again."

The officer, a member of the department for 25 years, followed a dozen other witnesses who testified at the inquest.

Police have followed every angle in their investigation and the main theories were those of mistaken identity, robbery or revenge. Quinn's conclusions have not been publicly advanced by any other officer.

Earlier Mrs. Goodbody testified concerning the shooting of her mother, 55, wealthy and socially prominent in Chicago and Washington.

Her testimony varied little from her previous statements to police. She had been given the so-called lie-detector test and had been given a "clean bill" by police.

E. A. Curvin Observes 83rd Birthday Today

COBOURG, Feb. 10 — (ENS).— E. A. Curvin, popular resident of Cobourg, celebrated his 83rd birthday to-day. For the first time in many years he was ill a few months ago, but has regained his health and is back to his former vigor. A veteran lawn bowler, he is eagerly awaiting the return of spring and the resumption of his favorite game. He and his wife reside on Bagot street, and they have five children who are scattered throughout Canada and the United States, but always get home once a year for a family get-together. A son Tom resides in Peterborough.

MUFFINS CAN HELP KEEP YOU 'REGULAR'

Yes — by eating several delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN muffins every day, and drinking plenty of water, you can help prevent constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet!

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.

ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Canada. Your grocer has it, in 2 convenient sizes.

Cobourg Objective Set At $5,000 In Stamps

COBOURG, Feb. 10 — (ENS).— Cobourg will be asked to raise $5,000 in the Dimes for Victory campaign being conducted here by the food industries in Cobourg. Food stores, bakeries, restaurants, hotels, etc., are co-operating in the drive. Containers have been placed in the various stores along with numbered envelopes. A dime goes into each envelope and it is signed with the name of the donor. The proceeds are turned into War Savings Certificates and each week during the campaign there will be a draw at the local theatre and the winners will receive prizes in War Savings Certificates. Every cent goes into War Savings Certificates.

Town Clerk Applicants Threaten Legal Action

COBOURG, Feb. 10 (ENS)—Miss Hattie Hawkey, acting-town-clerk, who was one of the applicants for the position of deputy-town-clerk, has notified Councillor Clara Delany that she wants a retraction of the statement made by Mrs. Delany at last week's council meeting, and that failing to get a retraction she will take legal action. Mrs. Delany, in voicing her support of Roy Dodge for the job of deputy-town-clerk is reported as having said that the bailiff had been in the homes of two of the applicants. Another applicant, E. A. Hircock, has taken similar action against Mrs. Delany and in regard to the third applicant, who was Roy Henley, his father, John Henley, has issued a statement denying that the bailiff ever visited Roy Henley's home. Meanwhile the fourth applicant, Roy Dodge, has withdrawn his name because of all the dissension over the job.

Woman Still Missing

COBOURG, Feb. 10 (ENS) — No trace of Mrs. William Boulton, believed to have been drowned in Cobourg harbor has been found. She disappeared on the night of February 2 and on the following day, Chief W. J. Carey found a fur coat near the old life-saving station at the T-pier, which was later identified as belonging to the missing woman. Dragging operations were started but without success.

Board Reports Operating Loss Of $27,315

Financial review by the Board of Management of Nicholls Hospital at its annual meeting included the following statement of revenue and expenditure for 1943:

Revenues—From patients, private and semi-private, $126,381.25; from municipalities, for indigents, city $4,564.45, county $2,342.75; Provincial grant, $2,777.20; Endowment income, $10,478.97; miscellaneous, $1,492 26; total, $147,985.88.

Expenditure—Dietary, $31,527.17; alcohol, $384.27; drugs and medical supplies, $5,861.11; surgical supplies, $8,852; X-ray supplies, $1,230.16; X-ray repairs, $117.35; laboratory supplies, $109.84; furnishings, $5,294.34; housekeeping and cleaning, $2,146.03; laundry, $1,064.39; fuel, $7,356.70; light and power, $1,202.64; ice and water, $633.61; taxes, insurance and interest, $2,132.93; repairs and supplies, $3,754.58; printing, stationery, $2,180.87; telephone, $695.12; nursing and education, $1,356.93; miscellaneous, $1,270.65; George Street residences, $1,818.82; salaries and wages, $91,279.66; bad debt reserve, $2,600; replacements and additions, $1,686.10; commissions collecting, $745.93; operating loss for year, $27,315.34; total, $175,301.22.

Personnel Changes.

Changes in graduate personnel mentioned in the report from Miss Edith G. Young, superintendent of nursing, were as follows:

Miss Helen P. Talbot, B.Sc.N., University of Alberta, post-graduate in Teaching and Supervision, McGill University, replaced Miss L. M. Lambe as instructress of nursing.

Miss M. Pickens, graduate of Nicholls Hospital, post-graduate in Public Health from the University of Western Ontario, and a member of the staff for several years, was appointed Clinical Supervisor to replace Miss C. E. Williamson, who resigned to accept a position on the teaching staff of the Toronto General Hospital.

Miss M. Wainwright, graduate of Nichols Hospital, post-graduate in Operating Room Management and Supervision from the Montreal General Hospital, was appointed Operating Room Supervisor to replace Mis Audrey Edwards, who resigned to enter the Navy.

Miss B. Beer, graduate of Nicholls Hospital, was appointed head nurse on second floor to replace Miss Doris Linscott, who is now in the Army. It was not possible to secure a nurse with a certificate in supervision and teaching to fill this position.

Miss M. Burgess, graduate of Nicholls Hospital, post-graduate in Teaching and Supervision, University of Toronto, was appointed supervisor on first floor to replace Miss Worobetz, who resigned to accept a position on the teaching staff of the Regina General Hospital.

Mrs. A. Renwick, night Obstetrical Supervisor, resigned because of home duties and has not been replaced.

General Details

Sixteen general staff nurses have resigned during the year for the following reasons:

Two to take post-graduate work.
Three to be married.
Three for physical reasons.
Two to enter military service.
Two to take positions in local physicians' offices.
One to take position as night supervisor of Isolation Hospital.
Two to take positions in larger city hospitals.
One desired to return to her home school.

The problem of administration with the above staff changes has been great. The inauguration of the eight-hour day and the six-day week for both general staff and student nurses, together with increase in salary for supervisors, head nurses, and general staff nurses has done much to stabilize the nursing service and maintain the morale of the personnel involved.

During the year the daily average number of students enrolled has been 30.5.

Ten New Students.

Thirteen applicants were accepted as preliminary students, ten of whom have become members of the School. One student was rejected because of insufficient academic background, one for physical reasons, and the third because of failure in theory in the subjects of the preliminary course.

Twelve nurses received diplomas on June 3, 1943.

The graduate personnel as of December 31, 1943, included:—

One superintendent of Nursing.
One instructress of nursing.
One clinical supervisor.
One night supervisor.
Three supervisors of departments.
Three day head nurses.
One night head nurse.
Twenty-two general staff nurses.

The total general staff nursing days during the year has been 7,289, an average of 19.9 per day for the entire year.

The total student days during the year has been 9,108, an average of 24.9 per day for the entire year.

Total days special nursing during the year has been 3,105, an average of 2.8 per day for the three eight-hour periods.

RE-ELECTED — H. R. Sills, M.E.I.C., re-elected councillor to the Engineering Institute of Canada for the Peterborough branch, is assistant A.C. engineer for the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited. He is a graduate of Queen's University.

Weary Miners Recover Body

PITTSTON, Pa., Feb. 10—(AP).— The earth that opened up and swallowed two-year-old June Ann Fulmer gave up her body to weary rescue workers last night, and today the coroner began an investigation to fix responsibility for her death.

Investigations also were started by Pennsylvania mine inspectors and the Pittston Mine Cave Commission. Mayor John R. Reilly said he hoped they would lead to legislation to shore up the honeycomb of abandoned mine tunnels that undermine the town.

A mine cave-in opened a fissure in the earth under Jule Ann's feet Tuesday and she fell in. Then an earth slide along the side of the hole buried her alive. Rescuers removed tons of dirt to recover the body. It was the first fatal cave-in in a series that began several years ago and caused damage to many homes and public buildings.

Baptist Church Able To Pay Off Mortgage

COBOURG, Feb. 10 — (ENS).— Cobourg Baptist Church paid off its mortgage last year, it was revealed at the annual meeting of the Church Board. Reports showed increases in receipts in almost all departments, and in addition extensive alterations and repairs had been made, including repairs to the steeple after it had been struck by lightning. The attendance had also shown an increase. Miss D. Woods, on behalf of the young people, voiced the appreciation of the leadership of Rev. B. D. France, Mrs. France and Betty France. Miss E. Caffin presented Mrs. France with a bouquet of flowers. Tribute was paid to the memory of the late Miss E. Tapscott, who for many years was organist of the church.

Children At Westwood Raise $20 For Britain

WESTWOOD, Feb. 10—(ENS)— The School children of Westwood school S. S. No. 1 Asphodel have raised $20. and forwarded $10. to the British War Victims Fund, and the remaining $10. to the Milk for Britain Fund.

This money has been raised by combining the proceeds of the Christmas concert, with the amount realized by the sale of tickets on a hand-made quilt. Under the supervision of the teacher, Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge, three of the Junior pupils, all under 10 years of age, made the entire quilt top. After enlisting the aid of the local War Workers' Group to do the quilting, the pupils completed the work by selling tickets.

The quilt was won at a recent bingo party by Mrs. F. E. Birdsall. Much credit is due to Mrs. Brackenridge and the pupils for their benevolent work. The pupils are Hazel Neilson, Ruth Wood, and Jimmy Renwick.

Enemy Watches Strike Actions

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Reflecting the close attention with which American labor problems are followed in Axis countries, the Tokyo radio broadcast today these two items which the Domei news agency said had been received via Lisbon:

(1) "A dispatch from Fall River, Mass., said that the United States army took over operation of seven textile plants last night at the direction of Roosevelt owing to a strike by independent unions which struck against C.I.O. contracts with the mills."

(2) "A Kansas City dispatch said that 100 tons of war material lay on docks, in warehouses and on station platforms when 600 truck drivers employed by 41 companies walked out today protesting the War Labor Board's rfeusal to grant wage increases."

The items, included in the regular Domei news broadcast, were sandwiched between a Tokyo story on the recently concluded Diet session and a dispatch purporting to come from Lisbon which declared the Chinese were growing restive "over the absence of major action against the Japanese in Burma."

Family Allowances

Although the matter of family allowances is to be discussed during the present session of Parliament, we believe that there are still many people who are not sure what family allowances are, and we feel that a few words of explanation may be useful. Simply expressed, the scheme means that the Government will allow a fixed sum to all parents to help them in bringing up their children. In countries where the scheme is already at work, like Australia, the allowance usually begins with the second child, and a limit is placed on the number of children for whom allowances are payable. Thus a family might have seven children, and receive allowances only for the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth. There has been no sign yet of how many children the present Government expects to provide for.

All families with children receive these allowances, be they rich or poor. It is obvious, however, that the benefit is for the poor only, because where family allowances exist, there is no exemption on income tax for children. At present we are allowed an exemption of $108 for each child in income tax; that amounts to $9 a month, which is a probable sum for the family allowance. Thus the poor man who pays no income tax receives a tangible benefit from his family allowances; the man who pays tax pays his allowance back to the Government eventually. If, as is quite probable, the allowance were less than $9 a month, the wealthier citizens would actually be making a contribution to the maintenance of the children of poorer families.

It is illogical to complain that some people would be taxed to help bring up the children of others, for this is so today. Childless people have no income tax exemption for children at present, and thus they are, in a sense, taxed for that reason, and they contribute to the maintenance of children in a number of other ways.

It has been argued by representatives of Labour that family allowances would tend to reduce wage scales, and there may be some truth in this. Employers, they feel, would take the family allowances into account in reckoning wage scales, and reductions would be inevitable. Certainly complications of this sort would have to be reckoned with, for it is unlikely that a family allowance scheme would be greeted with unqualified approval in all quarters.

Everybody should know as much as possible about family allowances, for everybody is going to be affected by them in one way or another. Their advocates claim that they have been of great benefit wherever they have been tried, but we think that both Labour and Capital might have some interesting light to throw on the matter. When the debate on family allowances come up in the House of Commons, it should be followed closely by every citizen, for the plan will have to be thoroughly examined then, and its virtues and its faults clearly explained.

Dare We Call It Luck?

Not long ago we wrote in these columns about the part which pure chance, or luck, may play in a man's life. There are those who say that luck is really the result of hard work, or deserving well of fate, and they may be right. The subject is brought to mind by the report from that most interesting of laboratories, the psychological laboratory of Duke University at Durham, North Carolina, that it is possible to influence the cast of a pair of dice by concentration. At Duke, apparently those players who shout prayerfully, "Come seven, come eleven", get the numbers they want more often than those who do not. The experiments have been too prolonged to be upset by mere chance; they are good scientists at Duke. And yet their results defy the law of probability so dear to mathematicians.

There have always been people who believed that what happened to a man was the result of the sum-total of his personality; character is destiny, they said. Of course when they spoke of character they did not mean anything so shallow as will-power, or determination to succeed; they meant character as it exists in the plumbless depths of the mind, far beyond reach or control of the ordinary human being. Perhaps they were right; perhaps luck at dice, or business, or love is an outcome of all that a man is.

Cicero once made use of a quotation which is believed to have come from a lost play of Euripides; in the form in which he used it it ran thus, Volentem ducit, nolentem trahit; Latin is not our strong point, and we invite correction by experts, but we interpret this as meaning, Wishing leads onward, but denying betrays. Those whose attitude toward life and the problems it brings them is positive are more likely to reach a fixed goal than those whose thought and feeling is negative. The wisdom of the ages is in the apophthegm, and now the psychologists at Duke are trying to make a scientific fact of it. But many people who have kept their eyes open in the course of their daily lives are sure that it is true without laboratory proof.

Great Britain In Decline

The world is full of people who see a good time coming after the war. Indeed, to listen to some of them, one might think that a new Golden Age would begin immediately after an armistice was signed. The Very Rev. Dr. William R. Inge has come out of retirement at the age of 84 to squeeze his drop of aloes into this cup of honey. It is his opinion that Britain will not and cannot continue to be a great industrial country after the war.

He is quoted as saying: "I believe the episode in our history when we were a great wealthy nation has come to an end and we shall gradually slide back into pre-industrial England with a population of 20,000,000, consisting mainly of agriculturists working healthily in the open air, and a number of small tradesmen in town. Whether we like it or not, it is coming to that".

The Gloomy Dean has been indulging in wishful thinking. He dislikes industrial civilization, or rather, he thinks that civilization and a highly developed industry are incompatible. He may be right. Future historians will have to decide whether we have not sold our birthright for a mess of pottage, and whether our pursuit of production has not strangled the civilization which had its beginning in the Renaissance. But we are quite sure that Britain will follow the popular trend, and if it leads to destruction and barbarism, she will be one of the first countries to reach that state by that course of action. British business was world-wide before the Industrial Revolution, and Englishmen will not lose their place in world trade now.

It is unwise to dismiss Dean Inge's ideas as groundless. In his long lifetime he has had the courage to point out many unpleasant truths which shallower minds had sought to disregard. He may be right in condemning the modern industrial world as an error, but Great Britain is irretrievably committed to that error now, and nothing will deflect her from her course.

More About Opera In English

Last month our Brantford contemporary said his say about opera in English; if opera were sung in the vernacular tongue, said he, everyone would be able to understand it, and would enjoy it much more in consequence. We expressed our doubts on this point, and apparently our opinion is shared by Benjamin M. Steigman, who wrote these words for the New York Times:

Translated, won't the operatic word,
Outlandish and romantically blurred,
In clear-cut English seem a bit absurd?

Would it be fair to have this wished upon,
Say, "Caro nome,"...or "E lucevan,"...
Or "Mon coeur s'ouvre,"...or "Mein lieber Schwan"?...

Or have "Die Zauberflote's" jumbled sense,
"Il Trovatore's" dim intelligence,
Made too apparent to the audience?

Or mar the alien, enchanted air
Of Pelleas' forest, or of Siegfried's lair
With tourist sounds of—English spoken there?

Or—cede to Billy Rose these distant zones,
And to the local Carmen he enthrones
Add Mignon, Thais and Brunnhilde Jones?—

To which the answer is perhaps: Why ask,
When singers make the language sound so queer
You wonder if it's Greek or Czech or Basque—
Or English—that has reached your puzzled ear?

How many people ever know the plot of an opera anyway, whatever language it may be sung in? The stories as told in the program or by the radio announcer rarely seem to make any sense, and we are quite sure that many of the singers are not sure what they are doing or who they are supposed to be. Opera is great fun, and high art, but it is useless to pretend that it is either logical or serious; perhaps it is as well not to increase the general mystification by translating it into English.

Revise Our Tax System

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

OUR present taxation system contains — besides many less important faults—four intolerable injustices which do not exist in the British or United States system.

First, our tax laws are undemocratic.

In the minister of national revenue — which means actually in his deputy and other officials —the law vests almost dictatorial powers; and not only dictatorial powers but sweeping powers of discretion. The incidence of our income tax is no longer under the control of Parliament, whose general laws are interpreted in particular by officials very much as they see fit. Over a very wide area these officials interpret the law as they think wise—with varying effect on different taxpayers.

The honesty of these officials no one doubts. Their zeal is concentrated at all times on collecting a maximum of revenue for the government, which must have it to fight the war. But in a democratic country the citizens should never be subjected, if law can prevent it, to the varying opinions of officials, however sincere. As a fundamental right the citizens, dealing with the Government, must be kept on a basis of equality with the government before the law and this equality has ceased to exist in our income tax system.

THERE is, for instance, no adequate system of appeals against the arbitrary decisions of tax officials. The only appeal the taxpayer can make is to the Exchequer Court of Canada, a proceeding so costly that the ordinary citizen cannot possibly afford to undertake it; whereas quick and easy tribunals of appeal exist in Britain and the United States.

Again, 26 years after assessing a citizen for taxes, the Government can reopen the account and, saying it was mistaken in the first place, force him to pay more taxes for years long past. This is not permitted in Britain or the United States. On the other hand, one year after paying his taxes, the taxpayer cannot compel the Government to reopen his account, even if the tax was over-paid in the first place. Indeed, the Government is not actually bound to make a refund of over-paid taxes even within a year. Section 56 of the law merely says the Government "may" make the refund.

Finally, while the Government compels the taxpayer to pay interest on all under-payments of taxes, it pays the citizen no interest on the amounts that he over-pays by mistake. In Britain and the United States interest is paid to the citizen on his over-payments.

THE second injustice of our system is its method of taxing the same income twice.

When a company earns a profit the government at once takes forty per cent of this amount under the corporation tax. Thus the profits of all the shareholders have been heavily taxed. But when the remaining profits are distributed to the shareholders he is taxed on them again. The small investor is taxed twice and, worse than this, he is always taxed in the first place as if he were a rich man, at the high rate level on a rich corporation. Britain's peacetime taxation does not permit this injustice. It taxes profits only once.

It is not true, as some people may suspect, that the injustice of our system touches only large investors. Many people of small means have investments in corporations. Many widows depend on the income from such sources.

The third inequity of our system is even less defensible.

When a citizen invests in a government annuity, or in a life insurance company's pension plan, he invests his savings, his capital. Under our law, capital is not taxable. But when the annuity holder gradually withdraws his capital, in the form of pension, this capital is taxed as income. If the citizen had left his money in the bank and drew it out in installments in his age he would not be taxed. Because he has invested in an annuity—often in the Government's own annunity scheme—he is taxed. Only the interest earned by his investment while it is in the hands of the Government or insurance company is income and only this income should be taxed.

THE fourth weakness in our system is in its method of collection. Under the strain of war the income tax collecting machinery has bogged down. The overworked and often underpaid officials of the Government simply cannot keep abreast of the huge mass of returns now being filed by taxpayers. The result is that the taxpayer may not know for two years or more whether he has paid all his taxes, whether he owes the Government more (with severe penalties) or whether he has overpaid.

Meanwhile the Government cannot get around to collecting huge amounts due it from companies. In the last war these uncollected company levies piled up to such a total that in the end the Government had to write off something like $100,000,000 as uncollectable. The companies owing this money had disappeared, gone bankrupt, or were unable to pay when the Government got to them. If our present collection method is not simplified and strengthened immediately we shall be in danger of losses on a much larger scale after this war, in which tax rates are heavier. In that case the small taxpayer, the public or Canada, will be the victim.

The people are paying high taxes willingly now and will be ready to pay relatively high taxes after the war. But they will insist that these taxes be devised scientifically, enforced justly and collected efficiently.

An Urgent Reform

Without doubt one of the educational reforms which would meet with universal approbation in the Province would be that which would revise the scale of salaries of the teaching personnel, particularly of the country teachers. Is there a class which better deserves an increase than do our male and female teachers? For some years the commission has agreed to improve their position, profiting from the generous grants of the provincial secretary. The head of the Government does not mean to delay in the good work: he desires that, by a sort of collective agreement, the professors and teachers, male and female, should receive a return in accordance with their profession and their mission. Is it not fair that those who direct the training of the men of tomorrow should be the object of greater consideration?—L'Evenement-Journal, Quebec.

Hint to the Packers

May we suggest to the packing plant operators in Canada that, if they want to help Mr. Coldwell and the C.C.F., they'll pound down livestock prices every time a few too many animals come to market—without, of course, cutting the wholesale ceiling on meats.—Lethbridge Herald.

PACIFIC UMBRELLA —By Rube Goldberg

Old Fashioned Hot Foot

(NEW YORK TIMES)

ALL through the back country and pretty well down into the suburbs the old-fashioned foot-warmers have been hauled out of attics and musty storage closets this Winter. Rubber hot-water bottles have gone the way of rubber bands and automobile tires, but we kept our feet comfortable between the icy sheets, just the same.

There are several kinds of foot-warmers, and Grandmother knew them all, passed along the lore pertaining to them. In her day, there were rather swank ones made of soapstone. Then there were the makeshift kind, which were no more than flatirons. And there were the very prosaic ones which were nothing more than bricks, perferably hard, yellow bricks. The soapstone ones had their own covers, often quilted. The flatirons were usually wrapped in newspapers or towels. And so were the bricks. All, of course, were heated to a proper temperature on the kitchen range before being wrapped and placed in bed, preferably half an hour before bedtime. And all spread their comforting aura of warmth through the sheets and blankets and down into the mattress and, in due time, into the icy feet which sought them out.

That is the basic lore of foot-warmers, and it still holds true. Was there ever a more comforting sensation than to crawl down between those sheets and find that hot brick or flatiron or soapstone? Was there ever a more satisfying odor than the smell of hot newspaper, not quite scorching, which wafted up from the sheets as they were opened for one to crawl in?

Bedsocks are for those who need or like them. Electric pads have their rather pampering virtues—if you can get one. Hot-water bottles are all right—until they spring a leak. But the old-fashioned foot-warmer, soapstone, iron or brick, really made going to bed a pleasure. It still does, by gum!

Izvestia and the Vatican

(NEW YORK TIMES)

OF all the incendiary literary bombs manufactured in Moscow since the Teheran conference and thrown with such light-hearted recklessness into the unity of the Allied nations, none is likely to do greater damage than Izvestia's unjust and intemperate attack upon the Vatican as "pro-Fascist". The palpable insincerity of this document may be judged by one of the accusations it presents. It denounces the Vatican for having kept silent when Italy launched her "stab-in-the-back" attack on France in June, 1940. And where, may we ask, was Izvestia's own protest on that occasion? Where was the protest of the Soviet Government? History records that at the moment when Mussolini stabbed France in the back the Soviet Government was selling war supplies to Hitler.

There is no profit in recalling matters of this kind, or in raking over the old coals of what ought to be bygone disagreements. Izvestia makes it necessary to do so, as the only available means of measuring the good faith of its own attack. Izvestia is the official newspaper of the Soviet Government. It ought to be well enough informed to know that the Vatican, as a temporal power, is a neutral state with which Russia's two great allies, Britain and the United States, have friendly and confident relations. These nations have no doubt where the real sympathy of the Vatican lies in this struggle. They recognize the inescapable neutrality of the Pope's position; but they have had no difficulty in finding in his eloquent declarations clear evidence of his detestation for those who have violated the rights of the little nations, who have committed bestial acts from one end of Europe to the other and who have attempted to elevate the dogma of Totalitarianism to the dignity of a new religion.

Izvestia's attack is damaging to the unity on which victory depends. It is all the more disconcerting because it comes at the very moment when an Allied army stands at the gates of Rome and when an Allied commission, in which Russia is a full partner, must soon accept new responsibilities for salvaging what can be saved in Italy.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Good Idea

Howard Vincent O'Brien, one of our favorite columnists, writes in the Chicago Daily News that he had purchased a set of the new victory-type, stretchless garters. "Since then I have been trying to find a use for them." Might always use 'em to flog that fellow McCormick. — Ottawa Journal.

We Hope So

Because of the transportation situation, Wendell Willkie has withdrawn his objection to making Chicago the G.O.P. convention city. He probably hopes, however, that the Republican oratory will be loud enough to drown out any strange noises from the Tribune building.—New Yorker.

How It's Made

John D. Rockefeller once got down to his office without a cent in his pocket. Had to borrow carfare home from his secretary. "Be sure to remind me of this transaction," he said. "Oh, that's nothing, Mr. Rockefeller," replied the man. "Nothing!" exclaimed Rockefeller, "Why, a dime's two whole years' interest on a dollar."—From Liberty Magazine.

Issue for Decision

The big issue to be decided at Ottawa is: Shall we be for more and more government in business or for private enterprise with handcuffs taken off? Industry cannot finance these programs unless it is allowed to continue in business, expand and venture into new fields. This needs funds. The small change of savings out of excess profits will not do.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Too Much Paternalism

The Most Rev. Dr. Seager, Metropolitan of Ontario, criticizes the "temptation to look to the government to do everything." That has, indeed, become one of the curses of our times and it is meaning a loss of much of the sturdy independence upon which this Dominion and its institutions were builts. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

Racial Origin

The term "racial origin" as used in the census has a combined biological, cultural and geographical implication. In certain cases all three aspects are fairly clearly defined; in others the classification means little more than geographical origin, being distinct from birthplace classification, however, mainly in that it includes not only immigrants, but also their descendants. Hence the Canadian born, as well as the foreign born, are included in the number of persons of various racial origins.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Hard Fact Remains

All the protest and hot air about General Marshall's statement that the threatened railroad and steel strikes helped the Nazis eluded one very hard fact—that the proposed strikes would have interferred with the war effort. We know, of course, and have said many times, that the basic trouble is an unbalanced wage and price structure. We have been for tying wages and prices together. But it still remains true that you can't balance the price-wage structure by a strike that unbalances the war effort. A lot of liberals think it's "liberal" to jump all over Marshall. We remind them that liberals are responsible citizens or should be.—New York Post.

A Bible Message

And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there. And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel. (Matt. 15: 29-31.)

◆ ◆ ◆

And they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him.... And looking up to heaven, he sighed, and saith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened. And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain.

And he charged them that they should tell no man: but the more he charged them, so much the more a great deal they published it; and were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak. (Mark 7: 32, 34-37.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Cats, my dear!" said the spinster. "I hate the very sight of them. I had a sweet little canary and some cat got that. I had a perfect parrot, and some cat got that. I had an adorable fiance once, and—oh don't mention cats to me!"

A wealthy woman asked an assistant in the wool department of a big shop for instructions on how to make a dog's sweater.

"How big is the dog?" asked the salesgirl. The woman's illustrations were not very successful.

"Maybe you'd better bring him in," suggested the girl.

"Oh, I can't do that," said the woman. "It's to be a surprise for him."

Lincoln's Voice

The number of those who heard Lincoln speak, knew the timbre of his voice so that they would recognize it as his if they heard it reproduced, dwindles year by year. And it may be doubted whether these few can recall it after all these years. It has been said that Lincoln's voice was high-pitched—it is not an uncommon quality in the voices of tall men—but so far as we know it was a voice that carried well.

Almost all of the debates with Douglas were heard in the open air by crowds of people, and a man with a poor voice would have been at a disadvantage. He could not have made the deep impression on his hearers that Lincoln made. It was not what you would call an orator's voice—not the voice of a Webster or a Wendell Phillips or ever an Edward Everett—but, because of the intellectual power back of the phrases, simply uttered in almost a conversational tone, they carried a conviction of the absolute sincerity of the man, his downright earnestness.

The men who reported the debates — Carl Schurz for one had trouble taking him down—"His voice was clear, almost shrill. Every syllable was distinct. But the manner of his delivery was puzzling. He would speak several words with great rapidity, come to the word or phrase he wished to emphasize, and let his voice linger and bear on that, and then he would rush to the end of his sentence like lightning."

It is in the study of the Lincoln-Douglas debates, and the reading of Lincoln's addresses, especially the Cooper Union speech, and of his state papers, that we get the real measure of the man. They remove the distaste we sometimes feel after too liberal doses of the Weemsian trivialities with which the land is surfeited every time Lincoln's birthday rolls round. But the voice is lost to us. The voices of our recent presidents are not only familiar to millions of listeners but, at any rate since McKinley's time they have been preserved on phonograph records so that future generations will be able to hear them, marked by all the graces and imperfections with which they now come to us at frequent intervals by radio broadcast. School Pupils Using More Library Books

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10 — (ENS).—An increase in membership and the circulation of more books among public school pupils than ever before were two of the highlights from the report of Librarian Lillian Benor at the annual meeting of the Library Board here on Monday when R. H. Townsend was re-named chairman for the eighteenth time and Rev. H. R. Bryant took his place at the table for the first time.

Miss Benor's report gave a comprehensive review of the library's function during the past year. She disclosed that more people were reading, "even though their rate of reading has been slowed down by the pressure of an organized war effort" and books of fact were preferred to books of fiction.

There were fewer books published last year and in the opinion of Miss Benor there was also a "thinning of the quality." The rise of book prices was reflected in the book fund and in the past year the reading public had suffered "an irretrievable loss" in the death last year of such writers as Woolcott, Phelps, Zweig, Knight, Binyon and Benet. Total circulation for the year was 24,802, or an average of 12 books for each registered borrower or 8.8 per capita,. 19 books per registerde juvenile.

During the year 480 new books were placed on the shelves and these, classified as either adult or juvenile were: Philosophy 2-0; Religion, 3-2; Sociology, 4-32; Science, 1-2; Useful Arts, 9-10; Fine Arts, 1-0; Literature, 14-2; History, 37-2; Travel, 14-9; Biography, 13-1; Fiction, 204-116.

During the year 199 books were discarded leaving a total of 10,196 volumes in the library. Registration of 110 new members brought the total number to 2,001. Out of town members paid $48 in fees and $93.55 was collected in fines.

Books circulated during the year and classified as either adult or juvenile were: General Works, 718-0; Philosophy, 52-5; Religion, 55-81; Sociology, 86-1,242; Language, 0-1; Science, 39-427; Useful Arts, 110-291; Fine Arts, 74-72; Literature 151-135; History, 449-113; Travel, 281-317; Biography, 321-63; Fiction, 15,095-4,624.

The treasurer's report indicated it had cost approximately $2,100 to keep the library functioning and buy books and periodicals in 1943. Adult books of all types were billed at $462 and boys' and girls' books amounted to $213. This sttaement was also presented by Miss Benor, who has been carrying on the duties of treasurer during the past two years. Mr. E. H. Greig was re-elected secretary of the board.

Officers To Get Clothes Boost

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Defence Headquarters last night announced an adjustment in the clothing allowance for officers on active service whereby the amount paid an officer for his uniform allowance is increased to $250, considered more commensurate with the cost.

The order, effective as of Jan. 19 last, is not retroactive. The announcement said an amendment to general orders increases the cash allowance from the $150 which those officers on active service before Jan. 19 received to $250, which is to be paid henceforth to incoming officers who are posted to and are serving in a unit of the Canadian (Active) Army.

For those officers called out for duty or placed on active service, but not serving with a unit, the following allowance will be provided: $100 on completion of three months' service, $75 on completion of six months, and $75 on completion of 12 months' service.

The new rates apply as of Jan. 19. Before that date the payments were $50 after three months' service, $50 after six months, and $50 after 12 months.

The same increase applies to nursing sister dietitians, occupational therapists, physiotherapy aids and home sisters appointed to the Canadian Nursing Service, but not to other women who may be granted honorary commissions.

Vatican Protests Army Trespassing

LONDON, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The church will continue to offer charity to everyone, the Vatican radio said last night in commenting on Fascist police raid on historic St. Paul's Cathedral in Rome in which an Italian General and others were seized after seeking sanctuary there.

The Vatican radio declared Monday that by forcing entry into the Basilica, the Fascists had violated the Vatican's exterritorial rights, under which the Basilica is not subject to local or state authority, and asserted that a formal protest was made.

The broadcast last night, again quoting the Vatican newspaper Observatore Romano, mentioned "the hospitality granted to the arrested persons" and emphasized that "charity is for all, and rejectment and banishment are for none . . . This is a point on which the faithful and the priests will never be able to give in."

The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said Monday that 64 persons were arrested in the raid, including Italian officers, Jews, and youths attempting to evade German labor conscription.

Boxing Moguls Announce Judging Results

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission has started a boxing innovation that soon may become a universal practice—that of announcing from the ring how each judge voted.

The idea was tried out last night in Madison Square Garden at the Tippy Larkin-Lulu Costantino 10-rounder which Larkin, a 13-5 favorite, won easily.

It was the general opinion among ringsiders that the announcement was a good thing. Several pointed out that each official, knowing his vote would be publicily announced from the ring, would tend to be extra careful. Some doubtful persons asserted that the public announcement of the votes after a very close fight, for instance, might bring verbal abuse against the officials.

Gen. John Phelan, chairman of the commission, and promoter Mike Jacobs asserted the practice would be followed at future garden bouts.

As for the fight itself, it was one-sided with Larkin entertaining the crowd of 11,535 (gross gate $31,914) by using Costantino as an animated punching bag. Judge Joe Angello gave Costantino only one round and Judge Sam Robinson gave him two. Referee Arthur Susskind (Young Otto) gave Larkin nine and called one even.

Larkin forfeited a $1,000 bond by failing to make 137 pounds for the bout.

Guarantee Prices

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (CP)—Delegates to the closing Roman Catholic round table conference of the Bishops' committee for social questions decided that government-guaranteed farm prices should continue after the war, it was learned here yesterday.

Minister Would Protect Fish

TORONTO, Feb. 10—Visualizing Ontario as the playground of North America, Game and Fisheries Minister G. H. Dunbar last night warned commercial fishermen throughout the Province that his department would take a "firm stand with regard to issuance of more commercial licenses.

"What we want to do, when tourists come into our country," he said, "is sell our fish for $25, $50 and $75 per pound. We appreciate what the tourist trade has meant and will mean in the future," he told the Ontario Anglers and Hunters' Federation. "It is our intention to build up the Game and Fisheries Department until it is second to none in North America.

"This will mean we have to spend money. I am not a spendthrift, but I do believe in spending money for adequate returns," he declared. "Foreign licenses, in 1939, brought $600,000 into our revenues, but we don't want to stop at that but would rather have it $6,000,000. Every fishing license we sell means the tourist leaves $200, $300 or $500 in this Province, and we are going to make it the playground of North America if I have anything to say about it."

He appealed to members of the federation to bring their problems before the Government and said: "We want to give you the best government this Province has ever had, regardless of politics."

The Mary Pickford Trophy was presented by Mr. Dunbar to the Hamilton Angling and Hunting Association for meritorious conservation service.

Hornets Upset Hershey Bears

By The Canadian Press.

Hershey Bears—former American Hockey League leaders—lacked all their skill and speed they showed earlier in the season when they bowed to the lowly Pittsburg Hornets 3-1 last night.

It was only the ninth victory for Hornets in 40 starts this season. They have tied six other encounters. While it was only the 11th loss for Hershey, it was the second defeat in as many nights. Tuesday they were defeated 5-4 by Cleveland Barons.

Last night Pittsburg's Bob Gracie made his 100th goal in five years of playing.

Peggy O'Neill opened the scoring by giving Bears a 1-0 lead in the second period. Late in the period, however, Lloyd Roubell tied the score and in the third frame Wendell Jamieson put Hornets ahead. Gracie's tally clinched the game late in the period.

War Helps Fairs

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP).—Dr. G. I. Christie, president of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, said in an address here yesterday before the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Class "B" Fairs and Exhibitions that wartime cancellation of the mammoth exhibitions had brought "marvellous" improvement to smaller fairs by restoring them to their original purpose of encouraging betterment of farm produce and livestock.

Ray Best's Rink Captures C.P. Silver Cup

(By HERB MARTIN)

If it had not been for B. Kennedy's Bobcaygeon rink taken fourth prize, the Peterborough curlers would have made a grand slam in yesterday's annual bonspiel for the Canada Packer's Trophy. So completely did the local curlers dominate the play that four of the fine prizes stayed home.

It was for Ray Best, the veteran campaigner of our club to have the honor of skipping the winning rink. His rink played consistently all day and they breezed home a nice winner with three wins 36 + 12 points. Mr. Cruthers, Peterborough came second with 3 wins, 36 points, G. Braund, Peterborough then with 34 + 10 points and B. Kennedy, Bobcaygeon, fourth with 3 wins 29 + 3 points. E. Thomas also from Peterborough was high with two wins and therefore he qualified for the fifth prize.

Finished at 11:30

Play commenced around 9:30 a.m. and continued throughout the day until 11:30 in the evening. It was a real day for curling, and the bonspiel went off without a hitch. The spectators were treated to some real high class curling with probably the Kennedy-Diesbourg and the Braund-Sproule games attracting most attention.

The visitors were loud in their praise for the hospitality shown by the local curlers and particularly to the ladies, who under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Dunkerly did a grand job of looking after the "inner man". Mrs. Dunkerly and her committee certainly went all out to do their share in helping to make the bonspiel a success.

Tonight and tomorrow night we continue our schedule with double-headers.

Winning Rinks

1st—Peterborough: W. A. Graham, M. Wells, J. W. Richmond, R. P. Best, skip. Canada Packer's Trophy and each a blanket.

2nd—Peterborough: J. Hall, C. Crowe, G. Putnam, M. Cruthers, skip. Each a sweater coat.

3rd—Peterborough: V. Selkirk, A. Boorne, J. Sinclair, G. Braund, skip. Each a set of Pyrex.

5th—Peterborough: R. E. Akers, R. Carter, E. Williams, J. E. Thomas, skip. Each a thermos bottle.

SPORTS-Day by Day

King George School team who have led the Public School League from the opening the season have wound up their regular schedule undefeated. The Ashburnham youngsters completed their games Tuesday night by defeating their closest rivals, the King Edward team 7 goals to 3 in a game played at Sacred Heart Rink but they had a tough battle over most of the route before they finally opened up a margin in the final twenty minutes to make their win decisive. A big crowd witnessed the struggle and it was pronounced the best school game of the current season. Although beaten by the classy leaders the King Edward team did not succumb without making a real bid for the win that would have earned them a place in the playoffs. In fact it was anybody's ball game until the final period when the strong King George outfit finally asserted their superiority and won going away. The ice was fast and the two teams moved at top speed and made it an exciting argument, with plenty of good hockey dished out.

* * * * * *

Much to the surprise of the ultimate winners the King Edward team opened the scoring and they held the King George squad off the scoring for a considerable portion of the first period. Finally however the Ashburnham youngsters got their attack organized and fired two goals in succession to lead at the end of the first stanza 2 to 1. But the King Edward team was not through yet. They came back in the second period with a goal that again tied up the game at 2-2. However, sparked by Jeff Stock their smooth-working centre the King George team forged ahead again until the end of the middle session found them in front by only a solitary goal. They led 4 to 3 at that stage. Then the gallant losers began to fade a bit in the final canto and the King George team came on to score three goals without a reply. The win gives the winners undisputed possession of first place and puts them into the playoffs. Which team will be their opponents in the final round is still a matter of doubt as the identity of the second place team will depend upon the result of Saturday's games which complete the schedule.

Cage Playoffs Are Here

It is the playoff stage with the Ladies' Basketball League and the first games in the final round to decide the senior and intermediate championships will be staged tomorrow night at the Y.W.C.A. gym. The three teams in the running for senior honors are the Transports who finished in first place, without a loss this season, and have been given a bye into the finals, the St. John's team who wound up in the second slot and the third-place C.G.E. Generals. The Saints and Generals will tangle in a best two-of-three semi-final series to decide which outfit will meet Transports for the title. The first game between the two rivals will be staged in the opening game on the double bill tomorrow night, starting at 7.45 o'clock and it should be a honey. St. John's defeated Generals twice in the regular schedule but had a battle on their hands on both occasions and the playoff tussle between the two should be even more exciting. In the other bracket for the intermediate trophy Y Cadets and Normal School will open a best three-of-five series tomorrow night, clashing in the second game of the double-header and starting at 8.45 o'clock. They are very evenly matched and the series between them should provide plenty of interest.

Wrestling promoter Frank Tunney is co-operating with the Peterborough branch of the Food Industry in the War Saving Certificate campaign and next week's show at the Brock Street Arena will be under the patrnoage of the local committee. Thanks to the assistance of the wrestling moguls every patron of next Tuesday's show will receive a refund in the shape of a War Saving Stamp and it is expected that this arrangement will bring many folk to the arena who have never seen a modern wrestling match. Promoter Tunney is making sure that they will see something worth while for he has booked as the star attraction a main bout between Whipper Billy Watson, popular British Empire champion and the sensational blond bomber from the Pacific Coast Vic Holbrook who beat Dick Hogan here Tuesday night. Holbrook, lately discharged from the United States Rangers and before that a football player with the University of Southern California and a swimming star is six feet five inches in height, weighs 250 pounds and moves around like a cat. He and Watson will meet for the first time Tuesday night and it should prove one of the most thrilling exhibitions ever seen here for both men have plenty of wrestling class. The duel between Watson's unconscious commando weapon and Holbrook's equally effective abdominal stretch should be something for wrestling fans to remember.

Some Good Advice

Some of the best suggestions as to making selections for Hockey's Hall of Fame have been made by the veteran Montrealer, William Northey. Here is what Bill Walshe has to say about that in his Whig-Standard sport column: William Northey of Montreal, who still takes an active interest in the direction of hockey, has seen most of the major games, amateur or pro, for the last 50 years. He convinced Sir Montague Allan to turn the trophy over to the C.A.H.A. 36 years ago when the Eastern League turned profession and with the trophy went about $20,000 in cash which the C.A.H.A. has since multiplied. He told O'Brien that there is no way of judging old-timers by modern standards and cited for an example Mike Grant who was a sensational star around 1900. He gave a warning not to make territorial selections, so many for the east and so many for the west, as he said he feared the "purpose of the Hall of Fame to perpetuate great players would be ignored for the sake of politics." Northey's suggestion is to "appoint a few old-timers who were actively interested in the pre-1905 period and try to get them to agree honestly and unanimously on some truly greats of that era. Make them solely responsible. Then appoint a few younger veterans to consider the 1905-15 period. From that time on the chore will be much easier because records became comparatively complete from that time on. That will provide a solid basis but it will be essential that the Hall of Fame be kept ultra-select."

The sudden death of Robert A. Elliott of Deloro will be a shock to baseball men in Peterborough who remember the services to the game rendered by the general manager of the Deloro Mining and Smelting Company. Due to his great interest in baseball the small mining village became one of the strongholds of the diamond pastime in Ontario, not only in intermediate ball but afterward in the senior division for the Deloro club played for several seasons in the Central Ontario League and the Petes always enjoyed their trips to the home of the Elliott outfit. Mr. Elliott's keenness and his executive ability soon attracted attention in the governing body of baseball in Ontario and he was elected first as a member of the executive and later climbed to the position of president of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association. He was an enthusiastic, fair-minded baseball leader, genial, friendly and popular; incidentally he always had a warm spot in his heart for Peterborough and for Jake Solomon, Max Swanston and others connected with baseball in this city.

Anglers Seeking Committee To Study Game

TORONTO, Feb. 10—Representing angling and hunting organizations in all parts of the Province, the Ontario Hunters and Anglers' Federation yesterday passed a recommendation asking the Department of Game and Fisheries to co-operate in establishment of a government committee for "reference on questions of the most useful administration of natural resources."

The organization suggested that with respect to fisheries the committee be requested to give "special consideration to biological studies bearing on the best use which may be made of hatcheries, hatchery stock and other activities for increasing the production of game fish, game birds and mammals, and that is stress in particular a postwar program which will be most effective in bringing about this desired result."

The committee would also be urged to pay particular attention to effective enforcement of the law and regulations over camp owners, guides, boat liveries. Several resolutions urged the Government to devote additional revenue from the Game and Fisheries Department to restocking and surveying angling possibilities.

The resolutions committee reported that recommendations pertaining to a size limit for perch, and classification of pike as non-game fish "are not in the general interests of the Province as a whole."

More than 33 million acres of agricultural land in the United States will be producing most efficiently when it is deliberately set to the task of producing wildfire, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service and one of the continent's outstanding authorities on soil, told the association.

The land, he said, was unsuitable for conservation, grazing or forestry, as determined by a conservation needs survey recently completed in the United States. Ordinarily, the land so classified is either extremely rough, sandy, wet or arid. Increasingly it is being regarded as "wild-life land," he declared.

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP). — Herb Cain's 30 goals for Boston this season haven't raised much excitement, but the fact is 32-year-old Herb is the first Boston player to turn the trick since Cooney Weiland potted 43 in 1929-30. Surveying the complete National Hockey League field, only three players have shot 30 or more goals in a season since Charlie Conacher scored 36 for Toronto in 1934-35. The three recent 30-goal men were Doug Bentley of Chicago and Joe Benoit of Canadiens last season, and Lynn Patrick of Rangers the previous year....The scoring statistics show better distribution of scoring power is one reason Canadiens lead the league by such a wide margin. Nine Canadiens have scored 10 or more goals compared to Detroit's seven, Toronto and Boston's six, and Chicago and New York's five.

Records:

Information obtained by Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail shows at least two professional hockey players scored nine goals in a single game—Newsy Lalonde in 1910 for Renfrew Millionaires against Cobalt, and Tommy Smith in 1914 for Quebec Bulldogs against Montreal Wanderers.

Across Canada:

North America's peculiar style of wrestling caused a small riot in Vancouver when British sailors at a wrestling show thought there was dirty work afoot and invaded the ring. Vancouver Boxing and Wrestling Commission then suspended promotions by Lew White until White can satisfy the Commission his shows will produce no similar disturbances in future.....Crowd records of the Toronto Hockey League were smashed again last Saturday when 4,671 fans jammed Varsity Arena......Sudbury Frood Tigers expect to cut a figure in Allan Cup play-offs. They held Toronto's strong Navy team to a 4-4 tie in an exhibition game at North Bay....Tigers have familiar names — Dewey, Hastie, Singbush, Webster, Vaillancourt.

Incidentally:

Jack Ingoldsby, Toronto Leafs' 19-year-old winger, has joined the Army and Coach Hap Day fears the club will be short-handed on road trips until Mel Hill's broken ankle mends. Jackie McLean and Tommy O'Neill are unable to leave their university studies for out-of-town games. The cast is off Hill's leg now......Vince Lunny of the Montreal Standard has a piece in Esquire magazine knocking the N.H.L. play-off system designed to get "as much money from the customers as possible." St. Kitts Victors In Overtime Tilt

By The Canadian Press

For the second time this week, Toronto Navy forced a senior O.H.A. fixture into overtime last night but could not win out against the Saints at St. Catharines as on the previous occasion at Hamilton. The 6-4 verdict pushed the St. Catharines' crew farther out in front in the three-man race, five points to the good against Majors.

The Saints held a 2-1 advantage in the initial frame; No score flavored the second stanza but the Gobs rallied to tie it up 3-all before full time. Four of the game's 10 goals were notched in the extra session, St. Catharines getting three of them. The Majors now take on the Saints at Hamilton Friday night and the over-worked Sailors can enjoy a respite until Monday.

The scoring pathfinder for the winners was Red Reynolds who stood out with three counters, the balance being distributed among Blink Bellinger, Paul Mundrick and Fritz. Navy's tallies were split among Joe Klukey, Buz Benson and Livingstone.

The Kentucky Derby candidate, Director J. E., for whom Ella K. Bryson rejected a $75,000 bid, was only able to finish third in a four-horse race at Hialeah Park yesterday. Mettlesome, the winner, paid $4.50 for $2. Adulator was second.

Pitcher Bill Lee of the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday was re-classified 1-A in the army draft while word was received by the National League club officials Outfielder Jesse Pike had been inducted into the Navy. Lee is married and has a daughter.

Secretary of the New York Racing Commission since it was formed in 1934, John F. Shevlin resigned yesterday to become general manager of Jamaica and Aqueduct race tracks, New York.

Rejected.

Pitcher Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators returned to his Auburn, Ill., home yesterday after being rejected for the U.S. army at Chicago because of an old ankle injury. He will be available for the American League team this season.

The entry list of 128 rinks for the Ontario bonspiel, which opens Monday in Toronto, was reported last night to include 10 of the 12 finalists in the six trophy competitions one year ago. Among them are Don Best's rink from Kirkland Lake, Royal York trophy winner, and the Detroit rink of D. C. Fisk, defender of the Waterloo silverware.

At the annual meeting in New York last night of the North American Yacht Racing Union, Clinton H. Crane of New York was the choice for president and Thomas K. Wade of Toronto, was returned first vice-president. The Union has a membership of 290 clubs in Canada and the United States.

Pilots Barons

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — (AP). — Jack Sanford, formerly of the Pony League, has been appointed playing manager of the Wilkes-Barre Barons of the Eastern League, succeeding Tony Lazzeri, who was one-time manager of the Toronto International baseball team.

By HYE BOSSIN

The wild things that used to happen on the screens of theatres are becoming a reality in the theatre itself.

In Detroit a theatre manager was robbed of the receipts and murdered. Before he died he gave a description of the murderer, saying that he was an average looking man with a scar. While hunting the murderer police picked up a young Chinese for having a gun, a violation of his parole.

The Chinese confessed the robbery and killing. He had studied theatre makeup and was able to change the slant of his eyes and his complexion. He had painted the scar to add to the confusion.

And in Shea's, Toronto, last week a thief cut two large oil paintings out of their frames in the foyer and walked out with them.

How many times have you seen that on the screen?

Who do you think is England's favorite movie star? No, not English-born Bob Hope but Alan Ladd. A group of British publications have just awarded him a gold medal which can't be struck off until the war is over.

• • •

The leading father-and-son pair in the theatre profession are the Nugents, J. C. and Elliott. Each is an actor, writer and director and both have done fine film work. At the moment J. C. Nugent is taking it easy and son Elliott is on Broadway sharing the lead with Margaret Sullavan in the smash hit, "Voice of the Turtle."

While in Hollywood J. C. was acting in a film being directed by Elliott. There was a scene in which the senior Nugent played a drunk who fell downstairs. A director who doesn't like the way a scene is played orders it done again and again. Then he orders the "take" he thinks best — often the very last one — to be developed and the film of the others discarded.

Every time J. C. fell down the stairs he acquired a new bruise. And son Elliott took the scene over six times.

"Okay," he yelled to the camera crew, "we'll use the first 'take'!"

I'll bet the elder Nugent wished that Elliott was small enough to whip. Some joke.

Here is the tale of a haunted seaman, Jack Scott of Orillia and the Merchant Marine.

In Toronto Jack dropped in to see a Hopalong Cassidy movie. His next stop was Prescott, Ontario, where he saw Hopalong again. In Ogdensburg, New York, Cassidy was still holding the fort. In Montreal he had a few hours to spare and it was Hoppy or nothing. A seaman must stay close to his ship.

Next we find him in Halifax for a few hours but the nearest theatre was playing Hopalong, whom Scott hated by this time. He dashed across the bay to Yarmouth — but Hoppy was there ahead of him. He rushed back to another Halifax theatre but Cassidy was there too.

Next we find Scott in Port au Spain, Trinidad — and there was Hopalong Cassidy. His ship went on to Georgetown, British Guiana, which there is only one English-speaking theatre. You guessed it. Hopalong.

Home again to Orillia the other week, he thought he would visit a pal, a theatre house manager, and see a movie at the same time. The movie was a Hopalong Cassidy.

Hollywood ought to give Jack Scott a medal.

Cooper Squawks Over Contract

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10 (AP))—Morton Cooper, star pitcher of the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals, today joined his teammate, Third Baseman George Kurowski, in expressing dissatisfaction with contract terms for the 1944 season.

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, in mailing out contracts last week, said most players had been given salary increases, but Cooper said he was not offered a raise.

He declined to say what he received last year, except that it was more than $10,000, but he was not backward about stating his demand for the coming season—$17,500.

"However, I don't want to be classed as a holdout," Cooper asserted. "I'm sure when Mr. Breadon returns from New York we will get together and work this out."

Cooper won 22 games for the Cardinals in 1942 and again led the team's pitchers with 21 victories last year.

Kurowski, who winters in Reading, Pa., announced last week he was returning his contract unsigned. He said he felt the salary increase offered him was not sufficient.

Tangle Grows In N.H.L. Race

By The Canadian Press

It's a long way from the Montreal Canadiens at the top to the New York Rangers at the bottom—30 full games at this standing—but the four teams in between are ready for probably the greatest scramble since the start of the National Hockey League season.

Boston's surprising shut-out victory over the Canadiens on Tuesday set the stage. Detroit in second position is only a game ahead of Toronto; Chicago and Boston are tied only three points back.

It is on the third and fourth positions—the last play-off spots—that the interest centres, and this week's schedule provides opportunity for a thorough shift in the present alignment.

The Bruins' victory over Canadiens pulled them level with the Hawks in fourth place, and this deadlock should be settled tonight when Boston plays at Chicago. Either team, by taking two full points, can come within a point of the third-place Leafs.

Tonight's other game sees the Red Wings at New York, and unless the Rangers are away over their heads the Wings should strengthen their hold on second place.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 10.—(CP).—Jot down the Falcons as the team most likely to sweep through to the Canadian Army Overseas hockey championship. Here's why:

Led by a former Toronto Maple Leaf, the club features former professional and senior-calibre players. In topping the Canadian Reinforcements League the Falcons were unbeaten in six games. They scored 38 goals and allowed only six to drift into their cage.

A couple of dashing lieutenants make up the first string defence in Lex Chisholm of Oshawa, last season with Toronto Maple Leafs, and Moe Swords of Ottawa, an Ottawa Army team stalwart last year. Other rearguards are Pte. J. E. Callum, of Pembroke, Ont., formerly with Pembroke Lumber Kings, and Pte. J. B. Brown, of Medicine Hat, Alta., once of Kimberley Dynamiters.

The forward lines show plenty of skill and speed with such names as Ptes. Fred Giesbrecht of Pembroke, another Lumber King; Vince Germann of Regina, who has worn the colors of Hershey Bears and New York Rovers; Tommy Dunn of Medicine Hat, late of Trail Smoke Eaters, and Andy Bruce, who started with the Elks of Brandon, Man., and later performed with Montreal Army.

Among others are Lieuts. George Hood of Gananoque, Ont., Queen's University and Kingston Hockey Club, and Chappie Chappel of Oshawa, an Olympic hockeyist with the English team before the war, and Cpl. Leo Blondin of Ottawa, who played with Hull Volants. Pte. Carl Hewitt, Kingston, guards the nets.

Coach and master mind of the all-star outfit is Capt. Dave Campbell of Montreal, long associated there with Canadiens and Victorias. His assistant is Pte. Sammy Godin of Ottawa, who played with such pro clubs as Ottawa Senators, Buffalo Bisons and Cleveland Indians.

A full-blooded Indian who can give any amateur welterweight in Britain a hard battle, Tom Settee, did the expected as his outfit, the Regina Rifles, won nine of 11 bouts in the team boxing semi-finals of a Canadian divisoinal unit.

The husky rifleman from Prince Albert, Sask., who took the Canadian army crown two years ago, tuned up for this spring's individual title bouts by decisioning Gnr. R. A. Siddon of Alix, Alta., member of a field regiment.

The only knockout of the semi-finals came when Sgt. E. Miller, 206-pound artilleryman from Portage aL Prairie, Man., disposed of Rfmn. E. Kallichuk of Cupar, Sask., in the third round. The loser participated in the 1943 Canadian Army championships.

Editor Claims Cable Services Are Inadequate

LONDON, Feb. 10 (CP-Reuters). —Col., J. J. Astor yesterday told the annual meeting of the Empire Press Union that inadequate cable and wireless facilities between London and the Empire may result in New York supplanting London as an overseas news-clearing centre for the Dominions.

Col. Astor, president of the E. P.U., said the Union had obtained for the Empire press a flat rate of a penny a word in order to promote the flow of British news and views throughout the Empire, but said that owing to congestion this was not being achieved.

Acknowledging the difficulties, Col. Astor said, "we greatly hope that the government of the United Kingdom now will step in and make available to Cable and Wireless, Limited, all technicians and equipment together with the shipping necessary to ensure that relay stations are speedily erected, and will rectify the state of affairs which is deplorable."

"Whole days have passed with the merest trickle of news entering Australia and New Zealand, and then only in urgent-rate messages," he said.

"London, as the news centre of the Empire—if not of the world—must have adequate news channels if it is to maintain its status. Is it, however, keeping pace with those of the United States?"

Irving Douglas of Australia, said that Dominion press representatives in London were "frankly appalled" by the attitude of British authorities on this question.

Referring to the "real danger" of news to Australia and New Zealand flowing through non-British channels, Douglas said, "it is only the strong British sentiment of newspaper proprietors of Australia and New Zealand which has enabled them to resist pressure to transfer their offices for the main collection of overseas news from London to New York."

Soldier's Wife Finds Lodging

HALIFAX, Feb. 10 (CP)—Accommodations in a private home at Salmon River Bridge, Halifax County, have been offered Mrs., Maude King and her four children who are still homeless after being evicted from the Army Married Men's Quarters here last month.

A woman whose husband is overseas has inquired about the King family and offered to take them in as company for her own children and herself.

Mrs. King and four of her six children are living in the City Home. The other two already are being taken care of by private families here. They were forced to leave their home after the husband and father, Alfred King, was discharged from the army after 16½ years service.

Obituaries

MRS. DONALD DOUGLAS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10 — (ENS). — Word was received here Tuesday of the death of Milly E. Hayden, wife of Donald W. Douglas, who was for many years a resident of this town. Mrs. Douglas passed away in the General Hospital, Hamilton, on February 6, following an illness which extended over the past four months.

A native of Chatham, Mrs. Douglas came to Campbellford with her husband about thirty-five years ago and remained here until 1931 when the family moved to Hamilton. She was a former member of Westdale United church in Hamilton and will long be remembered by many friends in this town.

Surviving besides her husband are three sons, Flying Officer Eric H. Douglas (reported missing following operations in Sicily last August); FO. D. Paul Douglas also with the R.C.A.F., and Writer Evan M. Douglas, R.C.N.V.R. One sister, Mrs. Edgar W. Paul. Toronto, and one brother, Foster S. Hayden Buffalo, N.Y. also survive.

The remains are resting at the Dodsworth & Brown Funeral Home, 11 Main street, Hamilton, where services will be held this afternoon at 1.30 and interment will be made in Mount Pleasant cemetery, Toronto.

EDWARD B. ANDERSON

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10 (ENS) —Funeral services were held in Rylstone United church Monday afternoon for the late Edward B. Anderson, 54, for many years a farmer in Seymour township. A native of Rawdon, the late Mr. Anderson was a member of the Rylstone church and in his younger days belonged to the Sentinel L.O.L. He was well known as both farmer and dairyman, and highly respected throughout the community.

Mr. Anderson is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Curtis of Belmont township, and one son, Donald, with the Canadian Army, and one daughter, Mrs. William McComb of Bonarlaw, also a niece, Susan Herrington, who made her home with the Andersons. Two brothers, Maxwell of Rawdon and John of Prince George, B.C., and two sisters, Mrs. Alex. Green, Campbellford, and Mrs. Clara Merrill, Mount Morris, Michigan, also survive.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Holden and interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The pall bearers were W. T. Allan, Roger Lain, John McKeown, Chester. Irwin, F. M. Rutherford, and Harold Simpson. Flower bearers were Floyd Simpson, Jack Lisle, Harry Rowe, Allan Rutherford, Densmere Lain and Cecil Irwin.

JOHN RICKLES.

APSLEY, Feb. 10.—(ENS). — The funeral of the late John Rickles of Clanricarde was held Wednesday from Trinity United church.

Mr. Rickles, who died on the farm where he was born 68 years ago, had spent his entire life there. Besides his wife, formerly Lillian Todd, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bert Trotter, Lakefield, Mrs. H. E. Edwards, Apsley and fifteen grandchildren, namely, Lieut. Nursing Sister S. E. Trotter, AC2 Robert Trotter, Tpr. Albert Trotter, all overseas; Earl Trotter and Ruby Trotter of Toronto, Max Trotter of Peterborough, Frank, George, Carrie, Naomi, Ward, Sanford and Earnest, all of Lakefield; LAW. Doreen Edwards of Mountain View; and Betty Edwards at her home in Apsley. Two sisters, Mrs. C. Foster, Peterborough, Mrs. H. Elley, Shumacher and one brother, Joseph Bullied, of North Bay.

Rev. Edgar Burrett of Brampton, a personal friend of the family, conducted the service and offered words of comfort to the bereaved family. Mrs. G. Newell of Peterborough, sang a solo, "The Sunset Gate." Pallbearers were: Herbert Tucker, Malcolm Tucker, Zack Tucker, Thomas Hales, Gilbert Gilliland and Willard Budd. Flower bearers were the pallbearers and Goldie Newell and George Kiff.

Friends from a distance who attended the funeral included: Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Whyte, Mr. R. Dudley, Ruth and Bobbie Dudley, Earl Trotter, Ruby Trotter, of Toronto, Miss M. Pollard, Messrs. A. Pollard, George O'Neill, W. P. Hawthorne, M. Irwin, J. L. Moncrief of Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. G. Newell, Mr. Gordon Sharpe, Mr. George Kiff of Peterborough, Mr. Gordon Jackson of Bancroft, Mr. Roy Brown, Lakefield, Mr. Fred Sharpe, Warsaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwards Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Blewett, Bridgenorth, Mrs. Clara Grant, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hull, Clarina.

MRS. EDWARD PESTEL

EAST EMILY, Feb. 10—The death occurred in Nicholls Hospital on Thursday, Feb. 3 of an old and highly respected resident of Emily Township in the person of Mrs. Edward Pestel, formerly Mrs. John McCarrell.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jason Williamson of Pontypool. In November 1891 she married John McCarrell and lived on the same farm on the Lindsay highway, where her son Marwood now lives.

Her husband Mr. McCarrell predeceased her some years ago and later she married Edward Pestel, now overseas.

She was in her 77th years. She was a valued member of Bethel United Church and was organist for a number of years and also taught a Sunday School class.

Drew Starts

In connection with the appointment of Dr. Greer and his advisers, Premier Drew noted that among problems facing the department not the least is the financial support of schools, "aiming not only at the improvement of teachers' salaries but also at the equalization of educational opportunities."

Dr. Althouse graduated from the University of Toronto in 1912, served in collegiates at Strathroy and Galt and as principal of the Oshawa high school. In 1922 he became headmaster of the University of Toronto Schools and since 1934 has been deal of the Ontario College of Education.

their seats as representatives of the people, he said. Mr. Douglas was Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader. One of his party in the provincial house could resign and allow him to seek election there.

Mr. Douglas had been elected Provincial leader, said Mr. Gardiner, while the "real leader" (Maj. George Williams) was serving overseas.

Mr. Gardiner said the principles of Liberalism as adopted by the party had been placed on Provincial statute books in provinces where the Liberals were in power. The central government did not attempt to dictate to the provinces.

Government action in closing the Winnipeg wheat market and purchasing wheat had made possible participation certificate payments on 1940, 1941 and 1942 wheat. The Government had guaranteed a price of $1.25 a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern, and now wheat was being sold at more than this floor price. Farmers would share in this gain through their certificates.

Mr. Douglas had claimed the time had come when the production of hogs was down; but if marketings continued at the level of the last three months Canada would have close to 1,000,000 pounds of bacon to send to the United Kingdom this year.

The contract requirements call for shipping 900,000,000 pounds in the next two years but Britain has been ready to take all available.

The C.C.F., he said, was not big enough to admit that agricultural production was reaching greater heights of production in spite of charges that the Government had "muddled" manpower policies.

"Greater farm production does not indicate a muddle," said Mr. Gardiner.

Despite reduction of manpower and womanpower on the farms by 500,000, farm production had increased 48 per cent. The only way for Canada to give full employment was to produce everything Canada could produce in the greatest possible quantity, then look for things which could be traded for in other countries.

This Liberal policy of trading with the world had worked despite the threat of war in the period of 1935 to 1939. The C.C.F. leaders, instead of that, offered socialism.

Under a Liberal government trade before the war had been increased 50 per cent in spite of the threat of hostilities. The C.C.F. had called for socialism and their representatives had gone to the only countries where there was national socialism overseas.

"They went to those countries which they said had learned the value of control in the last war—there were three of them—and they contended we should apply it to this country," Mr. Gardiner said.

Resent Name

"They are trying now to get away from the label of national socialism that has been placed on them."

Mr. Coldwell rose on a point of order and said Canada was at war with the National Socialist states and to call any group in the House National Socialists was unwarranted.

"There is no name that describes them so well," replied Mr. Gardiner.

Canadians had to ride the rods in the depression because Canadian products could not be marketed in countries like Germany and Italy, he continued.

"My friends have sent their emissaries over to these countries to examine into their institutions, and they came back here and said 'Apply them here.'"

C.C.F. members jumped up and demanded that Mr. Gardiner where the statement had been made.

"Name one of the emissaries," said Mr. Coldwell.

Mr. Gardiner said Maj. Williams had visited Russia and other European countries and written a book.

Others who wrote books and whose principles were followed by the C.C.F. had said that countries which adopted controls opposed to the Canadian free way of living were the countries where men were not riding rods, and had argued that Canada should adopt some similar system.

Nazi Officer Asks Troops To Surrender

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 — (AP) — General Walter von Seydlitz, German artillery officer captured by the Russians at Stalingrad last year, appealed to German officers and soldiers along the entire Eastern front to surrender to the Red Army, a Moscow broadcast recorded by monitors of the United States Federal Communications Commission last night said.

Echoing the radio appeal he made on Saturday night from Moscow to members of 10 German divisions trapped south-west of Cherkasy, Von Seydlitz broadcast a plea to his former comrades-in-arms to "come over to the side of the Free Germany National Committee," save their own lives and help to create "a truly free and really independent Germany."

Von Seydlitz, President of the Soviet-sponsored Union of German Officers, is also vice-president of the "Free Germany National Committee" in Moscow.

Declaring he was speaking in "the hour of greatest danger for the entire German eastern front," Von Seylitz was quoted last night as saying:

"What we have warningly foretold for months and months past — a great winter catastrophe for the German armies in the east—is facing you now, irrevocably and unavoidably.

The Bitter Truth.

"That is the bitter and undiluted truth. Since Stalingrad, Hitler has led you from defeat to defeat. In his irresponsible and megalomaniac conceit, he does not shy now from recklessly exposing you after 4½ years of heroic fighting to the untold misery of ignominious, humiliating and complete disintegration, unworthy of German soldiers. Hitler has gambled away everything and is now faced, not by victory, but by certain destruction."

Asking the German troops if they could still believe in Hitler's promises under such conditions," Von Seydlitz said:

"We want to save what there is left to save from this chaos of utter collapse. To bring back our Fatherland from this ocean of errors to the firm ground of a truly free and really independent Germany."

Similar appeals were made by Lt.-Gen. Alexander Von Daniels and a Col. Czemates, members of the Union of Berlin Officers, who also were captured at Stalingrad. They will be re-broadcast to-day, Moscow said.

SECOND TRIP OVERSEAS—A cable from PO. Fred J. Weir announcing his safe arrival overseas was received recently by his brother, William Weir, Omemee. PO. Weir has spent a month's leave in Canada, having completed a tour of operations in the Middle East (in Egypt, Libya and Malta). He expected to return immediately to operations. PO. Weir was decorated at Lachine, Que., on January 17, receiving at that time "gold wings" in a ceremony which was the first of its kind to be held in Canada. These gold wings signify the completion of one tour of operations over enemy territory and gold bars are to be added for additional tours.

Bank clearings for the past week totalled $893,168, one of the smallest in recent months, it was reported by the clearing house today.

OPEN MEETING

The Kiwanis Club will hold an open meeting Friday, with the regular monthly report of the executive on club activities to be discussed.

INADEQUATE LIGHTS.

Failure to have adequate lights on his truck cost W. G. Fowler a fine of $5 and costs in police court this morning after he had entered a written plea of guilty to the charge.

PARKING PENALTIES.

During January 120 infractions of the parking regulations brought $1 each to the city treasury as reported to the council Monday by City Clerk Outram.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

S. W. Canniff, general manager of the Ottawa Hydro-Electric Power Commission, was elected Tuesday president of the Association of the Municipal Electrical Utilities. He is a graduate of Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

RANGERS RECRUIT THREE

Three recruits from Peterborough have been taken on strength of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R.F.) during the past week. They are George E. Johns, 497 Aylmer street; William R. Warrington, 141 Rubidge street, and Raymond W. Martin, 591 Payne avenue.

SCHEDULE CHANGED.

Pte. Lillian Bailey, who is now in charge of the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Office, has drawn up the following schedule for office hours. From Monday to Friday the office will be open from 12 to 2, and 4 to 6 p.m.; Saturday from 2 until 5. Monday and Wednesday nights, it will be open from 7 to 9.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

The council this week received a letter from Alderman Bradburn thanking the members for flowers during his recent illness at St. Joseph's Hospital. He wrote that he was allowed out for a short walk a few days ago, since his return to his home, and was glad to be getting his strength back although it would be some time yet before he could resume his regular routine.

SIX ENLIST

In the past week six men have enlisted for active service in the army through the recruiting office at the Armouries. They are S. H. Anderson, 1013 Water street; C. E. McGrayne, R.R. No. 2, Hastings; T. M. Seymour, Hastings; Charles Palmer, Bethany; L. H. Fallis, R.R. No. 1, Pontypool; Max A. Bloom, Haliburton.

RECEIVES WINGS

Daniel Robert Loescher, youngest son of Mrs. W. K. Loescher, 341 Rubidge street, and the late Paul Loescher, graduated recently at Centralia and received his wings as a pilot officer. Enlisting in November, 1942, P.O. Loescher, who is 28, worked for the Goodyear Tire Co. in Toronto before joining up, and he had attended King George School and the Collegiate here. He is now posted to a station out West. A brother, Rudolph, is training as a navigator at Toronto.

CLINIC SETS RECORD.

Proof that recent appeals for larger turnouts of blood donors have met with success was contained in the announcement that 108 contributors passed through the portals of the Clinic Wednesday to establish a new high for blood donations in any one day in this city. Local plants sent over large contingents of employees, with 40 from the C.G.E. and Genelco, a sizable group from the Outboard Marine, and others from De Laval, Brinton Carpet Co., Raybestos, Quaker Oats, Nashua Paper Co. and Peterborough Canoe. Out-of-town donors were from Lakefield and Keene. Robert J. Laing of Toronto, who was travelling through, gave his 18th donation; Herbert Youngs of the C.G.E., his 8th; and seventh donations were given by Alexander Anderson, Harold Darling and James Stephenson.

IN OPERETTA.

John E. Thexton, R.R. 5, Peterborough, was a member of the cast of the Queen's University Glee Club presentation of the Gilbert & Sullivan operetta "The Gondoliers" this week.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE.

Lt.-Col. Walter Bapty, officer commanding No. 32 Basic Training Centre, was at Kingston this week attending a conference of high officers of Military District No.3. Held at Barriefield training centre, the meeting discussed problems affecting officers and men of the Canadian Army in the district.

IN TORONTO.

H. A. Cranfield, of the C.G.E., chairman of the Central Ontario Division of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, and H. T. Cranford, of the Westclox, attended a meeting of the Metal Trades Safety Association at the Royal York Hotel this week. It was decided to hold the annual meeting at the Royal York Hotel on April 17.

A HIT-AND-RUN ACCIDENT.

Struck by a hit-and-run car, an automobile belonging to Bernard Pammett was considerably damaged on Water street last night. Pammett's automobile was parked on the west side of the street, between London and Dublin streets, and the hit-and-run machine, travelling north, crashed into the motionless car and drove it over the curb. Then it sped up Water street without stopping.

FIRE REPORT

Children playing with matches set fire to a bed in the home of George Blodgett, 543 Gilchrist street, Wednesday afternoon. Called at 3:22 p.m., firemen succeeded quickly in extinguishing the flames, and only slight damage was caused. A short time after there was an alarm from 99 Hunter street west, P. Gosselin, and another this morning at 9:55 from 310 Louis street, F. Bye. These were caused by chimney troubles and overheated pipes, and no damage ensued.

SENDS HIS THANKS.

From Sub. Lieutenant John L. Knox, R.C.N.V.R., comes a letter of thanks for the Christmas ditty bag sent him by the local Navy Auxiliary. Lieut. Knox says: "It was a most pleasant surprise for me to find a ditty bag from the Peterborough Navy Auxiliary in to-day's mail. Evidently it had been following me around since Christmas. However, six weeks is rather good delivery. I have seen them take six months. The circular inclosed brought back memories of the happy days I spent in your city and I sincerely hope to return at the end of hostilities."

DESIRABLE CORNER

The southwest corner of Park and Romaine streets has been occasionally mentioned as an ideal site for a branch public library in the day of annexation. The City Council has begun enquiry into site, cost and so on relating to an auxiliary fire station, but no one has mentioned a community library with some emphasis on occupational literature and guidance. One citizen who is interested in such a project suggested the other day that the Council has so far saved more money in the snow removal bill than would build a couple of community libraries.

NOW OVERSEAS — Word has been received by Mrs. S. King, 210 Antrim Street, that her son, Coder Al King, has arrived overseas. He enlisted in the R.C.N. V.R. in July, 1941, and was formerly employed in Sarnia. Before going to Sarnia, he was a student at the Collegiate.

Defer Judgment On Tire Theft

After hearing the Crown's evidence in a charge against Kenneth Hunter in police court this morning of stealing five tires, tubes and wheels from Major James McGrath and having been informed by Defence Counsel John A. Bradshaw that no defence evidence would be offered Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., reserved judgment until this afternoon.

Major McGrath testified to the theft of his car from outside the armouries and its subsequent discovery next day in a North Monaghan bush with the five tires missing.

Gerald Sweet who was convicted of the theft of the tires was called as a Crown witness and implicated Hunter as one of the two other men who had been with the witness when the car was stolen and when the tires were removed.

Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher testified that Hunter was present in the detective office in the police station when Gerald Sweet had outlined the circumstances in regard to the theft of the car, the removal of the tires and tubes and their sale for $75, mentioning Hunter as one of his companions.

Detective Sergt. Meagher declared that Hunter had made no answer after Sweet's statement had been made.

Given Warning

Officer Archie Menzies corroborated that evidence.

The officers in answer to a question from Mr. Bradshaw said that Hunter had been given the usual warning when he was taken to the detective room.

Mr. Bradshaw moved for dismissal after the crown's case had been completed, arguing that Hunter should not be convicted on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice. As to the statement made in his presence in the detective office and not denied by the accused defence counsel pointed out that Hunter had been warned that he need not say anything.

His failure to deny the charge could not, therefore, be regarded as evidence against him.

Magistrate Langley, remarking that he would like some time to consider the point reserved judgment until this afternoon's session of the court.

WOUNDED IN ITALY — Sgt. Raymond C. Lean, son of Mrs. Edith Lean, 417 Rogers Street, was reported wounded in Italy on January 31. Enlisting with the 1st Midland Regiment, he later transferred to the Irish Regiment of Canada with which he is now serving. A brother, Pte. Wilbert N. Lean, is serving with the Hast- and Prince Edward Regiment.

Lakehurst Group Gives $16.60 For War Victims

Sincerity of profession in any shape or form is always bound up with practical deeds to support their belief, for it is useless in this enlightened day and generation to profess one thing, and then leave others to follow out its tenets and refrain from doing them on one's own account.

From its very teaching the Christian Church should be in every way the leaders in their own locality in every movement that stands for the betterment of humanity, as followers of Him Who went about teaching and doing good for others, and finally gave Himself a ransom for all on the Cross at Calvary.

That this challenge in these days of stress through which a suffering world is now passing has not been ignored by a number of the various Christian bodies has been evidenced through the work that their adherents have done to ease the lot of numberless people who have suffered through the sad misfortunes of war, among which the work that the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund is trying to do, has quite ample proof, through the support that they have given towards the objects it seeks to serve.

Knox Presbyterian Church at Lakehurst, from its location could hardly be considered in the same light as many others in large centres with much larger followings and financial means. So it is all the more to their credit that they could look far afield and see the suffering of others, and then from their own circle support their Christian professions in a practical way by sending something to alleviate and help them through their troubles.

To-day the sum of $16.60 is acknowledged in the list of receipts for the fun as coming from this this church at Lakehurst, having come to hand through Mrs. J. G. Elliott, the treasurer of the Ladies' Aid of that church.

The story behind the donation
The story behind the donation appearing in this column under this heading is almost rich enough to disclose the participants concerned, for usually pride of appearance is something that belongs to an individual about which his fellow men don't give a hoot. More and more people are becoming conscious that a positive answer is correct to the question "Am I my brother's keeper?" and further than that the writer dare not go at the moment, except to add that probably a grand and glorious feeling was aroused in a certain person to think that his fellows could take such a pride in his own appearance.

Another credit to the work of the penny boxes is chalked up again to-day with $1.14 coming from a collection that was made on Tuesday from the box located at the H. S. Routley China Shop on George Street following similar ones of varying amounts from the same source.

Convicts Helping

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10—(AP).—The United States' prison population has produced $100,000,000 worth of war material, bought $15,000,000 worth of war bonds and contributed hundreds of thousands of quarts of blood to the Red Cross, J. Stanley Sheppard, director of the Men's Prison Bureau of the Salvation Army and a chaplain at Sing Sing Prison, said last night.

Anson House Gave Care To 71 Persons

The eight-second annual report of the Board of Directors of Anson House was presented on Wednesday afternoon at the annual meeting. The president Mrs. F. M. Delafosse presided. The secretary F. M. Somerville in her annual report reviewed the work of the Board and the operation of the home during the past year. Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart conducted the devotional period. Anson House with its many-sided interests still continue to serve those who have no one to care for them and who are unable to care for themselves.

During the past year the secretary mentioned that there were many changes. In the death of Mrs. Duncan Walker, who had been vice president for many years, the board lost a talented supporter and worker. A resolution paying tribute to the work of Mrs. Walker was inscribed in the records. W. C. Ackerman was appointed to the vice-presidency. Mrs. B. Shortly who had served faithfully for a number of years found it necessary to retire and Miss Lillian Morrow was appointed to the board. Mrs. R. Runnett who acted as representative from All Saints' Church also retired and Mrs. Joseph Detcher has been apopinted to take over her duties as visitor.

Bequests Received

Increase in the pension allowance has been of the substantial help the secretary reported and Dr. G. W. Birdsall of San Francisco remembered the home with a $25 cheque at Christmas time. Bequests were also received from Emma Jane Morrow estate, the Mary I. Walker estate, the Duncan Walker estate, and further payments from the Charlotte Dickson estate. Miss Eva Stephens who has been a resident of Anson House for a number of years expressed her appreciation of the House as a home by presenting a cheque for $500 to the institution.

In June a strawberry tea was held and appreciation was expressed of the way Royal Arthur Lodge has assisted in providing the refreshments. The League of Mercy of the Salvation Army also provided a delightful dinner at the temple and at Christmas season an entertainment of song and story was given by Major R. Bamsey of the local training centre assisted by Mrs. C. Norman of the Uptown Recreation Centre. Gifts were distributed by a committee formed for this purpose.

Under the capable management of Miss Robinson the home has continued to be home-like and the residents happy.

71 In Home

Seventy-one persons have been lodged in the home during the year made up of 21 men and 50 women. On Jan. 1, 1943, there were 10 men and 24 women in the home; admitted during the year were 11 men and 26 women; remaining in the home on December 31 were nine men and 22 women and discharged during the year were 12 men and 26 women. Total number of days spent in the home were 11,312 and the average stay per resident was 169 days. There were ten deaths during the year, eight in the hospital and two in the home.

The secretary in concluding her report expressed grateful thanks to the clergy, the physicians and all others who rendered such fine service to the institution.

The Financial Report revealed a revenue of $11,035.97 which was made up principally of $6,752 from paying residents, interest on investments $1,990, City of Peterborough grant $600. The expenditures totalled $11,756.06 leaving an operating loss of $672.09. Bequests during the year totalled $2,807.50. In summary of the past three years the revenue has not varied $40 in that time while the expenditures in 1943 were about $600 higher than 1942 but lower than 1941.

The Anson House Board is composed of the following: Hon. president, Miss M. Archer; president, Mrs. F. M. Delafosse; vice-president, Mr. W. C. Ackerman; secretary, Mrs. F. M. Somerville; directors, Miss L. Davidson, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. C. I. Suckling, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. V. M. Eastwood, Miss L. Morrow, Mayor Hamilton, Mr. H. A. Morrow, Mr. T. A. Mackay.

ZOMBA—(CP)—Nyasaland's newly developed tung oil industry shows promise and the acreage has continued to increase this year. The oil, pressed from tung nuts, is a drying oil and is used in paints for all war purposes.

Suggest Torrance For New Position

Garfield Torrance will be employed as foreman of the incinerator and superintendent of the garbage collection department, and will be responsible for the operation of both these services, by the recommendation of the property committee to the Council Wednesday afternoon. Alderman Swanston presided.

Mr. Torrance has been in charge of the Board of Works' yard on Townsend street for some years, and as the Council has been approaching the discarding of the contract system of garbage collection, the members have been generally thinking of Mr. Torrance to take charge of things when municipal management and operation comes into effect.

The Council has been interested in Mr. Torrance for the satisfactory work he has already done in several positions, and also because he is a veteran of the last war.

Details Unsettled

The committee's proposal does not yet fix date or salary, but it is expected that Mr. Torrance will presently begin to take part in the planning for the change in the system of garbage collection.

Another suggestion requests the Board of Health to release Sanitary Inspector MacPherson for a time to the property committee to assist in the oranization of municipally-owned garbage collection equipment.

Alderman Swanston was directed to have necessary repairs made to the stables on the newly acquired Allin ice premises on Townsend street. They are to be overhauled and renovated for the housing of the horses the city will need for the garbage job.

FLYING IN INDIA—FO. Murray Belch, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Belch, Millbrook, has landed in India, according to letters received by his parents. After training in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island, he went overseas in October, 1942, when he was on patrol duty in the north of Scotland. FO. Belch returned to Canada for two months last summer, and when he went back overseas, he flew across. Before enlisting he was an accountant at the C. G. E.

Fire Department Submits Higher Estimates

Fire Department estimates for this year as submitted to the finance committee of the council amount to $50,685, as compared with expenditure of $47,843.01 last year when the estimates totalled $48,960.

The fire and light committee in forwarding its proposed expenditures for this year showed a surplus of $1,117 from 1943.

The council this week approved the recommendation of the committee, of which Alderman Sullivan is chairman, to pay for the new pumper by issuing instalment debentures for $9,000 for five years.

Department expenditure last year $74.14; Supplies $262.37; Repairs $617.60; Light and power $159.80; Telephones $156.73; Laundry $218.67; Alarm system $161.32; motor oil, etc., $1,039.15; Service equipment $145.10; extinguisher supplies $741.98; caps and shirts $295.50; insurance of apparatus $280.14; fuel $650.93; incidentials $315.94; salaries $38,206.40.

Purchase of hose, 1000 feet of 2½-insh $3,332; 1½-inch $1,078; Total $47,843.01. The pumper cost $9,775.

1944 Estimates

The estimates for this year are: Office supplies $75. Supplies $200. Repairs $150; Light and power $175; telephones $160; Laundry $300; Alarm system $500; Motor oil, etc. $1,000; service equipment $200; Extinguisher supplies $50; uniforms and overcoats $1,000; caps and shirts $300; insurance of apparatus $300; fuel $650; incidentials $600; Salaries $41,000; other items include hose, alarm boxes and other equipment and supplies bringing the total of the estimates to $50,586. And the expenditure last year was $47,843.01.

Council Told Interest On Bank Loans Lower

City Council has been notified by the Bank of Montreal that the interest on borrowing, or deficits, effective February 1, is reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent.; and the interest on credit balances is reduced from 1½ to 1 per cent. effective March 1.

C. S. Cummer, manager of the bank, wrote that the net effect of the change should prove of benefit to the city "in that the carrying charges would be lessened."

"It may be a saving of five or six hundred dollars," Alderman Glover commented.

"Not quite," Mayor Hamilton replied.

City Treasurer Shaver said the total of the city's interest payments had been gradually "going down."

TOO MUCH MEAT

ST. ANNES-ON-SEA, England — (CP)— Because he was fed on too much meat and bacon while in the army, William Bradford was awarded a pension. He told the pensions tribunal in this Lancashire town that three years on army food aggravated his dyspepsia.

Jebson Pep Talk To All Hands In Stamps Sale

"With all the help we are getting from one place and another, I think everybody in the Food Industry drive for War Savings Stamps should recide right away to do a little better as we approach the middle of the month," said J. A. Jebson, chairman, to-day.

"I'll start with myself. We are doing all right, but we don't want to be satisfied with just making our objective, $26,000. I was in a certain food store the other night, yes, this was in the evening, and it was not a grocery shop, down in the south end, and a young man in khaki bought something. I was not paying any attention to him until I heard him ask for two War Savings Stamps. I don't know what he is in the Canadian Army, but that young man bought two stamps without being asked.

How many stamps would we sell if we were all on the job. No one has to apologize for trying to sell War Saving Stamps.

All Helping.

We have the theatres helping, and the wrestling folks are lending a hand next Tuesday night, and the Battery next Monday night are holding a competition among themselves to decide who is their best man in selling War Savings Stamps.

The Food Industry is getting some valuable help, and that means we have got to do our own best, all of us.

The people of Peterborough and the Government of Canada all want to see more War Savings Stamps sold. The man next door to you feels the same way about it, but we are not all doing things about it.

The Food Industry of Canada has been asked to take hold during all of February, and we simply want to make the best showing for Peterborough that we can.

Canada Packers Reports Run Of Western Hogs

Peterborough packing plant is receiving a heavy run of hogs, some of them from Western Canada, according to the county report in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Seed grain is scarce, but is changing hands from farmers who have good seed. Dealers' stock are not large.

Victoria farmers are pleased with the new bonuses on hogs; considerable quantities of turnips have been sold for sale in the cities at 35c to 60c a bushel.

Prince Edward live stock is in fair condition; only small deliveries have gone out in recent weeks. Durham farmers are carrying more than usual of stock for finishing on pasture. "Generally speaking, the livestock is wintering very satisfactorily."

Hastings farmers are busy taking advantage of the snow to clean up barn yards and draw in wood from the bush. Roughage feeds are lasting well.

Frontenac hatcheries have begun operations, and applications for chicks are heavy. Keener interest in hog production has been noticed in Stormont-Dundas since new Dominion hog subsidy came out.

Grenville demand for baby chicks and turkey poults is exceptionally heavy. All the counties of Eastern Ontario report little snow. Conditions have been ideal for cutting fuel wood. And in most sections the ice harvest is completed. The Farmers' Club at Bourget, Russell County, has made arrangements to bring in a carload of Banner No. 1 oats from Northern Ontario. January production of eggs in Renfrew set a new all time high. The egg and poultry pool at Eganville contrasted the following reports of quantities handled: January, 1942, they had 5,208 dozen; January, last year, 8,792 dozen; and last month, 14,846 dozen.

Little pigs in Oxford County are bringing a higher price, the advance being from $1.50-$2 to $5-$6 each. Good Holsteins are still in sharp demand. A carload was recently sold for U.S. consignment averaging over $300.

Man Sentenced To Two Months In Jail For Theft Of Tires

After a long "trial within a trial" as to the admissibility of a statement allegedly made by the accused to Detective Sergt. Meagher and Officer Archie Menzies, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., at Wednesday afternoon's session of the police court finally admitted the statement and on the strength of it convicted Gerald Sweet, 18, Donegal Street of having stolen five tires, tubes and wheels, the property of Major James McGrath.

This morning after his counsel, John A. Bradshaw had made a plea for leniency. Sweet was sentenced to two months in the county jail on the tire-stealing charge and to a similar penalty for stealing a watch from John Loucks. The sentences run concurrently and the dated back to Sweet's first appearance in court on January 26.

Sweet had pleaded not guilty to the charges.

At Tuesday afternoon session. Major McGrath swore that he had left his car parked outside of the armouries one night and when he came out the machine was gone. The next day he had seen the stolen car in a bush in North Monaghan stripped of its five wheels. The wheels were later found scattered around near the car but the five tires and tubes were gone.

When Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., sought to put in a statement allegedly made by the accused there was a prolonged battle as to the admissibility of the evidence. Both Officer Archie Menzies and Detective Segt. Meagher swore that the accused had been properly warned and that no threats had been made or inducements offered.

Mr. Bradshaw called a sister of the accused, Mrs Jaquette who swore that on the afternoon her brother had been arrested he had come home intoxicated several hours before the officers arrived and that when he shaved he had cut himself a number of times.

Had Been Drinking.

Sweet swore that he had had a lot of beer that day and that before that he had been tired because of a trip to Kingston without getting much sleep. He testified that the statement which had been taken down by Officer Menzies had not been read over to him and that he had signed it without reading it.

Magistrate Langley ruled that the statement was admissible and it was read by Officer Menzies. In it Sweet allegedly told of the theft of Major McGrath's car and to its being taken down into North Monaghan. The accused said in the statement that he had acted as look out while two companions stripped the wheels off the stolen car. The tires and tubes had been hidden and later were sold to a man for $75. Sweet, according to the statment, said that his share had been $20.

Mr. Bradshaw called no evidence for the defence and did not argue the case.

"Once the statement was ruled admissible," he said "my argument was gone.

Crown Attorney McElderry also stated that he would submit the case without argument and Magistrate Langley announced that on the evidence there would be a conviction.

His Worship had previously convicted Sweet on a charge of stealing a watch from John Loucks, Townsend Street. The evidence in the case had been heard in the morning and after hearing the argument of counsel, Magistrate Langley announced that while the evidence was not so strong as he would have liked in registering a conviction, nevertheless he had decided to find Sweet guilty on his admission to a crown witness to whom it had been sworn that he tried to sell a wrist watch that he had "hooked it down at my uncle's house."

BURLEIGH MEN FINED.

Two residents of Burleigh township, William Davis and William Clinton, pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness in police court this morning and were fined $10 and $1 costs.

St. Andrew's United Church Shows Excellent Financial Balance

MILLBROOK, Feb. 10—(ENS)—A pot luck supper, under the auspices of the Women's Association, preceded the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United church Monday evening.

The minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco, presided and reports were heard, that of the pastor showing 153 families on the charge; total membership, resident and non-resident, of 300; 13 births, 6 marriages, and 13 deaths during 1943. The congregation stood, observing one minute's silence in tribute to the memory of those who had passed on during the year, the list being read by the minister: George Kidd, R. H. Edmunds, Christopher W. Weatherilt, Sergeant Kenneth Harker, R.C.A.F., Mrs. Elizabeth Lang, Mrs. George Patterson, Mrs. Charles Richards, Fred Hard, Hilliard Lang, C. E. Hard, George W. Widdis, Mrs. Mary A. Wilson, H. A. Earle.

Dr. A. Jemison, clerk of the Session, reported, dealing largely with its history since Union in 1925. Three ministers have served the church during that time, Rev. F. H. Howard (since deceased) 1925-28; Rev. W. W. Jones, 1928-34; and Rev. A. L. Sisco, 1934-44 and still pastor. Of the original Session, five members, J. W. Whitfield, H. W. Johnston, T. H. Aiken, W. E. Ball and H. Allen Earle have been removed by death. Two members this year are placed on the honorary list: George Patterson, who has changed his address, and J. McKnight, who because of ill health wishes to retire from active service. Wilfrid Elson was elected to take H. A. Earle's place on the Session, J. L. Byam and A. J. Henderson being re-elected for a five-year term; the other members are: J. A. Brown, G. E. Burnham, W. H. Coombe, T. Douglas, W. F. Fallis, M. McDowell, J. H. Might, P. Stinson. Later the Committee of Stewards was elected, the names including: P. Stinson, chairman; G. E. Burnham, treasurer; Charles Gardiner and Clifford Allin, of the Carmel church; A. R. Payne, taking W. Elson's place, Wilfrid Fallis, S. Hamilton, G. T. McPherson, W. A. O'Brien and C. B. Sutton.

Financial Statement

Continuing the reports, that of the treasurer, G. E. Burnham, showed total receipts of $3,330.34, expenditures of $3,047.78, and a balance on hand, $282.56; this is one of the best reports, financially, the church has had for some years. Mrs. R. H. Edmunds reported for the W.M.S., showing 10 regular meetings, one special, 29 annual members, 17 life members, a total raised of $249.16, an increase over 1943, and $245 remitted to the Presbyterial treasurer. Miss Josie Sutton reported for the Women's Association, which also had a successful year, with 9 regular meeting and one special, a total of $510.60, and a balance on hand of $231.68. The W.A. paid the taxes on the parsonage and the insurance and gave the church $100 at the time of the thankoffering.

Wilfrid Elson, newly-elected superintendent of the Sunday School, stated that $167.40 was raised in 1943, and a balance on hand of $36.97. Total enrollment, 130, average offering $2, and attendance 65. Five teachers have been appointed for the intermediate section, Mrs. D. L. Lunn, Mrs. J. H. McKnight, Mrs. L. W. Smith, Misses Jean Fisher and Velma Thornton; Rev. Edgar Russell is teacher of the Men's Bible Class, with Irwin Hatherly, assistant; Miss E. L. Hetherington of the Women's Bible Class, with Mrs. N. Weatherilt and Mrs. I. Hatherly assistants; Mrs. Franklin Bannister of the Young Women's Class, with Mrs. Homer Oulette assistant; Mrs. P. Stinson of the Young Men's Class, with Mrs. A. L. Sisco assistant; Miss Jean Burnham and Miss Margaret Smith have the primary department, and Mrs. Sisco, the cradle roll. In closing Mr. Elson earnestly solicited the interest of the parents in increasing the school attendance, and the minister read a letter from the retiring superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, thanking the members for kindnesses received during his illness in the hospital.

Mission Circle Work

Jean Burnham reported a total of $60 raised by the Golden Links Mission Circle, with educative and interesting meetings, and Margaret Smith told of the Mission Band, which had a successful year, with 30 on the roll, and emphasis laid upon the educating of the boys and girls in missions, and handwork started including the making of scrap books to be sent to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

The Young Peoples' Union was reported as having all four departments doing successful work, and the cemetery board, reported by P. I. Bentley, has total assets of $5,151.88, tools and equipment, $51.45, receipts during the year of $541.07, an operating surplus of $265.93 now on hand. The members of the board are: Rev. A. L. Sisco, chairman; P. I. Bentley, secretary; C. B. Sutton, treasurer; J. A. Brown, G. E. Burnham, T. Douglas, F. Fallis, A. J. Henderson.

P. I. Bentley was elected again as recording steward, G. E. Burnham, treasurer, and Fred Fallis as representative to Presbytery, and Mr. Bentley as alternative. Mrs. Bentley gave a report of 28 Christmas boxes sent to St. Andrew's boys overseas, a total of $63.80 having been donated toward this purpose.

Votes of thanks and appreciation were cordially extended to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Sisco for faithful and efficient service, to the organist, Miss Hetherington, the choir leader, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, the choir members, and the caretaker and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. Musspratt, for their competent services.

SELF STARTER FOR WHEELS—Here in Miami, Fla., W. H. Elliot, of the Goodrich Rubber Company, explains the principle of the "self-starter" airplane tire to T. J. Tanner, U.S. Eastern Airlines maintenance engineer (behind wheel). The vanes or fins, outlined in white, flap open when the wheels are lowered by the pilot. They start the wheel to revolving in the same direction as the plane is travelling so that on landing the wheels are spinning and help take up some of the shock of landing. Longer wear from tires is another benefit.

W.M.S. Studies Daily Living

ROSENEATH, Feb. 10—(ENS).—The principal feature of the W.M.S. meeting Tuesday afternoon was the presentation of chapter 4, "For All of Life," by Mrs. A. Halstead.

The topic of the address was "Grace For Living Together." Through a word picture and by a poster, Mrs. Halstead illustrated the importance of Christian standards so necessary in relation to home, community, and congregational life if all are to live together in peace and unity.

A second interesting feature was a letter from Miss Hazel I. Reesor, who, in a descriptive and at times a humorous vein, described an eighty-mile trip through Nigeria, Africa, and some of the activities at the mission at that station. The letter was read by Mrs. C. W. Varcoe.

The meeting was held in Mrs. D. Brisbin's home, and the president, Mrs. R. Crego, presiding. It was decided to bring an apron to the March meeting as a bazaar contribution. A brief period was devoted to apportioning the Day of Prayer program among the societies invited to join with the W.M.S. in the service.

The president read a letter from Mrs. Frank J. Day, Dominion board president, soliciting the co-operation of all members when the appeal for the relief fund for China and India is launched. Mrs. C. W. Varcoe volunteered to present the study at the March meeting with Mrs. George Mouncey as program convener.

Mrs. Andrew Brown had charge of a program when Mrs. Varcoe played a piano solo, Mrs. J. A. Nichol read "The Diary of a Bible," and Mrs. Mouncey conducted a contest.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

3 Deaths In Family In Past Six Weeks

BONARLAW, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Three times within six weeks death has entered the Anderson family. The first was Mrs. Varcoe (Belle), of Campbellford, six weeks ago; then on January 18, at Belleville, Frank Anderson. On Saturday, February 5, Mr. Edward Anderson, of Allens Mills, died. Mr. Anderson was about his work as usual but had not been in very good health for the past year. On Friday night he complained of not feeling well but was able to be around on Saturday and a few minutes before his death he was talking to his son-in-law, Mr. W. McComb, who delivers the mail, and had just left the house. He was 54 years old and had lived his entire life where he resided at the time of his death.

Workers Require Plenty Of Sleep

An authority observes that workers who carry responsibilities often lose sleep because they get overtired or nervous. Hours of trying to get to sleep intensify nervous strain amplify worries out of all proportion. This authority discourages the the use of sleeping powders except upon prescription by the family doctor. He adds, however, that taking a moderately hot bath before going to bed usually soothes the nerves and thus helps overcome sleeplessness. The efficacy of the bath is increased if a tablespoonful of pure mustard is mixed to a paste with cold water and then added to the bath. The warm glow and gentle drowsiness that follow five or ten minutes of relaxation in this mustard body bath will induce sleep readily.

Post-War Plan Delayed Till War Ends

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 — (CP) — A program for the demobilization of Canada's armed forces will not be drafted in its final form until "we know under exactly what circumstances the war shall end," Pensions Minister Mackenzie said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, Mr. Mackenzie said an preliminary demobilization program has been prepared; but "it would be unfortunate if we were prematurely to enact it into a rigid form."

"We shall better be able to draft our legislation in this connection when we know under exactly what circumstances the war shall end. When that happy event occurs I can assure you that we shall be ready with a sound program of orderly demobilization.

"The nature and the success of that program will, of course, depend upon the economic condition of the country at that time."

Re-establishment of service personnel and other post-war measures will depend a great deal on the success in the field of reconstruction, Mr. Mackenzie said.

Jobs Come First

'It will be of little use to train our veterans for jobs if there are no jobs available. The best kind of social security is full employment. Our million workers in war industry have been accorded the protection of unemployment insurance for such temporary disturbances as may occur in the transition period from war to peace, but it is not unemployment insurance they ask—it is the assurance of employment.

"We know enough history to be aware that other wars have usually been followed by depressions, unemployment, and even famine. But we also think we know enough economics to have confidence that this need not be, if we but profit by experience and lay our plans intelligently.

"We have had the problem under continuous survey since 1941. Committees of experts have studied the causes of other post-war depressions in order that we might have the information necessary to guide us in avoiding past mistakes. We have taken stock of the probable difficulties, and we have taken stock of the resources at our disposal to overcome them.

"The core of the problem of reconstruction is the maintenance of full employment. We have it today and we are determined to maintain it. The people of Canada, with memories of the hungry 30's still green, will not tolerate failure in that respect."

Red Cross Sees War Souvenirs

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10 — (ENS) — An unusual display of interesting souvenirs direct from Italy was shown at the Havelock Belmont Red Cross meeting on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. William Drew.

The articles included a Fascist's black shirt, an Italian battle flag, cap and coat badges from members of Herman Georing's regiment, several pursesé and some Italian money, a box of Italian matches and a silver mug with a bullet hole through it; that were sent home by Pte. Douglas Drew.

Twenty-six ladies labored throughout the afternoon at labelling, quilting, knitting and sewing. The bolt of red-and-white service tape has been received for the service badges. Inquiries are to be made regarding the regulation blue work-room smocks.

The secretary was instructed to order $5 more of patches for making of quilts. An urgent appeal for more long-sleeved sweaters has been received and it was suggested that two or three ladies co-operate in the making of these.

Pot Luck Dinners

CAVAN, Feb. 10 (ENS) — The W.A. of the Cavan United Church held two pot-luck dinners. The ladies pieced a Red Cross quilt at Mrs. H. Snider's, and quilted one at Mrs. Honey's. Mrs. Snider's guests were Mrs. H. Braithwaite, Mrs. R. Terrin, Mrs. G. Carr, Mrs. M. Matchett, Miss A. Tinney, Mrs. Milt Carr, H. Snider. Mrs. Honey's guests were Mrs. D. Tinney, Mrs. H. Adams, Mrs. R. Syer, Mrs. M. Kinsman, and the Misses Mary and Annie Tinney, Audrey Keene, Wilda Armitage, and Mr. Honey.

The Pot-Luck Quilters' Club of the 7th and 8th Lines held a progressive euchre party of thirteen tables at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sutton.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood?

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. Right now simple anemia may be undermining the strength and resistance your daughter needs so badly. Don't wait — get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Red Cross Sponsors Progressive Euchre

ROSENEATH, Feb. 10—(ENS).—A progressive euchre party was held on Monday night in the Town Hall sponsored by Alnwick Branch Red Cross Society. Fourteen tables were in play and the prizes were won by Miss Jessie Linton with a score of 85 points and Francis Parker scoring 98 points. The committee in charge of affairs included Norman Forman, Milton McMillan, Clarence Parker. Following the game period a short business meeting was held, with President James Timlin in charge. The secretary, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, announced 43 boxes mailed to overseas service men from the township since the previous monthly meeting. Mrs. Frank Brown, quilt convener, reported 10 quilts ready for shipment. James S. Brown, treasurer, reported $85.13 in the treasury. The president announced that headquarters had given notice that the campaign for funds would run from February 28 to March 18, and Alnwick's quota was set at $500.

The following were named as a committee in charge of the entertainment at the March meeting: H. J. McCracken, Albert Braithwaite, and James S. Brown. Following the singing of the National Anthem the committee in charge served refreshments.

"You have a vital stake in everything that Life Insurance stands for"

—a message to policyholders

I CAN SAY very truthfully that there never has been a time when the leaders of finance and business were more conscious of their responsibility to the general public as well as to their employees, than they are at the present time. The attitude of management today is one of enquiry and research into ways and means of reducing costs, giving better service and improving employer-employee relations. I am satisfied that leaders in industry command the respect and confidence of the public as never before.

The life insurance business can point with pride to a record of achievement that is commensurate only with its opportunity for service. The fact that our Canadian life insurance companies have weathered the financial gales incident to war and depression and that policyholders' claims have been met in full, and that the companies have gained in strength and size as well as in responsibility, reflects both sound management and continuing confidence on the part of the public.

Objection has been raised to our competitive system, particularly as it has to do with the use of agents. It is claimed that if we were not to employ agents we could provide cheaper insurance to the public. That has definitely not been proven. The life insurance representative furnishes a useful public service. It is probably well within the mark to say that perhaps not more than 10% of the business that is now in force would exist if active solicitation for business had not been resorted to. Furthermore, the agents have furnished many ancillary services that have been of the greatest benefit to the public. The modern life insurance agent or representative is much more than a salesman. He is a trained and skilful counsellor and sound professional adviser.

I wish briefly to allude to two other points of criticism that have been lodged against the life companies. One has to do with interlocking directorates, and the other has to do with the general policy underlying companies' investments. I confess that I am surprised sometimes that we are able to get men of such high standing and sound business judgment to give their time and advice and accept their share of the responsibility of management for the fees that are paid. I do not deny that many of our Directors are associated in some capacity or other with other institutions, but that is merely another way of saying that the men who are most desirable are the men who are most sought. In my own experience I know of no Director who has sought any favour for himself or any other institution with which he is connected, or who is inspired by any motive except that of promoting the best interest of the North American Life.

The investment policy of our life companies is necessarily controlled by the terms of the Dominion Insurance Act. Parliament, very rightly we believe, in prescribing the type of investments we can make strongly stresses the trustee nature of our business. The underlying thought in all investment policy is that within the limitations of the Insurance Act itself it should be the aim to secure the largest return for our policyholders compatible with security and safety. We believe that the investments of the life companies can stand the closest scrutiny.

In respect to government regulation and supervision, no business has been or could be subject to more careful or impartial scrutiny than the life business in Canada. The Department of Insurance at Ottawa is manned by a staff of highly trained, experienced officials. No department has been freer of political bias. These men have leaned backwards in their independence, and have been utterly fearless in the conscientious performance of their duties. The Insurance Act, though passed by Parliament and sponsored by the Minister of Finance, in effect is largely the creation of these highly trained, professional advisers of the Minister, whose concern is the welfare of the policyholders and the preservation of the good name of the business. Nor should we fail to mention the additional supervision provided by the various provincial and foreign Departments of Insurance, under whose jurisdiction our companies happen to come. Our insurance laws, both federal and provincial, are as modern as skill, experience and impartial judgment can create in the interests of the public.

★ ★ ★

Along with thousands of other policyholders in this and other companies, you have a vital stake in everything that life insurance stands for. Those who are at present advocating the nationalization of the life companies are not, we believe, primarily concerned with whether the companies are well or poorly conducted. If they are to succeed in socializing industry, and in expropriating all means of production, they must first have access to the savings of the people—your bank deposits, your equity in your life insurance and other savings. The fact that you are an owner of a life insurance policy is proof that you have saved and have planned, and that you have exercised your God-given privilege to safeguard your savings according to your best judgment. Are you willing to jeopardize what you now have for a promissory note in the fantastic belief that the maker of the note is better able to manage your affairs than you are yourself, or that his professed altruism can take the place of your enlightened self interest?

Excerpts from the address given at the 63rd Annual Meeting.

FEATURES FROM THE SIXTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

"So far as the Company is concerned there have been guiding principles that have contributed greatly to our progress and success. Our affairs have been managed at a moderate rate of expense with a definite trend towards reduction in recent years. Constant effort has been made to keep our plans of insurance and annuity contracts up to date with the result that our field force is in a position to offer the best that ingenuity and experience can devise for the ever increasing and complex needs of the insuring public. The results of the year are a clear indication of the increasing confidence placed by the public in the insurance business, and in a special sense reflect the high opinion that our own Company has so justly earned."

Glider Bombs Nazis Best Weapons

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, Feb. 10 (AP)—When the great invasion of the European continent begins, one of the big responsibilities of the Allied airforces will be to prevent any concentrated use by the Germans of rocket-propelled glider bombs.

There is no breach of security involved in saying that this new aerial weapon of the Nazis is a potent threat against shipping. The Germans know it and the Allies know it.

An invasion fleet at anchor is like flock of sitting ducks unless air cover can intercept the control plane from which the gliders are directed by radio.

Anti-aircraft fire is only partly effective against the small winged projectiles, because they sweep down on their targets swiftly and are difficult to hit. It is usually only a lucky hit when one is stopped by ack-ack fire.

The Germans used glider bombs against the invasion fleet at Salerno and again at Anzio during the 5th Army's behind-the-lines thrust.

From descriptions pieced together by several eyewitnesses, it is learned the bomb is about 20 to 30 feet long, with tail fins acting as a stabilizer and rudder. It has a wingspread of some 15 feet and in flight it looks like a small plane.

Apparently it is armor-piercing. At Salerno, one of them that hit a ship penetrated thick steel deckplates and exploded in the craft's interior.

Whether the enemy can muster a large fleet of rocket-bomb gliders for use against an invasion is not known, but it is logical to assume—and the Allied air forces must go on the assumption—that the Germans can concentrate large numbers against an invasion armada.

Fearless Pilots Are Eyes For Artillery

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, Feb. 10—(CP)—"Fearless Fosdick" is the name Canadian troops have given observation aircraft which daily sweep over the battlefront like butterflies, seeking German targets for big guns behind the lines.

In a popular comic strip "Fearless Fosdick' never gets hurt, no matter how tough a spot he may find himself. To the boys on the ground the "O-Pips," as they are generally known, seem to lead a charmed life.

They appear to be a sitting target as they glide slowly over the lines at 1,000, 500 and sometimes 200 feet. Occasionally, German anti-aircraft guns send a few bursts after them, but they mostly leave them alone nowadays. For instance not an observation plane pilot has been lost on the 8th Army front from enemy action since Italy was invaded.

Use Strange Talk.

These slow, cumbersome, high-winged monoplanes, piloted by the Army officers, control the guns of the Royal Artillery and the Royal Canadian Artillery. During shoots the airmen send back corrections, observe explosions, investigate the movements spotted by forward observation officers on the ground and hunt for choice targets themselves.

Join them in their mess at night and you'll hear the strangest of strange Air Force chatter. They'll talk about "climbing" to 100 feet, "diving" from 500, "getting away a couple of bursts" at a truck and "beating up" a road, orchard, or communication artery.

You get the idea that they have just returned from a "rhubarb" behind the lines, but what they are really trying to get across is that the 8th Army batteries boomed into action on instructions sent back by them.

Pilots of these "Fearless Fosdicks" include such men as Capts. Peter Mackley, 25, of Retford, Nottinghamshire, and John East, Sidcombe, Kent, who patrol a beat on a Canadian-Indian front.

"About 45 minutes is all we can do at a time," explained Mackley after plopping his plane down a two-by-four carpet. "The constant strain on our eyes is too much and we've got to come down for brief rests."

Bitterness Of Welsh Miners Grows Daily For Mine Owners

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Saff Writer.

LONDON, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Through the coalfields which have thrown their black veil over the valleys and the villages of Wales there live the miners who bring the coal to the surface to feed the industry which keeps Britain in the war.

There is bitterness in the coalfields of Wales, a bitterness which smoulders over old grievances and gathers new fuel as the years see them recur in new forms, or in forms the miners have known before.

Trevor Evans is a Welshman who went back to his valley to talk to the miners he had known as a youth. He went as a reporter for Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express and these are extracts from the story he wrote:

"They still bath in their kitchens here in Abertridwr, in the old wooden tub. No pithead baths at the colliery, no bathrooms in the cottages. The marvel is that they are so cosy and clean"....

Child Earns More.

"Dai (an old friend) sips his beer and declares suddenly, 'What do you think, man? My gal brought her first pay home the other day from the factory, and says to me, Count it, dad, and do your old eyes good. I looked at it—£5 12s (about $25.00).'"

"I asked, 'What then?' He looked me straight in the face and hissed, 'I picked it up and threw it across the kitchen. She cried from disappointment and I cried from anger.'

"No need for much explanation. His daughter with her first pay had received exactly £1 more than Dai with his 25 years' experience."

"By this time we are half a dozen. One laughs without mirth as he recalls 'Will Thomas got the dust (silicosis) last summer, got a light job in a factory and now gets more than ever before."....

"The hatred of the coalowners is frightening. In this village the mine is now owned by one of the most efficient coal combines in the world That is acknowledged here. But efficiency in the minds of the men means soullessness. And the end of old-time mining with its skilled colliers. (Now it is all machines. Output, output—that's all that matters, say the men."....

"They show a curious possessiveness. They want to go on working there for years, it seems, though most of them say when this war is over thousands will stampede from the pits. Oddly, it was always the others who would be leaving.'....

Frequent Pubs.

"War factory pay has led to the young girls going to the pubs here now 'in droves on pay nights. It was unheard of before the war. It shocks this Nonconformist village."....

"I went to chapel on Sunday evening. There were 31 in the congregation. The membership roll is 150. Only the old faithfuls still attend service. They were coming here 30 years ago, but there are few young recruits."....

"When I met Jack Roberts, universally known as Jack Russia because of his political views, the most trusted of the local leaders of the miners, I am impressed by his detachment. He confesses that his men have lost interest in politics and they rarely mention nationalization. But they are obsessed with the idea that the harder they work the more profits they pile up for the bosses."

Tunnel Corps Serves In Italy

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 10 (CP)—An army unit whose work goes on whether battles are being fought or not is the Tunnelling Company of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

Made up chiefly of former hard-rock miners from Northern Ontario, Western Canada and the Maritimes, the Tunnelling Company has been on the go since it landed in Sicily last July, three days after the invasion. It hasn't done much tunnelling, but it has driven countless piles for bridges and landing stages and cleared roads blocked by the Germans in their retreat.

The company earlier in the war dug tunnels at Gibraltar and did secret defence work on England's airfields and roads.

The Tunnellers, whose commanding officer here is Capt. A. O. Ames, Winnipeg, drove piles for one of the bridges across the Sangro river and among their recent jobs was the preparation of the base for a landing stage. Lieut. Bill Burgess, Port Credit, Ont., was in charge of the section on the latter job..

Some of the men with Burgess were Sgt. Marshall (Sailor) Gronert, former boxer from Kirkland Lake, Ont., Cpl. Tom Bowen, Kirkland Lake, and Sprs. Mack Morton, Kirkland Lake, Eddie Caswell, Cliff Brown and George Steinberg, all of Timmins, Cam Thompson and Oscar Pelletier, Rouyn, Que.

This unit is the only tunnelling company with the 8th Army and it has seen service with almost every formation on the front. Under army rather than divisional command, it gets its assignments from army headquarters itself or from Corps.

SUFFERS JAW WOUND—Sgt. Ross Graham Clarke, a member of a tank unit in Italy, has a shell wound to the right jaw, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarke, of Norwood. He was wounded in December during the battle of Ortona.

Economical Fish Dishes Proving Most Popular

By MARY MOORE

I was waxing quite elegant to some long suffering ladies of our church on the prosaic subject of fish.

Suddenly, just when I thought I was convincing them they should eat fish at least once a week, one of them stage-whispered "using what for money."

So I stopped and asked how much fish she had to buy to satisfy her hungry family. It turned out that when she made two pounds serve six people they felt skimped.

So what's to do now?

First I went to a fish store and asked the manager prices of everything; fresh cod was the lowest; salt cod is the best value for your money, for when it is soaked it can be extended to serve twice as many as one pound of fresh cod will.

I have no intention of abandoning such delicious fishes as salmon, halibut, pickerel fillets and the so-called fresh fillets, etc. But I have been challenged and herewith is my reply.

After eating "Fish Flakes with Crumbs" in a little restaurant in Vancouver I was bold enough to ask to see the chef—and asked him for the recipe. He said he had invented the dish to use up the rough pieces of fish left from cutting fillets and steaks on Fridays and it gave them material for an economical lunch for hurried clerks in the district.

Cookie's Fish Flakes and Crumbs

One and one-half to two lbs. cold cooked flaked fish—mackerel, salmon or cod are good, 2 cups milk, 2 cups coarse, crushed crackers, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or cooking oil. Heat the milk with the seasonings and butter, then store in crackers until all are wet, then add fish, mixing it with the cracker, stirring as little as possible. Heat through and serve—however there is an addition "cookie" recommended: before adding the fish to the milk and crumbs stir in two beaten eggs, and stir until the egg is cooked soft, then add the fish, heat through and serve immediately.

A good dinner can be made of this with tomatoes in some form, scalloped, stewed or made into jelly mould and served with coleslaw.

Every cook should know how to make regular codfish cakes, but there are many who have never even attempted to—here's your chance to extend your fish program economically and they are a real addition—for they make a good supper or luncheon dish too.

Codfish Cakes

Six medium sized freshly boiled potatoes, 2 cups shredded soaked salt cod, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup milk. Pare potatoes and mash. Add codfish and eggs. Mix well. Add pepper and milk and beat until fluffy. Drop from spoon into deep hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. and fry until brown, which takes about 10 minutes for a medium sized cake. Drain on unglazed paper. This is the genuine New England recipe—but a variation is to beat the egg whites and add them last just before frying. Makes them lighter and bigger.

De Luxe Finnan Haddie

Buy finnan haddie fillets, or if you are patient at boning buy whole smoked haddie. Prepare a marinade of juice of 1 lemon, 4 tablespoons melted butter or cooking oil, pepper. Let the fish stand in this mixture in warm place if butter is used, for ½ hour, turning it over once during that time.

Wrap oil-soaked fish in wax paper or wet parchment paper and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes if fillet is more than 1 inch thick—if thicker fish will take a little longer to heat through. Serve with—

Egg Sauce: To 1½ cups white sauce add 1 chopped hard cooked egg and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Chopped sweet pickle and olives are also good in the sauce when you have them on hand.

Steamed Lake or Sea Herring

Soak 1 medium sized lake herring for each person to be served (if sea herring is used 1 large one will serve 2 people) in a solution of 1 part salt to 8 parts water. Let stand 5 minutes (4 tablespoons salt is needed to each 2 cups water). Remove fish and drain. Place in oiled steamer and cook until tender which takes about 12 to 15 minutes—depending on size. When tender carefully remove skin and lay back fillets from bones—if this is done expertly none of the small objectionable bones in the herring will break off. Serve with Egg Sauce (above) or

Tomato Sauce: One-half tablespoon onion chopped, 1 tablespoon parsley, finely chopped, 2 cups tomatoes, salt, pepper, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons fat. Simmer the onion and parsley in the tomatoes about 20 minutes. tSrain. Melt fat, stir in flour, then add the hot strained tomatoes and stir until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. Very good on fish dipped in batter and fried.

Since there is no waste from evaporation or trimming from frozen fish it has some good arguments in its favor besides its deliciousness.

Baked Frozen Fish Fillets

Thaw frozen fillets at room temperature and as soon as soft enough to handle dip in sifted cracker crumbs. Place on oiled baking dish and sprinkle with cooking oil — about 1 tablespoon to 3 fillets and thin with salt, and paprika. Place in very hot oven of 450 or 500 deg. Fahr. and bake about 12 minutes or until just barely baked through enough to flake. Do not overbake and serve at once with wedges of lemon. A truly epicurean method of serving any fresh or frozen fish.

Smoked Kipperines

There are some who are familiar with my next offering—others who have never heard of the beastie: salt, smoked kipperines.

These are little sea herring with heads and skin and insides removed. They are salted and smoked in our own Maritimes and packed in 5-lb. cases. They sell quite cheaply and pack a lot of fish flavor. I have eaten them raw as they come from the case, as I have seen some Jewish people do, but the accepted method of preparation is to soak them, then to dip in batter and fry in deep fat—this is the Gentile method.

The Danish people soak and serve them pickled.

The point is they are a good product to know about and to try. They are excellent when ground through the food chopper and mixed with mayonnaise, and chopped celery, for a brown bread sandwich.

Jellied Fish Mousse

This is good when you want to give variety to a buffet table or for a lunch for ladies.

Two cups flaked cooked fish, 1 tablespoon gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water or water in which fish was boiled, ¾ cup hot fish stock or milk, salt and pepper, ¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon junce, 1 cup cream or top milk. Any fish is suitable for this. Flake as fine as possible. Soak gelatin in cold water or stock, then add to hot stock or milk, stir until dissolved, add other seasonings. Add fish. When cooled, add the cream beaten until stiff. Turn into mould and chill. Serve turned out, garnished with lemon and parsley.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I am very anxious to get the recipe of how to make lyed corn or hominy. I think this recipe was published last year but I don't seem to be able to find it so would appreciate it a lot if you would give it to me. I also would like to know if it would be possible to can the lyed corn. — Marguerite Jackson.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER:

Lye Hominy or Hulled Corn

Dissolve 5 oz. lye (codium hydroxide or caustic soda) in 6 quarts cold water. Stir in 5 quarts of dried corn and let stand 15 hours. Wash thoroughly to remove the lye and hulls; rubbing the hominy in a cloth bag helps to take off the hulls. When washing is finished the hull and nel should look clean. The slight nel should like clean. The slight discoloration which the lye causes may be removed by soaking the hominy overnight in water to which a little salt has been added. Cover with water to which 5 tablespoons of salt have been added and boil in a covered kettle for 3 or 4 hours or until thoroughly cooked, making sure that the hominy remains covered with water. Changing the water once or twice during the cooking will lessen the taste of lye. Five quarts of dry corn will make from 15 to 20 quarts lye hominy.

To Can Lye Hominy

See above—when corn has been soaked in lye, whitened in salt solution and boiled 3 or 4 hours, have sterile jars ready if you wish to can it. With sterile implements put the boiled hominy in jars, adding enough of the liquid in which it is boiled to overflow the jars. Seal with rubbers, tops and rings and sterilize as you would any other canned vegetable—three hours in hot water bath at boiling point—or if steam pressure cooker is used process pint jars 60 minutes at 240 deg. Fahr. or quarts at 240 deg. Fahr. for 70 minutes.

◆ ◆ ◆

QUESTION: Have you a recipe on your file known as "bread sauce." A gentleman would like my mother to make it for him. He believes it is an old English recipe as his mother used to make it. It was of bread crusts and milk as the inside of the crusts were used for the stuffing (fowl) He wasn't sure if onions were in or not.

Would you please look this up for us, also a recipe for "Chili con carne." Thanking you,—Violet S.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: There are three ways to make bread sauce: the first is a simple mixture of crumbs, butter and chives: the next is white sauce using crumbs in place of flour; the third is usually used on chicken—finely crumbled bread crust crumbs put in chicken gravy.

Bread Crumb Sauce

Six tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon chives (or finely chopped young onions), salt and pepper. Melt the butter and add crumbs and chives. Season with salt and pepper. Saute until brown.

Bread Sauce

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or use cooking oil or drippings and add ½ tablespoon flour and blend. Add 1 cup hot milk in which has been soaking for 5 minutes 4 tablespoons bread crumbs. Stir until hot and thick and add a very little grated onion and salt and pepper to taste.

Bread Gravy

To chicken gravy add bread crust crumbs in place of flour, let cook slowly, stirring, until thick as gravy should be.

Chili Con Carne

Cut 2 lbs. lean beef small cubes—preferably ½-inch. Melt 4 tablespoons butter or cooking oil in frying pan and add the cubed meat and 4 medium sized onions sliced and saute until nicely browned. Put in kettle and add 2 cups canned tomatoes or tomato juice, then 2 cups cooked red kidney beans (these may be canned when they are available), and 4 large stalks celery chopped, 1 teaspoon each salt, red pepper and chili powder. (Add more chili powder if you like it quite hot.) Simmer 1½ hours—then taste — if it needs more salt and chili powder add it now and simmer ½ hour longer. These amounts serve 8.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: I invited a young bride and her husband who was on leave to have Saturday night's supper with us. I told them it would be nothing grand but that we would have fun for we have a large family and the table conversation is always stimulating. We served corned beef and cabbage—I serve this often on Saturday nights—the family has come to expect it or chili con carne or veal stew Saturday's—all of which can be stretched if they bring company along with them—a thing I have always encouraged them to do.

I serve corned beef and cabbage to this bride and her young husband; he wanted to be sure to get the recipe. I wondered if a good many young people would want this so am sending my method to you if you think you would like to print it.

Corned Beef and Cabbage

Cover a piece of corned beef with cold water and bring slowly to boiling point. Boil 5 minutes and skim. Add one stalk celery, a few bay leaves, clove, a large onion and a clove of garlic. Reduce heat and simmer for 3 or 3½ hours or until tender. If necessary add more water to keep the meat covered. Have wedges of a nice green cabbage clean and ready. Lift the meat from the broth and keep in warm place. Strain stock. Bring to boiling point, add cabbage, cover and boil very quickly—only about 12 minutes until cabbage is barely tender. Put corned beef in centre of hot platter, surround with cabbage wedges. Some people like to thicken the gravy and strain over the beef—others sometimes pass it at table.

I might add that corned beef is good cold so it is a good idea to buy more than is needed for one hot meal. Thanks.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10 (ENS)—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kerteston, 39 Roseheath Ave., Toronto, recently, when Florence Emma, daughter of Mrs. Helen Bertrand, Campbellford, became the bride of Pte. Robert Malcolm McCulloch, Ippewash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. McCulloch of Campbellford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Charles Kerteston, wore a street-length dress of turquoise silk jersey, with corsage of bouvardia and pink roses with matching chapel net veil caught at the head with a halo of pink rosebuds. The ceremony took place beneath an arch of wedding bells and pink and white streamers, and Miss Margaret McCulloch, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She chose a mauve, two-piece dress with corsage of yellow roses and matching veil. Mr. Charles Bertrand, a brother of the bride, assisted the groom. Rev. B. Simpson Black, formerly of St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford, officiated.

Mrs. A. Sexsmith Heads War Club

COE HILL, Feb. 10.—(ENS). — The Coe Hill Community War Club held its annual meeting recently at which the election of officers took place. Mrs. Archie Sexsmith was named president, succeeding Mrs. Alice Giles. The other officers are: 1st vice-president, Mrs. Alice Giles; sec.-treasurer, Mrs. Ted Oakleaf; and assistant secretary, Miss Muriel Ruckstuhl.

The thirty members had an active year and the financial report showed total receipts, $556.31; expenditures, $389.72, leaving a balance of $165.49. The Russian Relief, Chinese Relief and Red Cross were given $10 each.

Other donations included: Minesweepers, 4 quilts; Russian Relief, 4 quilts; 10 two-pound boxes of candy sent to boys overseas in March; 20 two-pound boxes of candy for boys overseas in June; 100 cigarettes each to 31 boys overseas in September, as well as 31 two-pound boxes of chocolates; 31 overseas boxes valued at $3 each, were packed in October. A special canvass was made in September for this purpose.

BABY'S HOT LITTLE HEAD IS A DANGER SIGNAL

WHEN your Baby's head feels hot to your hand you must do something. And do it quickly. Read what Mrs. B—— of Enterprise does and what results she gets: "My baby's cheeks and hands were so hot I was frightened. I gave him a Baby's Own Tablet at noon and by after supper he was all better."

And Mrs. Francis Carroll, of Midland, has this to say: "My little girl was so feverish I was really alarmed. Then I thought of Baby's Own Tablets, so I gave her three every two hours and by night she was up and around."

Baby's Own Tablets are sweet-tasting, easy to take—and may be quickly crushed to a powder if desired. Analyst's certificate on every box. Equally good for teething fevers, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colds and other minor ailments of baby. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

Boys Present Fashion Show At Trinity Club

Five male members of Trinity Club presented a satire on ladies' fashions at a regular meeting of the club, held Tuesday evening. The fashion parade showed styles for afternoon, evening and sport wear, and also negligees for lounging around the house. The show was greatly enjoyed by the group, who picked their favorites and outdid themselves in applause for them.

"Models" were Bill Donaldson, Harvey Shier, Harry Gray, Don Holmes and Dick Clayton, although each chose a more "glamorous" name to distinguish them in the "parade of pulchritude."

The devotional period was in charge of Leona Edwards' group, and Miss Edwards was assisted by Elinor Bird and Madelyn McWilliams. Miss Cordelia Robertson, a new member, who came from Manitoba, played two piano selections, "Black Hawk Waltz" and "The Star Spangled Banner." The games were in charge of Dick Clayton, and Pearl Clayton supervised the serving of refreshments.

Members Mark Birthday Of Home and School

A candle-lighting ceremony commemorating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Home and School Association was held at the meeting of Queen Elizabeth Association Wednesday evening. The table was set with a lace cloth, and centred with a large birtday cake and one tall white taper. Two golden candles were arranged behind the cake, and alternate blue and gold candles were placed on either side, representing the goals of the association.

As a prelude to the ceremony, Mrs. O. Deyell and Mrs. R. Batten lit the two gold candles in honor of the founder, Mrs. Ada Courtice, and Mr. L. Bird read five verses of Psalm 121. Mrs. C. Doughty lit the white candle, representing the spirit of Home and School and each lady who lit a smaller candle explained the goal she represented.

They are as follows: Good homes, Mrs. W. Grubbe; sound health, Mrs. P. Jarvis; safety, Mrs. A. Brown; equalized educational opportunities, Miss M. Munro; conservation of human values and natural resources. Mrs. W. Frise; constructive leisure time activities, Mrs. P. Ellison; civic responsibilities, Mrs. W. F. Irwin; active spiritual faith, Mrs. W. Ellison.

Mrs. E. Chambers, president of the Home and School Council, was guest speaker, and reviewed the history of Home and School from the time of its founding up to the present day. She explained each aim of the Association, and the ideal which it covers, and said that there were more than 500 Associations in Ontario, with 31,000 members.

Mrs. C. Doughty presided, and heard reports given by different conveners. Marjorie Brown played two piano solos, "Evening Bell" and "Nearer My God To Thee." Miss O'Donnell sang "Goin' Home" and "My Task," accompanied by Walter Morrow. The attendance book was won by Grade 3.

Mrs. Roberts Addresses W.M.S. Group

At a meeting of life members of the afternoon auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society, held Tuesday afternoon in George Street United Church, Mrs. H. L. Roberts spoke of the importance of the individual member of the whole organization. Mrs. Roberts used these words from Paul, "As we have many members in one body, and each member has not the same office," as her text.

"In the W.M.S.," she said, "each member, whether life or annual, is a living unit of the whole, and as each member of the body has its own work, and no substitute can be used without loss to the whole body, so in the organization of the society, the talents of each member must be used, or the whole society is weakened. Life membership means united for life in the great organization of 143,000 members of the W.M.S. of the United Church, and this membership means responsibility.

"A life member is an individual working for the good of the whole organization," continued Mrs. Roberts. "We are a group joined together in study, prayer, and work, in an organization on which the sun never sets."

Reports included that of the Presbyterial held in Knox Church, January 25, which was given by Mrs. F. Horton. She related that the theme of the Presbyterial was "Advance," and one of the thoughts stressed was the development of the talents of the members, particularly the younger members, as well as the givings and study.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. Fanning, reported a balance of $51.80 in the bank, with the special contribution for the day amounting to $23.75. Mrs. J. W. Hales convener for the sick and visiting committee, stated that 97 calls had been made during the month, and the community friendship report, given by Mrs. R. Parnall, showed that 10 calls had been made at the hospitals, and 30 in homes.

A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Nellie Douglas for typing the programs for 1944. A Valentine tea is to be held in the Assembly Hall February 15. Mrs. Bryce, a former missionary in India, will speak at the evening service on February 16 on her work among the women and homes in India.

Mrs. J. W. Hales read the Bible lesson, and Mrs. J. Airiess led in prayer. Mrs. J. H. Rowe presided, and she and Mrs. H. McHoull were appointed to meet with the committee to arrange for the World Day of Prayer. Mrs. James Goldie, accompanied by Mrs. H. Doig, sang "Green Pastures," and "God Is Love."

Mrs. F. Merritt Elected Head of Navy Auxiliary

Mrs. F. Merritt succeeded Mrs. E. Wand as president of the Peterborough and District Women's Auxiliary to the Navy, at the annual meeting held Wednesday evening in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

Considerable discussion ensued from the report of the nominating committee, as several nominees asked to be relieved of their positions. Mrs. J. G. M. Wilson was named to conduct the election, and was faced with the task of installing almost an entirely new executive. Lively and spirited discussion occurred after each name was read, and those asking to withdraw were requested to carry on.

Final results are as follows: President, Mrs. F. Merritt; first vice-president, Mrs. George Lynch; second vice-president, Mrs. F. D. Craig; treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Ainslie; secretary, Mrs. George Groombridge; corseponding secretary, Mrs. George Moore; wool convener, Mrs. Roy Pilling; sick and visiting committee, Mrs. A. Chartren, and Mrs. G. Eason; telephone convener, Mrs. B. Fowler; pianist, Mrs. W. J. Routley.

The naming of representatives to the Local Council of Women and Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and members to assist with the new salvage campaign, was left to the new executive.

No Balance.

The treasurer's annual report showed that $181 had been brought forward from 1942, and the total receipts for 1943 were $1,393.69. Total expenditures amounted to $1,817.06, leaving an outstanding bill of $423.37. Receipts were gathered from various sources, with a tag day, a garden party and draw on a quilt, a bingo, and a draw on a Chesterfield in addition to separate donations, making up the total.

The report of the wool convener stated that $392.95 had been spent during the year, and a total of 207 pounds had been bought, with 40 pounds either given out or on hand. Nine hundred and forty-six articles were received during the year, and 1,143 given out. Thirteen hundred pounds of magazines were shipped during the year, and a total of 41 letters of thanks for ditty bags received at Chritmas had been received by the secretary up to the end of 1943. Others have not yet been tabulated, but all will be on display for members to read.

Final plans for a bridge and euchre party to be held February 11 in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. were made and each lady was asked to have at least one table. A letter from the City Council was read, reporting a grant of $375 to help the Auxiliary with the expense of sending Christmas ditty bags to sailors. The corresponding secretary also reported that the Y's Men's Club would be willing to assist with a bingo. Mrs. E. Wand presided during this period.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

Sunday.

Roast Veal with Sour Cream Gravy
Casserole of Shredded Beets
Pan Roasted Potatoes in Jackets
Shredded Lettuce French Dressing
Cherry Sponge Torte Coffee.

NOTE.—Some of you have your own canned cherries, and there are a few to be bought in the stores. With one of my precious jars I made this torte and it was quite popular: One baked pie shell, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 can (20-oz.) pitted sour cherries. You blend the sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon, and lemon juice with juice from cherries. Cook until creamy stirring. Add cherries. Boil for 1 minute. Pour into hot baked pie shell. Cover with a sponge batter: 1 tablespoon each sugar and flour, 1 egg, yolk and white separated, 1-16 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon water, ¼ teaspoon of vanilla. Beat the sugar and yolk until thick and lemon colored. Sift dry ingredients. Fold in alternately the beaten white and water. Add vanilla. When batter is spread over cherry mixture bake 10 to 15 minutes in oven of 375 degrees Fahr. To serve sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. This treatment may be given to canned plums too—very similar to a Plum Duff.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

There is nothing whimsy about the new spring dresses, no frippery either, The spring styles belong to the time we are living in, they are simple and smart in the flattering, feminine way a woman wants a frock to be for her less tailored hours.

Skirts give that slim look, and the sleeves are bracelet length. These styles are suitable for either young or old, slight, or the more fleshy woman. There is a pretty dress with a jabot neckline, and buttoned down the front, from collar to hem. With this may be worn a black sailor hat, the brim hugging the head closely at the back, and its only trimming being a band of ribbon around the crown, with large rosette bow in front, worn with a decided forward dip.

Another is a one-piece dress, with V pointed neckline, three large buttons on front of waist, and self-toned braid work on either side of front from shoulder to hip, which gives it a coat effect, so very good this spring. With this may be worn a small off-the-face hat, sitting well on the back of the head.

The younger set like to attract all eyes in their color-splashed prints, that no one can help seeing. These smart town suits have hugs icing white pique collars, and patchpockets. Wear it with a small hat made in cap effect, with peak in front, its only trimming being a fancy pin, with many colored stones.

Junior League Plans Euchre

At the February meeting of the Catholic Junior League, held Tuesday evening, final arrangements were made for the Valentine bridge and euchre to be held on February 14 in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mrs. D. McKenna, social service convener, reported that at Christmas five boxes of fruit and candy were given to the wards at St. Joseph's Hospital, one box to St. Vincent's Orphanage, one to the House of Providece, and a complete Christmas dinner and some clothing to a needy family.

The W.V.S. convener, Miss Gladys Perdue, reported on entertainments given for soldiers by the Catholic Auxiliary Service Club, which the Junior League and the Knights of Columbus are sponsoring. A number of girls, including five senior hostesses, have registered for the hostess course being given at the "Y." A motion to send a thousand cigarettes to Father McCarney, a chaplain overseas, was passed.

Father Marrocco gave a talk on Bernadette of Lourdes, and Veronica Scollard and Anne Donoghue played two piano duets, "Anitra's Dance," by Grieg, and Schubert's "Moment Musical."

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 11

Previous concentration of forces, resources and well-directed plans and programs should now bear fruit of a solid, enduring and comforting nature, probably coming from clever, aggressive and well-endorsed organizations with the substantial co-operating of influential persons or public authorities. The constructive work may have had public development or service as its major objective. In this continued community assistance is effective, with political diplomatic or fraternal bodies benefited. Promotion, preferment and personal prestige are in order, but shun extravagance, with funds, acts and speech and keep realistic and balanced under excitement, bewilderment or high pressure.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of significant attainments, arising in recognition of work well done, of a practical, constructive and finely organized system, with detail carefully considered, logic and reason as well as deep study, combining to advance a progressive work of benefit to public or community well-being. Promotion, preferment or pleasant approval may be assured as reward of merit or the worthy adherence to principle in tempestuous and critical moments. Personal prestige as well as financial security are at hand with social, affectional and professional gratifications.

A child born on this day may have splendid versatility, with originality and skill as well as ingenuity, to warrant preferment and rewards from high places.

DOROTHY DIX

WEALTH CAN BE IN KNOWLEDGE

Every Man Who Does Honest Day's Work With Tools God Gave Him Is Success.

A MAN writes me: "When he see people who are seemingly without ambition, I often wonder if it is not because they have observed life cases similar to my own and concluded the rewards are so often so incommensurate as to make the effort for success scarcely worthwhile.

"As a youth—I am now past 65—I doubt if there was anyone fired with greater ambition than that which burnt constantly within my soul. I felt that I was destined to do great things in the world. To begin with, though the idea never daunted me as a youth, I was one of the unfortunate who are born with "no chance," as the phrase goes, of common parentage, of a poverty-stricken family in a backwoods district, afflicted in childhood with a physical handicap, and without the opportunity for higher education.

Studied and Worked Hard

"Despite all these handicaps, I still determined to make my mark. I read virtually everything I could get my hands upon. Not only read, but studied the Bible, Webster's Dictionary and all the works on scientific subjects I could get, and as the result I am frequently asked from what college I was graduated. I tell them the Poor Man's College, for I learned the printing trade, became a newspaper man, got into business for myself on a shoestring at the age of 24, and worked sixteen hours a day for all the long years in order to make a success of that newspaper of mine.

"At first it seemed as if success were in my hand, for I wrote and sold short stories, verses and articles and was making a name for myself. Then I married. Children began to come all too regularly and the struggle for existence and support of those beloved dependents began and continued through the swiftly flying years, leaving no time nor opportunity for anything more than the battle with life itself. I worked hard and unceasingly. Had no bad habits, indulged myself in no luxuries. Then, one day I woke up and realized that I was old and had not amounted to anything. All of my ambitions, all of the fond dreams of my youth were dust and ashes.

"I was 65, without a dollar to my name, without title to one foot of real estate, still dependent upon my day's labor and with depreciated earning capacity. And perhaps it is the realization of something of this sort of thing that kills the ambition in some young men's souls."

This Man Succeeded, Too

I print this man's letter in full because it expresses so well the sense of defeatism that fills so many men's hearts who have worked hard all of their lives, and yet when they are old have nothing tangible to show for their labor. They have piled up no fortunes. Their names are carved on no monuments. They have borne the cross without ever wearing the crown of glory.

In their own eyes they are failures, yet by what standard can we measure success? Who are the successful, the kind, the gentle, the

Lily Lake W.A. Elects New Officers

Mrs. Arthur Beardsmore was elected president of the Lily Lake Women's Association, at the February and annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Rowland. Other officers elected are as follows: first vice-president, Mrs. William C. Steinkraus second vice-president, Mrs. Kenneth Darling; treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Middleton; secretary and press, Mrs. Gordon Hancock; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. A. Ackison; organists, Mrs. A. Hancock and Mrs. G. Middleton.

Committee conveners are as follows: telephone, Mrs. C. Chapman and Mrs. J. Ackison; war savings stamps, Mrs. Clarence Hancock; auditors, Mrs. George Middleton and Mrs. Harry Fowler; representatives to Local Council of Women, Mrs. G. Middleton and Mrs. O. Young; flowers and visiting, Mrs. O. Young and Mrs. F. Rowland; quilts, Mrs. R. Falls, convener, and Mrs. D. Wilson, Mrs. J. Hatherley, Mrs. E. Ireland, and Miss M. Robson.

In addition to the presentation of annual reports, a discussion as to ways and means of making meetings more interesting, and raising more funds was held. Letters of thanks for parcels received at Christmas were read from Eric Mason, Bob Latchford, Pte. Evelyn and Wren Lulu Young, and Donald and Billy Ackison.

The roll call was answered by Biblical quotations, novel ideas and humorous verses on the theme of "Love." The March meeting roll call will be answered by opinions of programs heard over the radio and their effect on the life of the home. Mrs. Orville Young and Mrs. Arthur Beardsmore will be hostesses.

Mrs. D. Wilson and Mrs. W. Steinkraus presented the retiring president, Mrs. Clarence Hancock, with a pyrex coffee percolator and platter, on behalf of the members, in recognition and appreciation of her two years of service, and tea and cookies were served.

6 British Prisoners To Be Executed

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 — (AP)) — The Nazi DNB Agency said Tuesday that six escaped British prisoners of war had been arrested by Fascist police in the Piedmont Alps of Northern Italy and that five of them had been sentenced to death.

The dispatch, which said that the men had been hiding since the Italian armistice, gave no reason for the death sentences except that "they have been the terror of the population."

The wireless dispatch was reported by U.S. Government Monitors.

compassionate, the loving and the beloved, or the hard, the ruthless, who trample under foot all who stand between them and their goal? Is the miser a success, or the thief, or the crooked politician? No matter how much money he makes? Is a man a more successful husband who gives his wife matched pearls, or the one who gives her love and tenderness?

My correspondent thinks he is a failure because he owns no property, neither houses nor lands nor bank stocks, but he has stored within his mind the imperishable riches of a good education. He has turned an uncouth, ignorant, country boy into a scholar and a gentleman. He has opened the doors of learning for himself. And if he lacks the price of consorting with millionaires, he sits with the elect every time he opens a book.

And many a man who is still living on Poverty Flat after a life of toil can say: "My children are my investments." For into their rearing and their education he has put the money that would have made him rich if it had gone into stocks and bonds, instead of hungry little mouths and college courses.

Every man who does an honest day's work with such tools as God gave him is a success. It is only the slackers and the quitters who are failures.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just 11 years ago tonight more than 20,000 fight fans screamed "fake" as Ernie Schaaf sprawled to the canvas for the count in the 13th round of his 15-round bout with Primo Carnera. Four days later, the quiet boy who wanted to be a priest, died in hospital from the effects of the beating. He never regained consciousness.

Soldier Returns To Join R.C.A.F.

PTE. T. B. PEARCE

ARMORA, Feb. 10. — (ENS).— Marmora's first soldier to return from overseas since the outbreak of war, was warmly welcomed by friends recently.

Pte. Thomas B. Pearce, only son of Lieut. and Mrs. H. R. Pearce, left for England July 17, 1941, being with No. 4 Sub Depot, C.B.O.D. As a driver he has several thousands of miles to his credit. He considers England as a whole an interesting and beautiful land if fogs and rain are excluded from the analysis. Pte. Pearce has witnessed the effects of various blitzes and narrowly escaped being in one.

He came across another former Marmora boy, Flt. Sgt. Mackenzie (Mac) Reeves, while in London on New Year's eve, he relates and said he has returned to Canada to carry out his old ambition of training in air crew.

He is spending a month's furlough at his home in the meanwhile.

7,000 Reservists Enlist In 1943

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP). — During 1943 the Canadian Reserve Army furnished 7,000 reinforcements for the Active Army, it was disclosed to-day in a Defence Headquarters statement on Reserve Army policy.

"While happily the Reserve Army has not been called upon to fight in defence of Canadian soil, it has contributed in no small measure to the expansion and efficiency of the Active Army," the statement said, adding:

"During the year 1943 alone more than 7,000 reinforcements for the Active Army were obtained from the ranks of Reserve units.

"It has presented to the people of Canada an example of preparedness to meet any situation at a time when future conditions are unforeseeable and has helped to maintain and increase public interest in the Army and its activities in the war in the many communities across the country where Reserve units have carried out their training.

"The enthusiasm and self-sacrifice of its members, many of whom are fully engaged in other forms of war effort, have been an inspiration in the prosecution of the war."

Radio Forum Holds Meeting

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 10 (ENS) —The Farm Radio Forum met at the home of Mrs. R. J. Meggs Monday evening with 23 members present from Harwood, Plainville and this village.

Mr. Moore, Harwood, was chairman and Charles Chidley, secretary. In the discussion that followed the broadcast, the party divided into three groups. The result of the discussion that the rural minister in this vicinity helped a great deal in various organizations and throughout the communities in furthering young people's work, and libraries. Suggestions were made that recreation facilities such as a gymnasium bowling alley and moving picture projector, would benefit the communities if this could be handled in a cooperative way.

The program consisted of a solo by Ken Symonds, Harwood; two duets sung by Mrs. Stewart Herriott and Miss Evelyn Brisbin, Plainville, accompanied by Mrs. R. J. Meggs; and a contest. Lunch was served, assisted by the men of the party. Rev. M. C. Fisher spoke on the work of the rural minister and Mrs. Meggs gave some interesting figures on British agriculture since the war. Mrs. R. E. Drope, Harwood, moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Would Develop Power Sites On St. Lawrence

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP)—Ontario has plans ready for development of power sites on the St. Lawrence and elsewhere to be proceeded with when post-war manpower is available, Premier Drew last night told the convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Coupled with the Premier's declaration that Ontario is anxious to proceed as soon as possible with further power developments was a statement by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission chairman, Dr. T. H. Hogg, that Hydro power loads are still rising "and if the war continues into next year we are going to suffer next winter, and restrictions will increase."

Premier Drew told the convention that Ontario is anxious to proceed as soon as possible with power development of the St. Lawrence river and other sites, but it would not be wise to attempt this work until the first stage of the war is over and demobilization provides the needed manpower. "But plans are ready," he added, "and will be put into effect at the time when work is needed during the period of industrial readjustment from war to peace."

Planning Done

Premier Drew also spoke of the value of avoiding too great a concentration of industrial production, and said much planning has already been prepared on means of helping to spread industrial units over as wide an area as possible.

Predicting a great future for the province when the war is won, Premier Drew said that as many immigrants will come from Britain as Ontario is prepared to put to work "and that is particularly true of the young men and women now in the armed forces of Britain.

Dr. Hogg announced that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission hopes to amalgamate the Niagara, Georgian Bay and Eastern Ontario systems to be known as the Southern Ontario System. He anticipated this would result in some small reduction in power costs to practically all municipalities.

Ontario is now using a total of 3,440,000 horsepower, of which 2,540,000 is from provincially-owned plants, Dr. Hogg revealed. Total energy output last year exceeded 11,730,000 kilowatt hours, a record for the province and 56 per cent greater than in 1938.

Carrier Sunk German Claim

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)— The U.S.S. Ranger, in answer to fictitious Axis claims she had been sunk by a Nazi submarine, made a daring raid into enemy dominated waters off Norway to account for destruction of more than 40,000 tons of German shipping, the navy disclosed today.

The navy told about the raid in the first report of war activities of the aircraft carrier.

The strike into Norway's waters, the navy said, was carried out last October six months after Hitler had announced that the Ranger had been sunk and had decorated Lieut. Otta Von Bulow, the submarine commander credited with the feat.

Planes from the carrier destroyed at least six enemy vessels, including four merchantmen, a tanker and an oil barge; damaged other shipping, and shot down two Axis planes in the raid. She was with a British task force at the time operating well within range of German land-based bombers. The raid cost three Ranger planes.

Pte. J. McIntosh In Front Lines

PTE. JOE McINTOSH

After some time in the hospital, Pte. Joe McIntosh (Doc) son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McIntosh, Ford Avenue, is back on the firing line on the Italian battlefront.

He had been in Italy for a time when he injured his hand working with a big gun. An 8-ton gun carrier ran over it, crushing it and breaking two fingers. Pte. McIntosh was hospitalized at Taplo, and remained there until his hand could be removed from the cast.

Writing home, he told his parents that it had been raining nearly every day and fierce fighting was going on at all times. He and his companions are on the firing line most of the time, except for a few hours they are given as rest periods. Two of his food boxes and some tobacco arrived in time for Christmas, he said.

Public School Board Hears Month's Reports

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10 — (ENS) — The Lakefield Public School Board met in the Council Room immediately after the High School Board on Monday evening. Trustee E. H. Northey was chairman, and Trustees Roy Bullock, W. J. Frankish, W. F. Whetung and Rev. S. A. R. Wood were present.

Principal Everett Sloan was present and reported that attendance for January was 242 pupils, being 86.89 per cent, and presented list of supplies for 1944 needed for the Public School.

It was moved by Trustees Bullock and Frankish that supplies requested by the principal be purchased.

The report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts:

T. W. Chaplin, postage, $3.00; Bell Telephone Co., telephone, $2.94; L.H.E.C., light, $26.53; T. C. Yonge, cleanser, etc., $1.10; Peel's Products, blocks, $7.56; C.C. Snowden, deodorant, $22.66; Lakefield News, printing, $1.75; F. L. Erskine, supplies, $2.10; total, $69.63.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

$512,000 From Nicholls Estate Paid For Hospital Maintenance

The benefactions of the late Mrs. Charlotte Jane Nicholls to the City of Peterborough are many and should occasionally be brought to the attention of the citizens in order that they may be familiar with the extent and scope of what this splendid woman did for the city in which we live. To enumerate some of these gifts—in 1907 when the residue of the estate was distributed by the executors of Mrs. Nicholls' will, the following bequests were made:

City Parks	$80,000.00
Y.M.C.A.	7,500.00
in addition to former donations to this institute
Y.W.C.A.	2,000.00
Peterboro Protestant Home	2,000.00
Knox Church	5,000.00
Children's Aid Society	1,300.00
Sunday School Libraries	6,000.00
Public Library	20,000.00
St. Andrew's Church	3,000.00
St. Paul's Church	3,000.00
Miscellaneous Charities	5,000.00

And the Hospital endowment increased by $115,000.00 and in addition a further $30,000.00 specifically earmarked "for hospital extension." The bequests to Nicholls Hospital are perhaps the most outstanding and the benefits have been enjoyed by the citizens of Peterborough for over a half century.

The Hospital was first established in 1885 at which time Mrs. Nicholls advised the city council that she wished to establish a Hospital in PRESIDENT—Elected president of the Nicholls Hospital Board at its annual meeting Monday, Dr. H. M. Yelland who succeeded C. F. Kitney.

Peterborough as a memorial to her late husband Robert Nicholls. The first meeting was held on June 19, 1885, at which were present: George A. Cox, Mr. Sanderson, R. S. Davidson, John McClelland, J. W. Flavelle and Richard Hall, men outstanding in the life of our city and country.

Council's Appreciation

The gift was acepted by the council of the City of Peterborough at the time under a special act of the Ontario Legislature assented to on March 25, 1886 and in acceptance of this gift the following resolution was passed by the city council.

At a meeting of the town of Peterborough held on the third day of February A.D. 1890 it was unanimously resolved that the municipal council of the town of Peterborough assembled place on record an expression of its sense of gratitude to Mrs. Charlotte J. Nicholls for her munificent gift of the further sum of thirty-five thousand dollars to the endowment of the Nicholls Hospital thus raising that fund to fifty thousand dollars and for the noble and very suitable hospital building erected by her at a cost of upwards of thirty thousand dollars now bearing her name with the beautiful grounds adjourning which she has dedicated to the benevolent and christian purpose of relieving the suffering and healing the sick in the town of Peterborough.

That this council convey to Mrs. Nicholls its appreciation of this manifestation of her great concern for the unfortunate; and of her love to the citizens of Peterborough among whom she has so long lived and who will always speak her name with thankfulness and affectionate remembrance for that God put it in her power and in her heart to do this beneficent act.

That this council feels quite confident it can assure Mrs. Nicholls of the support of the citizens at all times in supplementing the income from the endowment fund if that may prove insufficient in order to the maintaining of the hospital in an efficient and effective condition; and that this council will always cooperate with the trustees of the fund in doing everything necessary for the permanent safety of the splendid grant made by Mrs. Nicholls for the support of the Nicholls Hospital.

That this resolution be presented on behalf of the council to Mrs. Nicholls by the mayor, and the mover and seconder, W. H. Moore and Adam Dawson respectively.

J. Stevenson, Mayor.

The type of management and the conditions under which the hospital is to be operated are clearly set forth in the bill passed by the legislature and these terms and conditions were in no way altered by Mrs. Nicholls' will under which further bequests were subsequently given to the hospital.

First Hospital

The first hospital was established in a large residence west of the city known as "Moira Hall" which Mrs. Nicholls purchased and equipped. The cost would be in the neighborhood of $15,000 to $20,000 and she gave $15,000 as an endowment to this hospital. The bed capacity of the first hospital was fifteen to twenty beds. This was soon found inadequate and a new hospital (on our present site) with a capacity of fifty beds was built and equipped by Mrs. Nicholls. At the same time she gave a further $35,000 as endowment, making the total endowment $50,000.

Mrs. Nicholls died in 1890 and in 1907 her estate provided a further $85,000 to the endowment of the hospital. Then in 1908 when the estate was finally closed, a further sum was added to the hospital endowment, bringing the total to approximately $220,000, besides $30,000 was set apart definitely earmarked "for an extension to the hospital when required." This $220,000 endowment has been increased by the Board to its present standing of $242,000 par value, including $97,500 Peterborough bonds.

Thus it will be seen that Mrs. Nicholls and her estate contributed generously to the work of the hospital and the members of the Trust have endeavored to administer the affairs of the hospital wisely and economically, and under the Trust the hospital has been developed to render hospital service to this city and community.

Wing Built In 1914

The new fifty bed hospital built in 1890 was soon found to be inadequate and in 1914 a wing was added to provide additional forty beds or a total of ninety beds at a cost of $60,000 financed by the Trust, together with $30,000 received from the Nicholls Estate and definitely earmarked "for building purposes."

In 1925 the Mason home on Argyle street was purchased for a nurses' residence and $20,000 was spent in extension of class rooms, dormitories and sitting rooms, towards which the late B. F. Ackerman contributed $5,000—the balance was financed by the Trust.

In 1925 a shortage of beds was again in evidence and by 1928 the Trust had plans prepared to build an extension to provide thirty additional beds at a cost of $291,000 and also anticipating a later development to one hundred and fifty beds. The matter was presented to the council of that day which gave its approval that the bylaw should be presented to the ratepayers. The bylaw was lost by twelve votes.

In May 1929, the same bylaw was again presented to the ratepayers and lost by 250 odd votes.

Recent Appeals

In 1932, pressed by the incessant demands for more bed capacity, the Board again endeavored to revive the matter and in order to interest the ratepayers as to the need, special visits to the hospital by manufacturers, foremen and other ratepayers was arranged. The matter was carried some distance but owing to the acute depression which overtook the country at that time, the matter was not carried to a conclusion and the hospital continued as best it could under the handicap of bed shortage.

However, the Board in an effort to meet some of the objections raised in opposition to the expenditure of money on the hospital had an amendment made to the original act of the legislature authorizing the council to appoint an additional four members to the Board of the Nicholls Trust on the understanding that $300,000 would be provided for hospital extension. These members were appointed and have since occupied a place on the Hospital Board although the $300,000 was not provided.

The hospital continued to struggle along under the handicap of bed shortage and in 1938 the question of extension was again revived and the council was approached to provide the sum of $393,000.00 fo extension purposes. The council gave its approval, but the Board, realizing the necessity, went ahead with its plans and organized certain publicity in an effort to interest the ratepayers and show the necessity for the expenditure. Before these plans were brought to a final conclusion, the war became eminent and nothing further was done.

In 1941 the Board suggested a somewhat temporary extension which would provide an additional 26 beds. Toward this the council granted $17,000 and the Board financed the balance of a similar amount along with contributions from the Women's Auxiliary, The Alumnae and other sources.

Summary Of Benefits

Summing up the Nicholls bequests, we find that the Nicholls Estate has contributed over the past 54 years $512,000.00 or an average of $9,500.00 per year towards the maintenance and purchase of equipment for the hospital. As against this the city has provided $138,800.00 or an average of $2,600.00 per year over the period. The Trust has financed all the money required for equipment and other facilities which have been installed to keep the hospital modern in its service, and as far as equipment is concerned, compares favorably with any hospital of its size in the country. Today, the hospital incuding the land, buildings and equipment has an appraised value of around $325,000.00, besides the endowment of $242,000.00 or a total of $567,000.00 provided almost entirely by the Nicholls Estate. And apart from this, as above stated, the estate has provided $512,000.00 for maintenance purposes.

This is a short resume of the history of Nicholls Hospital which can be verified by reference to the minute books.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SMALL CARDS DECIDE IT

IF YOU compiled records based on thousands of hands, you would find that the way you make out in the play is usually decided by what somebody does with a small card or cards. Almost anybody can keep track of the aces, kings and queens, and do the right thing with them a big proportion of the time, but there is a terrific difference between the way the careless player uses his little cards and the way the fine player does, including signaling.

North: ♠ K 8 7 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ 5 3 2 ♣ A K Q J

West: ♠ Q J 4 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A K J 7 ♣ 6 4 3 2

East: ♠ A 10 9 6 ♥ 6 ♦ Q 10 8 4 ♣ 10 9 7 5

South: ♠ 5 3 2 ♥ A Q J 9 5 3 2 ♦ 9 6 ♣ 8

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♣
2 ♦	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

The old cut-and-dried lead of the diamond K was made by West, and East did the old cut-and-dried stunt of signaling with the 8, because be wanted his partner to know the side held all of the top three honors in the suit. That piece of worthless information was expensive to give, as West followed with the A and then led to the Q, which South ruffed. Two heart tricks were followed by four clubs for a discard of all of South's spades, enabling him to make his contract plus an extra trick.

If East had been in the habit of using even the simplest of common sense instead of the habit of acting like an automatom, he would have realized how important was his play to the first trick. Quick reflection would have recalled his partner's opening bid, and shown that he must have had some high cards besides diamonds. They could not have been clubs, as all of those were in the dummy. Surely they were not hearts, in view of South's bid. Consequently, they were definitely in spades, and could be nothing except the guarded Q, plus almost surely the J.

A switch to spades was therefore clearly indicated, if East played the 4 on the opening diamond lead. That would have given the side three spade tricks plus two in diamonds, setting the contract two tricks, instead of presenting the declarer an overtrick.

Federation To Investigate Liquor Problem

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Rev. C. W. De Mille, secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation said Wednesday in his report to the Federation's annual meeting here that the organization had been told by the Ontario Government that "certain phases of the liquor question were causing grave concern.

Dr. De Mille said Ontario Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell had told a delegation from the Federation "it might be that some actions he would take would not meet with our approval, but what action he did take he purposes should be for the correction of the evils incident to the liquor traffic."

Dr. De Mille added that the Ontario Federation has supported the Canadian Temperance Federation in its request for a Royal Commission to investigate the "whole liquor problem in Canada" with particular reference to effectiveness of present liquor laws, relation of liquor to crime, poverty, accidents and family life and the possibility of eliminating "private control and profit from the liquor business."

Council Stalls Board's Demand Fearing 5 Mill Tax Increase

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10 — (ENS) — The school requisition for $10,000 received a thorough and lengthy discussion at the February meeting of council on Monday night, and finally, on a motion by Councillors Leeson and Sanderson, was returned to the school board for re-consideration.

Reeve Seeney felt there was no other alernative than to increase the mill rate since the Board of Education has found it necessary to increase their requisition by $2,000, approximately 5 mills over that of last year to carry on with last year's levy of 42 mills, 1 of which is paid by the province, leaving 41 mills to the ratepayers, left only 1.57 mills or $600 to take care of the streets, walks, drainage and fuel, and nothing for the Park Board. It simply means, to clean up on the small surplus that has been saved from last year, cause increased bank borrowings with increased expenditure in carrying charges.

Continuing Mr. Seeney said he did not wish to criticize the Board, as they were capable and economical, but with increased salaries to the extent of $1,200, increase in cost of living, maintenance for school and equipment, and heating, he felt the taxpayers should know the cause of increased taxation. Repair work around the village has been let slide in order to have employment for the men when the war has ceased, but he felt the rate should be increased, realizing that to strike a rate that will not meet the expenditure is extravagant.

The Reeve said he may not be on the council when post-war work commences, but he would like to leave the village in a good financial condition, with a small surplus to avoid the issuing of a debenture, which is a costly way of financing.

Road Committee.

T. P. Lancaster addressed the meeting, representing Harold Scott, M.P.P., on the petition of the council some time ago regarding the road north from Havelock to connect with Lasswade, and to take this road over as a secondary road. He advised the council to appoint a committee to meet the Minister of Highways as soon as possible.

On a motion by Councillors Sanderson and Ketchen the Reeve and councillors, with T. P. Lancaster, Fred McKenzie and the clark were appointed a committee to meet the minister at Toronto at an early date, with expenses paid.

The Reeve was appointed to make arrangements with the auditors to have the books audited for 1943. The clerk was instructed to arrange with the Minister of Highways for one dozen elm trees and two dozen maple trees to replace those that had died along the highway through the village.

On a motion by Councillors Martin and Ketchen that arrangements be made with the county to re-surface the county road through Havelock this summer. The Reeve is to arrange for the purchase of three cords of green wood for the town hall. A request from the Navy League to hold a tag day on July 8 was granted on a motion by Councillors Sanderson and Leeson.

On a motion by Councillors Martin and Leeson that the public liability and property damage insurance be renewed with Lloyds of London through the Cosmopolitan Insurance Co. at a cost of $155.75.

On a motion by Councillors Martin and Sanderson that the treasurer be authorized to sue if necessary for tax arrears and also to serve notice when property in arrears of taxes is rented, to collect the rent and apply same as taxes.

Bruce Urges Revival National Housing Act

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — Revival of the National Housing Act, so far as the appointment of a National Housing Commission with specific direction to assist in the "rehousing of the poorest members of the community" is concerned was advocated yesterday in Throne Speech debate by Dr. H. A. Bruce (P.C., Toronto-Parkdale).

Dr. Bruce approached the houseing and rehabilitation problem with the advantage of special knowledge obtained when he served as chairman of the Lieutenant-Governor's Committee on Housing in 1934.

"No public grants are so urgently needed as those for the rehousing of the poorest members of the community," he said. "And in order to make such grants most effective, a National Housing Commission should be appointed to assist the Provincial and municipal housing commissions or other authorities in the forming of plans, in the choice of materials, possibly if a nation-wide housing scheme can be initiated, in securing economies by the large scale purchase of such materials.

Mail In India Soldier Problem

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 10 (CP)—From North Bay, Ont. ,to Bombay —that's a synopsis of doings of Flt. Lt. C. L. (Smoky) Guenette since the war led him to his present post as officer commanding the Canadian base post office in India.

Actually the unit has not yet started to function but when his staff of seven airmen arrives and space is available in Bombay, Guenette hopes to establish " a better mail deal for Canadians serving in India."

He spent a year in the Middle East and North Africa where he opened base post offices at Algiers and Cairo.

When the Canadian base post office here gets going, all mail to and from Canadians in India will be relayed through it.

Overtures have been already made to the United States army in the Far East and the American Overseas postal facilities in India can be made available to Canadians.

At present it costs a Canadian airman 12 annas (about 24 cents) to send an air mail letter card to Canada whereas R. A. F. personnel can write their folks in the United Kingdom on the same forms for only four annas. American service personnel send air mail letters through their own postal units to the United States for six cents in U. S. stamps.

Greek Parties Unite To Defeat Invaders

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—The Greek Legation here said yesterday in a statement that reports reaching the Greek government in Cairo and Allied quarters indicate various political organizations in occupied Greece have agreed "on the basis of a unified political program and in collaboration with the Greek government."

"There is no doubt that all political parties in Greece as well as the guerilla organizations are looking forward to the destruction of the Axis powers and the establishment in Greece of a free democratic constitution," the statement added.

"The situation in Greece already shows a very satisfactory improvement and it is particularly encouraging to note that all conciliatory efforts are making good progress.'

Ontario Soldiers Given Decorations

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—Efficiency and good conduct decorations have been awarded to 226 members of the Canadian Army, Defence Headquarters announced to-day.

A breakdown of awards showed that 107 went to Ontario, 36 to Quebec, 20 to British Columbia, 16 to New Brunswick, 15 to Nova Scotia, 12 to Manitoba, eight each to Saskatchewan and Alberta and four to Prince Edward Island.

The decorations were Canadian Efficiency Decoration, Canadian Efficiency Medal, First Clasp to the Canadian Efficiency Medal, Second Clasp to the Canadian Efficiency Medal, and the Canadian Medal for long service and good conduct.

Largest number of decorations to one province were 52 Canadian Efficiency Medals to Ontario.

Are You a Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains?

These pains come from an inflammation in the muscles and are generally caused by a deposit of poison in the blood called uric acid which produces the irritating and painful effect that causes many days and nights heavy with pain.

During the past 60 years Canadian people have found that by purifying the blood stream, Burdock Blood Bitters aids them to enjoy freer body movement with less rheumatic pain, as B. B. B. helps to tone up the system and clear up the uric acid in the blood, and probably help fortify the system against future attacks.

Anzio Bridgehead Still In Peril Nazis Launch Heavy Tank Push

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 11 (AP)—German armored units, taking advantage of rains and clouds which robbed British and American troops of their most potent defence, their air force, were reported striking with deadly probing skill into the northern flank of the Anzio bridgehead today. In an action which in itself indicated the seriousness of the situation which had developed on the front south of Rome, the Allied command yesterday concentrated almost every combat plane in the Mediterranean theatre, including four-engined bombers, into a furious defence of the beachhead front.

But by this afternoon the rains had cancelled out much of this air support and a dispatch from the area by Kenneth L. Dixon, Associated Press war correspondent, said the Germans took prompt advantage of the freer hand given them by the conditions.

Situation Tense.

(In Washington President Roosevelt said a very tense situation prevailed and that the Allies were praying for good weather to aid sea and air operations.)

The powerful force which less than three weeks ago seized a wedge of coast and thrust a surprise spearhead into the German flank had become besieged, ringed by superior numbers and holding an open coastal plain with the aid of hundreds of massed guns.

Thunderous Barrage.

These guns, trained to fire in "tmed blasts" with devastating and almost instantaneous effect on given targets, were credited in correspondent's disptaches with having arrested the German attacks at at least one point, but the Germans were exploiting their growing numbers and now had at least five full divisions and a brigade in line to throw into an all-out assault.

There was no confirmation here, however, on the German High Command's claim that Carroceto (Aprilia), 10 miles north of Anzio, had been entered by the Nazis.

The latest information here was that the Allies still were fighting north of that place.

The fact the bridgehead force did not drive farther into the German flank at the early stages of the landing was mainly due to the stubborn resistance of the Germans along the main 5th Army front at Cassino.

There the Germans prevented the big break-through which could have led to a junction of the two Allied forces.

Countless tons of bombs smashed down on the Germans at all points ringing the bridgehead and their main operating points about Rome as heavy bombers were diverted from long-range targets to join medium and fighter-bombers in furious blows protecting the British and American troops resisting attempts to drive them into the sea.

Use Every Plane

The bombers added the weight of their explosives to the destructive blasts arched upon the enemy by

General McNaughton Opposed Partitioning Canadian Army

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 —(C P) — The Chicago Daily News, in a copyright story by Victor Gordon Lennox, said yesterday that 'Lieut.-Gen. Andrew (Andy) G. L. McNaughton's refusal to endorse the Canadian Government's announcement that he has given up command of Canada's forces in Britain because of 'prolonged ill health' promises to provoke a parliamentary debate in Ottawa wtih possible intra-commonwealth repercussions unless Premier W. L. Mackenzie King acts with courage and frankness."

Lennox, a war correspondent formerly stationed in Britain, wrote: "Using a well-understood formula, the Canadian Government attributed McNaughton's retirement to ill health in order to avoid just the type of controversy that has now been provoked by his challenge.

" 'Andy' insists he is perfectly fit and demands that those responsible for stating the contrary establish the basis for their announcement.

"Because he has been built up in Canada as a national leader of exceptional brilliance, who is mainly responsible for the existence to-day of a first-class Canadian army, McNaughton's enforced retirement may be seized by the parliamentary opposition as a stick with which to beat the Mackenzie King administration.

"A dramatic aspect concerns McNaughton's relations with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British invasion ground forces. Several months ago the British press carried rumors that McNaughton would be retired because he could not see eye to eye with Montgomery.

"As a war correspondent stationed in Britain until recently, I can state that the British High Command was highly impressed with McNaughton when he first went to Britain, in 1939, to take command of Canadian forces.

"There came a change of heart when invasion exercises were held off the British coast last March. It became impossible to escape the conclusion that McNaughton, a former scientist for all his excellence, might not prove an inspired director of tactical operations in the field.

"Now that public discussion seems inevitable, it is possible that Mackenzie King will tear to shreds the rumors that long credited him with attaching a special condition to the sending of Canadian troops to Britain— that the troops should be employed only for defence of the British Isles or for French liberation via a western invasion.

"It may now appear that the real obstacle to Canadian troops being sent to other theatres was none other than McNaughton. He is said to have had an overwhelming personal ambition to build up a single Canadian Army in Britain under his command and to have opposed every suggestion that these battle-hungry warriors be sent to other more active theatres."

150 Red Planes Bomb Finland

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(CP).—A German broadcast of a Finnish communique said to-day that 150 planes, presumably Russian, attacked Kotka, 70 miles east of Helsinki on the coast of the Gulf of Finland, for two hours last night.

It was the second heavy aerial blow within a week seeking to hasten Finland's exit from the war. The attack upon Kotka, 80 miles across the Gulf of Finland from Narva, followed the 200-plane raid on Helsinki the night of Feb. 6.

"The attack lasted two hours," the communique said. "Only a few aircraft succeeded in dropping bombs on the town. Some damage was done to windows of buildings. According to incomplete reports eight civilians were killed and two wounded in various localities of the vicinity."

Two raiders were destroyed by anti-aircraft fire, the communique added.

Kotka, one of the centres of Finland's vast saw mill industry, had been bombed several times before the Finnish-Russian front lapsed into comparatitve inactivity.

LONDON, Feb. 11 —(CP Cable) —Canadian special service troops are fighting alongside British and United States forces on the Nettuno bridgehead south of Rome, it was learned here to-day.

These troops are part of a Canadian-American special service force which was previously in action on the main Allied 5th Army front.

On that front the Germans dubbed them "men with funny pants and dirty faces," a field dispatch from Foster Barclay, Canadian Press war correspondent related last month.

They were trained in Montana as commandos, infantrymen, paratroopers and guerillas before going to Italy, and wear composite Canadian-American uniforms of special design with flashes reading "U.S.A.-Canada" on the shoulder.

It is understood the Canadians landed early in the Nettuno operation, probably with American units, and shared in the advance towards the Appian Way.

Barclay in his story gave the names of several of the highly-trained Canadians in the special service force, such as a pair of Kitchener, Ont., lads who are deadly with Tommy-gun, rifle and dagger, Fred Molson and Vet Vitenheimer.

Others he named were Pte. M. J. Overall of Niagara Falls, Ont., Sgts. Kenneth Lavery of Brockville, Ont., and William Stubbs of Mooretown, Ont., and Pte. Gerard Lafleche of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., and Lieut. V. C. Jackson of Winnipeg and Grimsby, Ont.

Colombia Unrest Dies Out

Conservative Leader Released From Jail

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 11 —(AP). — Release from jail of Senator Laureano Gomez, Leader of the Conservative Party, appeared to-day to have dampened opposition hopes of developing a political fight into a revolution against the Liberal Government of Acting President Dario Echandia.

The Government, in complete control of the situation, announced last night the two-day agitation which produced many sharp clashes between demonstrators of the two major political parties, was "now closed completely."

A would-be assassin of Judge Jesus Antonio Caicedo Lozano, who ordered the arrest of Gomez for contempt of court, died in hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when the crude bomb he was carrying dropped outside the door of the Judge's chambers. He was identified as Adolfo Guisa Mateus.

This was the only death produced by the 48 hours of national unrest, although scores of persons were reported injured in claanes throughout the country.

Death Pocket Shrinks Hun Divisions

Reds Systematically Wiping Out 100,000 Germans

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 —(AP)—The Red Army's seven spearheads thrusting against the steadily-closing circle of death around Nazi forces in the Dnieper Bend were hacking German-held salients to pieces today and relentlessly cutting down all who refused to surrender.

Red Star, Soviet Army organ, said the Germans were being slaughtered like sheep on the open steppes and declared the entire garrisons of the villages of Yakhnov and Myled had been exterminated as two Russian columns isolated them from other Nazi units retreating toward Korsun.

Coming events may prove Korsun one of the bloodiest spots on the eastern front if the Nazis continue to fight back and refuse to give up in the face of sure death.

The corridor now had been reduced to a bare five miles' width and 15 miles' length ana inside were the remnants of 10 German divisions—between 100,000 and 150,000 German soldiers whose slaughter or capture promised to be the greatest single disaster since Stalingrad.

Many inhabitants of Korsun and other towns within the circle have made their way to the Soviet lines by night, but the civilian population within the ring of Soviet guns was still a problem. Bent on wiping out every German, the Russians were forced to use tanks and tommy guns in running down their foe and refrain from using their heavy artillery in a blazing barrage.

The indications are that no German officer had been able to escape the encirclement in the last 48 hours, and it was believed a number of high ranking Nazis were still caught within the Soviet ring.

Seven Russian columns were hitting Korsun, on the Ross River 25 miles south of the middle Dnieper, while 150 miles to the southeast the Russians said one Soviet formation had killed 1,300 more Germans and captured a considerable number in a push west of Apostolovo to outflank the iron city of Krivoi Rog.

British Gunners Use New Rocket Guns

LONDON, Feb. 11 — (CP). — The German-controlled Oslo radio said to-day British gunners now are using rocket-guns to defend London againts aerial attack.

In a broadcast purporting to describe the effect of German air raids on the British Capital, the broadcast said:

"The searchlight lane from Dover to the target and the ceaseless fires from new British rocket-guns is a terrifying spectacle to all who have taken part in it."

German Claim

LONDON, Feb. 11 —(CP)—The German high command, in a broadcast communique, claimed today that German troops had penetrated into Carroceto (Aprilia) in the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead 10 miles north of Anzio, capturing the village railway station.

"Mopping up of the Aprilia area was continued," the enemy asserted.

Dean Mackenzie Urges More Research

QUEBEC, Feb. 11 — (CP). — Canada's scientific structure must be strengthened if she is to play an important role as an industrial nation in the post-war world, Dean C. J. Mackenzie, acting President of the National Research Council, said to-day, recommending annual national expenditures increasing to $65,000,000 for this activity.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Dean Mackenzie declared no country would be able to keep in the forefront even qualitatively from the standpoint of industrial or military efficiency unless scientific and industrial research were supported as a major activity.

Scientific research must be a full partner of industrial programs. He said the idea that Canada could borrow from Britain and the United States was a "dangerous illusion," for the neglect of initiative and research in business "is like malnutrition in youth, frequently detected only when it is too late to repair the damage."

If Canadian industry wished to maintain the system of free, private enterprise, it must not neglect its opportunity to engage in research where individual initiative and enterprise "find their greatest rewards."

He suggested a program of developing trained personnel through extension of research departments in universities, holding together of the corps of war scientists for peace activity; construction of new and enlargement of old laboratories working on various Canadian problems and employment by major Canadian industries of their own scientific research staffs.

Hit Frankfurt 2nd Time In Four Days

Devastating Assaults Continue On 24-Hour Cycle

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Assoc'ated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP).—American heavy bombers blasted Frankfurt with tons of high explosive again to-day, striking the already hard-hit southwest German industrial and transport centre in daylight for the second time in four days and the fourth time since Jan. 29.

While this devastating assault to flatten Frankfurt was in progress, other United States heavy bombers attacked military installations in the Pas-de-Calais area and American medium bombers in their ninth operation in 11 days struck other targets in the "rocket gun" sector of Northern France.

To-day's operations kept the unprecedented Allied aerial assault going through another 24-hour cycle and followed yesterday's mighty attacks on the German manufacturing sity of Brunswick and the Gilze-Rijen air base in Holland, which precipitated furious air fights in which American heavy bombers and fighter were credited officially with downing 84 enemy planes.

Fighters escorted the bombers to Frankfurt and France.

Heavy bombers of the United States army air force now have struck continental objectives in 12 of the past 15 days.

The assault to flatten Frankfurt has been under way since Jan. 29 when a record force of more than 800 heavy bombers hit the city with a daylight record of 1,800 tons of explosives.

It was estimated unofficially to-day that more than 3,500 tons of bombs rained on that manufacturing and communications hub in three previous daylight attacks.

The sound of explosions rolling back across the Channel indicated part of the assault was aimed at the French invasion coast in the Calais area.

Twenty-nine American bombers and eight of the fighters failed to return from the raids, a U.S. communique said.

British Recapture Burma Town

NEW DELHI, Feb. 11 (CP)—Allied forces in Burma have smashed into enemy positions and reoccupied the town of Taung Bazaar, which Japanese forces took in a surprise attack last Friday, a communique from the headquarters of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten announced today.

Taung Bazaar is about 15 miles north of Maugdaw and about 65 miles north of Akyab.

In the Kaladan area of the Arakan front the Japanese have been forced out of some of their advanced positions, the communique reported. It is in this section of western Burma that the enemy has been attempting to cut British supply routes.

Japanese forces had been attacking Ngakyedauk Pass leading to the coast of the Bay of Bengal. Capture of this artery would place the enemy athwart the highway supplying British troops fighting in the Maungdaw-Buthedaung area.

Admiral Mountbatten's war bulletin reported that Allied troops had repulsed many Japanese attacks over a wide area of the Burma front, and disclosed that R.A.F. heavy bombers had raided Bangkok, capital of Thailand, last night. Details of the raid were not reported.

Grim and Terrible Battles Face Allied Invasion Force

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 11 — (CP Cable). — Invasion of Western Europe will be a lot more than just landing masses of Allied troops on certain beaches at certain times. It will be the toughest and bloodiest operation of this war for the British, American and Canadian troops unless the situation changes radically between now and "D day." The Germans are going to fight for every mile and every shattered building in every blasted town. There will be Ortonas and Cassinos in Western Europe. The Germans have had plenty of time to get ready and they probably have done their usual thorough job.

Two principal defence plans are open to Marshal Rommel and his anti-invasion forces of between 40 and 50 divisions scattered from Norway to Southern France.

1. They can stand and fight on the beaches and coastal strip, putting their main strength forward to try to smash the invaders before they land or as they are first getting organized ashore.

2. They can keep a strong screen on the coast and hold the main force inland to counter-attack the beachheads or failing that, stand on a prepared inland line. This is defence in depth.

Will Fight Inland.

It seems unlikely that in the west the Germans would risk their main

14,000 Japanese Wiped Out

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Feb. 11.—(AP).—Complete occupation of Huon Peninsua, New Guinea, and the end of a five-month campaign which cost the Japanese a division of 14,000 men was announced here to-day.

Australian troops, including veterans of the North African campaign, and American soldiers, many of whom had triumphed over the Japanese at Buna on the Papuan Peninsula of New Guinea last year, joined force on a hot, coastal plain.

The Aussies had fought and cut their way through the jungle for 150 miles along the coast, since launching the campaign with a landing effort north of Finschhafen Sept. 22.

The Americans invaded Saidor from the sea Jan. 2 and followed the coast 14 miles to Old Yagomi where the Australians met them yesterday.

Baltic States In An Unpleasant Spot

Trend Of Events Indicates Russia Considers Them Russian Territory

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 11.—(AP).—With Russian armies now fighting in Estonia the three little Baltic States find themselves uncertain whether to welcome Soviet troops as liberators from German oppression or as new masters bent on reincorporating them into the giant Soviet Union.

On the question of their ultimate position in Europe may well rest the success or failure of the Atlantic charter, setting forth that adherents "seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other" and "wish to see sovereign rights and self government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them."

So far Russia has said ittle other than quietly to insist that they are a part of her former territory which she is liberating from the Nazis.

Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were part of Czarist Russia. They became independent republics in 1920. In 1940 Soviet Russia absorbed them and incorporated them into the Soviet Union by means of plebiscites which Baltic Nationalists declare was anything but democratic. In any event it was overwhelmingly pro-Soviet.

To understand the Baltic problem it is necessary to recall that these republics were formed on territory previously belonging to the Russian Empire. Democracy proved a heady wine. In the 1920's there was a tendency toward political unbalance, complicated by numerous party factions, with the result that strong-man governments arose, particularly in Latvia and Lithuania.

Russia considered these governments hotbeds of Fascism, and charged they plotted against her.

The Balts, while acknowledging some tendency toward dictatorship, asserted that the backsliding was simply evidence of growing pains.

Yugoslavs Retreat In Croatia Sector

LONDON, Feb. 11 —(CP) —The Yugoslav partison army's 19th division has fallen back from northern Dalmatia into the Province of Lika in Croatia after bitter fighting, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced to-day.

His broadcast communique gave no further details of the action in the Dalmatian sector, but reported successful operations in both eastern and western Bosnia. Enemy attacks in Slovenia and Croatia were reported repulsed.

New Oil Agreement

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The New York Times says negotiations with Great Britain and Russia on an agreement to develop oil resources of the Middle East will be held in Washington and that such a pact on control of 95 per cent of the known oil supply would serve as an effective weapon at the peace conference and in international trade and politics.

Menzies Wants War Action

Would Roost Japanese In Their Paper Homes

CANBERRA, Feb. 11 (CP Cable)—R. G. Menzies, former Australian prime minister, called in the House of Representatives yesterday for establishment of more powerful bases in China so the Japanese can be "roasted in their paper homes."

"Japan must be struck at home and in the heart," added Menzies, leader of the united Australia party, one of the groups opposing Prime Minister John Curtin's Labor government. Menzies attacked the government war policy while A. W. Fadden, leader of the country party, criticized what he called the government "food bungle."

The House also heard H. V. Evatt, minister of external affairs, announce that Australia would call as soon as practicable a conference of all governments with territorial interests in the South Pacific.

Menzies said the three veterans divisions of the Australian Imperial Force were being "overworked, overstrained and overtested." He was dissatisfied with present war policy which, he said, seemed to involve concentration of Australia's best fighters in the jungles. This seemed unrelated to any long-range plan for defeating the Japanese at home.

House Considers War Budget

By JAMES McCOOK—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP).—After sharp debate and four divisions, the House of Commons today is free to proceed with consideration of war appropriations totalling $3,650,000,000. In swift succession last night the House voted down a sub-amendment to the Address in Reply to the Throne Speech moved by J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe) by 178 votes to seven; a sub-amendment by Dr. Pierre Gauthier (BP, Portneuf) by 171 votes to seven; and the main Progressive Conservative amendment by 126 votes to 50.

The Address was adopted by a final vote of 146 to 21, with the Progressive Conservatives voting with the Government and the C.C.F. and New Democracy groups against it.

Dr. Gauthier's sub-amendment expressed regret the Government had not suspended conscription for army service and mutual aid to the United Nations.

Mr. Roy's sub-amendment said the Government had failed to follow moderate participation in the war as promised in 1939 and failed to demand a proper partnership for Canada in United Nations' conferences.

The Progressive Conservative amendment said the Government failed to provide for demobilization needs, adequately assist an effective agricultural program, give labor its rightful place in the national partnership and lessen bureaucratic controls and regimentation.

Yesterday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, spoke for his party's record and said the Liberals had "regimentated" Saskatchewan. He condemned Liberal Federal policies prior to the war.

Airliner Falls 24 Lives Lost

MEMPHIS, TENN., Feb. 11 (AP)—An American Airliner plane with 24 persons aboard was reported to have crashed into the Mississippi river early today and disappeared immediately after an explosion and fire.

Charley Williams, watchman for a U.S. engineers crew about 15 miles south of Memphis, said he saw the plane go down.

"There was a terrific explosion and fire," Williams said. "It seemed to sink immediately."

Williams and his foreman, W. R. Wellborn, went to the crash scene in a boat but found no trace of the plane nor oil spots on the water.

"I heard the plane coming," Williams said. "It was quite low and appeared to be tipped a little to the right but the engines seemed all right and there were no flames.

"It angled into the river about half way across."

The Memphis Airlines office said the plane, en route from Los Angeles to New York, was last reported at 12.31 a.m. E.D.T. as it neared the river. Its gas supply was sufficient to keep it aloft until about 5 a.m.

Aboard the plane were 21 passengers and three crew members. All were believed to be U.S. citizens.

The plane left Little Rock, Ark., at 11.50 p.m. and was last reported seven minutes before it was due here.

"No trouble was reported then," station manager J. O. Conner said.

Labor Wants Total Survey To Clarify Work Picture

By JACK WILLIAMS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 — (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Labor today called upon the Government to undertake immediately a complete survey of Canadian industry, agriculture and potential markets as the basis for a full-employment policy.

In a 7,000-word brief prepared for presentation to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and members of the Cabinet, the Congress reviewed Labor's position under present and expected post-war conditions and urged immediate withdrawal or revision of the new wage-control order.

Other recommendations in the brief:

1. Formulation of national policies on food, housing, coal mining and the steel industry;
2. Maintenance of controls on raw-material prices and import and export trade in the post-war period;
3. Additional unemployment insurance benefits for workers affected by lay-offs in war plants;
4. Establishment of an adequate wage standard rather than family allowances;
5. Introduction of compulsory collective bargaining through a bill in Parliament, instead of by Order-in-Council;
6. Amendment of the British North America Act enabling the Dominion to establish minimum national standards on labor and social legislation;
7. Increased labor representation on government boards;
8. Continuance on full pay and allowances to members of the armed forces until employed; free postal service and free transportation on furlough for members of the forces;
9. Introduction of health insurance on a nation-wide basis, with emphasis on prevention;
10. Establishment of a representative committee to study immigration policy.

Nazi Troops Fly Captured Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP). — The creation of special, English-speaking Nazi units, to man captured Flying Fortresses and use them for sneaking into or alongside of an American bomber formation was reported today.

The official United States Army Air Forces publication Air Forces says American pilots have reported several instances of unidentified B-17's appearing in their formation or flying along out of gun range but parallel with the flight of the formation.

"They engage in mock air battles with Nazi fighters," the publication says, "and attempt to work out new tactics which will give their fighters more of a chance against our big bombers.

"Only crews who speak perfect English are chosen to man the bombers. To make things as real as possible the members have nothing to do with other German airmen, and have contact with the regular Luftwaffe only through liaison officers.

"They plan their tactics with great secrecy and try to act like Americans. After each 'battle,' the liaison officer makes a long report to the fighter group, pointing out mistakes and making suggestions."

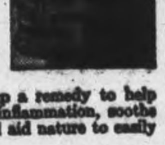
Wheezing In the Chest Points to Bronchitis



The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied by a rapid wheezing and tightness across the chest.

There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light colour, but as the trouble progresses becomes yellowish or greenish.

You may find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, relieve the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and aid nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Flier In India Wins Promotion To FO.

BETHANY, Feb. 11—(ENS)—George Alfred Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Waddell, Wilson street, Bethany, who has been on active service in India for a year, has been promoted to Flying Officer, according to a letter received recently.

Since arriving there, FO. Waddell has experienced all the lure of the Far East along with the more distressing features of insects, heat, snakes, famine and disease. At the present time he is stationed in the vicinity of the Burma Road, and having his own plane, is itching for a chance to chase after the Japanese.

One of the biggest thrills he experienced was flying his own plane from Africa to India just one year ago and along with this he treasures the memory of a wonderful sunrise on Mount Everest and Kauchin Janga. He described them as being brilliantly lighted before daylight, as they watched from Tiger Hill at 4 o'clock in the morning, while on leave.

Heat is one of the airman's worst enemies. Their day begins at 6 a.m. and ends about 10:30 or 11 o'clock, when the heat is so intense. The temperature is well over 100 degrees and usually reached 115. FO. Waddell wrote that the men undress and lie on their cots which are encased with mosquito netting. Native Indians fan them with a paper contrivance to create a breeze.

Mail Service Poor

"The mail service is slow and for

FO. GEORGE A. WADDELL

10 months after I arrived nothing from home reached me. My 1942 Christmas parcel arrived in September 1943 at my jungle camp while I was in the hills. What a mess. It's too far to send parcels, and only gum, life savers, and cigarettes are required. Everything else is well supplied.

"When I was sent to the Hills I was well treated and there is good entertainment, though it's expensive. There are theatres, dancing, horseback riding, swimming and boating. Anglo-Indian girls are good dancers and very courteous. There are two or three dances a week and of course the cinemas. A native comes four or five times a day with ice cream and the food is good.

He writes that he was threatened with malaria at Christmas, and the mosquitos and flies and snakes leave much to be desired. A black mamba snake was killed in their camp by an expert marksman. When they are stationed in the jungle, disease is rampant.

"The Monsoons bring a most welcome rainfall," he writes in one airgraph. "On leave in September at Naintal and the insects got me down . . . We had an earthquake, October 23, which woke the whole camp. My bamboo hut moved and we thought it was an elephant shoving it over into the jungle. A bad experience. Spent part of my last leave at Calcutta, where I witnessed the populace dying in the streets. It is inhuman. The tea plantations all over the hills are wonderful. They are planted on steps like terraces right up to 9,000 feet, but it was the wrong time for us to see the harvesting."

Nearly Torpedoed

Before enlisting in the R.C.A.F. in February 1941, FO. Waddell was employed at Sudbury with the International Nickel Company. After training at Victoriaville, Picton, Edmonton, and Calgary, he went overseas in February 1942.

While sailing for Scotland, he narrowly missed being torpedoed. His troop ship was carrying 1,000 R.C.A.F. pilots, observers and navigators and had a destroyer and corvette escort. In the danger zone, the destroyer came between the sub and the troop transport, and was lost, only seven of the crew being saved out of about 100 men. The liner had to sail on, and the seven men were all that the corvette could snatch from the water. The convoy could not be endangered by stopping.

On the field with 200 air crew in Africa, FO. Waddell won his commission as pilot officer for efficiency, leadership qualities and meritorius service. The young officer, 27, has four sister in Canada, and is unmarried.

Bracken Regrets 70,000 Men Stalled In Army

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(CP).—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, declared here last night that Canada's best brains must be mobilized to meet the challenge of establishing a permanent peace and a world more acceptable to the common man, and to prevent a return to pre-war conditions.

Addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, Mr. Bracken said he regretted that 70,000 men now gathered together in Canada (in the home defence army) were not being made available to agriculture's needs.

He warned of the vulnerable position of Canadian farming if world markets for supplies are ever closed, and set forth four major objectives which Canada must seek; a higher standard of nutrition, an expanding economy, extension of trade and maintenance of peace.

He said military needs have revealed low standards of health and said there was need for such steps as replacement of acreage with "protective crops such as milk, eggs, and green foods.

The war had taught that all could be employed and that an economy of abundance could be established instead of an economy of scarcity, he added.

Mr. Bracken's informal address followed a speech by Ontario Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy, who asked the farmers of Ontario to support legislation which his government would enact soon to establish rural county units for crop planning.

Mr. Bracken said that if foreign markets were closed for Western Canada products, the west would be forced to compete with the east for domestic markets. He urged that Canada must plan so that this competition would not occur, so that an economy could be established that would maintain national income at such a level that the farmer, the industrial worker and all others would benefit.

Anzio Bridgehead

Allied artillery in "time crashes"—a method of fire control by which hundreds of big guns all place shells upon a single target area in a matter of a minute or so, often erasing the target in a single blast.

The bombers dropped their missiles on enemy troops at five key points in the highway network around the beachhead area—Albano, Cisterna, Velletri, Campoleone and Cecchina.

Albano, which was heavily bombed, is within 1½ miles of the Papal summer palace as Castel Gandolfo where, the Vatican radio said, Vatican property had been hit. There was no confirmation here of the radio report and Allied spokesmen said Allied airmen had strict instructions to avoid damage to the palace.

Huns Retain Offensive

But despite the fury of the air offensive, in which 850 sorties were flown as against 30 by the enemy, the Germans apparently retained the initiative on the ground and lashed out in many probing attacks at various points around the bridgehead.

The main German attacks were in the Aprilia area, where heavy fighting was still in progress, and west and southwest of Cisterna.

The Nazis used tanks in these attacks, but not in the grand manner. It was evident their main effort was yet to come, and there were indications the heavy aerial assault may have delayed it.

They continued to add to their containing force and a new division, the 65th, was identified in their line, making five full divisions and a brigade called up to smash the bridgehead.

The 65th participated in the Sangro river defence in Eastern Italy several weeks ago, was badly mauled by the Canadian 1st Division in the December battle for Ortona on the Adriatic and was taken out of line to be reorganized and refitted at Genoa.

Other German units in the Anzio battleline were the Hermann Goerring and 26th armored divisions, the 29th Armored Grenadiers, the 715th Infantry Divisions and the Reichsfuehrer SS Brigade.

In Cassino on the main 5th Army front where Americans made progress with the greatest difficulty, the Germans had turned almost very building into a fortress, and each one had to be stormed individually. Allied artillery levelled the town prison which had been turned into a Nazi fort, but the Germans still fought vigorously from underground dungeons and cellars.

The Allies took five buildings yesterday after shelling them, crawling into the debris and killing the remaining Nazis with grenades, machine-guns and small arms.

Besides Albano, Cisterna, Cecchina, Velletri and Campoleone, five key points on the highway network into the beachhead area overlooking the coastal shelf, the Allies bombed a road junction and railroad near Monterotondo north of Rome, the road and railroad junction at Vicovaro northeast of Rome and Palestrina.

All types of aircraft joined heavy bombers in the onslaught, upsetting gun positions, exploding ammunition and fuel dumps, covering freight yards with bombs, strafing emplacements, damaging tanks and scattering death in troop concentrations.

A convoy between Leghorn and Civitavecchia was also attacked.

Activities on the British 8th Army front near the Adriatic still were limited by adverse weather conditions.

Heavy bombers dashed their explosives against the enemy in and around Albano, Cisterna, Velletri, and Campoleone—all towns ringing the beachhead — while fighter-bombers carried out bombing sweeps in the area around Rome.

Light bombers also attacked road transport in the Albano-Genzano area beyond the northernmost tip of the beachhead Wednesday night.

The air communique said the Mediterranean air force flew approximately 850 sorties during the day, losing six planes and destroying three enemy craft. Enemy air activity over the beachhead was slight during the day, although the Germans are said to have rushed a large group of planes into the vicinity.

Grim And Terrible

forces in the coastal strip because of the tremendous Allied air power and the threat of air-borne landings inland.

The alternative—defence in depth—probably is far sounder from the German point of view. This strategy would be based on the assumption that Allied assault forces with devastating support from the air and sea could not be prevented from getting ashore and gaining fair-sized beachheads in the first day or so.

There would be fighting for the bridgehead—for it would be a miracle if landings like those on Sicily and the toe of Italy were repeated—but the big battles would come later when the German commanders sized up the situation as they have done at Nettuno and decided where to strike with their massed divisions.

This is the shape the invasion battles may take. But whichever way the campaign develops there does not seem to be the slightest chance, short of collapse of Germany herself, that there will not be grim and terrible engagements soon after the landing.

Along many sections of the European coast the Germans have built strings of pillboxes and strong points, some with tanks dug in deep as gun emplacements but there do not appear to be massive concrete and steel forts running for scores of miles as suggested by the term 'Atlantic Wall" and hinted at by German propaganda.

Not Impregnable

This line of coastal defences is strong but far from impregnable. Heavy and persistent bombing may neutralize them and enable Allied infantry and tanks to break through without too heavy losses to tackle stronger positions inland.

These inland positions would be the main line during possible 15 to 20 miles from the coast and hinged on towns and cities that would be stubbornly defended as many key towns in Italy have been. There would be more chance of Allied deployment around the towns but street fighting would be just as stiff.

The main German force if defence in depth is followed would be massed on or behind this line. Areas from the coast to the main line would undoubtedly be heavily mined. The Germans seldom miss a trick and are skilful in the use of this vicious weapon, progress from the beachhead could be made extremely slow.

The German air force is a question mark. It is likely being held back for the big Allied attack when it will probably come up to strike London, the invasion embarkation ports and landing points.

WASHINGTON—A very tense situation and very heavy fighting existed at the Anglo-American beachhead south of Rome, President Roosevelt said today, but the Allies on the whole control the seas and air.

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

TORONTO POULTRY.

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP) — The fresh dressed poultry market is quiet with receipts falling off, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Some withdrawals from storage have been necessary to fill fairly good local demand. Some retailers are contracting for heavy chicken for early summer trade. There is a fairly good remand for heavy chicken from the Maritimes. Approximately 20,000 lbs. of heavy chicken was shipped to the Maritimes this week. Last week 500 boxes of light weight chicken went forward to Ottawa. Prices to producers and country shippers are unchanged at:

Fire Damages Car

NORWOOD, FeCb. 11 —(ENS) — Leo Herr's car was badly burned this week in his yard. He had returned from Westwood in the late afternoon and left the car in front of the garage doors or the building would possibly have been burned also. It is thought a short circuit caused the fire.

Foresees Russia Greatest Of All Nations

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—A picture of Russia 25 years hence, with a population of 222,000,000 people, most of them highly skilled, was foreseen in a speech this week by Adolph Berle, studious and prophetic United States Assistant Secretary of State.

He foresaw Brazil, a country greater in size and resources than the United States, with a population of 90,000,000 in 1970.

On the other hand, according to his forecasts, the United States will have increased its population only slightly if at all, Britain will have dropped to 42,000,000, Germany to 64,000,000, and France to 37,000,000.

He estimated the 1940 populations of these countries at 135,000,000 for the United States, Russia 175,000,000, Great Britain 46,000,000, Germany 69,000,000, France 41,000,000, and Brazil 42,000,000.

The power and capacity of the peoples in the countries where Berle expects the populations to increase sharply may rise to the heights now undreamed of, because of the advance of technical knowledge and invention.

The point of Berle's dip into the future was to emphasize to the students of Duke University, where his speech was delivered, the importance to mankind of "the good neighbor policy."

Engineers Hear Post-War Talk

QUEBEC, Feb. 11 — (CP). — Adoption of a policy of long-range planning by industry to provide continued full employment was urged to-day at the 58th annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

The proposal was advanced in a paper on post-war planning prepared jointly by six engineers and business men. The paper also placed emphasis on the necessity of changes in the taxation policy to enable industry to increase capital expenditures.

Joint authors of the paper were J. E. Armstrong, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway; R. M. Brophy, general manager Canadian Marconi Company, G. A. Gaherty, president Calgary Power Co., and Montreal Engineering Co., Arthur Surveyer, Montreal consulting engineer, R. I. Weldon, president Bathurst Power and Paper Co. Ltd., and H. G. Welsford, vice-president and general manager, Dominion Engineering Co., Ltd.

"Variations in the rate of capital expenditure both for replacement and for the construction of new industries have been one of the greatest contributing causes of unemployment in the past," the paper said.

"Management should plan its capital expenditures both for replacement and expansion and for development and research over successive periods of at least five years at as uniform rate as possible."

Co-operation between employers and employees, based on an understanding of their mutual dependence on the economic factors governing the operation of their industry was essential to full employment and maximum production.

Strike Ends

DETROIT, Feb. 11 —(AP)—State Labor Mediation Board representatives announced yesterday that striking employees of the Detroit Diesel engine division of General Motors Corporation have voted to end their walkout which affected production of engines for invasion craft.

Lady Teachers To Direct Girls' Sports

The Board of Education at its meeting on Thursday night accepted the recommendation of the Supervision committee passed some weeks ago recommending the appointment of a lady supervisor in each of the public schools for the purpose of providing proper supervision of the playground activities of the girls during recesses and the arranging of certain inter-school sport activities. The sum of $600 was placed in the estimates.

Up until the present the vice-principals have been supervising the sports of the boys and organizing inter-school activities but the girls' sports have never been supervised. Inspector Wightman informed the Board that there was a lady teacher in each school with the proper qualifications to do this work.

Inspector Wightman reported an enrolment of 2,923 pupils in the public schools with an average attendance of 2,611 or 89.39 per cent King George stood first with 91.96 per cent; Queen Alexandra had 91.03; Prince of Wales 89.93; Queen Mary 88.15; Central 88.10 and King Edward 87.63 per cent. War Savings Stamps to the value of $1,496.75 were sold during the month.

C. S. Browne, principal of the collegiate reported an enrolment of 904 and an average attendance of 830 or 92.94 per cent.

Fred Revoy, attendance officer, reported an absent through illness of 32 pupils, absent for home help, 28; four parents being cautioned on account of their children not attending school; checking of 14 transfers; granting of one home permit to a girl in the Collegiate; one employment certificate was granted to a girl in the public schools and two were refused and one granted to a pupil of the Collegiate.

Mr. Revoy also reported making 232 calls during the month. Dr. S. J. Graham submitted his report of the check up of the King George school pupils, where 436 were examined, with 93 being treated, at the clinic; 99 by the family dentist; 137 were found to be OK and 101 still need treatment. His operative work during the month consisted of 343 fillings and 70 extractions.

Dr. Robert Nott, medical officer reported 81 complete physical examinations with 30 parents present, special examinations for 26, children showing defects 6, and children for observation 9. The defects were classified as vision 3, abnormal tonsils 1, ear 1; and heart 1. The nurses reported 1,333 class room inspections, 130 pupils being excluded for various causes, minor accidents and dressings 89, vision tests 656 and home visits 200.

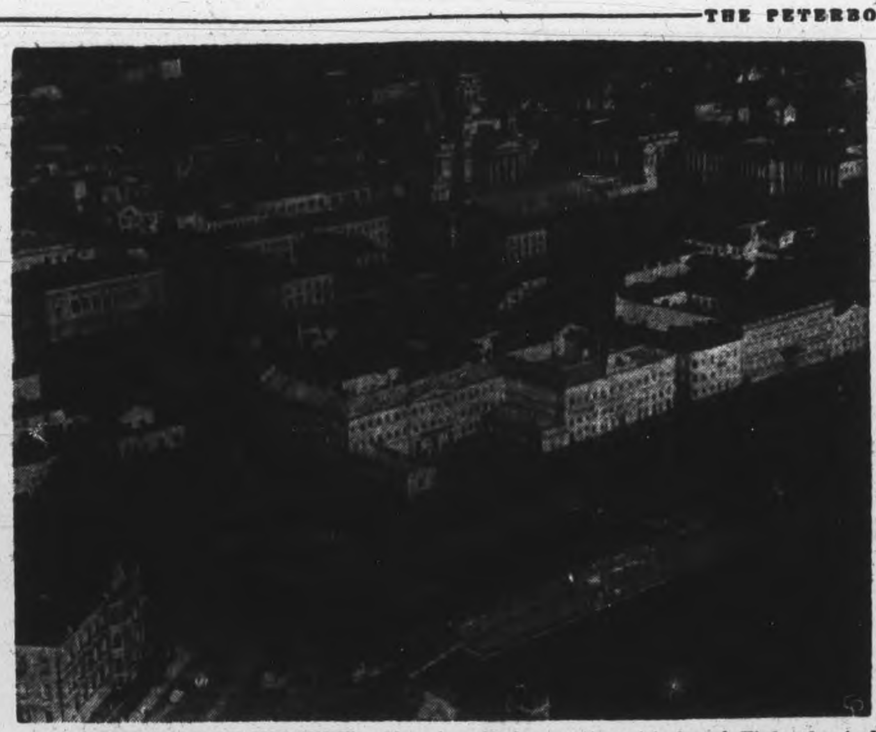
Mr. Wightman reported 15¼ days absence on the part of the teachers in the public schools and Miss Margaret Westbye, secretary at the Collegiate 13½ days absence on the part of Collegiate teachers.

Home And School Association Formed

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11 (ENS) —The Home and School Association, whose formation was forecast at the Board of Education meeting here two weeks ago, when a delegation of women from various churches attended, was organized here last night at a fairly well attended meeting held in the High School auditorium. Mrs. F. W. Finkle, district organizer, Belleville, was the guest speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Finkle pointed out the Association was not designed for mothers alone, but for fathers and teachers as well, since all three working together were able to accomplish more on behalf of the child's welfare.

Officers, who are elected annually, for a period not to exceed three years, were named as follows:—President, Mrs. Jack Clark; 1st vice president, Mrs. G. N. Maxwell; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Frank Chapman; recording secretary, Mrs. B. M. Morton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Morley Petherick; treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Locke; executive committee, Mrs. Charles Davidson, Mrs. H. Pierce, Dr. W. W. Baker, Mr. Ronald Hazell.



BOMBERS DAMAGE HELSINKI — New target of Russian bombers is Finland's capital, Helsinki, shown above. The city experienced its worst raid since 1941 when more than 100 Red planes flew over, apparently in an attempt to knock Finland out of the war quickly now that the siege of Leningrad has been lifted. The Russians have promised more, if Finland does not break entirely with the Axis.

Ontario Vote On Beverage Rooms Sought By O.T.F.

TORONTO, Feb. 11—The Ontario Government will be asked by the Ontario Temperance Federation to conduct a Provincial referendum as to whether or not beverage rooms should be abolished, it was decided at yesterday's session of the O.T.F., held at Knox Presbyterian Church.

The decision was adopted in a resolution recommended to the convention by the resolutions committee. It pointed out that in the last Provincial election there was no party to champion the temperance platform, and that consequently the people had not had a chance to vote on the issue.

Rev. C. W. DeMille, secretary of the federation, told of an interview he had yesterday at the head of a delegation from the convention, with Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell. He said they had been courteously received and their proposals promised consideration. The deputation had expressed approval to the Attorney-General of press reports that he intended to decentralize the control of beverage rooms.

Other Resolutions

Other resolutions adopted after recommendation by the resolutions committee were:

The executive of the O.T.F. was empowered to appoint a committee to study the matter of Government control of the manufacture, import and sale of all liquor, and the immediate and long-range problems of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

It was decided to ask the Dominion Government to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the liquor traffic in all its aspects, with special reference to: an analysis of all liquor laws throughout Canada; an evaluation of the relation of liquor to crime, industrial accidents, venereal diseases and other social problems; and a study of whether the Dominion Government should take over completely the manufacture, import and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Opposition was registered to any proposal that beer sales by grocery stores be legalized.

The sale of beer in, and extra allotments of beer to, military canteens, was protested. But the same resolution first praised the Federal restrictions on liquor sale and distribution, and the attitude of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to these problems.

Protest Vote Rule

The necessity of temperance forces obtaining a three-fifths majority vote in local referendums on beverage rooms was protested.

It was resolved that the convention draw the attention of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to references in certain programs to alcoholic beverages in a manner which was not designed to discourage their consumption, and also that protests should be registered over certain motion pictures for scenes portraying drinking.

W.M.S. Stresses Bible Reading

MILLBROOK, Feb. 11 (ENS) —Miss Maud Finnemore was hostess for the February meeting of the W.M.S., of St. Andrew's church, held at her home, King street, this week. The president, Mrs. A. L. Sisco, gave the call to worship, the theme being: "The Bible, the Common Possession of the World Church." Throughout the year Bible study is being emphasized in all Auxiliaries in the Dominion.

Miss Eehel Hatherly read the lesson, Mrs. Edmund Ball the illustrative story, and the leader closed the period with prayer, after which report was made that the joint executives of the W.A. and the W.M.S. had met and decided not to hold union meetings, as suggested from headquarters in Toronto, but to continue with separate gatherings each month.

The secretary, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds reported $6.33 taken in at the January meeting in fees and donations, and an appeal was made from the chair that a generous response be given by each member when the special offering for the India and Chinese famine fund on Sunday, February 20, is received. The letter from the supply secretary was read, asking for good, used clothing for men, women and children at the Indian school, Oxford House, Manitoba. The bale is to be in Peterborough by May 26, 3 women, 2 men, 1 school child, and 1 pre-school child to be provided or from the local unit.

Changes Found

The difference between Christian and non-Christian villages in foreign lands, was told by Mrs. D. L. Lunn and Mrs. H. A. Earle, in connection with the study book, "For All of Life." Mrs. F. J. Smith took charge of the program, reading a story, "The Lord is my Banker." Mrs. J. Rowland gave the message on temperance, and Miss E. L. Hetherington brought a report of the recent W.M.S. rally in Knox church, Peterborough. Report was also made of the work being done in visiting the hospitals at Calgary, Alberta, by Miss Elizabeth Hawken, formerly of Millbrook, who calls upon at least 200 patients per week, writing letters for those who wish this service, leaving helpful literature, and otherwise carrying on efficiently in her capacity as W.M.S. representative.

Hit-and-Run Driver Hurts Port Hope Man

WINGHAM, Ont., Feb. 11 —(CP) — Two persons were admitted to Wingham General Hospital today with injuries suffered when struck by a car. Returning from a dance at the Royal Dance Pavilion, Miss Hilda Brown, Wingham, and her escort, William Friar, of Port Hope, both were walking on the highway within the town limits when they were struck from behind. The car did not stop.

Miss Brown was hurled into the ditch, and suffered cuts and shock, while her companion was severely injured internally. Condition of both is described as fair. Hilda Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown, Wingham, while William Friar, a surveyor for the Department of Highways, working here, lives at Port Hope. Provincial Constable Frank Taylor and Constable Gordon Deyell investigated the accident, and as a result one suspect is being held in Goderich jail.

Unusual Advances Made By Radios In War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—The United States federal communications commission reported today "revolutionary discoveries" have resulted from war-stimulated experimentation in various phases of radio.

For military reasons, the commission said in its annual report, the results of unprecedented research cannot be revealed at this time, but added:—

"It is commonly predicted that after the war the whole field of radio communication will be greatly affected by the revolutionary discoveries now being carefully guarded in the laboratories."

Canadian Bomber Crashes In Portugal

LISBON, Feb. 11 (CP Reuters)—A Canadian bomber crashed at Quarteira, South Portugal, yesterday. The crew was interned but before the authorities took them into custody the airmen were treated hospitably by residents of the nearby seaport of Faro.

Names of crew members were given as W. J. B. Rogers, captain of the aircraft, and Sgts. R. J. Cox, M. H. Guerard and an English navigator. Guerard was taken to hospital with arm and leg injuries.

British Papers Annoy Bricker

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP).—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio appearing before Washington correspondents at a news conference, sharply criticized yesterday what he termed "interference" by a part of the British press in this country's presidential election.

The 50-year-old Governor, an announced candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, told 75 newsmen gathered in a hotel room that he believed the United States ought to elect its own President without international interference. He had been asked to comment on a recent article in an English newspaper suggesting that President Roosevelt ought to be re-elected.

"I think we ought to elect our own President and it's none of their business," Bricker said, referring to the British press.

"I think we ought to take care of that matter without outside interference."

Describing the winning of the war as the most important single issue of the Presidential campaign Bricker said that if the Republicans were successful there would be no interference with the present military command.

W.A. Discusses Plans For Yearly Pie Social

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11 (ENS) —Two more quilts that will be contributed to the war effort were completed by members of Zion W.A. (Petherick's), at their February meeting this week. The meeting took place at Mrs. F. S. Barnum's and fifteen members answered the roll call. Principal item of business concerned the annual pie social, which is the main yearly function sponsored by the W.A. at the Orange Hall. The members were of the opinion that a play should be given at the affair, and the task of making the necessary arrangements was left with the president, Mrs. A. Petherick.

Several letters of thanks from members of the armed forces who had received Christmas boxes from the association, were read. Mrs. E. L. Anderson offered her home for the March meeting.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
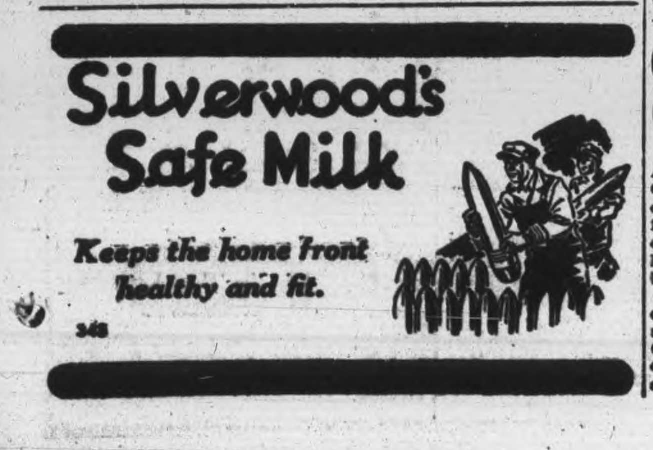
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I D A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)



Wage-Control Amendment Due Next Week

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday told the Commons that the government proposes to amend the new wage-control order and that it will make public early next week a labor code on compulsory collective bargaining.

Mr. King made his statement on these labor matters at the opening of the House sitting. In the galleries were a number of Labor Union officials who came to Ottawa yesterday to canvass members of parliament for support in protesting the wage order.

Speaking of the Labor Code, the Prime Minister said consultations with the provinces and labor organizations had been completed.

"Many representations" had been made to the government by members of parliament, labor organizations and others regarding the wage order. The Standard Railway Brotherhoods had presented their views on the order and the Canadian Congress of Labor would meet the government today. Meetings would be held shortly with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor. He invited these organizations to express their views on the order.

"When the government has these various representations before it, the government will then be in a position to consider what amendments should be made to the order," Mr. King said.

"It is the intention of the government to make certain amendments but we wish to have these representations from the leading labor organizations before us when we are considering these further amendments."

Mr. King said merging of bonuses with the basic rate held some benefits for workers and should not be postponed. Establishment of a House Committee on Industrial and Internation Relations might be effected later but amendments to the order could be expedited without a committee reference.

Mr. King also said he could not agree with a suggestion from Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, that the code be implemented by a bill rather than by Order-in-Council.

St. Paul's Pastor Resigns Post

WARKWORTH, Feb. 11—(ENS). —At the Official Board meeting of St. Paul's United Church held this week at the parsonage, Dr. J. R. R. Cooper tendered his resignation as minister to take effect in June. Dr. Cooper has been minister of St. Paul's United Church and Dartford United Church since October, 1933, and during that time both Dr. Cooper and Mrs. Cooper have put forth their untiring efforts in the work of the church.

Tabernacle YPU Meets

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11 (ENS) —"What is wrong with our World?" was the question asked by Harold Twigg, who was guest speaker at a well attended meeting of Tabernacle Y.P.U. recently. Mr. Twigg was introduced to the gathering by Earl Godden, and delivered a challenging address in which he discussed the affairs of the day. His remarks were followed by open discussion among members. Mr. Alex. Stephens took charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Clarence Grills, and during the devotional period he was assisted by Gerald Mitchell and Rev. J. R. Bick.

Sailor Loses 3 Fingers Cleaning Gun Mates Give Him $152 And Chocolate Cake

ABOARD H.M.C.S. SWANSEA, Feb. 11.—(CP).—Able Seaman Gerald Higgins, of Gananoque, Ont., was gloomy when he accidentally lost the tips of three fingers while cleaning an Oerlikon gun aboard this frigate—but the gloom turned to joy when the ship's company presented him with $152.

Higins, treated by Surgeon Lieut. A. K. Mathison of Vancouver, spent his birthday in a Sick Bay cot. Officers and men dropped in to wish him well, and Cook Wallace Walters of Halifax, presented him with a big chocolate cake.

"You're lucky this cake didn't fall," said the cook. "They dropped depth charges while it was cooking."

Then came a birthday card, signed by everyone aboard ship, and finally $152. Only one thing worries Higgins now—being put ashore to convalesce.

The last war . . . remember?

Silk shirts!

Pink ones, green ones, blue ones with white stripes—millions of them.

And silk stockings for the women—on legs that had never felt anything but cotton before.

Wrist watches . . . rings . . . bracelets . . . hand-tailored suits . . . ten-dollar felt hats . . . better, larger, sweller apartments.

Then it happened.

1918 and the Armistice. The war boom petered out. In factory after factory the wheels turned slower—slower—then stopped.

The cuffs on the silk shirts were frayed, and the colors faded . . . and the silk stockings were gone, and the rings and the watches were in pawn shops . . . and people moved back where they'd come from. But . . .

"Don't let it get you down, Bud! You can't hold this country back. Why, with our natural resources . . ."

So we started on the second lap, on the same circular track.

1923-29. Prosperity. Nothing ever like it before in the world.

Stocks—up 50 points in a week—thousands, millions—billions of dollars of profits—on paper.

Bootleggers . . . parties . . . automobiles . . . more silk shirts . . . new suits . . . radios, refrigerators, real estate, furniture, diamond rings, boats, shoes, hats . . .

Then—1929 and Crash again!

"Sorry, Mr. Jones . . . more margin, or we'll have to sell you out . . . Dear Mr. Jones . . . unless you send us a check to cover two unpaid installments on your furniture . . . Dear Sir . . . in the hands of our attorneys unless . . . mortgages unpaid . . . worry . . . worry . . . sorry, Jones, better look around for a new job . . . no help wanted . . ."

Remember?

Bread lines . . . "brother, can you spare a dime?" . . . stocks going down—down—business failures . . . suicides . . . Relief . . .

How come? How did we get that way—again? Why did it happen here, when it couldn't happen here?

Well, let's look back—let's see how it did happen.

Bonds weren't good enough for us. Savings banks weren't exciting as brokers' offices.

We were trying to compress our lives—to squeeze the juice of three score years and ten into a decade. We wanted for next to nothing the things our fathers had worked and sweated and saved for.

My wife's clothes had to be better, smarter—more expensive than your wife's—and her jewelry, too.

You spent a thousand dollars for your car? So what? I'm spending thirteen hundred for mine. (On time).

And say—looka my new radio! Twenty-two tubes, three loud speakers, record changer, home recorder and three short-wave bands!

The old one? Oh, I traded it in when I bought the new one—and the new refrigerator, and the dining-room furniture—slick, eh?—"modern," they call it.

How much? What's the difference?—Twenty-four payments of eighty dollars instead of sixty-five! I'll never miss it . . .

Hold on a minute, brother . . .

Did we "miss it" in the early "thirties?" Did we "miss it" when men walked the streets—camped out—lived in huts and shacks and lean-tos? Did we "miss it" while brave women scrubbed and scoured and patched and mended until their finger tips were raw, their hands rough—and their hearts dull with the pain of abandoned hopes?

Hold on once more . . .

This time chances are we won't bounce back again! Many people now realize what a close shave it was the last time . . . how desperately near we were to chaos and national ruin.

MUST we come down with another crash? MUST we ignore, not one, nor two, nor three—but the dozens of lessons taught us by history? MUST we head straight along the road-to-ruin we took last time?

It's what's beginning to happen, right here—now—in our country.

People are making more money than they ever did before and spending it. Spending it faster than they ever did before.

The old "short-life-but-a-merry-one" story is back with us. But how merry IS it?

Win, lose, or draw, the war will end some day. No war has lasted forever.

Then what?

The same as the last time? And the time before that?

Well it shouldn't be, but it will be even worse—unless we use our common sense now!

Don't fool yourself! The time's going to come when you'll need those dollars you're throwing around now.

If hard times catch up with you, it isn't that night-club proprietor who's going to return the money you spent in his place—no, not any part of it!

And all the unnecessary gimmicks and gadgets you think you need now won't be worth a dime on the dollar then.

And when your pockets are empty it won't be because you'll be taking money out of them—but because no money will be going into them.

How about those bright kids of yours? Will they have to work instead of going to high school or college?

And those beautiful rings you bought your wife? Supposing you lose your job . . . how long can you last before pawning those baubles, for a fraction of what they cost you?

So look . . .

When you want to spend money or buy something new, just imagine you were spending your next-to-the-last dollar.

Don't ask how happy you'd be with what you get for your money—but whether you'd be miserable without it.

That's the only test. Otherwise you're just kidding yourself. Lighting matches to ten dollar bills you're going to need—sure some day.

What? Oh, you're making more money? Then save more—don't spend more!

Because the money we all save now will play a tremendous part in the after-war economy of our country. The money we save now will be a cushion of buying power—those sorely-needed dollars to "start things up again" in our civilian economy. The dollars you waste now may be the dollars you'll need then—yes, perhaps even for such matter-of-fact things as bread and milk and meat.

Why do you suppose your government urges you to save? It's perfectly simple—to ward off disaster. To make sure that the crash that "couldn't happen here" doesn't happen again.

Remember, we're at war! Dollars are needed just as much as men—to back up those men—to give your boy, your brother, or your pal the stuff he needs to beat the Axis, and come back alive.

Money wasted on foolish luxuries won't do this. Once spent, it's gone, and neither you nor the boys fighting for you are better off for the spending.

But the dollars you save in War Bonds, Certificates or your savings account, will help buy the guns, the tanks, the ships and the planes we must have to survive and win.

And those savings will guarantee your future—the financial future of you, your family, and the boys who are fighting for us all.

Make a plan and stick to it. Guarantee your own future. So many dollars every payday into War Savings Certificates and into your savings account.

Then follow your plan. Protect your family. Build up reserves. Create a stock of money and make it grow. Your money. Your Bonds. Your protection.

And the bigger the stock of savings you create, the better off you'll be—to buy the good things you will want when the war is over—that new car, that refrigerator and radio you can't get now—things that make our life the best in the world.

So, when you save wisely, you're helping your country and yourself at the same time.

Honest, now . . .

Could you ask for anything better?

Not a Revolution

The expressions used by the Toronto Globe and Mail in referring to Premier Drew's policy in the Department of Education seem intended to give the impression that a revolution may be expected in that quarter. The Premier has said nothing and done nothing to support this impression. He has put a number of men in charge of school affairs who have been educational reformers for some years, and who worked with the late Thornton Mustard (who was lost on the Athenia) in devising the new course of study which had its first trial in 1937. We expect that they will continue along the lines which they chose at that time, experimenting and perfecting the system of education which is already in existence. This is good news, and the Premier is to be congratulated on it; but it is far from being revolutionary, or even particularly new.

* * *

The course of study and the method of teaching in use before 1937 had not been altered for a long time, and it had become inflexible. Good education is much the same in any country, but the methods used in imparting good education differ and have their fashions, like everything else. The system in use before 1937 had lost its resilience, and depended heavily upon a great deal of memorization and mechanical work on the part of the pupil. The system devised by the late Thornton Mustard was more elastic; it got rid of some of the old processes of mechanical work, placed greater responsibility on the individual pupil, and gave the teacher greater freedom to adapt the material to be taught to the capacities of her class. For one thing, it gave great freedom in the choice of textbooks. The old system prescribed texts which had to be adhered to, and which tended to narrow the pupil's interest by fostering the impression that everything which needed to be known about any subject was contained within the covers of a single book. Under the new system several books may be used, and the valuable habit of working with books of reference is implanted in the pupils.

* * *

Mr. Mustard's system had its first trial in 1937, when it was introduced into the Public School grades I to VI; in 1939 it was extended to all the Public School grades, and in 1939-40 it was introduced in the Collegiate Institutes. Although the system has worked well, it cannot be said to have had a fair trial. Conditions in the schools have not been normal since the war began; there has been overcrowding, shifting of population with corresponding upsets in the schools, and the difficulty of getting teachers. The new course of study has not had time to give a full account of itself yet.

* * *

We expect, however, that it will do so under the direction of Dr. Althouse. He knows the new course thoroughly, for he helped to plan it. He will be able to correct its weaknesses and smooth out its wrinkles. Complete reorganization of a school system is a big job, and it is not undertaken lightly. If the change which began in 1937 is complete and working smoothly by 1947 a good job will have been done. The "reform" which has been so confidently announced has been going on for six years.

Germany's Loss Of Manganese

During the early days of the war there were many commentators who insisted that Germany could not win because she lacked the raw materials necessary to carry on a long fight. When Germany triumphantly conquered countries which were able to supply the needed ores and oils it looked as though that argument had fallen through. But now the tide of war is flowing the other way, and it looks as though Germany may be strangled for lack of supplies, after all.

The present German retreat in Russia is a greater disaster than a loss of conquered territory. It is a loss of essential raw material as well. When the Russians broke through at Kiev and Kremenchug it was clear that Nikopol was lost as well; and that it would be good generalship to give it up easily and retire to a better defensive position. But there are great manganese mines at Nikopol, and Germany has been using that manganese to harden her steel; Russia has two-thirds of the world's supply of manganese, and she did not feel the loss of Nikopol too heavily; but Germany must have that million tons a year of manganese or sacrifice the 80,000,000 tons of steel which she could manufacture with it. That is why the Germans hung on at Nikopol, when good judgement told them to give it up, and suffered a disaster in consequence. The same thing has happened at Krivoi Rog; instead of falling back while they could, the Germans have let themselves be trapped there, and their loss will be heavy. They were trying to hang on to the iron which Krivoi Rog produces.

Like the goat in Aesop's fable, Germany has broken into the corn-crib and eaten itself full; now it must void all it has eaten before it can escape. Germany has chosen to make its retreat in the most costly way, losing both men and raw materials. True wisdom would suggest that the materials be sacrificed and the men saved for a strong stand on the home ground, but Germany clearly means to make the retreat bloody as well as unprofitable.

As a result, Germany will perhaps suffer a more ignominious defeat than is really inevitable. Without men and without weapons of war she will succumb to attrition—the slowest and most painful of defeats. She will end the war poor in men and in substance, and her condition will be even worse than it was in 1919. Germany does terrible things to other nations, but it seems to be her nature to inflict the most painful and lingering punishments upon herself.

A Tale Of One Plane

The highest decoration in the gift of the United States Government, the Congressional Medal of Honour, has been awarded to Second Lieutenant John C. Morgan, "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty"; reading the story of how Morgan won his medal, we feel that he deserved recognition if ever an airman did, and the facts are worth repeating as an example of the sort of heroism which this war has inspired.

Morgan was co-pilot on a bombing plane which set out to raid Hanover; his craft was one of the great Flying Fortresses. The plane was attacked by a large force of fighters, and the oxygen system of the tail, waist and radio gun positions was knocked out. In addition, a cannon shell shattered the plane's windshield, and a .303 shell exploded inside the plane, shattering the pilot's skull and leaving him in a demented condition in which his one idea was to pilot the plane—a feat for which he was wholly incapable after his injury. The interphone communication in the plane was destroyed, and it was Morgan's job to fight off his crazed superior while flying the plane. The top turret gunner fell down into the steering compartment with one arm blown off and a serious wound in his side. The waist, tail and radio men were unconscious for lack of oxygen, and Morgan believed that they had bailed out. In this situation he decided to take the plane over the target single-handed, and then return it to a friendly base. For more than two hours he flew in formation, guiding the plane with one hand, and restraining the demented pilot with the other. At last the navigator recovered, and entered the steering compartment and brought Morgan some relief. Fearing that the turret gunner would die if he were not given medical attention these two men threw him out of the plane with his parachute, over enemy territory, hoping that he would be found and given prompt care; he survived and is now a prisoner of war. Morgan brought the plane safely back to its base.

We do not mention this exploit merely because it is heroic in itself, but because it is one of many cases in which men of the United Nations have shown the utmost bravery and resource in seemingly impossible situations. While democracy can breed such men we should never despair, either in war or in peace.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Your Waste Paper May Become Ammunition" says a salvage appeal. Spitballs?

A sailor at Ottawa complains that he has been in uniform for two years and is still at a desk job. Long time no sea, in fact.

The Ontario Legislature has abandoned its horseshoe form for a rectangle. Does that means that there'll be no luck about the House?

"Canadian Army Builds Sturdy Women", says a headline. That is poor psychology. The only thing a girl hates to be called more than "sturdy" is "wholesome".

Nazis Violate Roman Soil

From a broadcast by GEORGE BARNARD
Co-editor of English Catholic Journal "The Universe"

THE Germans have violated, and are continuing to violate, the immunity of Rome — an immunity they had hoped to effect for their own purposes before Italy's surrender by means of the unilateral "open city" declaration. The whole Christian world awaits with trepidation the outcome of Mussolini's failure to neutralize Rome many months ago, when the Eternal City could have been taken out of the war before Axis forces had used its facilities to build up the resistance now operating in Italy against the United Nations.

The Holy Father is aware of the German violation—so much is fact—and informed commentators in Britain consider—and their suppositions are well founded—that he is protesting vigorously against it.

For there came, to break the diplomatic silence of Vatican Radio, one extremely significant broadcast a few days ago. The brief statement said: "According to the 'Osservatore Romano,' quoting the Italian press, a German patrol and guard is stationed at the frontier of Vatican City on Italian soil."

THIS was the first word having any bearing on the local situation uttered by Vatican Radio since the station announced, tersely and without comment, the capitulation of the Eternal City. Every word of the new announcement should be weighed, and above all, those last three important words: The German patrol is stationed on Italian soil.

This is a direct contradiction, by the Vatican, of Nazi statements, for the Germans themselves announced that German parachutists and anti-tank guns have mounted guard in St. Peter's Square, which is Vatican soil. (Their official reason, as worthless as the paper it is written on, was to "protect" Vatican City.)

The Germans are therefore pretending to the world that they are not breaking the "open city" declaration. For that supposed military advantage they are prepared to accept the odium of having invaded the neutral State of Vatican City. But the Holy See, through Vatican Radio, declares that the German troops are on Italian—not Vatican—soil. They are thus within the city of Rome, which they have sworn they will not occupy. This is a matter of prime importance.

VATICAN RADIO is preserving—for reasons which have not been stated—silence on the general situation. The nightly news bulletins are still given in various languages, but the duration has been reduced in each case from fifteen to five minutes, without explanation of the reason for curtailment.

Reports received in London indicate that St. Peter's has been re-opened after closure for 48 hours, but it is said that German guards are preventing the ingress of the people. The services continue, and it was with a feeling of intense drama that I listened on Sunday to a perfect broadcast from the Vatican station of Mass being offered at the Tomb of St. Peter beneath the high altar of the presumably empty and echoing basilica. It seemed to be a sign that no army is strong enough to subdue a church which will minister to men until the last man draws his final breath.

The wisdom of Pope Pius XI in installing a radio station at the Vatican has been emphasized by current events. The church can still speak from its centre. There are reports that the Holy Father has refused to receive Field Marshal Kesselring, who commands the forces around Rome, until his troops are withdrawn.

The crux of the situation, from the church's point of view, is that the Germans have failed to respect their own agreement to regard Rome as an "open city." In failing they have clearly imperilled the Eternal City which, when the position was otherwise, they protested with tears was the world's most sacred soil.

The English Way

Much of the talk this week has centred upon the release of the Fascist leader, Sir Oswald Mosley. At the time of his arrest, early in the war, this story adventurer in a political creed which is hateful to the vast majority of his fellow countrymen was branded as unworthy of freedom in his freedom-loving land, and he and his wife had been required to remain ever since within the seclusion of prison walls, while Britain and her Allies fought desperately against the mad Fascists of Europe.

No good purpose will be served by a discussion here of the political sympathies of the Mosleys, but it is of interest to consider for a moment or two the evidence that their release affords to the inherent English disposition toward leniency. Sir Oswald Mosley, it may be assumed, had deeply offended against the British national outlook, and, furthermore, had been regarded by the responsible authorities as a constant danger because of his associations with an evil, disruptive force against which his country later was forced into deadly battle. If in similar circumstances it had been his misfortune to be a dweller in some other land, notably Germany, the punishment would have been far more drastic than he has suffered.

In so-called prison, he has experienced comfortable quarters, with many privileges that have been denied to his law-abiding fellow countrymen. And now he is free again to breathe the fresh, invigorating open air of honest England—in spite of his record and of the suspicion which inevitably it arouses.

How delightfully English has been the treatment of this Fascist leader, this enemy of his country's form of government, at the period of England's gravest peril. Is it any cause for wonder that a foreigner once declared: "In spite of their very ugly hats, I love the English?"—Geelong, Australia, Advertiser for November 27.

The Ancient Guardsman

One hundred and forty years ago, Rye, England, hired a night guard to watch for an invasion of England by Napoleon. As such governmental jobs usually go, this one was handed down from generation to generation until last week, when Chummy Barton died. The municipality decided the thing had gone far enough and abolished the office.

But in the United States Col. McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune, still stands guard over Detroit against a British invasion. He made that speech again in Cleveland the other evening. We wonder if the colonel is not confused in his cities. Wasn't it Chicago, under Field Marshal (not to be confused with Marshall Field) Big Bill Thompson, which was saved from a British onslaught in that First Great War?—Detroit Free Press.

FOR ALL THE WORLD TO SEE —By Thomas

Come Seven, Come Eleven

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

NOTHING, it seems, is sacred from the probing fingers of science. The latest field of scientific investigation is the ancient, and often costly, diversion of rolling dice. "Crap shooting", as it is known to its modern devotees, has not only gone scientific but definitely high hat, for it is being investigated by the psychological laboratories of Duke University for "psychokinetic effects". Shades of a thousand generations of crap shooters!

It appears that the strange marriage of science and dice rolling occurred one day when a crap shooter made the claim that, by wishing hard or shouting loudly "come seven, come eleven", he was able to roll the desired points. It was a challenge to science and one that was quickly taken up. The man was set to rolling dice and, strangely enough, his claim was substantiated to such an extent that the scientists decided to investigate further.

Since then the spotted ivories have been rolled hundreds of thousands of times in the cause of science and the results, as published in the Journal of Parapsychology, by Duke University Press, seem to indicate that wishful thinking can affect the turn of the dice.

The implications of this are tremendous. The crap shooters may be expected to advance a claim that their game, long looked upon as a game of chance, is after all a game of skill. To the man with the greatest powers of concentration go the spoils, or something of that nature. And what of the mathematicians and their Law of Probability? If concentration can affect the turn of the dice, can it not to a like degree control other happenings which we heretofore considered the purest of chance? And what, too, of Julius Caesar and the words "The die is cast" that are credited to him on the occasion when his army crossed the Rubicon to march against the Legions of Pompey. Had he known of this business of "psychokinetic effects" he undoubtedly would have selected another expression. And think of the uproar that will undoubtedly be caused by ardent crap shooters in their attempts to outshout one another as they plead with the dice to "come seven, come eleven". It looks as though the scientists in their search for truth have stirred up a hornets' nest of no mean proportions this time.

It Would Happen Here

(FINANCIAL POST)

THE inefficiency, graft, corruption and generally intolerable conditions of working and living which have resulted from the Nazi system in Germany is most recently and most authoritatively reported by a Swedish journalist who left the Reich only a few months ago.

In his book, "Behind the Steel Wall," published in Canada by Macmillans, Arvid Fredborg gives a sidelight on what happens to society when law is taken out of the hands of the people as a whole and goes into the hands of a political party representing some of the people.

In Nazi Germany, be it remembered, are two sets of "Government" officials; two armies; one set represents the Government, in this case masquerading as representative of the people as a whole; the other, representing the Nazi party.

Fredborg writes:

"The Nazi Party administration is a burden not only to the German government, but also to the German society as a whole. On one side stands the social and economic hierarchy of the government, which regulates relations between the director and a foreman in his factory, between the owner of an estate and his hired man, or between the head of a German legation in a foreign country and his porter.

"But if it happens that the foreman, the hired man or the porter are 'higher up in the Party' relations may be suddenly reversed and the boss himself has to take the orders.

"Many have been attracted by the idea that 'the last shall be first,' but in its German form it breeds incompetence to a degree unthinkable in the democratic countries.

"If a British or American official makes himself unbearable, it is usually easy to have him removed; the people themselves take care of that. But in Germany it is impossible to get rid of a Nazi who has ingratiated himself with his superiors in the Party.....The system...invites corruption and favouritism...striking at the base of the whole social structure."

This Nazi party system deserves the attention of Canadians, for if this country carries its flirtation with the C.C.F. into an affaire, we shall inevitably see a similar situation arise here.

Mr. Coldwell, personally, may profess the most sincere ambitions to maintain the sovereignty of parliament. His noble aim is doomed.

Around and behind him are people whose political gospel is strictly totalitarian and who regard parliamentary traditions as mediaeval trappings that can be junked.

Each step Mr. Coldwell takes in implementing his socialization program will involve him inevitably in taking steps which he does not now contemplate or which he hopes to take much later. He will be swept up in the whirlwind he has touched off.

Swiftly, one after the other, he will inevitably find himself obliged to restrict, suspend, or rescind altogether individual liberties, regulations providing for due process of law for all citizens.

Finally, by turning a large proportion of Canada's entire working force into employees of the Socialist government, he will have created a party machine as dependable and as controllable as that of the Nazis.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

CBC Governors

In our view, the first thing to do is to make a clean sweep of the present discredited board of governors and put in a strong impartial board. This board will then be in a position to appoint a general manager who should be a first-class administrator enjoying the confidence of the public.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Le Canada On Smuts

It is very shocking to have the Montreal daily, Le Canada, refer to Field Marshal Smuts as "an ignorant old Boer." Canadians have the greatest admiration for the South African soldier-statesman and they must resent strongly his being spoken of in this way by one of their newspapers.

After the part that the South African Prime Minister has played during the past 40 years, there can be no excuse whatever for Le Canada's outburst. To say that such a man is "ignorant" is simply foolish. He has every right to be proud of being a Boer and one hesitates to think of what would have been the consequences if he had not brought his people into the present war at its outbreak by a display of loyalty, courage and resourcefulness for which there are few parallels. What makes Le Canada's offence all the more disconcerting is that it has been numbered hitherto among the most responsible of French-Canadian newspapers.—Edmonton Journal.

British Public Schools

British public schools begin the new term this week with full classes and long waiting lists.

This is largely the result of wartime influences. While many incomes have risen considerably during the war, school fees have remained at peace-time levels, making the great public schools available to an increasing number of families.

A Bible Message

These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him: a proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren. (Prov. 6: 16-19.)

◇ ◇ ◇

As it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one: there is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God. They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one....

Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. (Rom. 3: 10-12, 19.)

O Lord, thou hast pleaded the causes of my soul; thou hast redeemed my life. (Lam. 3: 58.)

The "Mailomat"

Always eager to keep up with the times and provide speedier service to its customers, the Post Office Department has installed a "Mailomat" in the lobby of the post office at Sparks and Elgin streets. The new machine should be a great convenience when people get used to it and it is widely established.

It takes a little getting used to. To mail a letter you (1) drop money in the coin slot, wait until the total registers on an indicator to the left, (2) dial the amount of postage you have deposited by means of a handle below and (3) insert your letter in the letter slot, seeing that it is the right way up, which is indicated on the mouth of the slot. The machine then whisks your letter away and the rest is left to the department.

The operation is simple enough after it is once tried. But if instructions are not followed there may be slight complications. To mail a 3 cent letter five separate moves have to be made; pushing each of the three cents in the slot, turning the indicator to the correct postage, and inserting the letter.

A school child should be able to work it after a first trial. But suppose a coin is "sticky" and doesn't drop? And what happens if the wrong total is registered? And what are the safeguards against the person who lays hands on the "Mailomat" in the same violent manner as he does when his purchase fails to be delivered from a one-cent chewing-gum vending machine?—Ottawa Citizen.

It Worked

A very pretty redhead was strolling from shop window to shop window on Fifth avenue the other day. She was being following by a smooth Latin type, and he was being followed by us.

At Sloane's she turned on the Latin type, indignant. "You've been following me for three blocks—I saw you. You can stop right now. I'm not the type of a girl you can pick up."

The Latin bowed, and smiled. "Madame," he said, "I am not picking you up. I am picking you out."

It worked, fellows, it worked.—PM.

Spillage and Ullage

The Army is making the first word in the title of the New English Dictionary look foolish. Its latest contribution to the enrichment of the English language—the latest, that is to say, to reach me—forms the heading of an official notice, "Spillage of Petrol." The meaning is clear, and the new substantive on the whole euphonious. Indeed, it has inspired me with the ambition to write a novel or a poem (I am not sure which, but as I shall write neither it matters relatively little) under the title Spillage and Ullage. Ullage, unlike spillage, will be found in any self-respecting dictionary.—Janus in the Spectator.

Canada needs thousands of tons of paper NOW to make sure that our fighters receive their supplies of food and ammunition in good condition .... that is, in airtght and watertight containers made from paper. They must have sufficient maps on hand to read the battle-scarred terrain in which they operate. They must have, in their fight against a ruthless enemy, camouflage material in sufficint volume. Medical supplies must arrive at the dressing stations in good condition and fully effective in saving lives, through being packed in paper-cardboard containers.

Senior Bowlers Score 5 Shut-outs

Five shut outs were registered in the Men's City League last night when the Fractional Motors, Cleanrites, Empress, Machine Shop and K. of C. teams all rolled up one-sided scores against their opposition.

It was a hectic night all round for the boys on keglers now with the margin of points between the first and second place teams dwindling down to a solitary point for Jay's over Cleanrites and Doug Abraham ousting Bob Dyer out of the leadership in the high average race.

Fractional Motors were the evening's outstanding team, smashing off 3662 to smother the Big Five for the second time this year and at the same time work themselves up to top for their big challenge match with Jay's on Saturday.

The hero of the night was Bill Stanbury, who was dropped off the Sunoco team without, it is rumored, the usual seven days' notice, and popped up with the Empress outfit as a substitute. The unpredictable Bill immediately went haywire on the pins and was taking bows right and left after nailing an 807 for the night's high three and a rousing 382 for high single. Len Anthony was the only other 800 man, hitting an 801. Sunocos replaced Stanbury with Westclox's (who are lowest team in the league) ace bowler.

Another feature of the night was Canada Packers feat of nosing out Jay's by 3 pins in their last game and may go a long way in deciding the city championship this year. The trick was done when Bud Weese picked a head pin after a spare in his last frame.

Big singles were as follows: W. Stanbury 382, Frank Wood 339, Fred Jones 332, "Buck" Guerin 316, Al Heckman 312, Len Anthony 312, "Tick" Caccavella 306 and Tom Martin 303.

The standing: Jay's 43 points, Cleanrites 42, K. of C. 40, Ramblers 36, Empress 35, Sunocos 33, Fractional Motors 32, Outlaws 32, Stags 29, Freeman's 28, Big Five 27, Machine Shop 25, Old Timers 21, Canada Packers 20, Gimblett 20, Westclox 17.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Two of the closest battles of the season should result when the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. launches out its playoff series with a double-header tonight. In the 7.45 game the second-place St. John's team and the Generals who finished third will meet in the first fixture of their best-of-three series to see which club will clash with Transports in the finals for the senior honors. Although St. John's have twice beaten the Electricians on a margin of five points separate them after the two battles, the Saints winning the first by one and the second by four. They are very evenly matched and the series between the two of them is regarded as a wide open affair. Tonight's game should be a thriller because both teams will be out to get the jump on the opposition and start the semi-final series on the right foot. The same thing is true of the second fixture which sees Y Cadets and Normals meet in the first game of their best-of-five battle for the intermediate title. The two rivals have broken even in two games this season and on their record they are very evenly matched so that there should be a lot of exciting basketball before the fate of the intermediate title is decided for the season.

* * * * * *

And while we are on the subject of basketball it might as well be mentioned here that the City League at the Y.M.C.A. will open its schedule tomorrow night with the strong C.G.E. team, including in its lineup such scorers as Joe Stewart and Harry Currie, will do battle with Pete McArthur's Orphans. The veteran McArthur has rounded up enough unattached players to field a well-balanced team and they will cut loose tomorrow night in the hope of opening the league race with a win over the Electricians. As this column mentioned the other night the loop roster this season has only three teams. War conditions and the steady influx of cage players into the armed forces have resulted in the available material gradually dwindling until it is only possible to put together two city teams with the Military Training Centre coming to the rescue and entering a squad to make the league possible. The opening game tomorrow night should produce some fast basketball and in spite of the fact that there are only three clubs in the organization the season promises to be a success unless further enlistments wreck the present setup.

Best Team Seldom Wins

Declaring that the best team seldom wins a Montreal sports writer in Esquire makes a vigorous attack on the playoff system followed by the N.H.L. There is nothing new in that. Most sport commentators have taken a shot at the same target. After all however it is a simple matter to understand. Professional hockey is a business, not a sport and the powers-that-be are going to keep on staging screwy playoff setups just as long as the public lays it in at the box office and there are no signs that fans are tired doing that. However the Esquire comment is interesting. Here is a bit of it: "The major league scaled new heights of stupidity in the seasons from 1938 to 1942 when seven teams, five representing the United States and two, Canada, played all season to eliminate one team. The surviving six then entered the playoff matches to decide the temporary abode of Lord Stanley's silver donation. Last year, the system was revised, after the league had abandoned the New York Americans, and only four of the six teams were admitted to the playoffs."

* * * * * *

To prove his point that the best team seldom wins the Stanley Cup, the Montreal man cites the results of nearly fifteen years of hockey. During that time, the pennant-winners have won the cup only five times. The Boston Bruins, who finished first or in a first-place tie seven times, won the cup twice. On the other hand, the New York Rangers and the Chicago Black Hawks who failed to finish in first place any of the fourteen seasons each won the cup twice. Detroit, the exception that proves the rule, won the cup three times and won the pennant every time. Through the years, the farcial aspects of the playoff system have become more and more apparent. The purpose of the system has shifted a long way, from Lord Stanley's original intention of encouraging amateur hockey, to today's aim of getting as much money from the hockey customers as possible, Esquire concludes.

Sports For Soldiers

Canada's favorite sports, hockey, baseball, softball, boxing, football, basketball, lacrosse and soccer, are not included in the proposed program of army athletics for which special medals will be issued according to an announcement rrom Major Ian Eisenhardt, chief army sports officer at Ottawa, says Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard. Special medals will be issued for efficiency in various forms of athletics but the tests appear more of the picnic program type than games for he-men in training for war. The program is planned to develop good physical condition and interest but most of the proposed medal events are known only to a few specialists in peace times and many are novelties that are seldom reported on Canadian sports pages, which cover more forms of athletics than any other sports papers in the world. Track and field are the main contests on the army athletic program but strange events are also added like kayak paddling, simple sculling, cycling, throwing with both hands, rowing, ski marathons, endurance swimming and target shooting. No doubt Canadian soldiers will be encouraged in their camps to play their popular body contact games but the Ottawa report does not include team sports in the list to win medals. "Sports and games in future will be an integral part of the soldier's training," Major Eisenhardt's announcement proclaims and he states that "physical fitness esprti de corps, discipline and morale will be strengthened through an effective program." He does not explain how the individual sports included on the medal winning list will promote the three virtues.

* * * * * *

The pattern of the N.H.L. playoff series is beginning to form as the teams battle down the final quarter. Canadiens of course are certain of first place, unless they are all drafted in the meantime and Detroit Red Wings show every sign of taking second. But there will be a real tussle for the other playoff positions between Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and the Boston Bruins. Right now the Rossmen who looked like the outfit for whom the bell tolls until a few days ago are showing every indication of becoming a distinct threat. They have won their last two games and their feat of defeating the Black Hawks in Chicago last night after shutting out the Canadiens Tuesday reveals a return to form that will alarm other contenders, particularly as Bill Cowley is ready to return to action with the Bruins. Red Wings swamped the New York Rangers last night to go four points ahead of the Leafs.

First 2 Games For Hughes Cup

LINDSAY, Feb. 11—(ENS)—The first two games in the Hughes Cup Tournament were played at the Lindsay Arena Thursday as Lindsay Silverwoods defeated Lindsay Arsenal 4-2. Haliburton Huskies took Oakwood Combines 8-3.

The Arsenal opened the scoring in the first period of the first game on a goal by J. Hood, from Roy and Jack Crawford. Silverwoods weren't long in tying it up and after 5 minutes elapsed Coombs made it 1-1.

In the second stanza, Hood again opened the scoring with the assistance of his two teammates. Coombs came through and on a solo effort pulling Burford, Arsenal goal keeper, down to his knees, picked the top left hand corner. With six minutes left in the period Kirley, Silverwoods defenceman, took the puck up the middle of the ice after drawing the two defencemen with him, shot the puck to Brigden who scored.

In third period Schell put the game on ice on a pass from Brigden.

Lineup:

Silverwoods—Goal, Sequire; defence, Kirley and Kelly; centre, Gassien; wings, Coombs and Workman. Subs: Kelly, Crewley, Schell, Western, Brigden, Green, Karrys.

Arsenal—Goal, Burford; defence, Kelly and Lucas; centre, J. Crawford; wings, R. Crawford, J. Hood; subs: Chub Gerver, C. Gerver, M. Hood, Hunter, Chatten, Huston, Eakins.

In the second game Haliburton outskated and outplayed Oakwood from the first drop of the puck. At the end of the first period the Huskies had a 2-1 lead after Baker had twice scored. And Rich tallied the Oakwood one goal.

The second period saw Oakwood hold the high flying Huskies to one lone goal by Dart on an assist by Baker. However in the third period both teams opened up and Haliburton outscored their rivals by five.

The line of Baker, Dart and Brohm were the big point getters in this period picking four goals and six assists. Dart scored three times Baker and Carnochan each getting one. Ferguson and McTaggart scored for Oakwood. The line previously mentioned along with Mickey Arnold were standouts for Haliburton, Rich and C. Tamblyn for Oakwood.

Line-ups:

Haliburton: Goal, Bannon; defense, Begley and Isles; centre, Brohm; wings, Dart and Baker; subs: Yarnold, Sproats, Phibbs, Roberts, Carnochan, and Feir.

Oakwood — Goal, Cadd; defence, Anderson and I. Tamblyn; centre, Rich; wings, V. Jewell and A. Smith; subs, L. Tamblyn, Heatlie, McTaggart, Ferguson and C. Tamblyn.

Peterboro Rinks Score One-sided Wins

SEIGNIORY CLUB, QUE., Feb. 11 (CP)—Three Peterborough rinks scored one-sided opening-round victories to take the lead in the 13th annual play for the Sewell Curling Trophy yesterday, while rinks from Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal scored wins by narrower margins.

Each of the 32 rinks will play three games, and the four rinks with the highest plus margins play off for the trophy.

Miss H. Fanning of Peterborough turned back Mrs. W. E. Jones of Pointe Clair, 22-2; Mrs. G. Woods chalked up a 17-5 victory over a quartet from Walwatosa, Wis., skipped by Mrs. W. G. McNeill, and Mrs. D. A. Degraw counted a 13-3 win over Mrs. H. French of Wauwatosa.

Mrs. L. E. Wooley of Toronto Granite defeated Miss F. Gladman of Peterborough, 12-9; Mrs. E. Wood of Ottawa Rideau edged out Mrs. W. J. Southam of Hamilton Thistle, 10-8, and Mrs. G. E. Griffiths of Montreal Outremont whipped Mrs. J. Medland of Toronto Granite, 13-5.

In all-Montreal matches, Mrs. G. E. Cheese of Royal Montreal defeated Mrs. W. A. MacGregor of Outremont, 13-7, and Mrs. J. C. Riddell of Montreal defeated Mrs. H. W. Reynolds of Montreal West, 10-3.

Caps And Bisons In 4-4 Tie Game

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals and Buffalo Bisons battled to a 4-4 draw last night in the American Hockey League's only scheduled encounter. Caps have not been defeated by Buffalo this season.

Fred Thurier scored two counters for Bisons in the first period. His wingers, Fred Hunt and Larry Thibeault, set-up the puck both times. He added their third counter in the second period and bagged the fourth tally early in the final period.

Winky Smith scored Caps' first goal just 48 seconds after the start of the second period. At almost the half-minute mark Bernie Ruelle added their second. In the final period Nakina Smith scored at 10:37 and seven minutes later Alex Ritson deadlocked the contest.

TORONTO, Feb. 11—(CP)—One of the greatest of the old-time hockey players, Si Griffis says modern hockey is faster, more scientific and packs more thrills than at any time during the years he played with leading teams throughout Canada.

Si, now a Vancouver newspaper executive, knows whereof he speaks. He was twice with Stanley Cup teams—Kenora Thistles in 1906 and Vancouver Millionaires in 1915. None of the 60-minute men of the early hockey era could possibly stand up for more than 10 or 15-minute stretches at the modern gait, says Griffis, who adds: "But we can still cherish the thought that we blazed the trail and laid the foundation for the fastest game on two feet."

Chu Chin Chow:

Hap Day of Toronto Leafs has sent his scouts to chew some Chin chow at Lucknow, Ont., and look over the three Chin brothers, Chinese hockey players aged 14, 15 and 16. "My scouts tell me they are short-coupled in build, pretty fair hockey mechanics and very fast in their movements." Leafs are interested.

Trottier is Nova Scotia manager for a big oil company. Dr. Joe Sullivan is doing research work for the R.C.A.F. Hugh Plaxton, the M.P., is in the Navy. Ross Taylor and Charlie Delahay are in the services. Bert Plaxton and Roger Plaxton are in Toronto. Red Porter is advertising manager for a Toronto department store. Blink Bellinger Tops Scorers

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Official scoring records released today showed Blink Bellinger of St. Catharines Saints atop the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" scoring parade with a slim one-point margin over Hamilton's Johnny Conick. Bellinger has 17 goals and 35 assists for a point total of 52. Conick remained the leading goal-getter with 29, coupled with 22 assists to give him the runner-up spot. Red Reynolds of St. Catharines is one point back in third with a 50-point total made up of an equal number of goals and assists. Doug Runions of Hamilton has 27 goals, 22 assists for fourth spot in the tightly-packed leading quartet. Paul Mundrick of the Saints rocketed into the "big six" last week by running his total to 42, on 21 goals and 21 assists, with Dillon Brady of the majors trailing him by one point with 16 goals and 25 assists.

In the Junior "A" circuit, Ken Smith, Bob Love and Bill Ezinicki of Oshawa Generals continue to hold the first three places in that order, with 62, 58 and 55 points respectively. Bob Schnurr of St. Michael's College shares third spot with Ezinicki with 55, following by two Galt standouts, Johnny Ubriaco and Nellie Podolsky with 43 and 36 points.

If there's any communique from Boston Bruins headquarters to-day it will say—"Everything is going according to plan." The Bruins are on the march again.

By beating the Black Hawks 5-4 in a rousing finish before a crowd of 10,032 at Chicago last night, the Bruins climbed back into fourth position in the National Hockey League. The only other game saw the Detroit Red Wings chalk up an 8-3 victory over the luckless Rangers before a crowd of 12,932 at New York.

The Bruins climbed over the Hawks into the last play-off spot by dint of two resounding victories this week, their 3-0 shutout triumph over Canadiens Tuesday and their success last night.

At Chicago last night the Bruins won the hard way, leading 4-1 at the start of the third period and then watching Chicago ram in three straight goals. With the score tied 4-4 the fireworks started when a brief battle flared and Pat Egan of Boston went to the box. He swung at a spectator and the entire line-up of both teams joined in the turmoil.

The clincher wa sfired by Bep Guidolin, assisted by Calladine and Cain, just six seconds before the final bell. Brennan, Boll, Kopek and Egan got the other Boston goals, while Smith, Purpur, Bentley and Gottselig scored for Chicago.

The Red Wings played like a machine in beating Rangers.

Carveth had three goals to lead the Detroit parade and Liscombe had two, Jackson, Armstrong and Brown getting the others. Rangers' scorers were Boucher, K. MacDonald and Dill.

Boston—Goal, Gardiner; defense, Egan and Clapper; centre, Jackson; wings, Cain and Boll; subs, Crawford, Calladine, Palazzari, Rittinger, Guidolin, Kopak, Brennan.

Chicago—Goal, Karakas; defense, Johnson and Seibert; centre, Dahlstrom; wings, Allen and March; subs., Wiebe, Smith, Purpur, Bentley, Mosienko, Gottselig, Heyliger.

First Period

1—Boston, Brennan (Guidolin, Clapper) 15.35
2—Boston, Boll (Jackson, Cain) 16.04
Penalties—None.

Second Period

3—Chicago, Smith 13.36
4—Boston, Kopek (Rittinger, Clapper) 14.32
5—Boston, Egan (Jackson, Cain) 16.10
Penalties—None.

Third Period

6—Chicago, Purpur (Gottselig, Dahlstrom) 5.56
7—Chicago, Bentley (Seibert, Allen) 7.42
8—Chicago, Gottselig (March, Dahlstrom) 8.51
9—Boston, Guidolin (Calladine, Cain) 19.54
Penalties—Palazzari, Egan.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Herb Cain, Boston, picked up three assists last night when Bruins defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-4 to give himself a five-point lead atop the National Hockey League's high-scoring list over second-place Lorne Carr, Toronto. Canadiens' Elmer Lach, formerly tied for seventh place with Detroit's Joe Carveth was forced off the list when the latter scored three goals as Red Wings thrashed Rangers 8-3.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

A Canadian rugger team was polished off 38-5 by an all-Japan fifteen at Tokyo 12 years ago today. More than 25,000 persons saw the game. The Dominion representatives won five of their seven matches in Japan, however. Their other loss came when they dropped a 9-3 decision to another all-star Japanese team.

Hall's Rink Wins

KITCHENER—(CP).— The local rink skipped by Perry Hall yesterday won three games to take the district final in the British Consols series and will now compete at the Toronto Granite Club Feb. 22 for the provincial title. Hall's four defeated two rinks from Ayr and one from Galt.

Sunday Hunting Motion Beaten

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — A proposal to ask the Ontario Government to inaugurate Sunday hunting received short shrift yesterday from the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters in convention here. Emerson Robertson, Toronto, who suggested he "didn't see why we should be stopped from taking our dogs into the bush and hunting when every one goes fishing on Sunday" moved a suggestion which, in effect, would have seen the association endorsing the proposal.

The resolution was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

The association endorsed resolutions asking the Provincial Government to approach the Ottawa administration in efforts to obtain the release of ammunition for hunting; sought increased penalties for baiting of ducks; asked a closed season for muskrats in Lincoln County, and prohibition of the use of high-powered rifles in Southern Ontario.

It also soughbt a closed season for ruffed grouse if investigation by the Department of Game and Fisheries and interested organizations warranted such action.

Britons Resent Early Closing Of Beer Taverns

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP) The high price of women's hats and the early closing of London bars are stealing headlines from the war here.

A good many Britons, who have demonstrated a knack for keeping their eyes on the basic things in life even after more than four years of war, seem to be indignant about both.

The idea of the pubs closing before they are forced to by law heretofore was practically unheard of in this country of beer drinkers. Many of them are doing so now, however, and heated demands have been made that something should be done about it. The question even has been brought up before the home secretary.

In the meantime pub-owners are beginning to understand that they can't tradition and 45 early closers have been placed on probation until it is decided whether their licences should be renewed.

Supplies Low

Beer and whisky supplies admittedly are low, but some licensing officials say that is no reason to close early.

"One of the most important functions of the publican is to provide opportunity for social intercourse even if intoxicants are sold out," Col. Robert S. Thomson, chairman of the Bournemouth Licensing Board, said recently.

The matter of women's hat prices even has been aired in the House of Commons. Hugh Dalton, chairman of the board of trade, was called on by one member of the House to explain both about prices and shapes of hats—but he skilfully dodged the issue and promised an investigation.

"I've given anxious thought to the problem," he assured Commons, but added ruefully "there is infinite variety in women's hats and I am very doubtful whether a utility model even at a fixed price would be welcome."

Milliners don't seem to think there's anything wrong with current hat prices. They range from $2 to $40.

FAMILY SHIP PROJECT—Here three generations sit on a couch of anchor chains for their lunch at Burrard Dry Dock, Vancouver, B.C., Canada's largest shipyard. Gill Steer, the grandson, age 16, is a shipwright's helper and a member of the British Columbia Reserves. Alf Steer, his father, is a ship's fitter, and Alf, Sr. (Pop) the grandfather, is in the rivet stores. Gill's commanding officer, Lt.-Col. McGlashan, was the major of Pop's battalion in the last war.

Wm. Murdock New Tory Whip

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP) —William Murdock of Harrow, member for Essex South, has been appointed Progressive-Conservative whip in the Legislature, Premier Drew announced Thursday. Mr. Murdock is a wholesaler, having built up a large wholesale egg business, and has served several years on the Harrow High School Board and Town Council.

Dr. R. H. Taylor, of Dashwood, physician, member for Huron, has been named to move the motion to adopt the Throne speech. He was born in London, Ont., educated at University of Western Ontario, is a veteran of the last war and is president of War Services Board in his community. He is well known for his charitable work in the district.

John L. McDonald, of Harrison's Corners, member for Stormont, will second the Throne speech motion. He is a native of Cornwall, where he was a member of the Township Council for eleven years, nine of which he was Reeve. He is a veteran of the First World War, in which he was wounded at Paschendaele. He is a veteran of several Stormont county executives.

Take Beer Profits To Cure Drunkards

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP) — A statement that the present criminal treatment of drunkards is "a hangover from a more primitive order of society" was made to-day in a paper presented to the Ontario Temperance Association by Dr. George Little, editor of United Church Sunday School Publications.

The paper, entitled "Scientific Treatment for Inebriates," said state care is necessary for drunkards unable to finance their own rehabilitation. He mentioned municipal beer rebates received in Toronto, and revenue reported by the Ontario Liquor Control Board, saying: "Some of these profits might well be spent in caring for the customers who become casualties."

Horned Rabbit

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Feb. 11 — (AP). — Andrew Yourczek went hunting and his dog caught what appeared to be a cottontail rabbit. Closer inspection disclosed the animal had three-inch horns, growing out of the top of its head and curving backward like those of a sheep. The rabbit will be mounted and installed in a museum.

Minister Given Praise On Survey Assistance

"I don't know any one who could have been more favorable to us than the Deputy Minister," said Mayor Hamilton, in a reference on Monday night to Lieut.-Commander C. P. Edwards, O.B.E., Deputy Minister of Transport, for the interest he had expressed in Peterborough's surveys and other efforts in planning for an airport.

"We have all been impressed by the favorable attitude Commander Edwards has shown toward Peterborough," His Worship said. "He has gone as far as he could in having investigations carried out here. I wish that Alderman Bradburn was with us because he has been chairman of the committee that has been considering an airport project. I can assure everybody that the committee and the Council have done all we can up to the present."

Mayor Hamilton's comment related to a letter from the Chamber of Commerce expressing its interest in the project, and suggesting that it might be advisable to obtain an independent survey. No action on the Chamber's letter was taken, but members of the Council manifestly agreed with Mayor Hamilton's opinion that the Deputy Minister of Transport was a friend at court.

Pincer Action.

To-day's communique said the great bulk of the augmented Japanese division, which consisted of three infantry regiments, a field artillery regiment, two engineer regiments and auxiliary services, had been destroyed in the pincer action which preceded the joining of the two Allied forces.

The combined Allied force may next move on Madang, Japanese base about 60 miles from Saidor. American bomber crews recently reported evidence that the enemy already has abandoned Madang.

The communique reported another raid on Rabaul, the heavily-hit Japanese base in New Britain, but made no mention of opposition to the attack. Enemy interception has been growing weaker in the air over Rabaul.

Airplanes and warships have teamed in blasting away at Japanese-held Marshall Islands now imperilled by American conquest of Kwajalein, it was announced at Pearl Harbor.

Yesterday, Admiral Chester W. W. Nimitz disclosed that Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday planes of many types dumped 114 tons of explosives on enemy bases in the mid-Pacific group. Wake Island also was bombed.

Brakeman Has Odd Experience

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Feb. 11 —(CP) —Arthur Martel, 22, who suffered only minor injuries when he was pushed along a track for 30 feet in front of a railway engine, then dragged under the engine and carried another 100 feet, said here today it was a "terrifying experience . . . . I thought I would be killed any minute."

Brakeman with the Canadian Pacific Railway for two weeks, Martel was released from hospital yesterday after treatment for bruises and shock.

He said the accident happened during a blinding snowstorm, when he was riding on the pilot of the front of the engine. Thinking the train had stopped, he stepped off, "and the next thing I know I was lying between the rails directly ahead of the moving train."

After the front of the engine had passed over him, Martel "grabbed hold of something under the engine and shouted for all I could." He was dragged another 100 feet before the engineer heard his shout and stopped the train.

MORE ABOUT—

House Considers

The Government's reply was made by Resources Minister Crerar, who said that if C.C.F. pre-war policies had been followed Canada would not have increased her defence forces.

The minister quoted remarks by Mr. Douglas in pre-war defence estimate debates. Mr. Douglas said the quotations had been removed from their context and were tantamount to misrepresentation.

The last Liberal word was with Gordon Ross (L-Moose Jaw), who said that no matter how much Mr. Douglas quoted Hansard it was still evident his party had opposed increasing the defence estimates.

A side debate was that in which L. P. Picard (L-Bellechasse) and H. E. Brunelle (L-Champlain) said that Wiflred LaCroix (L-Quebec-Montmorency) had criticized the government policies and Prime Minister Mackenzie King unjustly. They suggested he should cross the floor if he did not agree with the government.

The defeated amendments to the throne speech were supported last night by Mr. LaCroix and Emmanuel D'Anjou (L-Rimouski).

Questions Loyalty

Answering Mr. Picard, Mr. LaCroix quoted Disraeli who once said in the British House of Commons that the government, not himself, had changed policy. Only his electors could remove him from his seat, the Quebec member said.

Mr. Picard said he opposed isolationist elements in Quebec, and Frederic Dorion (Ind-Charlevoix-Saguenay) said he felt some of Mr. Picard's remarks were aimed at him.

"The present administration is to blame for any isolationism in Quebec because of the kind of election campaigns it has carried on in that province during the past 25 years," he said.

Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) also raised the question of party loyalty, and said that Liberal members who criticized the new government wage-control order should vote for the Conservative amendment which condemned the order.

Wants Pacific Action

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South) said Canada's position in the war on the Pacific was unsatisfactory, since the Dominion had failed to accept its share of the responsibilities there. Canadian troops had returned from Kiska in the Aleutians and Australians, New Zealanders and Americans had been left to do the Pacific fighting.

Home defence troops remained in Canada although Canada's duty was to take her full share in the Pacific.

A British Commonwealth policy on defence and on foreign affairs was advisable, said Mr. Green, but Prime Minister King believed otherwise.

Mr. Coldwell said there had been "no more devastating machine in the Democratic world" than that organized by Mr. Gardiner in Saskatchewan. Federal government employees had been out in force with cars belonging to the Dominion when the Liberals contested the recent Federal by-election in Humboldt constituency, won by Joseph Burton, a C.C.F. candidate. The C.C.F. would want to know about their expense accounts, he said.

The Liberal government in Saskatchewan had regimented people 'in poverty and want."

From 1931 to the outbreak of war C.C.F. supporters had condemned the support given by "powerful interests throughout the world to Germany, Italy and Japan." The C.C.F. had denounced Hitler "when some of our Liberal friends in Saskatchewan were addressing meetings in Swastika-decorated halls."

Weighty Steers Down 25 to 35; Calves Strong

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP). — Weighty steers took a drop of 25 to 35 cents a cwt. in trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Other grades of cattle held steady. Calves were strong. Lambs, sheep and hogs were steady.

Cattle trade was dull on steers and heifers with a Monday holdover of 1,100 head reduced to 200 by the close. Most of the weighty steers offered were cleared on Wednesday at from $11 to $12.25 for the majority with choice lots at $12.50 and a few at $12.75. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $10 to $11.75. Fed yearlings were $11.75 to $13.25. Butcher cows were $7 to $8.75. A few lots of stockers and stock calves sold at $9 to $11. Good milkers and springers were $130 to $160 each, with common kinds downward to $85.

Demand was keen for all grades of calves. Choice sold at $16.50 to $17, with common downward to $11 and bulk of sales between $16 and $16.50. Some Montreal grassers sold at $7 to $8 cwt.

The lamb supply included two cars of Westerns. Most of the local lambs offered were common to medium quality selling from $5 to $12 cwt. A few good locals brought $12.50 to $13. Westerns sold from $10 to $13.25 according to quality. A small supply of sheep sold at $3 to $6 cwt.

Hogs were $17.15 dressed for the basic grade, with sows at $13 dressed. Several loads of Western sows were unsold at the end of the week.

Himmler Slated For Hitler's Job

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 — (CP) — A Nazi home front publicity campaign to popularize Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler as a possible successor to Hitler was reported to-day by the United States Office of War Information.

A dispatch in the Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten told of plans for distribution of 4,000,000 picture post cards showing Himmler in two smiling poses, the O.W.I. said. A previous Swedish dispatch said the humanizing campaign was begun because the German public "connects his name with concentration camps."

Social Demokraten said German newspapers had begun to print "funny" anecdotes about Himmler.

Honor H. A. Kerr On Retirement

MILLBROOK, Feb. 11 (ENS) — At the annual congregational meeting of Grace Presbyterian church, held Wednesday afternoon, a presentation to H. A. Kerr, treasurer for a number of years, of a pair of military brushes, in a solid leather case, with zipper fastening, was made. The address, expressing appreciation of his faithful and efficient services, was read by Milton Fallis, and E. L. Armstrong gave the gift. Rev. Walter Paterson presided.

The reports throughout of the various organizations, and departments of the church work, showed increased interest and attendance, with all financial obligations fully met, and a balance on the right side of the books in beginning 1944. A. Coyte was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of V. R. Hunter to Newmarket.

The other members of the Board of Managers, all elected for a three-year term, being: Milton J. Fallis, John D. Armstrong, and E. L. Armstrong; Elected to the Board of Trustees were: J. H. Burns, Nathaniel Belch, and Milton Fallis, while reorganization of the cemetery board included as members: C. Thorndyke, M. Fallis and I. W. Larmer. Charles Thorndyke is the recording secretary. A number of business items dealing with the advancement of the work of the church were discussed.

New Technique Counteracts Mustard Gas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 —(AP) —A technique for fighting mustard gas burns with pills containing the gas itself is reported by British investigators who say the method was employed on volunteers with "beneficial" results.

A recent report by the British Homeopathic Society says volunteers who bared their forearms to the blistering action of the gas over a period of seven days had its effects markedly lessened by taking the pills.

Stating that 280 persons in the London and Glasgow areas participated in the tests—147 of them receiving the pills and the rest not—the report showed a decided percentage of the burns caused by the gas were superficial when the volunteer took the drug, as against a higher percentage of medium or deep burns in the controls (those who did not take the pills)."

The report, originally presented to the British Ministry of Home Security, was condensed for release in this country by Dr. R. B. Lawrence, of Richmond, Va., chairman of the Public Relations committee of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

Dr. Lawrence said the report "has neither been accepted nor rejected by the Ministry of Home Security—it has simply been filed for reference."

BACK FOR YEAR.

Inspector K. Wightman was reappointed to the Library Board on a motion by Dr. C. Scott and H. G. Walker at the Board of Education Thursday night.

OFFICE ROBBED

The office of the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company, Aylmer street, was broken into during last night and $250 in cash was taken. Entrance into the office was gained by forcing a window at the back of the premises. Once inside the burglar had a break for the door of the safe had apparently been let unlocked and he had easy access to the cash.

GETS TEN WEEKS

Fergus Mongraw was convicted in police court Thursday on a charge of having broken and entered the premises of the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company and committing theft. The sum of $20.57 in cash and a number of cancelled cheques had been stolen, it was stated. Mongraw's arrest had followed an attempt by him to cash one of the cancelled cheques in a Chinese restaurant. Magistrate O. A. Langley sentenced the accused to ten weeks imprisonment in the county jail.

Pte. John Francis, whose father, Alexander Francis, lives in Madoc, has been wounded in action in the Mediterranean area, the United States War Department announced today.

SCHOOL CONTEST.

The Board of Education Thursday night again granted permission for the Red Cross and Community Fund to have a penny-a-day campaign in the schools during their drive February 28 to March 5. They are planning to have another poster contest and it is hoped to at least equal last year's effort of $504.75.

FOUND MATCHES

For the second time this week the danger of leaving matches around where little children can get at them was demonstrated by a house fire, this time at the home of William L. Casey, 137 Rubidge street. There a two-and-a-half-year old set fire to the contents of a closet and cupboard, with the result that some clothes were burnt and food destroyed. Receiving the alarm at 11.33 a.m. this morning, firemen rushed to the scene and prevented the incipient blaze from spreading further. Chief Gimblett issued a warning in view of the second call of this type within the past few days.

O.V.C. To Discuss Disbandment Order Of Gov't

Severance of its affiliation with the Provincial Police by official order of the Attorney-General of Ontario is not going to bring about disbandment of the Peterborough company of the Ontario Voluntary onstabulary, and the local unit, commanded by Colin H. Althouse, is planning a meeting for next Monday to decide what form of organization it will maintain.

It was recently decreed by the Provincial Government that its association with the voluntary groups formed over all Ontario in the earlier days of the war would now be dropped because of the lessened threat to the safety of Canada, and to the various groups themselves the decision was left as to whether they would stay together or drop their training and other activities entirely. This morning Mr. Althouse, who is captain of the Peterborough company, consisting of 43 members, made it clear that the group planned to stay in being. He added that he thought this would most likely be the decision of the majority of O.V.C. companies throughout the province.

The Government order had been expected for some time prior to its appearance, Mr. Althouse said, but nevertheless he believed it was premature. Though the threat of invasion had receded and Canada was not now in danger, it was still true that there was a war on and emergencies might arise. In such an event the O.C.V. could have an important service to perform, and it was the intention of the local company to remain ready and on hand to assist the regular police and be of aid to the citizenry.

Decisions to be reached at the meeting next week involve the amount of training the force will continue to do now that is an independent organization and what related activities it may undertake. Equipment, such as guns and badges, must be returned to the provincial authorities, but members own their own uniforms.

Organized in April, 1941, the Peterborough company is one of many that together had a total membership of over 800 voluntary workers. The last official and biggest job it undertook to handle was policing of the Lindsay Fair last fall, the third year in succession in which it had performed that task.

Peterboro Boys Form Crew Of Beaufighter

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(Exclusive to the Peterborough Examiner) — "Peterbeau," a Beaufighter with many sorties to her credit, has an all-Peterborough crew as might be expected from her name.

Pilot is Flying Officer Stuart Laing, 24, 276 John street, Peterborough, Ont., a former carpet designer. Navigator is Flying Officer William House, 32, Peterborough, England, a former chemist.

The pair have flown together for many months and one of their recent tips was a strafing raid on a power station near Lashio.

Paratrooper Has Leg Amputated

While fighting in a paratroop unit with the American 5th Army in Italy, Sgt. E. B. (Ted) Johnson was badly wounded in both legs, and gangrene infection in his left leg resulted in its amputation above the knee.

Enlisting with the Prince of Wales Rangers (C.A.) in April, 1942, Sgt. Johnson, who formerly worked in the Agnew Surpass store, transferred to the First Selective Service Force and took his paratroop training in Montana and Vermont.

Following graduation, he saw service in the Aleutians, and after a visit four months ago in Peterborough, he landed in Africa in October. Sgt. Johnson said that he was wounded January 8 and his right leg is healing nicely.

Although his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson live in Coe Hill, Sgt. Johnson attended Collegiate here. There are two aunts, Mrs. W J. Cusse, 61 Park Hill road, and Mrs. Allan Hendren, 841 Water street. A brother, Harry, is on active duty with the R.C.N.V.R.

Board Appoints Committee To Meet Council

In order to facilitate the bringing down of their estimates for this year, the Board of Education Thursday night appointed four of its members, along wth the secretary-treasurer, to meet with the council at a special session, to find out what their share of the Wartime Housing revenue will be. They include G. W. Craw, T. J. Carley, D. V. Canning, Fred Reed and Jack Huggins.

The report of the meeting held when the council refused the Board's application for half the money in lieu of taxes by Wartime Housing for the past three years, was given by Mr. Carley. He said that it was agreed without hesitation to give the Board 50 per cent. of the money received this year based on public or separte school tenancies. Then the Board representatives ran into rough seas.

"If they gave back what they had received over the years, we should have a fair sum, which we believe to be rightfully ours. But the Council were difficult to convince. We had budgeted to care for educational needs during that 3-year period because of the uncertainty, but to give the ratepayers a correct picture of the purposes and costs of education, we feel we are entitled to a share of the back funds.

"If the Council could see our point of view, we would have gotten it. They were paid that money with the idea of covering educational costs."

At this point, G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the Board, produced a letter from E. A. Outram, city clerk, written January 22, 1943, which he said appeared to contradict their present attitude. It read in part:

Letter Differs.

"We find that of the houses in the city owned by Wartime Housing Ltd., there are 57 houses on which the city may receive $30 payments each year in lieu of taxes, and 130, on which payments may be $24, which are occupied by public school supporters. When and if payments are made for these houses by Watrime Housing, the tax rolls will be written to credit the proportion of such payments to the Board of Education. This proportion is represented by the total rate for schools, public and secondary, over the total rate for all purposes, times the amount received from Wartime Housing for houses occupied by public school supporters. In addition, a proportion based on the Secondary School rate to the total tax rate, will be paid to the Board for Secondary school purposes, on the monies received from Wartime Housing for their houses occupied by Separate school supporters.

"It is still most indefinite when such payments may be received, because the complicated situation existing has yet to be clarified by legislation. However, the proportion as stated should be paid over to your Board."

After some discussion, it was decided to have the chairman of the Board, and the chairmen of the Finance and Supervision committees, along with Mr. Carley, represent the Board at the next meeting.

Asks For Month Given 15 Days

Even when a man wants to go to jail for a month it is not always possible for him to get what he desires.

John Brown, bewhiskered and elderly nomad who has visited this district on a number of occasions pleaded guilty to a begging charge in police court this morning and it was intimated that he wanted to be sent to the county bastille for a month.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., however made the sentence fifteen days.

John who is usually loud in his defiant demands for British justice was subdued this morning.

When he told that he was charged with begging he merely remarked "I'm not going to starve."

He told the magistrate that he had tramped here from Stirling to get a pair of rubbers he had left here on a previous visit. "I can go no farther," he said.

"John is not very well and he wants to go to jail for a month," Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer told the court.

ALBERT VILNEFF GEORGE VILNEFF JACK VILNEFF

THREE BROTHERS IN ARMY — Mrs. Joseph Lytle of Havelock has three brothers serving in Canada's Active Army: Albert, George and Jack Vilneff. They are the sons of George Vilneff of Miami, Fla., and were born on a farm north of Marmora. Pte. Albert Vilneff, 22, enlisted with the Lorne Scots in Hamilton in 1941 and went overseas in September of that year. He then transferred to the Saskatchewan Light Infantry and went with that unit to Sicily, where he was wounded. Pte. Vilneff is now in an African hospital. Pte. George Vilneff, 28, of Havelock, joined up in September, 1943, and is with the R.C.A.S.C. at Camp Borden. He was formerly a C.P.R. employee and his wife and four children live in Havelock. Pte. Jack Vilneff, 24, enlisted in Picton in June, 1940, and went to Camp Borden with the H. and P.E. Regiment. In June of 1941 he went to Newfoundland with the R.C.A., but in September of 1943 he again returned to his old regiment and landed overseas in December. Before enlisting he worked on the farm of H. S. Brady of Harold. A fourth brother, Wesley, is in the reserve army at Marmora.

Birthday Bingo Gives Aid To British War Victims

Birthdays to most children are red letter days, and not least among the things they like to mark the occasion with, is a party in which their friends can have a share in the celebrations.

This happens to be Dorothy Godfrey's birthday, and since it was not felt that in these times of stress that a party should be held to mark the occasion, she asked to be allowed to mark the day by holding a bingo games to aid the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, an unselfish thought from which many could take inspiration, since there is no better way to express the joy of living, than to do some good for others in need.

In this effort to help other people, she was joined by her sister Betty Lou, and last Wednesday night the event was held at the family residence, 128 Park Street, which has resulted in the sum of $6.05 being reported in today's list of receipts for the fund in their name.

These young girls have staged efforts on previous occasions for the fund, and from this repeat it is quite evident that they had much satisfaction from these endeavors to assist others, which in itself should bespeak a very happy birthday to Dorothy in the knowledge that it had also been made the occasion helping others in trouble.

Bible Class Repeats.

The Women's Friendly Bible Class of St. John's Church is a group of hard working people, who ever since the war began have kept steadily at work to assist in many ways various efforts that aim at promoting the cause and day of victory.

Since this fund began to operate, they have supported it to the utmost that their funds would allow, many contributions having appeared in the name, another of such being listed in today's receipts amounting to $10 through Miss Ada Jenkinson, treasurer.

One personal donation is listed today as coming from "C.C.," a reminder that this part of the fund's activities has been missing somewhat of recent days, and here's hoping some sympathetic and generous souls who have a real desire to help their fellow citizens in distress, will hasten to make up for lost time by sending in a contribution.

Irish Day Dance.

St. Patrick's Day has been a happy one for the fund, due very much to the management and staff of the Canadian Department Stores ever since the fund began to operate, and in all this group has sent in eleven donations for a total of $743.79, the major portion of which has come from this annual event sponsored to help the fund.

Already they are on the way to what looks might be their greatest single achievement, for tickets have been on sale for a cedar chest full of the most useful articles that any hopeful or aspiring miss would like to have, for some time now.

And now the tickets for the dance itself to be held in the Canadian Legion Hall on March 17 are being asked for, so there promises to be one of the best events they have staged so far.

Music for this gala event will be supplied by Jack Marshall's orchestra, and a number of specialties and novelties suitable to the occasion will be staged under the direction of Marion Perry Laird. Tickets for the draw on the cedar chest and the dance may be procured from any member of the staff at the store itself.

City Begins Cutting Ice Monday

The city shuttles from the wood to the ice business Monday with City Engineer Parsons directing a cutting squad over on the canal in the Curtis neighborhool. This information was reported to the welfare committeee of the council yesterday afternoon by its chairman, Alderman Glover.

The cut will amount to 2,500 tons with the likelihood of an extra 500 tons against the heat of next summer. This harvest will be housed in the Allin storage which the council acquired a few days ago.

$14,000 Budget

The committee recommended to the council an appropriation of $14,000 for its welfare needs this year. This is an increase of $460. over last year, and is caused by the fact that the department has at last exhausted its supply of cheap hardwood, bought three or four years ago and kept on the Park Street lot. It has to be replaced by the wood of recent cutting at the $13. price level, and in continuing to distribute wood to those on the welfare list the committee has to provide for the higher price.

Sold 1,393.5 Cords

A. G. Metheral reported to the committee that of the 2,107¼ cords of wood received by the department in the period from September 21 to February 5, the quantity sold was 1,393.5 cords; leaving on hand 1,441¾ cords.

The Welfare estimates last year totalled $13,360.

Month In Jail Given Youth

Kenneth Hunter, 22, was found guilty in police court Thursday afternoon on a charge of having stolen five tires, tubes and wheels from Major James McGrath and was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to a month's imprisonment in the county jail.

It was stated to the court in behalf of the accused that he had no previous record.

Evidence in the case had been heard during the morning session.

When the hearing was resumed in the afternoon John A. Bradshaw, counsel for the accused, asked for a dismissal on the ground that the evidence of an accomplice, Gerald Sweet, had not been corroborated in any respect.

Magistrate Langley however pointed out that it was possible to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice and in any event he felt that there was some slight corroboration by reason of the fact that Major McGrath's car had been stripped at a place near where Hunter had lived for some time.

Maurice Pelland, 19, formerly of Three Rivers, Que., who had pleaded guilty to a similar charge was sentenced to two months in jail after the magistrate had been handed the accused's record.

Pelland however got a break in regard to two other charges. Owing to a mixup in which evidence concerning one case had been introduced in another a charge against him of theft of the use of a car was withdrawn. In that case Magistrate Langley had intimated that there would be a conviction but the sudden twist resulted in the charge being withdrawn.

Pelland changed his plea of guilty to stealing an automobile from D. A. Wilson to not guilty and that charge was dismissed when it was announced that no evidence would be offered by the crown.

BELIEVES IN ACTION—Louis Yeotes, well known business man, sent a cheque for a hundred dollars to the Kinsmen Club meeting, as a donation to any fund started for the purpose of building an artificial ice arena and community centre in Peterborough. The cheque was handed to Mayor Hamilton, who heads the committee working on this project. The letter from Mr. Yeotes brought thunderous acclaim from the gathering of close to 100 men.

National Park Very Popuar Idea

The Kawartha National Park idea which Senator Duffus held up to the Kinsmen Club Thursday night, its cellophane still unwrapped, would require only the co-operation of the Ontario and Dominion governments.

"I have been working on it for some time, and I consider it better than a possibility. If the Ontario government would acquire the land, and as representatives of the Crown they own thousands of acres all through this district, and turn it over to the Dominion, the National Parks Department would develop it. We have a great acreage that is of no other use than for parks and woods. It is worth 50c or $1. an acre.

A National Park in the Kawarthas would not cost us anything. The Department would build roads through it, dam up streams here and there, lay out paths, make places for summer and winter sports, and generally convert it into a great asset. There might even be new hotels erected.

Our boys and girls did not expect that when they went overseas we were all to stand still. It is up to us to do our full part on the home front, and I am glad to see the Kinsmen pointing the way with this interesting meeting."

Post-War Projects Are Discussed At Civic Forum Held Under Auspices Of Kinsmen Club

"To get the rink you want for Peterborough, you will probably have to spend around $100,000," was the estimate Irvin (Ace) Bailey of Toronto, star of the local senior O. H. A. championship team in 1925 and 1926, at the dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel, last night, at which a numerous company of representation and discussion of local projects, chiefly with a wishful and promoting eye to the post-war future.

The projects were almost plethoric in their general listing, but attention was concentrated on four, the artificial ice arena and recreation centre; civic hospital; airport; and playgrounds, to which Senator Duffus added a new one of his own conceiving, "The Kawartha National Park," and while the major proposals received a well balanced consideration, perhaps a filip of emphasis was directed to the need of an arena, in the midst of a hockeyless winter.

The Kinsmen, with A. H. Lewis presiding, actually conducted a civic forum, last night, and their initiative and enterprise in giving leadership of thought outside the restricted but responsible bounds of the city hall, was warmly commended, particularly by Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Glover and Alderman Dutton.

Mr. Lewis said that the Kinsmen were not unmindful of the present phase of the war, and were maintaining their special activity of "Milk for Britain," but in the meantime the affairs of the community had to be carried on with an increasing concern for the post-war period, and the Club had arranged the dinner meeting in the hope of focusing attention on some of Peterborough's problems and also of being some service in helping to approach them with more general understanding.

Mayor Hamilton, speaking first of the guests, outlined the example given by the Dominion Government through the committees for post-war preparations which had been set up. He also enumerated a list of projects which the city council had tentatively drafted as local works which would be of direct advantage to Peterborough and would also provide work in the time of transition to a peace time basis.

The arena project was discussed by Mr. Bailey and Alderman Glover; the hospital problem by Alderman Dutton, the airport by City Engineer R. H. Parsons and H. L. Garner; playgrounds for children by K. S. Smylie; and Senator Duffus sketched the Kawartha National Park idea for good measure.

Alderman Glover said the dinner guests were doubly indebted to the Kinsmen for the opportunity afforded to them of renewing their pleasant ecquaintance with Irvin Bailey whom he recalled as a salesman with the Peterborough Lock Company when he first came to the city, "was the bright star among other stars on the local Senior O. H. A. championship of that time, and subsequently made a lot of hockey history that has been written in the book.

"I wish to make this statement, and I believe it will be by those who are very in earnest about this rink project, and it is this, that the rink is not going to be built altogether for the purpose of producing a hockey team to win championships but it is to be more of a community enterprise from which will radiate clean entertainment for every citizen, with probably hockey providing leadership and other sports to be brought into being," Alderman Glover said.

From his own experience as an outstanding player on local championship teams, Alderman Glover said that athletics and hockey in particular, were desirable for the boy of adolescent years in building a stronger body, teaching co-operation and team play, discipline and the lesson "that he cannot excel in sports unless he refrains from habits that are not conducive to physical fitness. "Those lessons and experience, if he will but heed them, will be of value to him all the way through life, in his home, in business, in school, in the University, in the factory or in whatever other field of endeavor he may find himself placed."

"For these reasons alone every father and mother should be interested in this rink project, because it helps their sons get a right start in life so far as forming habits of clean living is concerned, and in the development of a strong healthy body."

Mr. Glover said the industries of the city should also be interested because Peterborough was an inland town and sports were an attraction for which the public and especially the men and women who work all day eagerly expect as a diversion. Hockey and skating provided desirable entertainment. In concluding, he congratulated the Kinsmen for their community activities including this latest effort to contribute something helpful to the Peterborough of tomorrow.

Irvin Bailey said he was happy to receive the Kinsmen invitation to come to Peterborough. "This city was the means of my starting on a hockey career. Twenty years ago, on August 1, 1924, I arrived here, and it gave me quite a thrill. Hockey teaches a boy how to look after himself, how to take it, too, and be a gentleman."

Mr. Bailey told the assembly the salient facts in the organization and building of the Maple Leaf Gardens. It was begun in 1931, the year the Leafs bought Lorne Chabot, who was also a guest of Kinsmen. Sun Life took a first mortgage of $750,000; T. Eaton Company a second mortgage for $225,000; and Thompson Brothers, the builders, a third mortgage for $75,000. Further work of completion cost an addition $50,000. The $700,000 stock was sold at $10 a share, with J. P. Bickell head of the company. In thirteen years the indebtedness was wiped out, and the company today own the property, have $150,000 cash, $150,000 in Victory Bonds, paid its full dividend of 3½ per cent in 1935, and since then 7 per cent.

"The reason for this financial success was that the Gardens were run as a business. All its revenues go into its treasury, even the receipts from hot dogs and the programs. The directors have to buy their tickets. The only persons who get free tickets are the players, and they get two each.

"I wish you would get some man in Peterborough like J. B. Bickell to start the ball rolling, and I hope your strong Peterborough industries get in behind it. When the Gardens were built people said the rink was too big. That is what Rollie Glover thought forty years ago when the Brock street rink was built. But, in 1926 we had to transfer our games to Toronto.

"I'd like to see a modern rink in Peterborough; and when you are at it make it comfortable. I'd be glad to do anything I could. From my knowledge of the people of Peterborough I believe you can go out and sell $100,000 stock. The ice surface at St. Catharines is 80 feet by 180 feet. They have a good rink, but it is unheated and uncomfortable."

Lorne Chabot told how the people of Port Arthur built a rink to seat between 4,000 and 4,500 persons, "about the size you need here," with refrigeration for artificial ice. "They use it twelve months in the year. They have a floor for roller skating, convention, meetings of all kinds."

Juvenile Faces Driving Charge

Because Officer Reg. McMillan kept his eyes open while riding on a bus yesterday the mystery of the hit-and-run accident in which a car owned by Bernard Pammett had been damaged on Water street Wednesday night was cleared up.

The officer was riding past the market square in a bus when he spotted a parked car with one broken headlight lens. He got off the bus and inspected the vehicle and arrived at the conclusion that parts of a lens picked up at the scene of the accident belonged to the car on the market square.

When the driver, a fifteen-year-old Smith township boy arrived he was taken to the police station and admitted that it had been the car he was driving that had collided with the parked Pammett machine.

This morning the boy was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in juvenile court with having failed to report the accident and he was fined $25 and $1 costs, the minimum penalty set by the section under which he was charged.

Aged Woman Found Dead In Her Home

Mrs. Charlotte Rose, widow of Robert Rose, and for many years a well-known resident of Peterborough, was found dead in her home at 333 Rogers Street when police investigated a report from neighbors that she had not been seen since last Saturday.

Mrs. Rose lived alone. Her death was due to natural causes, Dr. H. G. Carleton stated.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Rose was Charlotte Lillian Revell, a member of one of Peterborough's prominent families, and for a great many years she took a very prominent part in community activities. She was a member of the 57th Chapter I.O.D.E. since before 1913, and took a very active part in the work of the Chapter especially during the last war.

The remains are resting at the Funeral Parlors of A. Comstock and Sons, where the funeral service will be held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

NOW AT SEA—Stoker 2-C. Gordon K. Patterson, son of Mrs. E. Patterson, 190 Hunter Street West, is now at sea serving aboard a destroyer. He enlisted in 1943, having been employed at the Johnson Motors office. His wife lives at 375 Dobbin Ave.

Of Interest to Women

VERSATILE COTTONS—The fabric is white waffle pique, the flowers huge and natural looking hibiscus flowers and foliage. The model is backless, achieved with a halter neckline; tiny self frills detail the bodice. Cotton is the homemaker's friend, including the fashioning of her wardrobe. Warm soapsuds, plus a gentle hand with the iron, is all it needs for upkeep, and there is no limit on how functional or how dressy models made from it may be. Here is a frock with a social aspect, made of brightly printed, ever-fast color, white pique. It's a dance frock, a hot day afternoon frock, a sunbath frock.—By Prunella Wood.

THE EXPERTS SAY . . .

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

OTTAWA, Dec. 11—(CP)—Here is a deliciously different main dish for either lunch or supper, from the Agriculture Department Consumer Branch. It's good, too, because it packs in plenty of iron and vitamins.

◆ ◆ ◆

CREAM OF LIVER SOUP: Heat 3¾ cups milk in top of double boiler. Blend two tablespoons flour with ¼ cup cold milk. Add gradually to the hot milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Scald ¾ pound of liver for five minutes, then drain and grind. Add ground liver, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, a pinch of sage or thyme and two tablespoons finely chopped onion to the thickened milk. Cook for 20 minutes, over hot water, stirring constantly. If mixture curdles it may be beaten smooth with a rotary beater.

EVER NOTICE that a woodpecker uses his head when he works? Do housewives always use their when shopping? The market basket of Mrs. Shopwise includes official food rules. Mrs. Not-So-Wise can spend just as much money and time—and probably more—without including foods that will provide healthful eating for her family.

Mrs. Shopwise buys fruits and vegetables in season, Nutrition Services says. She balances her menus with all these foods too: milk and cheese, cereal, meats, fish, eggs. She buys these first and then if her budget allows she goes in for a frill or two with extras like condiments, cakes, cookies, mayonnaise.

◆ ◆ ◆

STEADY NERVES are a boon in these trying times and the right foods help give us a calm unflustered manner. The food elements which help build steady nerves are those vitamins which belong to the B family. They are found in whole grain cereals and bread, wheat germ, liver, eggs, beans and peas in smaller amounts in other foods.

◆ ◆ ◆

PARSLEY FOR PEP: That's just what it is, says Nutrition Services since it adds iron and vitamins A and C to our diets. It is also a pepper-upper of tired menus—when it is chopped up in its sophisticated form and not just left as a sprig on the plate. Chop it up fine and float it on the soup... at the last minute, of course, or sprinkle it over the buttered potatoes, on other vegetables and in raw salads.

SWEATER TALK: A matted sweater is a tragedy these days when sweaters are so scare. A quick brush-up on washing rules will have you the needless misfortune of seeing a sweater go into the discard.

First thing is to place your sweater on a sheet of paper and draw its outline. Now, dunk it in lukewarm suds and squeeze gently.. no rubbing or wringing. Rinse at least twice in water of the same temperature and stretch on the paper diagram. (Never hang on a line). If you want to be extra careful put a bathtowel underneath and one on top and weight the sweater down with magazines. Don't wash woollens on a wet day..they'll take forever to dry, and don't dry them on the radiator..they shrink from heat.

Soldiers Thank Auxiliary for Gifts

BETHANY, Feb. 11 (ENS) — The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican church held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Jarvis with 13 members and one guest in attendance.

Mrs. Mason the president opened the meeting with reading from Luke 2nd chapter. Letters for overseas Christmas parcels were read. The letters were from Ray Hayes, James Lemon and Wilfred Saunders.

Mrs. F. W. Reynolds read a chapter from Study Book, the story of our W.A. Several completed articles for the Dorcas society was brought in for the bale, a quilt and knitted articles.

A member of the W.A., Mrs. Clara Armstrong was appointed by nomination to represent on the church council which will meet after at St. Paul's, February 13.

Cut out articles were distributed among the ladies for completion for bazaar work. Mrs. Armstrong invited the ladies to meet at her home for the March meeting when she assumes full charge. Refreshments and a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Jarvis.

Keene S.S. Holds Annual Meeting

KEENE, Feb. 11.—(ENS). — The executive of the Keene United Church Sabbath School met at the home of Mrs. A. Rennie to review the year's work and for the election of officers. The secretary reported a slight decrease in the finances, and also in the attendance, which may be caused by war conditions. During the year instruction was given about the Bible through the graded lesson system; also on temperance and missions. Fifty dollars was raised by the penny-a-Sunday system for the M. and M. fund.

The following officers were elected: Superintendent, W. D. Edwards; assistant, A. Rennie; secretary-treasurer, Harold Kemp; manager of the King's Bank, Blair Thompson; lantern operator, Jack Wright; librarians, W. Patterson and A. Rennie; custodian of papers, Phyllis Adamson; organists, Mrs. A. Fletcher, Ruth McFarlane, Jean Drummond, Dora Drummond and Catherine Wright; supt. of temperance, Mrs. A. Renwick; supt. of missions, Mrs. Elmer Adamson; supt. of cradle roll, Mrs. A. Adamson; supt. of home department, Mrs. A. Fletcher.

Teachers include: Primary, Agnes Nelson, Lois Wright, Lois Humphries, Mrs. R. Drummond and Mrs. A. Adamson; junior, Miss V. Hope and Mrs. A. Adamson; intermediate, Miss M. Miller and Mr. A. Drummond; senior, Mrs. R. McIntyre and Mr. G. Gall; adult, Mrs. Murray and Mr. A. Rennie.

Gore's Landing

The almost complete absence of snow this winter is recalling 56 years ago to the old timers of this vicinity when Rice Lake did not freeze over on account of mild weather. Skating is still good on Rice Lake.

Mrs. Clare Harris entertained the Sunday School of St. George's recently with a party at her home.

Kenneth Herald has been visiting in Tonawanda, N. Y., and Toronto for a few days.

The collegiate students are travelling in a new bus starting Monday morning from Harwood and Gore's Landing to Cobourg.

The Boy Scouts of the village are being re-organized and will meet each Friday evening in the Public Library from 7 to 8 o'clock. John Dear and Claire Harris are to assist Rev. Lloyd Delany in scout activities.

The teachers of St. George's Sunday School are sponsoring a euchre party on Friday evening, February 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris in aid of S. S. funds.

Victor Harris, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Harris has enlisted in the artillery and expects to go to Petawawa. Phillip Pomeroy is also a member of the Engineers.

Miss Lois Ball is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ball in Baltimore.

Home and School Has Anniversary

HAVELOCK, Feb. 11— (ENS) — A 'Founders Day' program was observed by the Home and School Association on Tuesday evening in the High school classroom.

Mrs. Fred Bennett read the Founders Day prayer, and the new Home and School song was sung. A hearty welcome was extended to the visitors and new members. It was announced the program for the March meeting will be put on by the teachers of the Norwood Public and High schools. The pupils of Miss Wing's room sang five songs. Mrs. William Smith read 'Smile Corner,' 'To Live' and 'To the Rescue.'

Health Talk.

The health convener, Mrs. C. Price, discussed 'Diphtheria,' explaining the uses of toxoid and antitoxin and advised the holding of a pre-school age clinic. Candle-lighting service, commemorating the aims and objects of home and schools was held. The white candle of memory was lit by Joan Taylor, the candle in honour of the National Federation by Mrs. James Wilde; in honour of the Ontario Federation by Miss Verna Buchanan, and Mrs. R. W. Goheen lit the gold candle, honouring the seventh birthday of the local association. Following this Mrs. Robert Sayers read a tribute to Mrs. Ada C. Courtice, the founder.

A well presented 'birthday play' was a highlight of the evening, with Mrs. W. Nobes, Mrs. G. M. McGowan, Miss G. Locklin, Miss Rank and Mrs. George Kennedy taking part.

The attendance shield was won by Miss Lucy Wing's room. At the executive meeting which followed, it was decided to hold an amateur night some time directly after Easter, with prizes to be awarded to winners.

Bailieboro Friends Honor Bride-to-be

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 11 (ENS)—Mrs. Douglas Fisher was hostess to about 40 guests in honor of Miss W. Gainer, who is to be married this week, when she was presented with a large pink and white basket of numerous beautiful gifts, for which the bride-to-be very graciously thanked her friends.

The rooms were draped in pink and white streamers caught with white bells. A dainty cafeteria luncheon was served at five o'clock Mrs. Fred Wood and Mrs. Robert Wright poured tea from silver tea services at either end of the lace covered table, which was centred with four tall pink tapers in silver holders.

Presentation

About 70 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs Nelson Guyatt on Saturday evening in honor of their son and his recent bride, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Guyatt.

They were presented with a beautiful mantel clock and a picture painting. Mrs. Douglas Fisher read an address and Grant Alldred made the presentation. Dancing and euchre were enjoyed until twelve o'clock.

Personals

Messrs. Johnson Fair, George Fair and William McCamus of Millbrook spent Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fair.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

SCALDING MILK.

Take a tip from the directions given for preparing a baby's formula, and stir milk while scalding it. If it is not stirred while heating, a coating of milk forms on the bottom and sides of the saucepan, and this contains part of the precious calcium in the milk.

◆ ◆ ◆

TIMELY GIFT.

Wartime costs and restrictions have placed more emphasis on mending and sewing in the home, and a great many women who never tried to sew before have now taken up the needle. A welcome gift to a woman who is sewing for her family, is a sewing box, with a removable slipcover of print or plain colors. It is not only useful, but brightens up her task, and keeps all her sewing articles together.

◆ ◆ ◆

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To keep lace from deteriorating or rotting when storing it for any lenght of time, wrap it in waxed paper.

If cheese becomes stale, wrap it in a cloth steeped in vinegar for a few hours, and it will become fresh and moist once again.

Sponge collars of suits with turpentine to remove face or talcum powder stains.

RING AROUND A FINGER.

Here's a tip for the engaged girl who wants to keep that diamond ring clean and sparkling until the boy comes home, or for any lady who wants to keep her jewels looking lovely. Place the ring carefully in a strainer into a pot of soap suds, to which one tablespoon of ammonia powder has been added. Bring the suds and ammonia to a boil, and then rinse the ring in clear, warm water, and dip in alcohol. The results are really worth the effort

EARRINGS TOO.

The earring is definitely "in" this season, and it looks as if it is going to continue into spring and summer. One of the newest styles introduced on the fashion scene is the earring that follows the outline of the ear from the lobe to the top. This is a trifle extreme, but many novel and pretty styles are being shown which should catch the eye of everyone.

WINDSHIELD WIPER.

Although Peterborough has been lucky this year in regard to cold weather, an unexpetced cold snap often leaves the family auto with a coating of ice on the windshield, which, although looking rather pretty, is not recommended for winter driving. Anti-freeze, if it is made with an alcohol base, is an excellent ice remover. Just dip a rag into the radiator of the car, and then apply it to the ice, taking care, however, to keep the solution off the finish of the car.

◆ ◆ ◆

FASHION FLASH.

Suits are still popular this year, and the dainty, frilly blouse is just the thing a tailored suit needs to make the peak of spring perfection. White starched chiffon, with a deep ruffle or frilly collar looks charming, as does an eyelet embroidered or cushion-dot fabric blouse. Tiny pearl buttons complete the effect. Fancy dickies are also very smart with tailored suits.

◆ ◆ ◆

DUSTING AID.

Even dad's old worn-out shaving brush has a useful role to play in keeping the house tidy. It can be used to dust hard-to-get-at places in ornaments, shelf corners, or to get around permanent fixtures. The bristles of the brush are soft, and make fine dusters, while the brush itself is small enough to handle easily in cramped spaces.

◆ ◆ ◆

TO REMOVE WAX.

Candles always seem to dress up a table, and generally appear when special meals are served. However, acidents occur, and wax may run over on the good table cloth. To remove it, scrape off the surface with a dull knife, to avoid weakening the fabric, and then sponge the stained portion with alcohol.

Hastings News

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnston were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Curle, Mr. Marcus Curle of Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKelvie of Calgary. The latter remaining for a few more days.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilson are entertaining at a Red Cross euchre Friday evening.

Visitors who spent the week-end at the home of Mr. W. T. Northey were Jack Van Vogt, Miss Bernice Pedrick, Gil Northey, and Miss Anna McLaughlin, all of Toronto.

Mrs. Carroll Cooper is spending a few weeks in Apsley.

The ice harvest is in full swing now and is exceptionally good, most of the cutting and loading is being done by machinery. It is expected that the ice cutting operation will be about completed by the end of this week.

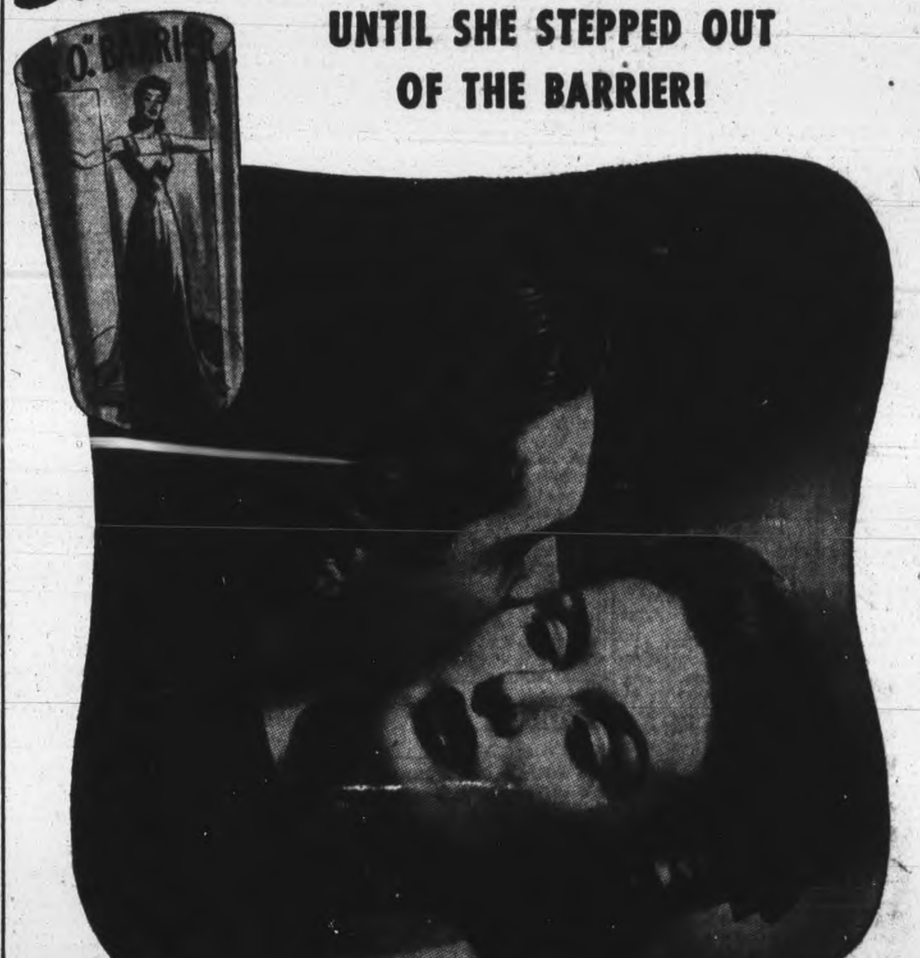
SET FOR SPRING—Beautiful prints worn with woollen jackets lined to match appear in some of the most important of the new collections including that of Foxbrownie. The brilliant Brownie designed this lovely Spring costume, the print a fleur de lys design in green and white, the dress a soft shirtwaist with bow-tied neckline, the green woollen jacket is lined with the printed fabric and the revers are faced with it. The headdress is of white pique tied and knotted in front in best Mammy manner.

IRON-LUNGER BUSY.

GOBOWEN, England —(C P) — Miss Marjorie Wedley, 19, is the "iron lung girl" of this Shropshire village. Taking treatment for a spine disease that threatened to cripple her ,she has lived in the lung since June 1942 and through a five-inch mirror above her head has seen movies, watched tennis, cricket and hockey matches and follows church service every Sunday.

SHE MISSED SO MUCH

UNTIL SHE STEPPED OUT OF THE BARRIER!



Not long ago she was always left out of things. Unknown to her, the invisible barrier of "B.O." cut her off from the friends and good times she longed for.

Today, she is popular, sought after. The answer is simple. She discovered the pleasant safeguard of sensible people everywhere. She bathes daily with the special purifying lather of Lifebuoy soap. Because Lifebuoy is especially made to stop "B.O.", it gives lasting all-over protection. And its clean, invigorating scent vanishes before you're even dressed.

You'll like Lifebuoy's mildness, too. Tests prove that Lifebuoy is actually milder than many so-called beauty soaps.

St. Paul's Choir Entertains Soldier Guests

Members of the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church entertained a number of soldiers from the local Training Centre Thursday evening, who came to the practice, and joined with the members in the music for the Sunday service. A committee, in charge of Miss E. Johnston and Mrs. Bruce Munro, had prepared a program of games, carpetball, darts, and a sing-song, held in the Sunday School hall.

At the conclusion of play, the committee called for a quiz, and four soldiers pitted their wits against four ladies, with Dr. J. D. Smart as quiz master. The boys were the victors, and received as their reward a large pumpkin pie, which they proceeded to eat. The serving of refreshments was followed by a vote of thanks and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Mrs. R. Jones Heads Society

The election of officers for 1944 was held at the regular business meeting of St. David's Welsh Society, Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Bell, 421 Bethune street. The executive is as follows: President, Mrs. R. Jones, vice-president, Mrs. J. Henderson; secretary, Mrs. C. Armstrong; assistant secretary, Mrs. M. Flowers; treasurer, Mrs. G. Pakenham.

Committee conveners are: Sick and visiting, Mrs. A. Bartley and Mrs. G. Reader; music and social, Mrs. E. Pearse, Mrs. W. Davies, Mrs. J. Cairns, Miss M. Flowers, Mrs. J. Edwards; telephone, Mrs. J. Bell; pianist, Miss M. Flowers and Mrs. E. Pearse, Mrs. G. Pakenham conducted the election.

Arrangements were made for the annual St. David's Day banquet, to be held at the Empress Hotel, March 1. The hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be held February 16 at the home of Mrs. G. Pakenham.

A LONG STORY—The long skirted dinner dress with a dash of glitter is a hold-over for Spring, which isn't astonishing since it is ideal for the woman who wants to look smart, distinguished and be noticed. Lovely Annamary Dickey, soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, had this dress made for platform appearances but likes it so much she wears it for parties. A Sophie Gimbel original, it is of pure silk jersey in black with gold and green sequins. There is a separate scarf-like piece that can be used in Bertha effect, twined over the arms or as a headdress.

Life Underwriters Party Held at Kawartha Club

The playing of Bingo, with chickens as prizes, was one of the highlights of the Peterborough Life Underwriters Association Night," held Thursday evening at the Kawartha Club. Approximately seventy members and friends were present, and competition was keen.

Winners were as follows: Mrs. H. C. Harris; Mrs. L. Munden, Mr. Harold Howay, Mr. Dick Drury, Mrs. T. H. Taylor, Mrs. W. E. Austin, Mr. A. Thomas, Mrs. B. B. Lawes, Mrs. C. W. Nicholson.

During dinner, a variety program was presented, beginning with a sing-song led by Mr. Jack Arnott, with Mrs. Quinlan at the piano. Mr. C. W. Nicholson played two of his own piano compositions. After the members had introduced themselves and their guests, the president, Mr. James McCulloch, and the past president, Mr. Harold Howay, sang a duet.

Mr. W. Kinlin proposed the toast to the ladies, and Mrs. Ken Jones responded. The chairman of entertainment, Mr. Marvin White, conducted the draw for the ladies' and men's door prize. Mr. McCulloch presented the ladies' prize to Mrs. H. T. Taylor, and Mr. B. Sargent presented the men's prize to Mr. William Kinlin.

Mrs. W. V. Drury, accompanied by Mrs. Quinlan, sang "Alice Blue Gown," and 'Mother O'Mine," and was presented with a gift by the vice-president, Mr. O. S. Smith. Mr. A. Thomas, master of the art of sleight-of-hand, presented several card tricks. Cards and dancing provided entertainment for the remainder of the evening, and Mrs. C. Edwards won the ladies' card prize.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sackville, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Mather, Mr and Mrs. J. A. McLaren, Miss Graham and Mr. J. E. Lee; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howay, Mr. and Mrs. W. Drury, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCreery, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kendry, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Munden, Mr. and Mrs. Earle O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Excelsior Class Plans Supper

Plans for a hot supper to be held in St. James' Sunday School Wednesday, February 16, were discussed at the regular meeting of the Excelsior Bible Class of St. James' United Church, held at the home of Mrs. W. Mantell, Douglas Ave. Tickets for the supper are on sale for class members, and the dinner will be served at six o'clock.

Miss Lottie Leggett was in charge of the devotional period, and read from the 18th chapter of St. Luke, and also from a book about prayer. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alma Brown, 242 Lansdowne St.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Now that we are to have at least one meatless day in each week (Tuesday), I should like to give a few suggestions about ways to cook fish, a good Canadian product brought from our pure cold lake waters.

Fish contains many necessary mineral salts and vitamins, as well as proteins, which make up the most important single food constituent. Get into the habit of serving fish frequently, not just on the meatless days, but other days as well, and see all the various ways in which it can be served.

Casserole of Fish.

1 cup mushrooms, sliced
½ cup diced celery
1 medium onion (finely chopped)
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons sugar
3 cups flaked cooked salmon
3 cups canned tomatoes

Saute mushrooms, celery and onion in butter until tender. Combine with tapioca and other remaining ingredients in order given. Turn into greased casserole, and bake in oven 425 degrees, for 25 minutes, stirring twice during first 10 minutes of baking. Place unbaked biscuits on top of fish mixture. After it has baked 10 minutes, return to the oven and bake 15 minutes longer.

Maryland Chicken in Casserole.

This is a convenient and delicate way to prepare chicken and will serve seven people nicely.

3 lbs. roasting chicken, 1 egg, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups bread crumbs, 6 slices side bacon, bits of fresh parsley.

Clean chicken and cut in suitable pieces for serving. Beat the egg well, add salt, and cover all parts of the chicken with mixture Then roll each piece in the bread crumbs until the entire surface is well coated, and arrange the pieces in well buttered, deep casserole. Dot with bits of butter, and bake for about 1½ hours in oven at 425 degrees The gravy in the casserole may be thickened with milk and flour. Serve hot tea biscuits, and stuffed tomato salad with this. The stuffing for the tomatoes is made of shredded celery, almond nuts, and boiled dressing.

Baking Powder Coffee Cake.

2 cups of flour
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg (well beaten)
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking opwder
¾ cup of milk
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening and add vanilla, egg, and the milk to make a soft dough. Place in a well greased pan. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixed, and dot with butter. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven at 375 degrees Fahr.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 12

A PROPITIOUS time, according to lunar aspects, to approach those in influential positions, for recognition for work well done, probably under difficult auspices with the idea of promotion, honors or other forms of emolument. Elders, employees and others may be in a mood to recompense and reward, with friendly feelings and interests at all events. It would be well to take a realistic view of the situation and circumstances, but remain unflagging in definite endeavour to reach for proper approbation and suitable rewards. But be worthy to shun future sorrows, regrets or disappointments.

Those whose birthday it is may be inclined to find it to their advantage to work with particular effort to attract the interest and substantial support of those in high places. These with elderly relatives and friends may be unusually inclined to express their kindliness and good will in solid form, possibil to the extent of conferring gifts, trusts or bequests. But work for enduring returns and security for the future, by earnest, serious and concentrated endeavour based on solid grounds. Use finesse and be subtle rather than forward in approach for cherished desires. Remain firm in purpose but reasonable.

A child born on this day should have sound principles and sterling qualities for progress and preferments, attracting the hearty interests of elders and superiors, to the possibility of deeds of trust or inheritance.

Mrs. A. W. Turner Re-elected Regent of 57th

Mrs. A. W. Turner was re-elected regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the annual meeting held Thursday afternoon in the Armouries. Other members of the 1944 executive are: Honorary regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young; first vice-regent, Mrs. G. A. Cutmore; second vice-regent, Mrs. R. E. Clark; treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Haggart; secretary, Mrs. Douglas Miller; educational secretary, Mrs. Max Swanston; standard bearer, Mrs. T. H. Floyd; war convener, Mrs. P. D. Brown; press, Mrs. A. G. Stock; counsellors, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, Mrs. W. G. Hall, Mrs. H. C. Stuart, Mrs. W. E. Conway, Mrs. E. W. Boyer, Mrs. P. Latchford, Mrs. W. E. Franks, Mrs. J. Black, Mrs. A. G. Stock, Mrs. E. Eldred

Reports included dances given at the Y.W.C.A. for men in the services; the visiting committee made one thousand and ten visits during the year; and the Empire study convener gave several interesting talks. The war convener reported that shipments had been made to British and Polish relief, 359 articles had been sent to servicemen, as well as 40 ditty bags and 50 seamen's sweaters.

Social activities and methods of raising money during the year included a bridge party, a rummage and opportunity sale, the annual Remembrance Day tea, a carnival and dance, and the annual carnival. A ship was adopted, and a shipment of games and sport equipment was sent.

Donations from the chapter went to the Camp Library Fund, the Cigarette Fund, the Susie Sarabji memorial wing of St. Helena School, India, Sailors and Minesweepers, Clothing for British Children, and the Corvette Peterborough. A competition prize of $20 was given to the Prince of Wales Rangers. Receipt of a legacy of $500 from the estate of the late Mrs. Duncan Walker was gratefully acknowledged.

Assisting at the Blood Donors' Clinic, at a party for the blind, at the Nicholls Hospital Penny Sale, assisting with tag days, packing Christmas boxes for servicemen and entertaining soldiers in their homes were listed in the activities of the members for the year 1943. The chapter is also subscribed one hundred per cent to the "Echoes."

Plans for the new year include a tariff sale to be held early in May.

Soldiers Thank Army Auxiliary

A number of letters from soldiers overseas have been received by the Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary, and several of these, including one from Col. H. T. E. Hicks-Lyne and Capt. R. T. F. Brain, were read to the regular meeting of the Auxiliary held in the Armories.

The president, Mrs. J. A. Dewart, congratulated Mrs. G. Gahagan, whose two sons, Cpls. Patrick and Michael Gahagan, have been mentioned in press dispatches. Further plans were discussed for the St. Patrick's tea, sponsored by the Auxiliary, to be held March 18 in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

THE 1944 SHIRTMAKER—Rosy red stripes on white crepe is the fabric; the shoulders are easy and slightly padded; the neckline is new; the fullish sleeves are caught into a wrist-fit cuff band. Skirt is straight and narrow, with becoming fullness in front. The changes that designers can ring in on the old familiar shirtmaker is one of the reasons that this comfortable and completely American fashion remains a popular classic. Here we have a 1944 version which has a brand new neckline. Notice how deep and wide the V line is, and how the lapels are cut to accent this new line, rather than to snub it neatly off in plain, mantailored fashion.—By Prunella Wood.

WIFE CURES NAGGING HABIT

If All Husbands Treated Like Star Boarders, Divorces Would Be Fewer, Homes Saved.

DEAR MISS DIX—Please print this letter for other women to read because it tells how I cured myself of nagging. I am married to a good, kind, hard-working man who couldn't have been better than he has been to me and the children, but I badgered the life out of him by my whines and complaints and bossing because I thought I was always right about everything, and the principal thing in marriage was for me to be made happy.

Then suddenly, on day when I was thinking about how disappointing marriage is I got his point of view on the situation, and I began wondering what HE thought about spending his life slaving for a woman who took all he gave her without thanks or appreciation, or making any effort to make him happy, and I marvelled that he had not walked out on me long ago.

From that minute I changed. I now treat him as a guest who can leave if things are not made pleasant for him. I don't order him about, or interfere with his personal liberty. I don't criticize everything he does, and I don't harp on his faults any more. In a word, I have quit nagging, and my husband is a changed man and our household is cheerful and pleasant, instead of being a place of strife.

A REFORMED WIFE.

ANSWER — The one fault that men object to in their wives more than anything else is nagging, and if any woman has found a way to stop wives from doing it, she is the world's greatest benefactor, for she will have done more than anyone else to stop divorce, prevent the wrecking of homes and the half-orphaning of helpless little children.

And the remedy is so simple. It is just to treat the husband as if he were the star boarder, instead of a slave who has been thrown in along with a woman's wedding certificate and whom she didn't have to bother to even treat politely because she owned him body and soul and he couldn't help himself.

But you couldn't treat a guest, who could pack up and leave, that way, especially if he was a paying guest whose board furnished the money on which the house was run, and provided his landlady and her children with a pretty home to live in, good clothes, cars, trips, and all the things that go to make pleasant and comfortable living.

Any woman who had a boarder like that would give him the best room in the house, and she would never dream of making him give it up and go to sleep on the knotty couch in the living room when Mother comes for a nice, long visit. She would feed him on the fat of the land, instead of making him eat the kind of things she liked. She would cater to his tastes and his habits and yes-yes him when he expressed an opinion, instead of contradicting him and arguing with him over every trifle.

She would make him feel that he was a big shot, instead of a moron child who had to be told over and over and over again what to do and how to do it, because he did not have sense enough to think things out for himself. And she would dress up for him and try to make things pleasant for him. She would show appreciation of everything he did, instead of taking all of his kindness and consideration for her for granted.

So maybe, after all, the solution of the whole domestic problem is for wives to treat their husbands as star boarders, instead of just as Jones who pays the freight.

of marriage. I hesitate because my fiance is of the shiftless type. He never thinks of the future. Never saves any money. Spends every dollar as fast as he makes it. In fact, he is always trying to borrow from me.

Do you think our marriage would be a success, or a failure?

WORRIED.

ANSWER—No, such a marriage would be a foreordained failure, because no thrifty wife can abide a husband who is a waster and a spender. Husbands have ar more patience with extravagant wives than wives have with husbands who think that money is something to throw at the birds.

The financial question causes as many hot fights in the family circle as it does in Congress, even when the man brings home his pay envelope and is reasonably prudent about his expenditures, so it is inevitable that there should be a never-ending domestic war in those households in which the husband has holes in his pockets that no wife can sew up.

Perhaps husbands can have worse faults than wastefulness, but certainly they can have none more aggravating, or harder to put up with than to spend the money on foolishness that is needed at home for necessities. And we may well pity the wife who is married to a man who treats the crowd to champagne, instead of paying for the baby's milk, and who buys first editions when he can't pay the rent.

A man who borrows money from a woman, and particularly the money she earned by her own hard labor and self-denial, shows what manner of man he is, and what a poor, weak reed he would be to lean upon. Take the tip Be warned in time. And say NO.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

The last Saturday afternoon curling we had was on January 8, and that is a record as far as week-end bonspiels are concerned—but tomorrow is another day.

So telephone your name in early, the draw will be made at two o'clock sharp. The fee is the same as of old, 25c.

In the evening it is most likely that the ladies will sponsor a mixed bonspiel, the starting hour is 7.30 o'clock.

In all probability we shall have some announcement about the Neill Trophy—maybe by tomorrow night.

We had a long distance phone call, last evening, from our lady curlers who are having a grand time down at the Seigniory Club, Que. They more than held their own yesterday. Mrs. H. Fanning, Miss O. DeGraw and Mrs. G. Wood won their games quite handily, while Mrs. C. Westbrooke and Miss F. Gladman each lost by the narrow margin of three shots.

It will be another double header tonight and after we record the scores of tonight's games we should be able to have a pretty good lineup on the group winners.

Beer To States Re-shipped To Armed Forces

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 — (CP) — The "overwhelming" bulk of beer exported by Canadian brewers to United States last year was for re-shipment to Empire troops throughout the world, Campbell L. Smart of Montreal, president of the Dominion Brewers Association, said today in a statement issued here.

Official figures released yesterday showed that 2,322,108 gallons were shipped across the line in 1943 against 306,613 gallons in 1942 — an increase of 1,961,495 gallons. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1943, a total of 108,980,613 gallons were produced, against 101,081,682 gallons in the previous fiscal year. Of the total brewed, 88,130,000 gallons were available for Canadian consumption through a domestic quota system.

Mr. Smart's statement said:

"The figures releases yesterday from official sources showed an abnormal increase in beer to the United States by Canadian brewers in 1943. The overwhelming bulk of the gallonage shipped to the United States was for re-shipment to Empire troops throughout the world; a negligible quantity remaining in the United States for domestic consumption.

"Canadian brewers are limited in sales inside Canada to 90 per cent of the gallonage sold in the year ended Oct. 31, 1942, according to the ordered issue by the Prime Minister Dec. 16, 1942. This situation leaves Canadian brewers with excess capacity and thus, without in any degree affecting the supply available for home consumption, they are able to send beer to British troops under arrangements completed with the British general staff and the Navy, Army, Air Force Institute—known as NAAFI."

Education Plans For Army Discussed

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP) —First conference of unit education officers of Military District No. 2 will be held in Hart House here next Tuesday to discuss and unify the various educational facilities made available to men and women in the army, it was announced today.

Discussions and debates will cover a wide scope of technical, academic, sociological and military education. Chiefs and representatives of army departments, civilian schools and organizations will speak during the sessions.

During the conference officers of the R.C.N.V.R. and R.C.A.F. will join with the army in special sessions devoted to tri-service problems.

Nazis Try To Trap Pro-Allied Danes

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 — (AP) — German Gestapo agents have been making an effort to ferret out the Danes sympathetic to the Allies by masquerading as "English-trained saboteurs landed by parachute," Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen said in article reported to-day by the United States Office of War Information. The Gestapo agents carried forged papers and English money in an effort to establish their identity, the article said.

Severe Order

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(CP).— The German-controlled Paris radio said last night Joseph Darnand, new secretary-general for the maintenance of order in the Vichy regime, who is back in Paris from Hitler's headquarters, had launched a campaign to crush the French underground before the Allied invasion by ordering all the country's policemen to shoot anyone caught with firearms. The broadcast was recorded here by the British Ministry of Information.

Board Of Education Plans To Open New School In Wartime Housing

Arrangements were made for the opening of the new Parkhill Road Wartime Housing School on March 1, at the Board of Education meeting held Thursday night, when the members found that the building would be completed in a few days.

Inspector K. Wightman reviewed the situation pointing out possible difficulties and some of the benefits, for pupils and teachers at Queen Mary School. Grading of the school yard and the building of a permanent walk will not be completed until spring, he reported, and last year there was a great deal of water in that section which might prove troublesome to small children. The walking problem might be bad, and it also means another teacher.

On the other hand he pointed out that the opening of the school would relieve the congestion at Queen Mary School, and would make it easier on the pupils, although the winter has not been as severe as expected. The school had to be heated a little each day to keep pipes from freezing, he said. The two new classes which will be opened will have 28 Grade 1 pupils; 19 Grade 2 pupils and 20 Kindergarten children.

"Why not take the Grade 1 and 2 pupils to the new school for the rest of the term and leave the kindergarten children at Queen Mary?" Mr. Carley asked.

Wouldn't Work.

"That would certainly solve our problem," Mr. Wightman replied. "But that creates an odd situation. The school was built to make things easier for the smaller children, and they would still have the long trudge. More than that, many of them only get to Queen Mary because elder children bring them. It would also be impossible for one teacher to handle the kindergarten and all the Grade I children, no matter how good she was.

Both Mr. Canning and Mr. Carley agreed that it was best to open the new school and acting on a recommendation by the Inspector, a supply teacher will be employed until the next meeting when her appointment will be confirmed for four months, if she proves satisfactory.

Supply Teachers.

The Collegiate has been handicapped by the illness of two of its women teachers, C. S. Browne, principal, reported. Mrs. R. B. MacDermid, a regular supply, has taken over Miss Marie Hicks, who is expected back in another week. A more serious situation occurred with the removal of Miss M. McIntosh to a hospital with pneumonia.

"She taught up to Grade 12 Latin classes and with the short term, due to the late beginning and the farm help release in the spring, it makes it difficult for the students having to write middle school examinations, to go a month now without a teacher. Since no teacher capable of taking over, could be gotten at the present time, I arranged to have a Toronto supply teacher, well recommended, come at once."

It was moved by H. G. Walker and Mr. Carley that the engagement of Miss Maddington, be ratified for as long as need be.

Few Raises.

The Committee on Appointments after careful study, made the following recommendations about salary increases, which were adopted. The request of the men teachers at the Collegiate has been laid over until the confidential report from the principal of the Collegiate and Vocational School is received.

No action will be taken in raising Miss Barbara Bothwell's salary until she has had one year's service.

It was decided that the maximum salary for the position of Building Supervisor, be $2,400 a year and that Fred Finnie be given an increase of $100 a year commencing January 1, 1944, until the maximum has been reached.

The public school caretakers had their request turned down too for the present, with the stipulation that an evaluation be made of the above janitors' jobs and that their request be reconsidered when that has been completed.

It was recommended that no action be taken in boosting pay of public school principals, but that in drafting the rules and regulations an effort be made to provide a more equal distribution of work.

Provision was also made for accumulative sick leave for employees other than teachers. All full-time salaried employees, who did not come under the teachers plan, will be entitled to 30 calendar days sick leave in any calendar year. Those with five or more years' service to January 1, 1944, are assumed to have accumulated a further credit of 30 days. All employees with less than 5 years' service, will be credited with 1-5 of the 30 calendar days a year, but no employee with less than 5 years' service, will be allowed to use his accumulated sick leave.

Thereafter each employee will be credited with 1-5 of the unused portion of the 30 calendar days for the five years' immediately preceding the current year or for the number of years' service with the Board. This credit may be used in whole or in part, for sick leave in any year, in addition to the thirty calendar days. The date of appointment of any employee shall be considered as of January 1 of the year nearest to the date on which the employee was appointed.

Changes Job.

Miss Margaret Cameron, formerly at Genelco, has succeeded Miss Nancy Lane, who resigned, as office assistant to Inspector Wightman She was appointed to the position on a motion by Mr. Sollitt and Mr. Canning.

Delegates were named to the convention of the Urban School Trustees Association which is being held in May. It was moved by Mr. Reed and Mr. Canning, that Mr. Walker and the secretary-treasurer attend. Mr. Craw and Mr. Huggins, were named by Mr. Sollitt and Mr. Scollard to attend the convention of the School and Ratepayers Association, with other delegates to be named later if desirable.

Mr. Sollitt moved that the resolution made in 1936 discontinuing honorariums to teachers with 20 years or more service, be rescinded, so that the Board could deal with individual cases. This motion passed and Mr. Carley declared that it should never have been on the books.

A motion by Mr. Reed and Mr. Walker carried that Mrs. Elmer Frost be paid the amount of her late husband's salary for January, February and March. The original motion made by Mr. Sollitt that she receive his salary until June, failed to find a seconder.

Post-War Projects

"I don't believe the people in Peterborough realize the work that has been expended by the city council in trying to get an airport for Peterborough," said City Engineer Parsons in prefacing his assignment. "The council has been working for five years on this project. They have been out in all kinds of weather going over sites themselves and with engineers. There is not a road in fifteen miles of Peterborough that we have not driven over trying to locate a suitable site. We went even farther than that, up beyond Reaboro, ideally level area, but I don't think we want to build an airport for Lindsay. I wish to give Mr. Glover credit for the work he put in when this project was started, and to Alderman Bradburn for what he did in the last two years."

Mr. Parsons mentioned the principal sites which the council had considered, one on the flat road in Otonabee, the Doobin farm on No. 28 highway in North Monaghan, a site near Chemong Lake and a fourth four and a half miles north of the city near the No. 7 Highway turn from the Chemong Road. In the beginning it was thought that a property could be obtained suitable for R.C.A.F. training purposes, but nothing came of those efforts but rejections. The last site was considered for a municipal airport.

"With all due respect to expert opinion which has not been favorable to this site, I still think it has possibilities if we don't aim too high."

After enumerating the factors prescribed by airport engineers, Mr. Parsons said the Council and its staff realized what an airport would mean to the future of Peterborough. "We think we have not left any stone unturned to find a suitable site, and we have not given up yet."

H. L. Garner said his remarks would proceed from the period in Mr. Parsons' technical discussion. He quoted Mr. Glover's reference to the inland position of Peterborough, and added "for that reason we need an airport. Since I came here seven years ago one thing that has been impressed on me was that possibly Peterborough has grown beyond what it may have the right to expect. By the energy and foresight of its citizens, Peterborough has prospered in spite of its location. To-day, we can accept Peterborough as it is and get along without an airport, but if we were content to do that we would pay for one in the long run whether we like it or not in industries we would not be likely to get. The first thing that industries are going to ask now is 'Have you an airport?' If you have one you are in, if you haven't you are out. Industries are going to demand that service. When I was speaking to Commander Edwards, Deputy Minister of Transport, a week ago, I said to him: 'We don't want an engineer to tell us why we cannot have an airport; but why we can have one. If we cannot have a port that will accommodate ten-passenger planes, give us one that will accommodate the smaller five-passenger plane. For heaven's sake, please realize that Peterborough is going to have an airport.'"

Mr. Garner said a type of plane like the Stinson Detroiter, carrying five passengers, could land here. Cities along the lake shore were bound to demand plane service, and that should strengthen Peterborough's argument. If the people were going to be inactive, and simply sit back and wait for Ottawa to do something for them, it was altogether likely they would be completely overlooked. "We have got to depend on ourselves, every one of us. May be it is a case of the wheel that does the squeaking getting the grease.

If we got a clearance signal from Ottawa for a field out toward Chemong, we would have to buy the land. The Government clears it of all obstructions, levels it, and says, there it is. Do you want paved runways, ground lights, hangar, and so on? When you have made that decision the Government will go 50-50 or 60-40 with the city. Then it is complete and they tell you: "There it is; now you run it."

The future will be locked up in air service, Mr. Garner said. The novelty and romance has gone out of it. Planes were now regular means of travel "We can go on and be a bigger and better city if we have that service. Let us keep on going to Ottawa, even if we get only conversation. Well get somewhere if we go often enough and work hard enough."

Other Projects.

Alderman Dutton's exposition of and the munificence of Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls in her endowments the background of Nicholls Hospital has been largely published in the Examiner during the last few days, and with the report to the Council of the proposals of its special hospitalization committee, hardly calls for repetition.

Mr. Smylie discussed playgrounds for children as a project in the developing of the citizens of the future that recommended it to a high place in the interest and decision of the community.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DOUBLE SKILL NEEDED

ON MANY bridge hands, there is an opportunity to display real skill in the bidding or the play. When one of these departments involves particular deftness, the other will be more or less cut and dried a good deal of the time. But the gem of a deal, which comes along at rare intervals, gives the all-arounder a capital chance to make use of both divisions of his repertoire.

North: ♠ Q 6 3 ♥ 9 5 4 ♦ 9 6 3 2 ♣ 10 5 2

West: ♠ K 10 8 4 2 ♥ Q J 7 ♦ 10 5 4 ♣ A K

East: ♠ 9 5 ♥ 6 3 2 ♦ 7 ♣ Q J 9 8 7 6 3

South: ♠ A J 7 ♥ A K 10 8 ♦ A K Q J 8 ♣ 4

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	Dbl	Pass
2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	4 ♣	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	5 ♦

South took a slight chance by bidding only 1-Diamond with that polthogue, but he knew West as a worthy who would bid on almost nothing when not vulnerable if his partner had passed as dealer, considering that good defensive bidding. After that South had no worries about North passing him out. The reverse bid of 2-Hearts after the earlier 1-Diamond should hardly ever be passed. Surely the 4-Clubs call of the hostile suit made his strength clear to North, who showed his preference, and South then of course bid the game in diamonds.

West scored his club A and then led the K, which South ruffed with the A. Three diamonds disposed of the trumps, then two top hearts were scored. When South led the heart 10 then, it was with the hope that the suit had been divided in the opponents' hands, with West as the winner of that trick.

It broke just that way. Having no more hearts, clubs or diamonds, West had to lead back a spade. He used his 4 to the 9 and J. The set-up heart 8 furnished a discard for the dummy's spade 6, the spade A was taken in and the 7 ruffed. The club 10, ruffed by the diamond 8, was the last trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ K 6 ♥ Q 9 8 2 ♦ J 10 7 5 3 ♣ 9 6

West: ♠ J 9 7 3 2 ♥ 5 ♦ 8 4 ♣ J 8 7 3 2

East: ♠ A Q 10 8 5 4 ♥ 10 ♦ 6 ♣ A Q 10 5 4

South: ♠ None ♥ A K J 7 6 4 3 ♦ A K Q 9 2 ♣ K

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is South's best try for the extra trick in a 6-Hearts contract on this deal if West leads the spade 3 to the Q?

Labor Protests New Wage Control Order

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 (CP) —A delegation of 100 members of three Labor unions today started a series of interviews with members of Parliament to protest the government's new wage-control order and seek assurance that Labor's rights will be protected in a proposed labor code providing for compulsory collective bargaining.

Members of the delegation came from nearly all Ontario industrial centres and represented the United Electrical Workers, United Auto Workers and Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers, all affiliated with the Canadian Congress of labor.

Senior Labor officials were C. S. Jackson of Toronto, U.E.W. Canadian vice-president; Robert Stacey, Brantford, U.A.W.A. international representative, and William Edmiston, Toronto, G.C.C.W. Canadian vice-president.

The delegation planned to interview all members of parliament to discuss Labor matters and present them with a brief prepared by the U.E.W. and endorsed by the other two unions.

Tonight, the delegation will hold a meeting to which a number of members of parliament will be invited, and tomorrow they will form part of a Canadian Congress of Labor group which will present a lengthy brief to the cabinet.

Protesting at the wage control order, the U.E.W. brief handed to members of parliament today said the order would lead to establishment of "a set of conditions which would virtually force labor to take action in its own defence which would border on civil strife."

The union said labor and farmers had been given only "token" representation on government bodies established during the war period and such a policy would have to be changed to attain a stable peace.

The union said reports indicated the code proposed by the government to introduce collective bargaining and arbitration woul be antagonistic to the rights of labor.

"From these sources (rumors and reports in industrial publications) it becomes quite clear that our prime minister, in the matter of labor relations, has stood still for 25 long years, that he has not departed from his position since 1918, when he was the outstanding exponent of company unionism on the American continent," the brief said.

"We are informed that the proposed collective bargaining bill contains full recognition of so-called independent unions, which are in virtual fact, management-dominated company unions."

The union said the wage control order, tightening restrictions on wage increases, was predicated on the assumption that Canadian workers were in receipt of high wages which was a false assumption.

Complaint was also made of failure to take labor into confidence in plant lay-offs.

13,000 Prisoners

LONDON, Feb. 11 — (CP-Aneta). — The number of Netherlands political prisoners in German hands was estimated yesterday by a commentator broadcasting over Radio Orange, Free Netherlands station here, at between 12,000 and 13,000. In addition to these, he said, there were "many thousands" who had been secretly killed by the enemy and "about whose death their families were informed only through receiving their ashes."

Woman Dies Refused Doctor

BRAMPTON, Ont., Feb. 11 — (CP).—A coroner's jury decided here last night that Mrs. George MacLaren who had never been out of her house in 14 years, died of bronchial pneumonia aggravated by malnutrition.

"A contributing factor in her death was her obstinancy in refusing medical attention over a long period of time, and her husband's failure to obtain same," the jury said.

After being refused admission to examine the woman, Dr. W. W. Bartlett, Medical Officer of Health, said he had been advised by provincial authorities there was no law to force a person to accept medical attention.

MacLaren finally allowed Dr. Bartlett to enter the house when he was warned by Mayor William Bates that police would force an entrance, if necessary. Mrs. MacLaren refused to enter a hospital, Dr. Bartlett said.

Smith To Spend $11,000 On Roads

The Council of the Township of Smith met at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday. All members present with Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl presiding.

The Reeve and Clerk were authorized to sign and submit to the Department of Highways the petition of the township showing that during 1943 there had been expended on roads a total of $10,073.84 and requesting the usual subsidy grant on this amount.

The total 1943 road expenditure was slightly in excess of $10,000.00, but due to the large amount spent on snow removal and also the increased cost of labor, the gravel placed on the roads was much below that required to properly maintain the roads. It was decided during 1944 to spend $11,000.00 on maintenance and repair and a Bylaw providing for this expenditure was passed and forwarded to the Department for approval.

Auditors H. D. Coons and H. W. Beavis presented their auditors' report for the year 1943, which showed the township in strong financial position. The current balance sheet as at December 31st, 1943, shows:—Assets — Bank Balance $3,234.17; Taxes receivable $8,910.94; Lots acquired at Tax Sales $107.03; Accounts receivable $6,350.86; Total, $18,603.00.

Liabilities—Accounts payable $4,511.29; Excess of assets over liabilities $14,091.71; Total $18,603.00.

Among other recommendations the auditors suggested that a serious attempt be made to collect arrears of taxes, even if drastic means had to be adopted, to the end that the rolls be returned at an earlier date. The auditors being of the opinion that taxpayers were delinquent, not so much from being unable to pay, as from carelessness.

On motion the report was received and 125 copies ordered printed for distribution.

The treasurer was instructed to issue cheques to cover the following accounts:—Road accounts, $507.35; County registrar, search $1.25; Township of Westminister, relief, $5.28; Assessing Association, membership fee $10.00; C. Chapman, rebate of dog tax $2.00; A. Edmison, Old Age Pension fees $4.00; Lakefield Cemetery Co. $18.00; H. D. Coons, auditor's fee $25.00; H. W. Beavis, auditor's fee $25.00; Good Roads Association, membership fee $5.00; Municipal World, dog tags $12.36.

Miracle Operation Saves 12-Year-Old Boy Born Partial Siamese Twin, Now Normal

WINNIPEG, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Through an operation described as a "miracle of modern medicine and science," 12-year-old Ernie Deport, of Winnipeg, a partial Siamese twin, has become a normal, healthy and spirited school boy, the Winnipeg Tribune says in a copyright story published today.

Born with two extra arms, two extra legs, an extra liver and two extra kidneys, but only a single head and one heart, Ernie was taken by his mother last October to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., where the delicate operation was successfully performed.

When the bandages were removed six weeks later, Ernie was a normal boy, except that he appears to have the intelligence of a youth of 18 or 19, the Tribune says. Today he is well up in his classes and participates in all the athletics of his grade.

Peterboro Does Best Job Getting Records

Peterborough's contribution of 7,500 gramaphone disks in the used records drive throughout Ontario some months ago was another accomplishment to the credit of local community spirit and effort.

Jacob Low, chairman of the committee in charge of the Peterborough city and county used records appeal and collection, showed the Examiner a report from E. L. Moore of Toronto, which indicates the extent of the comparative success of the response from this area.

"No other communities of similar size are able to show anything like the results which you have told me, with the exception of Kitchener," Mr. Moore wrote. "They have forwarded 2,900 records. Timmins made a contribution of 3,500; Chatham have forwarded 1,600; Clinton 675; Simcoe 900; Little Current 800. This will give you an idea of the smaller quantities, but in the aggregate they make up a very substantial contribution.

Toronto's contribution so far is over 20,000, but it has been planned to have the records come in steadily rather than in quantities which would make it impossible to handle. Hamilton found it impossible to organize a drive, and in place of records they have forwarded a donation of cash from some of the Service Clubs, because they felt the number of records which they would be able to get would not justify the amount of work involved in the collection.

Could Improve

The list of places from which we have received records is not extensive, and the over-all picture is one which could have been better, but the effects of the campaign are still noticeable and records are still being received."

Mr. Low explained that the contributed records are immediately tested at headquarters, and those in good reproducing condition are sent at once to Army, Navy and Air Force camps. The others are broken up for shellac salvage, and the money from that source is used for the purchase of new records.

"Our balance with RCA Victor," Mr. Moore wrote, "is $400, and we have forwarded records to many of the barracks in Ontario, both Army and R.C.A.F. Many of the ships, both Merchant Marine and Royal Canadian Navy, have received records from us for use of the men while at sea. We have had many letters of thanks from the officers of these camps and barracks, and therefore we feel that the whole effort has been well worth while."

Mr. Low said the Peterborough records were kept at the Fire Hall and were counted and packed there in containers donated by Martin-Hewitt Company. The drive was promoted by the Service Clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Lions, Y's Men's, B'Nai B'rith Lodge, Business Men's Association, and the Women's Voluntary Service, and was greatly assisted by the school children of the city and county.

"The committee wishes to thank all those who helped in this success, another Peterborough achievement," Mr. Low said, "and especially the teachers of all the schools of the city and county, the School Inspectors and the pupils, Chief Gimblett and the men of the Fire Department, Martin-Hewitt Company, L. Anthony and Sons for free cartage. The disks were carried by the C.N.R. without any charge.

The committee would like the children of the schools to know that, according to our information, their work has not been equalled in Ontario except in Toronto, which was to be expected of such a large city. The committee hopes that the children will be told that their effort will help to a great extent in providing music for men of the fighting services who would no doubt like to thank them all, if it were possible."

Both the railways carried records free, but it happened in Peterborough that this assistance was accepted from the C.N.R.

Nazis Massacre All Jews In Pinsk

LONDON, Feb. 11 — (C P) — The Polish Telegraph Agency said to-day that the entire Jewish population of Pinsk and its surrounding towns and villages have been massacred by the Germans.

Pinsk, a manufacturing town in Eastern Poland, had a peacetime population of 32,000, the majority of which was Jews.

The news agency of the Polish Government in London said the massacre was carried out by the special Nazi annihilation squad assigned to exterminate Jews.

Navy's Big Guns Aid Allies Repulse German Assaults

REINFORCEMENTS FOR FIFTH ARMY —British infantry move up to the front lines to bolster the Fifth Army front in Italy against heavy Nazi attacks.

Reds Destroy Relief Planes

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 12—(AP).—The Russian Army is fighting at the approaches to Korsum, last big centre of resistance by encircled German divisions in the Upper Dnieper Bend, and "operations for their extermination are coming to their logical conclusion," Red Star, the Russian Army newspaper, said today.

The dispatch reported wild confusion within separate groups of Nazis isolated from the main body of the trapped enemy as the Red Army drove its spearheads into their wavering ranks despite clinging mud and lack of roads.

An attempt by 11 Junker transport planes to reach the encircled Germans was frustrated when Soviet artillery dominating the area blew the planes to pieces when they landed in an open field within the Cherkasy death ring.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's 1st Ukrainian army to-day was consolidated along a 220 mile line stretching from southwest of Luck (Lutsk) to a point north of Uman with the important rail hub of Shepetovka, captured yesterday, in the centre.

Aim at Railway.

A branch of the Kiev-Warsaw trunk railway runs from Luck through Rowne (Rovno), Shepetovka and Berdichev to Kazatin and Progrebische. Soviet engineers are known to have repaired most of the southern section of this line and by quick attention to the sections around Shepetovka should have this main communications artery operating within a short time.

From almost any place along this line, it was pointed out, Gen. Vatutin is in a position to launch a drive for the Odessa-Warsaw trunk railway, last supply line between Warsaw, and the remnants of the German armies in Dnieper river area, which is about 50 miles to the south.

Four cities along the Odessa-Warsaw line lie within striking dstance of the Soviet's forward wall—Lwow, Close Toluck and Rowne, Tarnopol and Proskurov not far from Shepetovka, and Zhmerinka.

Bag 25 Planes

Ten more towns were captured by the Russians squeezing the trapped Germans in the Cherkasy Circle, the Moscow war bulletin said. Red air force pilots shot down 25 more German planes attempting to take supplies to the encircled troops. German ground forces, launching counter-attacks against the Red Army's steel cordon west of Zvenigorodka, were repulsed, losing 70 tanks and guns.

The exhausted Germans were surrendering in batches, the communique reported. Towns stormed by the Red Army troops included Tagan-

Finnish People Seek Peace Children Being Evacuated

By ROBERT STURDEVANT—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 12—(AP).—Renewed discussions of the possibility of peace rose in Finland today and sections of the Finnish press warned citizens to keep cool and wait to see what steps the government was preparing.

The Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau, a German-controlled news agency, reported 18 trains were leaving Helsinki daily carrying evacuees to summer holiday towns outside the city following the heavy Russian bombing of the capital on Sunday night and a second heavy attack on Kotka, 70 miles to the east, Thursday night.

A strong feeling ran through this neutral capital, even among Finns, that responsible men in Finland, both in and out of the government, are aware that the time is growing short for Finland to quit the war. There were additional hints that important steps in the direction of peace were imminent.

Several strong rumors having a direct bearing on Russian-Finnish relations are current, but none has been confirmed.

Foremost among these was a suggestion that Finance Minister Vaino Tanner, a former Vatican minister, may quit the government in line with an earlier declaration that this would be his course in the event his continuance in office jeopardized his country's chances of getting peace with Russia.

(The BBC said today that President Risto Ryti had met with the Finnish cabinet for the fourth time in as many days to consider the United States warning to withdraw from the war. The broadcast in French was directed to Europe and recorded by U. S. government monitors.)

Earlier dispatches from Helsinki said an important political party and a workers' newspaper have suggested that the Finnish Government immediately seek to learn Russian peace terms.

Roads Are Heavy Across Ontario

By The Canadian Press.

Highway gangs throughout Ontario were hard at work to-day clearing roads of snow that fell in a volume of two to six inches during the last 24 hours — with the west-central part of the province hardest hit by the storm which the meteorological officials say will abate by to-morrow.

While reports from North Bay said there had been no snow recently, indicating the storm missed the northern part of the province, travellers in the districts of Peterborough, Belleville, Toronto, Hamilton, and deep into Western Ontario were having the toughest going of the year.

While temperatures mainly stayed several degrees above zero, the country roads were blocked through most of Western Ontario and buses and trains generally were having trouble staying on schedule. Reports from Guelph, Sarnia, Stratford, Woodstock, and Galt agreed that going on all roads and streets was heavy, but that there were few instances of complete impassability. Some buses were stuck in Welland early to-day, but later resumed their regular schedules.

Mitchell Stalls Fraser Question

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 — (CP). — Labor Minister Mitchell said yesterday in the Commons he would have to obtain consent of the provinces before tabling correspondence between them and the Federal Government in connection with the drafting of a labor code for Canada.

He spoke on a motion of G. K. Fraser (P.C.-Peterborough West) asking for production of the documents.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, said he was under the impression that permission need only be sought when the correspondence was exchanged with a foreign government.

McNaughton Unable To Carry On

Canada's War Bill Shows Drop For Current Year

By JAMES McCOOK,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 —(CP) — Defence Minister Ralston said in the House of Commons yesterday that Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton was granted leave of absence and relieved of his Canadian army command overseas after army doctors had reported he should be freed of military responsibility for an extended period and the General himself had declared his physical inability to carry on and asked to be relieved.

The Minister's statement, in response to questions from opposition members, came as the House was launched on the $3,650,000,000 war appropriation debate, expected to be the longest single discussion of the session.

Finance Minister Ilsley gave the House a breakdown of the $3,650,000,000 on war funds sought for 1944-45—$240,000,000 less than the corresponding vote last year.

With the addition of non-war estimates, tabled yesterday by the Minister, Canada 1944-45 bill stands at $4,352,369,059 compared with $4.500,880,494 last year. These totals do not include any allowance for any mutual-aid allotment which however, is expected to be less in 1944-45 than the $1,000,000,000 voted in 1943-44.

Mr. Ilsley said no war effort could be called too big and that Canadian sacrifices, apart from those of persons bereaved by war, could not be compared with those of Britain, Russia and conquered countries.

Col. Ralston described his recent visit to Italy and his pride in the achievements of Canadian troops in the Mediterranean.

He said there had been "misrepresentation" about disbandment of the 7th and 8th Divisions in Canada. They had been formed, he said, at a time when Japan was a threat to the west coast and were disbanded after the Aleutians had been cleared by United States and Canadian forces.

Their disbandment had permitted more fit men to go overseas. Only in "exceptional circumstances" were

Russians Ready To Hit Finnish Ports To Sever Communications With Germany

MOSCOW, Feb. 12 — (AP). — The Russians were ready to-day to strike concerted blows against every major Finnish port on the Gulf of Finland in the wake of the powerful assault by large formations of their planes against the port town of Kotka Thursday night.

There was every indication today that the raids aimed at cutting off the Finns' communications with Germany will continue.

With Leningrad liberated and the southern shore of the Finnish gulf in Russian hands, it is less than an hour's round trip to many of the important ports of Finland.

The Russians announced earlier to-day the Kotka raid damaged a cellulose works and military installations and fires were observed near the telegraph station and navy defence offices. The bulletin said four Russian planes were lost.

New Laws Kill Prospecting No Big Strikes In 20 Years

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Feb. 12—(CP).—A return to the days when prospecting was a flourishing business in Ontario because of "pick and shovel" prospectors staked by doctors or lawyers or even miners "who would throw a few dollars into the pot on a gamble," was urged today in a brief presented to the Ontario Mining Commission by W. J. Cook of Kirkland Lake, who said he has been associated with the mining industry since 1908.

The commission, which opened hearings here today after a two-day sitting in Timmins, also heard Cook recommend that commission members obtain interviews with prospectors in an effort to find a solution for the decline of prospecting in Ontario.

No new mine of economic importance has been discovered in the province for 20 years, said Cook, and unless ways are found of making prospecting attractive to young men, mining in Canada within another generation "will take its place among industries such as those making flint arrowheads."

Popular View.

"Every thinking person connected with the mining industry, views with misgiving the course we have (steered), and are continuing to steer," Cook told the commision, which will sit here Monday and at Haileybury Tuesday to continue its inquiry into problems of northern mining municipalities.

The reason for the decline of prospecting could be summed up briefly: "There's no money in it." Since 1929, when mining flotations could be financed by the public without reference to a securities commission," a "cumbersome set of legislation" had been devised which he said punished the entire mining industry, except for those mines which were on a paying basis.

He said the excuse for this legislation was that the public must be protected against the "wicked practice" of gambling in mining prospects.

Senators Oppose New Oil Deal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—British an United States representatives are scheduled to meet here for a round-table discussion to "work out a compact designed to encourage the efficient development, conservation, and equitable distribution of the world's petroleum resources," it was announced yesterday.

Acting Secretary of State Edward Stettinius said the discussions would centre on the Near East, where the United States has just made a pipeline for perhaps 20,000,000,000 barrels of untapped Persian Gulf crude oil.

The date and details of the Washington conference still are a state department secret.

Foreign Scretary Eden has had to answer many questions in the House of Commons since Britons heard the United States planned to construct a 1,250-mile pipeline at a maximum cost of $165,000,000 to siphon oil from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to Mediterranean shipside.

The announcement also aroused opposition to the plan in Congress. Senator E. H. Moore (Repr.-Okla.) said it threatened international complications that would be the "breeding places of future wars," contended Oil Administrator Harold Ickes had no authority for the project, which he said amounted to an international treaty requiring Senate sanction.

The proposed pipeline— approved by Saudi Arabia and Kuwait rulers, eager for oil royalties— leads into reserves about equal to all Britain is believed to have amassed in Iran and Iraq.

Remaining unattached Asia minor deposits are estimated at 40,000,000,000 barrels, twice the known oil reserves in the United States.

President Roosevelt said at a press conference yesterday, United States will need outside oil if the war lingers on and eventually, anyway, if she keeps depleting her reserves four times faster than discoveries are made.

The present record rate of depletion is 1,500,000,000 barrels a year. Some say there is only a 15-year supply left.

Polish Government Irks Russians

By JUDSON O'QUINN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Feb. 12 —(AP) —Russia fired a new verbal blast at the Polish Government in London today, again suggesting a firm intention to force the ouster of alleged anti-Russian elements or set up an adiministration chosen from the union of Polish patriots in Moscow.

"The Polish Emigree Government having Fascist politicians in its makeup has lost all sense of reality and is living in the phantom world of a Hitlerite mirage," said a Pravda article broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor.

"It has completely cut itself off from the real Polish people who are waging a bitter struggle against the German invaders and their Polish accomplices. The London Polish politicians are backed by no one in Poland except pro-Fascist agents who are helping the Germans."

This new Soviet attack, on the top of reports that Premier Stalin's reply to Prime Minister Churchill objected to certain members of the Polish Government suggested the Polish-Soviet breach is widening rather than narrowing.

Americans Gain At Cassino And Suburban Hills Rain, Snow Hampers Flying

Cruisers Mauritius And Dido Active Working Close Inshore Prolonged Grim Battle Expected

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 12—(AP). — Allied naval units, including two British cruisers, thundered into action to help repulse a new German assault on the storm-swept invasion bridgehead below Rome, and a headquarters officer said today despite Nazi pressure the front lines there have "remained relatively unchanged during the past few days."

On the main 5th Army front, American forces made new gains in bitter struggles within Cassino, and in the hills to the west drove within a mile of the Via Casilina, the Germans' only corridor into the town.

Rain, snow, sleet and gales prevented Allied air blows against the invasion bridgehead, leaving them free to move up troops and supplies, harried only by naval and land artillery bombardment.

The single Nazi attack yesterday was flung unsuccessfully against American troops in the area west of Cisterna, headquarters said, where hard fighting continues.

Naval units including the British cruisers Mauritius of 8,000 tons and Dido of 5,400 tons moved closer inshore to shell the left flank of the Germans as they attacked.

(CBS correspondent John Daly said this morning that "after four anxious days, the core of the Allied beachhead below Rome remains secure.")

(A German communique broadcast by Berlin said Nazi artillery broke up heavy Allied tank attacks against "new German lines near Aprilia, knocking out 17 tanks.)

Capture Jail

The gains by Allied troops in the bitter fighing in Cassino included the jail in which the Germans had converted into one of their main fortresses, continuing to hold out in its basement even after Allied artillery and tanks had levelled the structure to the ground. The Germans are resisting there no longer.

The Allied units also knocked out a number of strong points in the northern part of the town. Their push in the hills to the west threatened to chokeoff the Nazi supply route into Cassino.

Fighting in the mountains around Cassino was impeded by heavy snowfall, but more artillery was brought up to back up the Allied infantry.

Three thousand Germans have been captured on the beachhead and on the main front in the last week, for a total of 13,000 Nazis taken since the invasion of Italy began last September, Headquarters announced. That is the equivalent of about one division. The enemy also has suffered heavy tolls of dead and wounded.

In the Garigliano sector west of Cassino the Germans put in a determined local attack against the British near Mount Ortino, three miles northeast of Castelforte. On the 8th Army front two enemy patrols were driven back in the Orsogna area.

Bad weather retarded shipping operations, but movements of reinforcements and supplies to the invasion beachhead continued, a long period of good weather after the first landings enabled the Allies to build up adeqtuate supply bases there with a comfortable margin, it was stated.

Attacks Slacken

The fact that no German attacks of great intensity or extent were launched on the beachhead yesterday may have resulted from the terrific air blows on the previous morn-

37 Hun Planes Downed Over Europe

LONDON, Feb. 12—(CP)—R.A.F. Mosquito bombers attacked objectives in central and western Germany overnight without loss the Air Ministry announced today, and other Allied formations headed out this morning toward France.

The Air Ministry communique did not name the objectives hit by the night-flying Mosquitoes.

The first of today's daylight formations went in the direction of Boulogne fol[illegible] shortly by others heading to[illegible] the Pas-de-Calais invasion coast area. Both bombers and fighters were included.

The new blows followed on the heels of strong blows yesterday by United States heavy bombers against Frankfurt and the invasion coast.

Thirty-seven Nazi planes were downed yesterday during operations in which American fighters made the greatest number of sorties ever flown from British bases. Five U.S. bombers and 15 fighters, one of them British, were lost.

Thirty-two of the German planes destroyed were knocked down by American fighters, two were downed by Norwegian pilots in supporting sweeps and the other three were bagged by gunners in U.S. heavy bombers. In the last six major daylight operations American escort planes have accounted for 130 of the 177 German planes destroyed.

American Subs Torpedo 12 More

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 —(AP)—Destruction of 12 more Japanese vessels by American submarines was announced yesterday by Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

The sinkings bring to 584 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by submaries since the United States entered the war. Included were three transports, two large tankers, six freighters and a large auxiliary ship. All were sent to the bottom in Pacific and Far East waters.

The sinkings cut still farther into the Japanese supply lines which have been trying to keep materials moving to enemy garrisons in the Pacific.

Knox reported that in many instances Japanese garrisons left on scattered islands are 'dying of starvation." He specifically referred to islands in the Marshall Group in the mid-Pacific where American occupation of Kwajalein has cut off several other enemy bases in the group, and to Bougainville, saying that "little food grows on those islands and they have to supply them."

Hitler Needs Victory To Boost Morale

Italian Win Would Distract Germans From Russian Debacle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One of the several pressing reasons why Hitler is risking everything to win a sensational victory at the Anzio-Mettuno bridgehead below Rome—and he has created a very serious situation for the Allies—is to distract the attention of his people and waverng allies from his own dire straits on the Russian front.

As the signs now read he cannot be far from a general withdrawal of the whole vast Nazi force. This was some 1,200 miles long in its more prosperous days, but the Red armies have driven it so full of salients that it now totals over 2,000 serpentine miles—an unwieldy and highly vulnerable battle line. The wonder is—and this is a tribute to German generalship—that the Nazi haven't been stampeded long before this.

The present three great Russian offensives against this line—north, centre and south — are acting as mighty levers that are detaching the Germans from strategic anchors without which the front line cannot continue to hold. The northern two-thirds of it will have to pull back to positions running from the vicinity of Riga, Latvia, southward through Brest Litovsk, in pre-war Poland, to the Carpathians.

Meanwhile Marshal VonMannstein's forces on the extreme southern wing, which have been clinging so stubbornly to the Dnieper Bend death-trap, are in the astonishing position of having been swung around until they are facing north by northeast and project dangerously eastward from the rest of the line. This has been brought about by the Red drive from Kiev westward into Poland.

Fears Upheaval.

Thus Mannstein's Dnieper Bend troops have their backs towards the Bessarabian border, and whatever forces he is able to save from annihilation will have to retreat to the Dniester river, which forms this border, unless there is a sharp change in the present position. That's the crisis which Hitler has been trying to avoid— being driven up against this Bessarabian gateway to the Balkans. He's terrifed that such a retreat will precipitate an upheaval among his Balkan satellites —a fear fully justified by their present state of unrest and revolt.

There is one peculiar development which might work to Hitler's advantage and enable him to delay his general withdrawal. This is the phenomenal arrival of spring and its mud already in parts of the Russian front— something which, according to the experts, hasn't happened before in generations.

Flying Training Costs Cut

War Estimates Show Fluctuations

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP) — The $3,650,000,000 war estimates for 1944-45 introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Finance Minister Ilsley, down $240,000,000 from the current fiscal year, indicate general cuts in the home-war establishment, increase in battlefront expenditure, existence of a substantial surplus of munitions and a gathering strength of manpower.

Hansard, official record of debates, today published a lengthy breakdown of the appropriation by departments—figures placed on the record by Mr. Ilsley but not read in the House.

In the R.C.A.F., figures for the cost of flying training contracts are cut from $33,805,829 to $29,345,667, but maintenance of overseas squadrons is up from $303,763,729 to $345,-684,964.

In the Navy, capital expenditure—including construction — is down from $36,579,608 to $17,990,462 while ships in larger numbers and in action further from Canadian shores are expected to use $27,306,604 worth of fuel compared with $25,257,798 in 1943-44.

U.S. Convention To Be Short

Majority Expect Roosevelt To Get Bid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP).—A prospective four-day limit for the Democratic National Convention was interpreted to-day by Republicans and some Democrats as a significant indication that leaders expect President Roosevelt to be nominated for a fourth term.

Because most conventions run longer, an announcement by Chairman Robert E. Hannegan that the Democrats would meet in Chicago Wednesday, July 19, and probably would wind up that week, was seized upon by the Republicans as discounting any time-consuming contest for any Presidential nomination.

Senator Chan Gurney (Rep.-S. D.) said he thought the Hannegan announcement made it clear the President was "giving his party due notice of his intentions now." And Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.-N.D.) asked: "Is there any reason why they shouldn't finish it in one day?"

But Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky told reporters he couldnt read any special significance into a short meeting.

"The war's on and we want to do a good job quickly," he said.

Mrs. W. Gilman Chairman Of Library Board

Bickell Refused To Accept Labor Director In Company

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP).—An exchange of correspondence preceding the resignation of J. P. Bickell and his board of directors of Victory Aircraft, a Crown company, over a Government request for inclusion of a labor director was tabled in the Commons Friday by Munitions Minister Howe.

A new board of directors under President V. W. Scully and including a labor director, has since taken over.

In another return Mr. Howe described Victory Aircraft production as "satisfactory" after Mr. Bickell became president.

In a letter dated September 29, 1943, Mr. Howe asked Mr. Bickell to consider the appointment of a labor representative on Victory Aircraft board of directors in accordance with Crown-company policy.

Replying October 21, Mr. Bickell said he had accepted his job on the understanding he choose his own directorate and concluded that

Bracken Raps New Wage Order

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 12—(CP) —Sharply criticizing the new Government wage-control order, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative National Leader, last night proposed a conference of Dominion and Provincial authorities on labor questions and asked for establishment of a National Labor Relations Board.

"The struggle for fair and adequate wages is still an important and necessary function of organized labor," Mr. Bracken said. "Trade unionism has not yet passed out of the combative stage and I think that one of the responsibilities of Government is to bring this struggle to an early and satisfactory conclusion."

He said that employees should have full right to bargain collectively and there should be no encouragement to company unions. Workers, however, should be entitled to organize voluntarily in any individual company without interference by outside influence. Representatives of organized labor should be included in the membership of all Government agencies affecting labor.

Rabaul Airdrome Battered Anew

GUADALCANAL, Feb. 12—(AP).— Airplanes of almost every type slashed at Rabaul's three main airdromes Wednesday in the heaviest assault since the current Solomons-based air offensive against the enemy's New Britain stronghold began last December 17.

Today's communique reported South Pacific planes shot down 20 enemy aircraft, probably downed seven more and damaged others on the ground, at the cost of two fighters.

More than 250 planes, the greatest striking force ever to fly from new Solomons bases, hit Rabaul.

Japan has lost more than 110 planes over Rabaul thus far during February.

Pot Luck Supper Held By Mission Circle

HASTINGS, Feb. 12—(ENS)— Trinity United Church Mission Circle held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Baker at 6 p.m. A very lovely pot luck supper was served to sixteen members, after which the business part of the meeting was conducted, followed by a temperance reading by Marjory Scriver.

An invitation was extended the Mission Circle by Rev. Mrs. Glover to hold their March meeting at the parsonage. A letter was then read by Mrs. Peck from Mrs. William Fanjoy of Peterborough requesting toys and knitted articles for children of pre-school years to fill a bale early in the spring.

The report of the convention held in Peterborough in January was given by Mrs. L. Humphries.

The worship period was taken by Mrs. C. Doxsee, with scripture readings by Mrs. Walter Peck, Mrs. F. Kranel and Rev. Mrs. Glover. The Leaven of a Christian Home was read from the study book by Miss J. Lamb. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Baker for extending the hospitality of her home to the Circle members.

The National Anthem and Mispah Benediction closed the meeting.

ALGIERS—Allied Headquarters said today that German troops were installed in the Papal Palace grounds at the Castel Gandolfo, and the grounds therefore were legitimately subject to Allied bombing.

Mrs. J. Cairns Dies Suddenly

LIFFORD LINE, Feb. 12—(ENS) —The death of Mrs. J. Cairns took place this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs Norton Mills, one concession north of the Lifford Line. The late Mrs. Cairns was in her 92nd year and was highly respected and loved by her many friends. She was the last surviving member of a family of ten, four boys and six girls, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grandy, pioneer settlers in Manvers Township. She was born near St. Mary's Church, Lifford, and has lived her entire life in this vicinity. She was bereaved of her husband, the late Alexander Cairns, 46 years ago and at the time of her death was the oldest representative of five generations.

She had three daughters, the late Mrs. Willoughby Stinson, the late Mrs. Cecil Tims, and Mrs. Norton Mills with whom Mrs. Cairns has lived since her husband's death. As Mrs. Mills' marriage took place at approximately the same time as her father's death, the mother and daughter have never been separated for more than a few weeks at any time. This grand old lady, who was familiarly known as "Grandma Cairns," could relate many interesting instances in connection with the early days at Lifford, and has enjoyed good health during most of her life. Her faculties were alert until she became ill two weeks ago with influenza, which developed into bronchial pneumonia. At the age of 82 she had the experience of riding in an airplane.

Her funeral took place on Friday afternoon at 2:30 oclock from the Mills' residence. The attending clergymen was Rev. Mr. Harding of the Fleetwood United Church, Rev. R. M. Patterson of Trinity United Church, Omemee, and Rev. Mr. Mason of S. Mary's Church, Lifford.

The pall-bearers were Victor Grandy, Christopher Cummiskey, Lewis Staples, Edward Mitchell, Cecil Tims, and Thomas Scott. The casket was banked with beautiful flowers. Interment took place in St Mary's Cemetery, Lifford.

Left to mourn her loss are her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mills, seven grandchildren, Archie Stinson overseas, Karl Stinson, Sault Fals, South Dakota, Marwood Stinson, Italy, and Jean Stinson of Windsor, George Tims of Lifford, Mrs. Moss Thurston of Lindsay, and Miss Jean Mills of Sarnia. She also leaves five great-grandchildren, Mrs. Thelma Thurston, Bennett, Kenneth and Ray Thurston, children of Mr. and Mrs. M. Thurston, Lindsay, and Doris and Janice Tims, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Tims of Lifford. She leaves one great-great-great-grandchild, little Elaine Bennett, whose father is serving overseas.

Sergeant-Major Duffy Returns To England

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Feb. 12 —(CP) —RSM. Angus Duffy, Trenton, Ont., one of the Canadian army's best known and best liked sergeant-majors, has returned to England on exchange. His place with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was taken by RSM. G. F. Fox of Toronto.

Duffy has been with the H.P.E. since 1924 and has been RSM. since 1939. He earned the rest by his conscientious work out here but left "under protest" and determined to return.

"He was wearing himself out," said an officer who described Duffy as "the kingpin of the battalion."

Prices Boosted On White Pine

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 —(AP)— Mill ceiling prices on sales to United States purchasers of Ottawa Valley white pine and Ottawa Valley Norway pine were boosted $4 per 1,000 board feet by the office of Price Administration to-day.

The higher maximum price on the two species, which are produced in Canada, will be passed on to wholesale and retail distributors, O.P.A. said.

The upward adjustment was allowed, the agency stated, to restore the relationship between Canadian and United States lumber regulations that existed prior to a similar increase in Canadian ceilings last September.

The price revisions are effective Feb. 17.

War Increases Bible Readers

HAVELOCK, Feb. 12.—(ENS).— Using as a study theme "The Bible, a Common Possession of the World Church," much benefit was derived by the members of the Women's Missionary Society, which met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson.

The Bible is the only book that speaks to men in all languages. It is therefore the book for all peoples. Even during these tragic days of war, the sale of the Bible has been phenomenal. Thousands of copies are being distributed to men and women in the armies, to prisoners of war in Europe, to the civilian populations of occupied countries and its sale has reached an unprecedented level in lands like China, India and Latin America. Passages of Scripture for mothers were read by Mrs. Harry Watson; for teen age boys and girls, by Mrs. Harry Peters; the 23rd Psalm and Beatitudes by Mrs. James Freeman; the Sacrament at the Lord's Table, by Mrs. Fred Rogers; in times of bereavement, messages of comfort were read by Miss Annie Young and the great fraternity by Mrs. C. Price.

The president, Mrs. George Chiles, made a strong appeal for generous response for the India and Chinese famine fund on Sunday. A letter from the supply secretary asked for good used clothing for men, women and children at the Indian school Oxford House, Manitoba. The bale of this local society is to be in Peterborough on May 26 and is to be clothing for 1 pre-school age child, 1 school child, 2 ladies and 3 men.

Appoint Committees.

The temperance message, "A call to fight the liquor traffic," was given by Miss A. Young. The report of the recent W.M.S. arlly in Knox church, Peterborough, was given by the delegate, Mrs. J. W. Mayors Seeking Boost In Pensions

TORONTO, Feb. 12 —(CP) —A brief asking increases in allowances to mothers, old age pensioners, and blind and unemployable persons was presented to-day to the Ontario Cabinet by a delegation from the Ontario Mayors' Association, headed by Mayor Fred Conboy of Toronto.

The brief also asks a "more equitable share of municipal revenues gathered by the province," a definition of responsibility between the Federal and Provincial governments in event of widespread unemployment in the post-war years, and that the Provincial government negotiate with the Federal government to provide adequate housing developments for families in low-income groups.

It also is possible the Germans already may have spent their offensive strength against the beachhead, and must regroup before undertaking a major drive.

While they have been hammering repeatedly for the last week and many of their thrusts were vigorous and hard to cope with, they have not yet made any general onslaught to drive the 5th Army into the sea.

A 45-mile-an-hour gale blew in from the Mediterranean this morning, but there were signs by noon that the weather was abating, giving hope the Allied planes might be able to strike the Nazis again around the beachhead.

Allied warships still are ranging the coast, turning their big guns on the enemy as requested by the ground command. Six-inch guns of the cruisers—the Maurtius has nine and the Dido six—can hurl shells as far as 10 miles inland. thus reaching almost every part of the German front.

While the position of beachhead troops admittedly was difficult—holding terrain with few natural defences against a more powerful German force—there was reason to believe they not only would hold, but eventually, after the Germans spend themselves in repeated attacks, would drive the enemy out of the area.

There also was a good prospect that the main 5th Army force will break through and join the bridgehead troops.

But no speedy victory was in sight. The outlook rather was one of a hard, costly, and prolonged fight that will push the Germans from central Italy barring some wholly unanticipated bad break.

This battle for Rome is far from being an isolated operation, but is linked closely with the whole European war. It is in fact the Allies' winter campaign against the Germans.

This southern offensive also is tied with whatever attack may come across the English Channel in the spring. In distracting the Germans from their preparations to meet the Channel threat and by draining their strength, it may be a deciding factor in the outcome of coming western front operations.

Finnish people want peace as soon as possible on bearable conditions which guarantee our independence," the newspaper Arneterbladet was quoted. "Our ally (Germany) knows that as well as the others."

The expression in favor of peace overtures by the Parliamentary Committee of the Finnish Social Democratic party, voiced at a meeting yesterday, was the first action by any of Finland's major parties since United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull warned the country last week to get out of the war or take the consequences.

The Conservatives and Agrarians have not met since Hull's statement but information here indicated it had taken effect on them. One Helsinki correspondent said even the Fascist Ikl party's newspaper had been discussing the statement "respectfully."

The Workers newspaper Arneterbladet said the Finnish government's "wait-and-see" policy was "no longer clever." It recommended that steps be taken to clarify "the complete uncertainty" regarding peace terms.

These expressions for peace came in the midst of extensive diplomatic and political activity in Helsinki, the dispatches said. Included was a conference between Sir Henrik Ramsay, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the German Minister, Von Bluecher.

Victory Club Speeds Up On Work On Quota

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12 (ENS) —To assure completion of their work quota during the winter members of the 10th Line Victory Club in Seymour West are planning to hold two meetings this month according to an announcement by their leader, Mrs. George Brown. Scheduled for completion at the extra meeting is a large quilt and one crib quilt. Nine ladies attended the meeting yesterday and completed one quilt. Mrs. Brown gave a report on the dance sponsored at Polmont on January 28, and said net proceeds would amount to $8.00. Poor road conditions and attractions in Campbellford and Havelock were believed to have limited the attendance. Plans were made to hold another dance at Easter, proceeds of which will also go to their war work fund.

Simonds Likely Heading Corps

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(CP Cable).— It is a reasonable and logical deduction that Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., is commanding the Canadian Corps in Britain.

At least one Canadian Corps is in the line in Italy under Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar. Other Canadian troops here are preparing to share in the western invasion of Europe.

Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom, who has been leading a corps here, left the command due to ill health and Simonds was promoted from Major-General to Lieutenant-General

Firemen Receive 4 Calls To Fires

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12 (ENS) —The drop in temperature yesterday was considered at least partly responsible for the busiest day firemen have had this year. They answered four alarms, all the result of either dirty or defective chimneys. Though in three of them the blaze was quickly extinguished, damage at the Robert Fraser home on Front street was estimated by Fire Chief C. B. Williams at about $300.00. Here the blaze, which was discovered about 4.30 in the afternoon, broke through a defective chimney into the attic, and firemen fought the stubborn blaze for the best part of an hour before it was completely extinguished.

The blaze was never out of control, but a number of too enthusiastic youngsters who were insistent on helping the department succeeded in bringing most of the furniture out on the street only to have the trouble of putting it back again. A single stream of water and chemicals were used to quench the flames and firemen had to chop their way through the roof in several places as they battled the fire amid flurries of snow and a bitter cold wind. The fire marked the first loss of more than $100 this year.

Other chimney fires were at Thomas Rowe's, Front street, at 8 a.m.; Thomas Peake's, Kent street, 2 p.m.; F. G. DeCarrol's, Rear street, 7 p.m.

Debate Livens House, All Take Part

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 — (CP). — Decorum is the hall-mark of the 19th Parliament, with veterans of Parliament Hill sometimes sorrowing for the vigor and barbs of old-fashioned political debates.

They were satisfied this week, when Liberal-C.C.F. antagonism—spurred by the prospect of a not too far away election—burst into a political row on the House floor.

Two men small in stature but long in debating ability were the spark plugs— Agriculture Minister Gardiner and T. C. Douglas (C. C.F.-Weyburn). Both are experienced debaters, and both had able and noisy supporters behind them.

The contrast between the staid House droning through routine business and the same place in a political squabble is astonishing. Members who normally hold their peace shout such discourtesies as "Sit down" and "Let a man speak." Everyone rattles the top of his desk. And some raise the desk lid and let them drop with a devastating bang.

Applaud Leaders.

A row may be between two particular parties, as in the case of the Gardiner-Douglas debate, but the Progressive Conservatives, the New Democracy group, the Independents, and all the others participate enthusiastically, applauding the sharp comment and the dour response with the enthusiasm of spectators at a ball game.

There's nothing like a bit of politics to spark up a debate.

Language oddity: Walking into the Centre Block through the Senate door, the first things to catch the eye are signs stating: "The Standing Committee.....will sit..."

Hansard clipping: F. D. Shaw (N.D.-Red Deer): "I might have expected a statement from some lesser satellites of the (C.C.F.) Party."

Karl Homuth (P.C.-Waterloo South): "There are no satellites. They are just duller stars."

Mr. Shaw: "It all depends on the interpretation you put on the word 'satellites.'"

G. H. Castleden (C.C.F.-Yorkton): "They are not always lit up either."

Mr. Homuth: "Some of them can stand a lot of it."

Deputy Speaker J. A. Bradette: "Order."

Mackenzie King Denies Statement

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King warned yesterday that unforeseen circumstances when the attack on the European continent from the west is opened "may prolong the war, not for days or months, but even for years."

Mr. King, speaking to Canadian Congress of Labor delegates after they submitted a brief to the Cabinet, said unfavorable winds had seriously interfered with maintenance of supplies to the forces landed in Italy. Such circumstances could not be guarded against.

He added: "No one can say today how long the war will last."

(Yesterday The Canadian Press quoted the Prime Minister as saying "We are witnessing the possibility of terrible reverses in Italy" which might prolong the war. Last night Mr. King said he had not referred to developments in Italy as reverses which would possibly prolong the war, but to what might happen when the attack on the Continent was launched.)

Christians Must Be In Touch With the Sorrows of Others

REV. E. R. JAMES.

Jesus spake this parable unto them, saying: What woman, having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle and sweep the house and seek diligently till she find it. St. Luke 15; 8.

Our Lord was the greatest of Teachers. Why did He utter this parable? Listen: "The Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying: — This Man receiveth sinners and eateth with them." The Pharisees and scribes were the religious teachers of the people. They could not understand a teacher mixing with publicans and sinners. The Pharisees and scribes were thinkers. This parable is full of thought. Your mental convictions will help you to stand fast in the day of storm and agony. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

You remember the day you gave your little daughter a doll. With beaming face she clutched it to her bosom. It is more than likely she took it bed with her. Did she teach you anything. How full of meaning is her voice as she exclaims:—"My dolly." Your little daughter is leading you to see a profound truth. It is her doll. She is the owner. That instinct of ownership is God's gift to her.

Bishop Gore, a famous theologian, reminds us that human nature is fundamentally like God. The instinct of ownership is found in every one. It is a gift from God. God is the owner of us all. He is our Father and we are His children. Ownership is the profound truth running through these three parables: — "The lost coin"; "The lost sheep, "The prodigal son."

"What woman having ten pieces of silver." How true to life the story is. Every woman who heard it nodded her head. It is just what she would do; turn the house upside down and sweep diligently till she found it. It is her sense of ownership. You lost your overcoat in the train. How glad you were when you found it. Did its recovery teach you anything? You told your friends how you found that which you had lost. As the owner you rejoiced. The Lord Jesus would teach us that God the Father feels the loss of every individual, no matter how small or sinful he may be.

Christ came to reveal the truth that the individual is important. This truth needs re-statement in an age which thinks in masses. "You belong to God" say the Christ. "You are God's property, you are God's child."

Furthermore that coin represents compressed power. It is generally given for value received. Human effort, labour, industry and energy have gone into that coin. It contains something of the life, blood and energy of a man or woman. Have you the eyes to see the energy enthusiasm and zeal in that piece of silver?

When a member of God's family is lost God himself as Owner has lost something of spiritual value. There is energy, enthusiasm and zeal shut up in that individual which is of spiritual value to God. A clever American economist remarks that money shut up or lost is money out of circulation. So the lost coin, the lost individual is for the time being out of circulation in the family of God.

Again Our Lord would teach us that a man is lost when he is out of helpful contact and circulation with his fellow man. A separatist lives alone. His very separation is self destructive. He truly belongs to the suicide club, even when he is seeking to follow God. You can be so buried in your business interests that you are out of touch with human life; its sorrows and interests do not affect you. You pass by on the other side. To that extent you are a lost coin.

You may be an excellent housewife absorbed in the cares of your family. Nothing else interests you, unless it affects your family. You are in that sense a lost coin in God's sight.

Separation from his fellows was the sin of the Pharisee. He despises them; he is superior to them. No wonder those Pharisees and scribes — brillinat minds — hated the Teacher Who called them lost coins. The Pharisee spirit lives in every generation. He is generally a most devout member of the Church. Yet all too often he is out of touch with the difficulties and temptations and sorrows of others around him. Are you a Pharisee? Are you a lost coin?

WE, BEING MANY, ARE ONE BODY IN CHRIST AND EVERYONE MEMBERS ONE OF ANOTHER.

Jesus On The Mountain

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 13 is Mark 9:2-29, the Golden Text being Mark 9:24, "I believe; help Thou my unbelief.")

◆ ◆ ◆

THE EVENTS contained in today's lesson took place in the autumn of A. D. 29. Jesus and His disciples were in the north of Palestine, near Mt. Hermon, a towering peak 10,000 feet high, and visible from every part of Palestine.

Jesus took the three apostles dearest to or most intimate with Him, Peter, James and John, and went up into the mountain, where "He was transfigured before them." His raiment became shining, exceeding white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them."

With Jesus appeared Moses, the great leader of the Jewish people, and Elijah, the prophet, linking the old with the new leadership. The disciples were frightened with this vision, and Peter, who was the speaker of the group, but not always wise in his speech, babbled, "Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for Thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah."

Voice Comes From Cloud

A cloud then overshadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, "This is My beloved Son; hear Him."

Suddenly they found Moses and Elijah had vanished and they were alone with the Master. As they came down from the mountain Jesus told them not to tell anyone of what they had seen "till the Son of Man were risen from the dead." This saying puzzled the disciples and they talked with one another, wondering what the Lord meant. They also asked Jesus what was meant by the saying that Elijah would come first, and He explained that Elijah had come—meaning that John the Baptist had prepared for His—the Lord's—coming.

As they came to level ground on the south of the mountain, they saw a great multitude of people, and scribes were questioning them. The people ran toward Jesus and saluted Him, and one among them brought his son, a boy who from childhood had been afflicted with an evil spirit—one who was deaf and dumb, but which tore and wrenched at the poor child, tthrowing him on the ground where he wallowed foaming.

Sometimes this evil spirit had made the boy throw himself into fire and sometimes into water to destroy him. The father asked Jesus to do something for them if He could.

"If thou believe, all things are possible to him that believeth," Jesus said, and the poor father answered, with tears, "Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief."

Boy Appears Dead

Jesus ordered the spirit to come out of the boy, which it did, but the boy lay on the ground as if dead, and the crowd really thought he was dead. Jesus, however, in His tender, compassionate way, took the boy's hand and lifted him up; "and he arose." He was completely healed.

The disciples had tried to cast out the evil spirit from the boy, but couldn't, and they wondered why that was. They talked about it among themselves and finally asked Jesus why it was that they couldn't exorcise this evil spirit, as they had done such things before. Jesus answered, "This kind come forth by nothing but by prayer and fasting," implying that they had not the time or requisite faith to perform this miracle of healing.

When the boy's father had said that he had asked the disciples to cast out the demon and they had failed, Jesus had exclaimed, "Oh faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I bear with you?" His time was growing short, as He implied in referring to His coming death and resurrection, when talking to the disciples when they came down from the mountain. It was necessary, then, that they should be prepared to carry on His work, and it grieved Him that even then they had not the necessary faith to carry on. Each one needed to pray as had the father of the afflicted boy, "I believe; help Thou my unbelief."

Noted Missionary Is Guest In Two Churches on Sunday

Mrs. George P. Bryce, M.A., Ph.D., daughter of Rev. J. Cooper Robinson the first missionary of the Church of England in Canada to Japan will be the special speaker in Trinity Church on Sunday morning and in the George street church in the evening. She was born in Tokyo and her education was obtained at Havergal College, Toronto; Ottawa Collegiate and University of Toronto from which she graduated in 1911.

While on furlough in 1928, Mrs. Bryce obtained her M.A. (This was a distinct achievement for, in addition to much speaking, she in that winter, cared for her family—a husband and six children.) During the next furlough in 1936-37, Mrs. Bryce in addition to her home duties and a lot of public speaking, studied for, and obtained from Toronto University, the Ph.D. degree in Sociology and Anthropology, the subject of her thesis being "The Changing Family in India."

Engaged in Village Work

Dr. Bryce has given full-time service as a missionary. In the earlier years she devoted herself energetically to village work and home life and more recently to the problems of the city. Latterly she has been teaching English and the Bible in Indore Christian College.

Dr. Bryce has been recognized throughout India as an expert in the production of Christian literature. She is vice-president of the North India Tract and Book Society, and is the author of two volumes, "Child in the Midst" and "Comrades on the Road", which have been widely used in India. She is a member of the Standing Committee of the All India Women's Conference, which represents educated Indian women and includes all castes and creeds. And as a result of her active interest in the mass movement among the Bhil tribes of Central India, she has been elected by the All India Education Congress—a member of the Committee on Education of Aborigines.

Her husband is Rev. George P. Bryce, M.A., B.D., B.Paed., who was in Y.M.C.A. work in India for five years before appointment as a Missionary of the then Presbyterian Church in Canada in 1920.

Perhaps the greatest tribute to the work of the Bryces is the affection for them of the people of India. In the words of an Indian friend, "Not only I but others have felt that you were both real friends of us Indians. You understand us so well. This will show you what place you have in our hearts."

St. Valentine Dance

NORWOOD, Feb. 12—(ENS). — The W.I. and Get-Together Girls held a Valentine dance in the Town Hall this week, with about 250 young people in attendance. The girls served lunch, wearing dresses they had made at the sewing class under the direction of Mrs. T. Edmonds. Miss B. Andrews spoke briefly of the girls' work and thanked the people in attendance. Dr. and Mrs. A. Atkinson won the prize for the spot dance. Proceeds of the dance amounted to $103.02.

Rev. Jas. Semple Nominated

TORONTO, Feb. 12 —(ENS) — Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada at its meeting in Toronto this week, nominated its chairman, Rev. James Semple, D.Th., as associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada. The appointment will be made at the General Council which meets in London in the fall from nominations of Presbyteries.

Dr. Semple is an ex-president of the Bay of Quinte Conference; commissioner to several General Councils and host to the last in 1942. He has served on the Board of Evangelism and Social service for several two year terms, and has been chairman of the Settlement Committee for ten years and Director of the United church debt-reduction campaign for the Bay of Quinte Conference. Recently he was honored by the church and city on completing ten years successful pastorate, the longest in the history of the Bridge Street church, Belleville.

Y.P.U. Given Invitation

OMEMEE, Feb. 12 —(ENS) — At the regular meeting of the Young People's Union of Trinity United church, Omemee, an invitation was read, and accepted to attend Christ Church Anglican Young People's Association meeting next Tuesday evening, Feb. 15. The possibility of a carnival directed by the Y.P.U. was discussed and a committee consisting of Miss Hazel Wilson, Keith Bradley, William Weir and Rev. R. M. Patterson was appointed to look into the advisability of such an undertaking and report to the next meeting.

Miss Christina Connell, missions convener, was in charge of the program, which began with quiet music and a call to worship. The Scripture lesson from Isaiah 9:1-14, was read responsively after which Miss Cora Jones read an article on the motives for missionary giving, closing with a poem.

For the study period a set of missionary lantern slides was shown, with comments on the pictures given by the convener. The series was entitled, "From Buddha to Christ," and was a story of the Canadian mission in Korea.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 9:2-29

After the transfiguration on the mountain, Jesus and His disciples came down and Jesus told them to tell no man what they had seen until He had risen from the dead.

They saw a great multitude waiting for them, and scribes questioning the people. The multitude ran to Him, saluted Him and He asked the scribes, "What question ye with them?"

They brought a boy who had been possessed of a dumb spirit since he was a child, saying that they had asked the disciples to cast it out but they could not do it.

Jesus cast the evil spirit out of the boy who then lay as one dead, but Jesus took him by the hand and he arose, completely healed.

Good Work In Schools

The Inspector's Annual Report on the work done in Peterborough public schools during the past year makes encouraging reading. Schools have their wartime problems of overcrowding, shortage of teachers, shortage of necessary materials, and shortage of books which would supplement classroom work, but these troubles have been met and conquered, and upon the whole the work of primary education is progressing splendidly.

* * *

We were impressed to read of aids to education which are now in use in the schools which we had not known about. Lantern slides appear to be used extensively, and this means of education should have excellent effect. Not everyone is equally keen in all his senses; one child will learn most readily through the eye, by using books; another will find it much easier to take in and retain what he hears through the spoken word; a third may respond most readily to practical demonstration, or pictures, and to him the lantern slides will be a great help; the more means of teaching a lesson that are available, the more likely every child is to profit by it.

* * *

Radio programs, we see, have been used to supplement teaching in some subjects. The suggestion is made in the Report that these programs could be used more effectively if they were recorded, as the program which is available on a certain day may not fit in with what the listening class is studying. We think that the suggestion that programs might be recorded is an excellent one. The disadvantage of radio for educational work is that programs are rarely useful as supplementary teaching unless the radio broadcasters and the schools work from the same books and the same course of study. The use of recordings might solve the problem, though it might also create an added expense in providing a sufficiently large library of recordings for use in classroom work.

* * *

Good use, we see, is being made of gramophones and pianos for music study. At present the shortage of suitable gramophone records hampers this work to some extent, but the choice is still fairly extensive. It is recommended in the Report that radios of uniform design be installed in all the schools after the war, when receiving sets will be available again. Some reference is made, also, to the good use which could be made of a moving picture projector in every school. Presumably such projectors would be used to show the many first-rate films which the educational societies and the National Film Board are now producing for this express purpose.

* * *

Practical work in horticulture includes the care of flower beds planted around the schools, and of plants kept in classrooms. Each classroom, also, has its own supply of books supplementary to those used in the set course of study, and by using these and consulting them when necessary children develop the valuable ability to find information which they need quickly and intelligently. One of a school's chief duties is to teach the proper use of books. The Report, which shows signs of considerable work and care in preparation, is something for Peterborough teachers and Peterborough parents to take pride in. Good education is one of the essentials of good citizenship.

The Phoenix Of Coventry

Coventry Cathedral is to be rebuilt under the direction of Sir Gilbert Scott who, since the death of Sir Edwin Lutyens, is considered to be England's foremost architect. He has said that if the work is done as speedily as possible, it might be completed in five years. The original fabric, a late medieval structure, took 350 years to build. It was not built as a cathedral; it was St. Michael's Church, one of the largest churches in Great Britain, and it only became a cathedral in 1918, when the diocese of Worcester was divided. The parts of the original building which still stand will be incorporated in the new structure.

Before the Reformation a cathedral was a great community centre. The people of Coventry hope to recapture something of that spirit in their new Cathedral. It will have one chapel which will be undenominational, and there people of any creed will go to pray and think. By this means the Cathedral will become the spiritual possession of all the people of Coventry, and not merely a prized piece of architecture; it will be a real symbol of their unity, and of the days of terror and privation which they have endured together.

The new Cathedral will also have its chief altar in its centre, and approachable from all sides, a device which has not been used in English church-building for at least three hundred years.

Clearly the new Coventry Cathedral will be distinguished spiritually as well as architecturally. All members of the British Commonwealth, we are sure, will hope that it may stand for a thousand years as a memorial to the brave people of Coventry who showed a noble spirit in their evil hour, and as an inspiration to their children and their children's children.

Entertaining The Soldiers

We feel that congratulations should be offered to the Citizens' Committee and those who have helped them in their work of entertaining soldiers stationed here. At present they are conducting a series of classes at the Y.W.C.A., designed to make that work of entertainment easier, and their enrollment runs to 700 women, a surprising figure which shows how seriously that work is taken in Peterborough.

Entertaining soldiers is by no means always an easy job. Understandably they are often shy, and the uniform and communal living sometimes rob them of the ease which they may have had in civilian life. Breaking down these barriers requires experience and a great deal of goodwill, and the girls who undertake to do it deserve credit for tackling a kind of war work which is by no means all pleasure. To be a hostess to a group of friends is a taxing experience; to be a hostess to a group of shy strangers is even more li[illegible]ly to be hard work.

The girls who do this work are in most cases girls who put in a full day's work before they go to the canteen or the dance, but they are debarred from the male pleasure of complaining about how tired they are. The soldiers like them to be as fresh and as vivacious as though they had done nothing all day but lie on a chaise-lounge, polishing their nails and waiting for evening to come. That is a tall order, and the girls who do their best to fill it deserve thanks and congratulations on a good job well done.

"For The Land Sakes!"

In a recent article Miss Dorothy Thompson mentions that General McArthur, perhaps to prepare himself as a presidential candidate, now carries a copy of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations in his breast pocket. The idea that a presidential candidate in the twentieth century should seek counsel from an economist of the eighteenth vexes Miss Thompson to the point where she can contain her choler no longer, and it breaks out in the blood-curdling objurgation, "For the land sakes!"

Now really, Miss Thompson, don't you know any stronger words than that? Mingled with the mighty diapason of your prose this sewing-circle cuss-word is as though a mighty organ suddenly gave forth the forlorn squeal of a peanut-roaster. Respectfully but firmly we address you in Hotspur's words to Lady Percy:

Swear me, Kate, like a lady as thou art,
A good mouth-filling oath, and leave 'in sooth',
And such protest of pepper-gingerbread
To velvet-guards and Sunday-citizens.

Diary Of Domestic Events

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: My cold continues, but it is not quite so villainous as before. Colds seem to be general, and I hear hacking and sneezing on every side....I thought I saw a robin today, and mentioned the fact to a friend who appears to be something of an amateur ornithologist. At any rate he told me that I had not really seen a robin, but a thrush. The true robin, or 'Erithacus rubecula,' he tells me, is found only in Europe, and is always distinguishable by its very red breast. Our Canadian bird is a 'Turdus migratorius,' a mere thrush, and in the West it is a 'Turdus migratorius propinquus,' even more of an imposter; they have the tawny breasts with which we are familiar. He tells me that impostor-robins are to be found all over the world. In Persia the 'Erithacus hyrcanus' passes for a robin, and in Australia the name is given to a bird which has not even a coloured breast.... Well, anyway, I think I saw a thrush today, and it had an orange breast.

◇ ◇ ◇

MONDAY: Received letters from England today, saying that the food situation was much better, and that everybody was getting enough to eat, but that it took the patience of Job to get it. Hours of standing in queues has to be endured every day in order to get the makings of a square meal. Naturally this is hard on the old, and is an added burden to housewives who are already doing a half-day in a factory as well as their work at home. Food for animals is short; my correspondent tells me that all the cat's meat is now appearing as "boeuf a la mode" in the luxury hotels. Apparently the cheese now available in Britain tastes like soap; anyone who is sending a parcel abroad would do well to include a chunk of good, nippy old Canadian cheese....There was a snowstorm and a high wind tonight, and I tramped through it to see a film called "Hostages," about underground activity in Prague. These films present an interesting moral problem to the average Canadian; if this were an occupied country, how many of us would have the courage to take part in underground activity? As I should be interned at once as a ribald journalist I fear that the problem for me is purely academic.

◇ ◇ ◇

TUESDAY: Saw a picture in a paper today of the 'graduating class' of a New York kindergarden; all the children were rigged out in caps and gowns. They looked miserable and silly, as unsuitably dressed children always do. We seem to have forgotten that the cap and gown once had a significance only slightly less awesome than the cassock and surplice. Some years ago I saw a church choir in which the women were gowned in purple and lace, and wore birettas, so that the stouter sopranos looked like Cardinal Wolsey at his most inflated; they looked very funny. Women look well in finery, but they have no idea of how to wear ceremonial clothes....I am reading Xavier Herbert's book "Capricornia," about life in northern Australia; it is a lively, salty piece of work. Anyone who could write a similar book about life in Canada would do this country a great service, but at present our writers seem to concentrate on tales about wax-work pioneers.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY: Received a parcel today tied with plastic string; I had not seen it before. It looks like cat-gut, but is transparent, and stretches. The essence of good string is that it should not stretch and that it should hold a knot. This plastic stuff does not seem to do either. It will have to be improved greatly if it is to supplant good cord....A lady was complaining to me today about the servant problem. I sometimes think that domestic servants are unsatisfactory because the wrong people take up that work. If a girl is not able to work in a shop she becomes a housemaid. That is nonsense. It takes six times as much brains, energy, tact and organizing ability to be a good housemaid as it does to be a shopgirl. If we had government schools here, as they do in Denmark, to teach girls domestic work and give them a standard to work to, domestic service would command higher wages, a better class of girl, and the employers would get satisfaction, which they do not at present.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: Hung several pictures today and hope to get great pleasure from looking at them. It has struck me, sometimes, that some people hang pictures and never look at them again. They look upon pictures as necessary parts of household equipment, like a doormat, but not as things to be looked at and enjoyed.... Attended a small dinner-party this evening and talked about apple-growing, making preserves, politics, the personalities of furnaces, the rise and fall of the zoot suit, Frank Sinatra, transplanting shrubs, and Russia's sudden explosion into sixteen Russias.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: I see in the paper that the Nazis destroyed a great many irreplaceable documents and about sixty fine paintings at Livardi, where the Italians had stored some of the treasures from Naples. This sort of thing happens in every war, whoever is fighting. When men of all sorts are put in uniform and instructed to destroy, it is impossible to control what they destroy. In humanity there is a strong strain of wanton savagery and destructiveness, and in many people also there is a deep-rooted, implacable hatred of objects of scholarship and art. The chance to set fire to old parchments, and to shove a boot through a priceless painting is too much for most armies, and the Germans have been vandals from the earliest days of their history.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: A soft, melting day, ending up with a rainstorm. I seized the opportunity to clear some of the ice off my walk, which made me feel good, and then paid a numbers of bills by cheque, which reduced me to a low state. It is surprising how a few paltry bills will add up, altogether, to quite a large sum. Still, there is a melancholy glow of virtue to be derived from paying bills, and I enjoyed it as much as I could all evening. "There," I said to my creditors, in imagination, "you have stripped me clean, and I hope that you are happy, you money-grubbers. But I still have my honour and my immortal soul; you cannot bill me for those!" In this proud and aloof mood I retired to bed and soon fell into dreams of paupery.

Indication of Merit

Even the severest critics of Viscount Halifax for his recent Toronto speech may soon begin to conclude they were wrong, now that Bloc Populaire members in both the House of Commons and the Quebec Legislature have attacked the Ambassador for his remarks. — Windsor Daily Star.

AN INTERESTING EVENT

—By Thomas

What About Civil Aviation ?

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

FAILURE of the federal government to make any reference or foreshadow any policy on post-war civil aviation in the Speech from the Throne was pointedly brought out by Mr. Gordon Graydon, M.P., leader of the Opposition, in his speech during debate on the address in reply to the Throne Speech. He called upon the government for assurance that "delay and inertia" would not muff this country's great opportunities and make it little more than "a point of geographical convenience" in the air world.

There is far too much weight behind Mr. Graydon's remarks for the government to ignore them merely because they were made by the leader of the Opposition. The government still stands committed to an unqualified monopoly on international air routes by a single Canadian operator, the publicly owned Trans-Canada Air Lines. Serious doubts have arisen as to the sufficiency and effectiveness of such a "chosen instrument" policy to serve Canada's best interests and give Canadian-operated services a proper scope in the development of international flying.

Both in the international and domestic field, the T.C.A. monopoly is throttling the great contribution that could be made by private enterprise to ensure that Canada will reap the fullest possible benefit from the future prospects for aviation.

Quite apart from this, there has been no indication of any arrangements that will assure even T.C.A. of adequate access to post-war flying rights on international routes, or provide generally for the reciprocal access on a proper basis of foreign operators to Canadian airport facilities. As Mr. Graydon pointed out, neither Parliament nor the public has been informed of where Canada stands in any agreements or negotiations bearing on the place the Dominion is to take in the evolution of world commercial flying in peacetime. There has never been any real discussion of air policy in Parliament.

It is to be hoped the post-war picture will strike a better balance than the present situation in regard to services across the Canada-U.S. border, nine franchises for which are held by American operators and only one by a Canadian concern (T.C.A.). Already five U.S. operators have been allowed at Washington to initiate moves to start additional trans-border routes, while Canada has done nothing in this direction.

In the light of the rapidly changing, forward-moving situation in regard to world aviation, stubborn adherence to a rigid, static policy will not keep Canada abreast of developments. Action should be taken, and at the earliest possible time, to lay down an advanced, flexible policy that will enable the full resources of this country to play a maximum role in the post-war air progress.

St. Valentine's Day

By C. H. IRESON

THE origin of Valentine's Day is even more obscure than that of many of our modern customs which have come down to us from the past.

St. Valentine, in the days of the Roman Empire, was the name of a number of saints of whom the best known were two whose festival fell on or about February 14, one a Roman priest and the other a bishop.

The association of the lover's festival with St. Valentine seems to arise from the fact that the feast of the Saint falls in early spring, otherwise it seems to be accidental. Both the St. Valentines were said to have been martyred on the same day—February 14th, in the year 270 A.D.

The practice of sending Valentines on that day seems to be a survival, by a very circuitous route, of the Roman custom of youths and maidens drawing lots on that day, to establish temporary companionship during a festival held at that time.

Beyond doubt the observance of Valentine's Day is a very old one and the original idea is clearly stated in Bailey's Dictionary 1721. "Valentine—about this time of the year in the month of February the birds choose their mates and probably thence arose the custom of young men and maidens choosing Valentines or special loving friends on that day."

In early days they were apparently chosen by lot. In 1678 an account of the custom in England says that on St. Valentine's Eve an even number of maids and bachelors get together — each wrote their name on a billet which they roll up and draw by lots, the maids taking the men's billets, and the men the maids, so that each young man lights upon a girl that he calls his Valentine and each of the girls upon a young man which she calls hers."

It was supposed that upon this day the birds chose mates and perhaps from this came the notion that the first unmarried person of the other sex whom one met on Valentine Day in walking abroad was a destined wife or husband. A combination of both ideas is found in a verse written by the poet Gay:

"Last Valentine, the day when birds of kind
Their paramours with mutual chirping find
Thee first I spied—and the first swain we see
In spite of fortune shall our true love be."

As time went by the young people discarded the idea of having their mates provided by the arbitrament of chance and began to choose their own; they sent to the chosen one a token which has developed into the modern Valentine.

THERE is a reference to this in Pepys' Dairy. On February 14th, 1667, he wrote "To my wife's bedside little Will Mercer came to be her Valentine and brought her name writ upon blue paper in gold letters, very pretty," and on the same date he adds, "I do observe the drawing of mottos as well as of names so that Pierce who drew my wife's did also draw a motto, 'most courteous and most fair'."

In the days of quill pens and dear postage the transmission of Valentines by post was an expensive luxury and they were generally of home manufacture and delivered by hand—with the reduction of the heavy postage charges and improved methods of production the Valentine came into its own—the Valentines by choice and not by chance.

The better type of Valentine of half a century ago, as one brings it to mind, was a really dainty production often with silk and lace trimmings, with little undraped Cupids flying around with bow and arrow transfixing two loving hearts, with a sentimental message such as "The Rose is red, the Violet blue, sugar is sweet and so are you," but the other extreme were Valentines of a very objectionable type. To be bought for a penny, they were long strips of common paper on which were caricatures rudely drawn and crudely coloured with a few lines of offensive doggerel underneath. These horrible lampoons have died a deserved death—"unwept, unhonoured and unsung", and the majority of modern Valentines are artistic and in good taste obtaining an increasing popularity.

Doubly A Princess

(NEW YORK TIMES)

IN April Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the British throne, will be 18. There have been suggestions that her coming of age should be marked by some title of honour. She will become a member of the Council of Regency. One rather ingenuous proposal is that she be made a royal duchess. In Germany at one time, a duke was a bigger man than a prince, but that is hardly the case on the other side of the Channel, in spite of the royal dukes. Last October a number of distinguished Welshmen, including David Lloyd George, asked the King that his eldest daughter be created Princess of Wales. According to a London dispatch yesterday, Mr. Lloyd George will move in Parliament that this be done.

The first Prince of Wales was Edward of Carnarvon, afterward Edward II. He was born there in 1284 but invested as Prince in Lincoln. The latest Prince of Wales, nineteenth in that succession, is the present Duke of Windsor. One of his names is David, a common name of the old Welsh princes. The affection of the people of Wales for the title is shown by their strong desire that he be invested in his own principality. No previous Prince of Wales had been. The investiture took place at Carnarvon in 1911. Mr. Lloyd George, constable of the castle, was in charge of all the arrangements and coached the new prince in a few words of Welsh.

"Prince" as a title for the King's sons is no older than Henry VII. In the reign of Charles II, Mary and Anne, Queens Regnant to be, were styled the Lady Mary and the Lady Anne. Even now children of the British sovereign are princes and princesses only by courtesy. They get that title legally only by royal warrant; even so warranted they have to be raised to the peerage or still be commoners. Edward VII had his nieces, daughters of Princess Louise, created "Princesses Royal," Princesses and Highnesses. George II had already borrowed from Prussia for his eldest daughter the style of Princess Royal. A Princess of Wales in her own right is a new dignity; and according to all accounts nothing is too good for the Princess Elizabeth.

A Bible Message

My soul shall make her boast in the Lord; the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad.... O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him....

The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate. (Ps. 34: 2, 8, 22.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Plead my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me.... And my soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation....

Let them shout for joy, and be glad, that favour my righteous cause: yea, let them say continually, Let the Lord be magnified, which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant. And my tongue shall speak of thy righteousness and of thy praise all the day long. (Ps. 35: 1, 9, 27, 28.)

Hear the word of the Lord, O ye nations, and declare it in the isles afar off, and say, He that scattered Israel with gather him, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flock. For the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and ransomed him from the hand of him that was stronger than he.

Therefore they shall come and sing in the height of Zion, and shall flow together to the goodness of the Lord, for wheat, and for wine, and for oil, and for the young of the flock of the herd: and their soul shall be as a watered garden: and they shall not sorrow any more at all. (Jer. 31: 10-12.)

Churns and Churning

(NEW YORK TIMES)

REPORTS from the farm front say that once again cream is being churned into butter. In many areas it is impossible to buy a churn. Attics are being searched; that dusty space above the woodshed is getting cleaned at long last; the countryman is untangling that mass of old chicken wire barrels, baskets and broken tools on the unused scaffold over the calf pens. A churn has become a cherished thing.

We have heard of city housekeepers who use an egg beater to churn butter in a bowl. But some years ago, about the time the town banker bought the first automobile in the county, churning was a major operation in the list of weekly tasks. The milk was put in tall, cylindrical tin cans, about three feet tall and a foot in diameter. The cream rose to the top, inches thick, like a mammoth tiddlywink. A small faucet at the bottom allowed the skim milk to be drawn off. Then the heavy, golden cream was put in an earthen jug in the pantry off the kitchen. Here it was kept a few days to "ripen."

On churning day the squat, sturdy churn was set on the kitchen table and half-filled with warm water to warm the wood sides and paddle. The gray jug of cream was placed on the back of the kitchen range to warm the contents. When mother felt the temperatures were right the water was drained from the churn and the cream put in. Then a farm lad went to work turning the crank.

Sometimes the butter "came" easily and quickly. On other occasions it was stubborn and slow. The paddles went around—slosh, slosh, slosh. At length the slopping song changed. Chunks of butter began to form. The slosh-slosh changed to ker-plunk. The plug was pulled and the fresh, golden-specked buttermilk drawn off. That was a drink the whole family enjoyed.

The butter was put into a big wooden bowl and worked until all liquid was forced out. Salt was added, and the butter molded into pound prints with the clover leaf design. Wrapped in oiled paper, it was stored for future use—or to trade at the general store. It is good to know that churns have returned to a place of importance. It may be a temporary honour, for science has devised huge, automatic machines to lighten labour. But during the emergency the song of the paddles in the heavy cream is a cheerful tune.

STREET FIGHTING IN ITALY—A white death-trail of smoke signals ends a Nazi strong point in a building 200 yards away, as western Canadian infantry clean up in Ortona, with an anti-tank gun. Debris and strewn furniture indicate the fury of the street fighting that went on here, before it was taken by the Canucks.

Salvage Paper Has Become A Most Indispensable Ally To The Men In The Services

Monday marks the firing of the opening gun in the waste paper salvage campaign in Peterborough, a drive whose importance is underlined by the shortage of paper existing throughout Canada at the present time. In the opinion or national salvage directors, military officials and others who are acquainted with the situation, never has the shortage of paper and paper products been more acute since the beginning of the war than it is to-day.

Therefore, this will certainly be one of the most important salvage drives to be conducted in the city. It is being handled by the Peterborough War Services Committee, a group of women representing various organizations, and plans are being laid on the basis of experience gained in the course of past drives. Emphasis is being put on methods of insuring maximum collections with the minimum of confusion and difficulty, and with an eye to such efficiency as will simultaneously impress and appeal to the co-operative spirit of all who have something to give. This will make the task of organizing and setting in motion the future drives—for they must recur at frequent intervals to meet the continuing demand— an easier job than it would otherwise be.

Continue For Month.

First in the series of salvage collections, the one starting Monday will go on to the end of the month. On different dates different areas of the city will be covered, and the applicable dates for householders to set out their salvage have been published elsewhere. By attention to these details, citizens may perform a distinct service to the committee and help to see that the collections in their neighbourhood reach as nearly as possible to the 100% level desired.

The shortage that exists to-day is due to the mounting demands of war factories producing the sinews of war— and particularly weapons to be shipped overseas for the coming offensives— on an ever larger scale; that and the vital needs of ever larger contingents of Canada's Armed forces stationed or fighting overseas. Millions of paper containers are sent over that cannot be returned, containers for food, ammunition, blood plasma and a hundred other uses, and the minimum requirement of paper and paperboard processing mills has risen to 20,000 tons monthly.

Need Is Urgent.

The need for containers of all kinds, brown paper and corrugated paper is especially urgent. This is because it is these types that are being despatched abroad in such huge quantities, with no chance of a refund; and then also there has developed a great scarcity of virgin pulp wood.

A ton of waste paper will produce 1,500 shell containers, or 47,000 boxes for 30-caliber ammunition, or 71,000 dust covers for airplane engines, or 36,000 practice targets. Army ordnance plants require 30,000 tons of paper board each month for packaging shells, and nine-tenths of lend-lease shipments must be protected with waterproof paperboard.

The uses of paper on the fighting fronts are many and various. Temporary water pipes made of paper have been laid down to pipe water to units in the front lines in Italy and paper parachutes are employed to drop food and ammunition to isolated groups of men. Mapping of successive stages of a campaign requires enormous amounts of paper, and for this purpose in the first assault of the North African campaign 110 tons of maps were needed and 400 tons more for later phases.

Householders and merchants who have waste paper and things made of paper that they do not need, will do well to remember when the day comes around that soldiers literally live, train, travel and fight with paper their indispensable ally.

Help the Young People To Health - Happiness

What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

Price 50c a box, 65 pills, at all drug counters.

Urges Harmony Between Capital, Labor

QUEBEC, Feb. 12 —(CP) — The challenge of the future for maximum employment can only be met through freedom of labor and encouragement for capital, William L. Batt, vice-chairman of the United States War Production Board, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery at the 58th annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Mr. Batt called for "statesmanlike management" operating in a spirit of co-operation with other groups.

Relations between labor and management had become much closer in the past 10 years. Sound labor leadership required time to develop and management was open to some criticism for not having lightened the growing pains of labor.

"Looking at the problem broadly, I should think that management must assume a good deal of responsibility for the quality of union leadership," Mr. Batt said. "Good management, while not guaranteeing good leadership, will certainly tend to insure a better quality. Poor management or antagonistic management is almost sure to result in poor union leadership.

"...When leaders of these two great groups of the economy know each other better—call each other by their first names—even if they don't agree on specific matters, as frequently they won't, there is nevertheless provided a certain safety valve, of great significance to the social security of our country."

"An opportunity to work, an opportunity to earn more in return for effort and initiative, some reasonable security—these are the things which labor wants. It is important to note that they are likewise the things which capital wants. How to find them for both is the challenge which is put before management and labor and government. No one of these can solve it alone."

Germans Losses Very Heavy In Bridgehead

By HOMER BIGART,
New York Herald Tribune Correspondent Distributed by The Canadian Press.

ON THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 10 —(Delayed) — The German counter offensive showed signs of having lost momentum to-night after a week of savage fighting in which the enemy regained some high ground and a small town.

(Military censorship did not permit identification of the town in this dispatch. The German High Command to-day asserted Nazi troops had penetrated the railroad station in Carroceto, also known as Aprilia, 10 miles north of Anzio).

Heroic resistance stopped the German drive but only after the enemy had captured an important ridge commanding several square miles of the bridgehead. The loss of this high ground admittedly is serious, but enemy attempts to crash across the plain from this springboard were repulsed.

The ridge is crowned by a compact little village which British troops seized after hard fighting two weeks ago.

Late Wednesday the Germans infiltrated the town and attacked a large factory that dominates the area.

At 6:30 a.m. a sudden crash barrage from hundreds of Allied guns screamed down upon the village. It was believed this thunderbolt caught the Germans massing for a new attack.

A few hours later a second crash barrage saturated the area just west of the town where the Germans were attempting to seize an overpass on the main highway.

Frightful casualties discouraged any further aggression.

Heavy rain this afternoon made observation impossible and gave the enemy a chance to regroup for the expected renewal of the offensive. The Germans have not yet committed tanks in force, and the present marshy condition of the fields would necessarily confine any tank thrust to the many roads.

Only by lavish expenditures of infantry has the enemy been able to gain ground. The fierce butchery of the past four days has been severe on two German units. Some companies have been reduced to a mere handful of men. Our ammunition reserves are considerable.

Some British units have been engaged in the grimmest kind of fighting for eight days.

Thank Institute For Donations

MARMORA, Feb. 12 (ENS) —The February meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held this week at the home of Mrs. D. B. Sanderson.

The roll call was "A Homemade Valentine." During the reading of correspondence, letters of thanks were read from the Russian Relief, Canadian Red Cross, Marmora War Workers, Navy League, Canadian Legion and the Red Shield, acknowledging donations.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Holmes of Belleville, asking for the financial support of the branch on an emergency fund which is being created to support the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario. It is also proposed to have an illustrated lecture the last week in March dealing with "Homes Across Canada." Mrs. James Gordenier, in the absence of Mrs. Lewis Phillips, gave the report of the sick committee.

Show Work.

Two members of the Girls' Club, Audrey Black and Patricia Lynch, gave a demonstration of articles made thus far in the season's project, "Clothes closets up to date." The report of war work was given by Mrs. Frank Grant. At this juncture, completed garments were handed in and material for more dresses given out. The program committee, with Mrs. D. Thomson, was in charge. Mrs. G. Hazlitt gave a humorous reading, "That Hired Girl." Mrs. H. A. Burwash followed with a reading, "Outwitting Post War Crisis."

TURNS SHIPBUILDER—Don Munday, famous mountaineer, picked to climb high places in the Burrard shipyard, is as sure-footed here atop the raft of a cargo ship where he is installing life-belts, as he was when he explored Mystery Mountain, believed to be the highest peak in the coast range. Another peak in the range was named Mount Munday by the Canadian Geographic Board, in honor of this noted Vancouver climber.

200 Friends Honor Miss Winnifred Gainer

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 12 — (ENS) —About two hundred neighbors and friends gathered in South Monaghan Municipal Hall this week to honor Miss Winnifred Gainer, prior to her marriage. Reeve Fred Barnard acted as chairman for the program of community singing, a duet by Yvonne and Eddie Lee with guitar accompaniment, two quartette numbers by Harland Seens, Eldridge White, Norman Thompson and Herbert Malcolm, a solo by Eldridge White, and a reading by Clara Seens. The highlight of the gathering was a large table of miscellaneous gifts, including a walnut table from the United Church choir. Mrs. George Dean read an address on behalf of the Y.P.U., church and community. Lunch was served and dancing enjoyed to music supplied by Bradshaw, Lee and Mrs. Jewison.

Personals.

Miss Mary Fair, nurse-in-training in Lindsay, spent a few days with her father, Mr. and Mrs. James Fair.

A euchre and dance to secure funds to send cigarettes to boys overseas from this community will be held on February 23 in South Monaghan Municipal Hall.

Guild Holds Party

MARMORA, Feb. 12 —(ENS) — Fourteen tables were in play at the euchre party held in the Parish Hall, Wednesday evening by Group 1 of St. Paul's Ladies Guild. Mrs. Dermont Bedore won the ladies prize. George Aunger and Charles Leonard tied for first place among the men. The latter was successful on the break of the tie. Refreshments were served and Doug and Myrt Jones played for dancing.

BLOOD PLASMA!

Cyril R. Cooper, 20-year-old veteran of World War II, and an employee of the Peterborough works of Canadian General Electric Company Limited, knows its value. Here is what he says:

"I was given blood plasma, when I was injured, and I have no hesitancy in saying that, without it, I would never have pulled through."

Deaths, resulting from war casualties, have been reduced to about three per cent. largely as a result of blood plasma being immediately available.

The military draft is making deep inroads into the ranks of leading U.S. golfers with the result the touring fraternity will shortly become a skeleton of its former make-up. Among those departing from the $5,000 open tournament now in full swing at San Antonio, Texas, will be Harold (Jug) McSpaden, winner of the recent Phoenix and San Francisco tourneys, who will report Feb. 17 at Philadelphia for board examination. Sam Byrd, former Detroit baseballer, will report Wednesday at Birmingham, Ala., while George Fazio left San Antonio last night to report to his draft board at Ambler, Pa.

President Ed Dudley of the Professional Golfers Association said at San Antonio only one more tournament, the New Orleans Open Feb. 25 to 28, had been definitely scheduled for the winter season.

Declaring the St. Louis Cardinals, "with good men two-deep for every position," appeared to be the team to beat in the National League, President Branch Rickey of Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday expressed worry regarding his own team. Five of his regulars, including Bobby Bragan, Mickey Owen, Arky Vaughan, Bill Herman and Dixie Walker, were going before their draft boards March 15, he said: "If we lose them, it will be a terrible blow," he added.

Ted Broadribb, manager of Sgt. Freddie Mills of the R.A.F. announced at London he had cabled a challenge in behalf of his fighter to Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York for a title bout with Sgt. Joe Louis, if and when the heavyweight champion arrives in Britain.

Has 16 Players

Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, former Detroit Tiger manager, has rounded up 16 major and minor league ball players for the team at Great Lakes naval training station for his third season there but no less than seven of the candidates are pitchers.

Because of back and knee conditions, Bronko Nagurski was classified as 4-F after his pre-induction examination at Fort Snelling and it was announced yesterday the former grid star and wrestler of Minneapolis had been rejected for any military service.

Jane Crum of Orangeburg, S.C., yesterday captured the final of the women's golf tournament at Palm Beach, Fla., with a 9 to 7 victory over Mrs. Harvey Mack of Easton, Pa. Miss Crum was one over women's part for the Palm Beach Country Club course.

The Narragansett Racing Association yesterday announced at Pawtucket, R.I., the holding of two race meetings for a total of 70 days during the 1944 season. The spring meet of 28 days opens April 12 while the autumn series will get under way Aug. 14.

Discharged from the U.S. Army because of injuries received at Casablanca, Pitcher Tommy Warren from Tulsa, Oka., has been signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers. The club also announced the signing of Catcher Ray Hayworth, 39, who had previously played with the team.

Indoor Race Meet

The Metropolitan Jockey Club yesterday announced the holding of the $25,000 Wood Memorial Handicap at Jamaica track, New York, Saturday, April 22. Last year's handicap was won by Count Fleet.

Gil Dodds, Boston Divinity student, will go to the post as a father in the mile feature at the Boston A.A. games at Boston Garden tonight, his wife having presented him with an eight-pound son, John Lloyd Dodds. His chief opponent will be Bill Hulse, holder of the American outdoor mile record.

With Calumet Farm's Mar-Kell scratched, the popular choices for the $5,000 Black Helen Handicap at Hialeah Park today are Wise Moss and Silvestra, the jockey for the latter being Ted Atkinson of Toronto who has been making an impressive showing at the winter meeting.

Ball Managers Will Not Ask Preference

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, announced last night that club owners of professional baseball would not ask for preferential draft treatment of their players during the war.

The commissioner's statement was occasioned by the exchange of correspondence between Stephen Early, secretary of President Roosevelt, and J. G. T. Spink of St. Louis, publisher of Sporting News, a weekly paper devoted chiefly to baseball. Spink sought an expression from the White House on the game's future during the war.

"Mr. Spink is not a member of the baseball organization and does not speak for anybody but himself," Landis said in his statement. "Nobody authorized to speak for professional baseball has requested preferential treatment of any kind for any player. Most emphatically, no such request will be made while we are engaged in this war."

Letter from F. D. R.

Landis authorized publication a hitherto unpublished letter wrote to Maj.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, which expressed baseball's attitude. The letter, written to Hershey last December 23, said in part:

"Reports drift in here that there is under way some sort of scheme for the exemption, or deferment, or other preferential treatment of professional baseball players under the Selective Service law.

"In accordance with the President's letter of January 15, 1942, to me, suggesting the continuance of professional baseball but observing that:—'I know you will agree with me that individual players who are of military or naval age should go without question into the service'—I have repeatedly stated on behalf of everybody connected with professional baseball that we ask no preferential treatment, that we would be disgraced if we got it and that we desire that all laws and regulations having to do with this war shall operate upon our personnel precisely as upon the other 130,000,000 of our population.

"Arguments that preferential treatment would serve 'morale' can only have the effect of making that word odious...."

City Carpetball

The results are flowing in very much better and it appears that every game was played as per schedule during the past week.

There is little change in the standings. The Orangemen have added a few points to their lead whilst the Old Sweats slipped into third place as they let the Fighting Parsons get the better of them last evening. It was tough going, especially in the last frame. The Legion boys need three to win and were laying about five when George Palmer, who was skipping for the Sons, rolled one that cancelled the whole shebang.

Results for the past week:

Brintons No. 9, 9-20 vs. BESL No. 9, 14-4.

All Saints' No. 5, 9-11 vs. PFD No. 8, 11-14.

LOL, No. 2, 20-9 vs. St. James' No. 7, 11-8.

St. James' No. 7, 14-8 vs. PFD No. 8, 10-12.

Wardens No. 6, 16-8 vs. LOL No. 2, 10-12.

BESL, No. 1, 7-11 vs. SOE, No. 3, 12-14.

Schedules for next week:

BESL, No. 1, vs. PFD No. 8.
Wardens No. 6 vs. St. James' No. 7.

Basketball, dormant at the Y.M.C.A. since the House League wound up shortly after Christmas, will take the stage again tonight when the opening game in the three-club City League will start its schedule for the Chester Kemp Memorial Trophy. Five of the captains who led teams in the House League will be in action as the C.G.E. team battles with Pete McArthur's Orphans in a fixture billed to start at 7.15 o'clock and some lively basketball should be seen. Joe Stewart who captained the champion Algerines in the House League will have Harry Currie who led the Destroyers on his lineup along with Shadget, Geraghty and other House League players. McArthur who was the captain of the Fairmiles will have Jim Ferguson skipper of the Corvettes and Steve Csumrik, leader of the Frigates on his Orphan battle array tonight, along with Baird and several other capable cagers. On paper the two outfits look to be evenly matched and with each trying to beat the gun and start the schedule with a win there should be plenty of action. Military Training Centre, the other team in the league, will play their first game next week.

C.G.E. Generals and the Y Cadets got the jump on their respective opposition in the opening games of the playoffs in the Ladies' Basketball League last night. Beaten twice during the regular season by the St. John's the Generals turned on the Saints in the first game of the senior semi-finals and beat them 33 to 24, taking the lead in their best-of-three series for the right to meet Transports in the finals. However the round is not over yet. St. John's are a fighting crew and will probably make the second game a real argument. In the intermediate division Y Cadets triumphed over the Normals 18 to 15 in a hard-fought battle. This is a best-of-five series and although the Cadets came down in front last night the round is still a wide open affair and Normal may spill the beans in the second contest.

For the Food Industry War Saving Drive wrestling show scheduled for the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night Promoter Frank Tunney, anxious to co-operate fully with the local committee has planned one of the most attractive cards of the season. The main bout is a natural between two of the cleverest and cleanest-cut grapplers that have been seen here in Whipper Billy Watson, the British Empire champ and Vic Holbrook, the good-looking giant from the Pacific Coast. Watson has long been a favorite here but it is safe to say that his opponent Tuesday night will get a large share of public approval for his style of wrestling resembles the Whipper's. Holbrook is taller and heavier than the pride of Toronto and moves about as fast and Peterborough is favored by being given the first chance to see these two stars tangle. There is plenty of action indicated in the other bouts too. Pat Flanagan, always a favorite here meets the formidable Jan Gotch who will probably not have a friend in the house when he mixes it with the Toronto Irishman in the semi-final attraction while that perpetual bad man Al Bunny Dunlop collides with the fast-moving Joe Maich of Brantford in the opener. Maich has not been here for a long time and will get a warm welcome back, especially if he succeeds in taking Dunlop for a ride.

Baseball in Oshawa looks to be back on a sound footing according to George Campbell who tells about the party held this week by the Oshawa Minor Baseball Association as follows: "The wind-up party staged by the officers of the Oshawa Minor Baseball Association, last evening at Masonic Temple, was a very successful affair. One of the highlights of the evening, of course, aside from the enjoyable dancing session which concluded the program, was the refreshment intermission, in which league members of the six minor teams, all batted at least .700, the "hot-dogs," sandwiches, cakes, coffee and Coca-Cola taking a terrific licking. President Frank McCallum was busy at a council meeting, so for the first part of the evening, Vice-Pres. Matt. Johnston carried on. The "champs" received their crests and windbreakers, gift from their sponsor, as well as the "Lynbrook Trophy" while the "runners-up" also received crests from the Association. The baseball picture was very interesting, and taken all round, it was a fitting climax to the very successful move to bring baseball back to Oshawa. Officials of the Oshawa Minor Baseball Association, i.e. all officers, executive members, coaches, managers, sponsors, umpires and others who "gave a hand" can feel justly proud of their 1943 work. It looks as if baseball is back on solid ground here in Oshawa. After some of the remarks made last night, we might be able to get more than one lone "hardball diamond here in Oshawa this next summer. The Mayor and a couple of his aldermen were listening."

Horsemen are referring to the 70th Kentucky Derby, to be run at Churchill Downs, on May 6th, as the "Grand Canyon Derby" because it looks, at this time, to be so wide open. With the race almost three months away, there isn't a star among the 1944 three years olds, who graduated from the ranks of 2 year olds of 1943. Mention any of the lot, and an innocent bystander will name three others that can beat him. And chances are that somebody else will name six that he thinks can beat those three. There's no Count Fleet, no Alsab, no Whirlaway, no Bimelech to stand out and attract attention, and to be made the majority choice to win the run for the roses on May 6th. They all took turns beating each other last year, and nobody is sure they won't repeat the performance over the longer routes. Occupy, off his record for races and money won in 1943, ranked as the champion 2 year old. But Occupy is a son of Bull Dog, as was Occupation, the 2 year old flier of 1942, and Bull Dog colts rarely are successful over routes beyond a mile and a sixteenth. Furthermore, Occupy's legs were fired recently, and it is unlikely that an attempt will be made to bring him around to early spring racing.

"Bobby Jones, who wore his laurels as gracefully as anyone in sports history, has been singled out for more honors in retirement," writes Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal. "When sport writers throughout the United States were asked what they considered the three great achievements in American sports, Jones' golfing grand slam in 1930 led all selections. It outranked the prodigious hitting and pitching of Babe Ruth and the track feats of famed Jesse Owens. The fact that Jones' remarkable golfing slam appeared something of a standout selection probably didn't make it any easier task in picking three from the host of individual and team achievements down through the years. The field was a wide-open one, included all sports. The records are studded with either startling upsets still talked of wherever sportsmen gather, feats of endurance, as well as athletic careers, which because of their sustained brilliance have commanded the respect and admiration of sports followers. It is somewhat surprising that the great endurance record of Lou Gehrig didn't rate higher in the list. Not so surprising, though, that Joe Louis' imposing ring record didn't attain higher rating, because such feats are too recent. Louis' reign, even if it ends when he returns to the ring after the war, will still rate a more important niche in later years. But there was no dearth of material. There were the pitching feats of the immortal Christy Mathewson and the notable record of Ty Cobb as an all-round baseball star and base-stealer de luxe. And among team achievements in the diamond game the amazing pennant drive of Boston Braves in 1914 is still reviewed with considerable awe."

Generals, Cadets Victors At Basketball

C. G. E. Generals and Y Cadets broke from the barrier in the first games of the Ladies' Basketball League playoffs at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

In the senior series, a best-of-three semi-final round to decide which club will meet the Transports in the finals, the Generals, went one up by beating the St. John's team for the first time this season 33 to 24.

Cadets got away to a good start in the intermediate series finals, a best-of-five affair, by defeating Normals 18 to 15.

The senior battle was a well-played affair. St. John's who had beaten the Generals twice in the regular schedule made the mistake last night of paying too much attention in the first half to checking the Electricians' scoring ace, Mary McPherson. As a result Fran. Merrett went on a scoring rampage for the winners running in five baskets in the first half and that was the ball game right there. Generals led by 19 to 11 at half time and while the Saints fought back hard and scored almost point for point with the winners in the second half, they could not make any impression upon the first-period lead.

Mary McPherson with 12 points and Fran. Merrett with 10 led the Generals while Marg. Hawthorne topped the St. John's scorers with eight points.

Generals:—33, Eleanor Craig, 3; Fran. Merrett 10, Dot Allen 2, Shirley Mortimer, Monica Lawless 2, Isobel Bullock 2, June Moore 2, Mary McPherson 12.

St. John's—24, Marg. Hawthorne 8, M. Dyer 2, Theresa Heslip 4, Eileen Hewett 2, Eva Clark 5, Doreen Groombridge 2, Peggy Lawless 1, Edith Hart-Maxwell.

Referee—Howie Macdonald. Umpire, H. Smith.

The second game was a see-saw affair in which both teams battled valiantly. Normal took command of the game in the early stages and on two baskets by P. O'Donnel and one by V. McNally opened up a lead of 6 to 0. It looked like a shutout for the Cadets at the rest session but just before half time baskets by B. Stewart and D. Saunders closed the gap and it was 6 to 4 when the period ended.

Cadets opened up the third quarter with a determination that threw Normal back on the defensive and a sudden scoring splurge saw the Y girls not only take the lead but run the score up to 18 to 11 in their favor before the quarter ended. Then Normals rallied in the last period to score four points without a comeback from the Cadets, leaving the final score 18 to 15 for the Y squad.

Y Cadets—18, N. Soothern 2, Pat, Martyn, B. Stewart 2, B. Cook, M. Spicer, M. Barrett 6, Betty Lou Braund 2, A. Young, N. Ackerman, B. Saunders 6, Barb. Weir, L. Edwards.

Normals—15, F Sexsmith, P. O'Donnel 8, R. Chapelle 3, V. McNally 2, M. Howes 2, H. Baird, J. Griffin, M. Duffett, A. Nelson.

Referee—H. Smith. Umpire Jessie Morrow.

SEDITION CHARGE — Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, Chicago author and lecturer. She and 26 other men and women are facing sedition charges.

VALENTINE PIN-UP GIRL—Cupid's choice for 1944's Valentine pin-up girl is Linda Darnell, lovely movie actress, who poses in a heart-shaped frame.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The annual competition for the Neill Trophy is scheduled to commence on Wednesday February 16 at 6.45 p.m. Skips are asked to make their entry to the secretary at once. The only stipulation is that rinks must be of schedule strength. Two rounds will be played each night. The fee is $2.00 per rink.

Mrs. Gerald Woods' rink is leading down at the Seigniory Club, Que. Mrs. O. DeGraw has also two wins and is in the running.

It is expected that by playing double-headers (all postponed games) on Monday and Tuesday that we will wind up the schedule games, and at that only one day behind time. This speaks well for the co-operation of all. It has been one grand week for curling and the boys sure did take advantage of it.

Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. E. Metcalfe, Mrs. J. Dunkerly and Mrs. A. Leach leave this afternoon for Hamilton. They play in the ladies' bonspiel on Monday.

High School Pupils Have Enjoyable Party

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12—(ENS).—Memorial Hall was the scene of a gay Valentine party this week when students and ex-students of the High School gathered for a social evening. Musical games and folk dances conducted by the Rev. G. Kelly provided fun and enjoyment for all. A short pantomime entitled "The Lamps Went Out" was presented by pupils of Grade 10. Following refreshments served by the senior girls, the party concluded with dancing to music provided by Miss A. Waterman and the Boys' Orchestra.

Personal

Members of the Mission Band of Lakefield United Church enjoyed a jolly skating party on Thursday after school. Following skating on Regent Street open-air rink, games were played in the church basement. Supper was served by Mrs. Stanley Richardson, Mrs. Charles Hunter, and Mrs. G. F. Kelly. There were forty children present.

Peterboro Rink Leads In Race For Trophy

SEIGNIORY CLUB, QUE., Feb. 12 (CP)—Mrs. G. Wood of Peterborough continued to lead the field of 32 rinks in the second round of play for the Sewell Trophy here yesterday when she chalked up a 16-4 win over Mrs. W. A. MacGregor of Outremont.

The Peterborough rink, which yesterday scored a decisive 17-5 victory over Mrs. W. G. McNeill of Walwatasa, Wis., is five points in front of the nearest rivals, a Royal Montreal four skipped by Mrs. J. C. Riddell. Mrs. Riddell yesterday turned back Mrs. W. S. Hubbs, Pembroke, 15-3, which, coupled with her 10-3 win over Mrs. H. W. Reynolds of Montreal West, Thursday, pulled her close to the leading rink.

Right behind Mrs. Riddell is her club mate, Mrs. G. E. Cheese, who in Thursday's play led her Royal Montreal four to a 13-7 win over Mrs. W. A. MacGregor, Outremont, and yesterday put down a Montreal West rink skipped by Mrs. W. J. Winterson, 15-4.

Another strong contender is Mrs. L. E. Woolley of Toronto Granite, defender of the trophy, who has to her credit a first-round 13-9 win over Miss F. Gladman of Peterborough and a 16-4 victory yesterday over Wauwatosa. Other rinks in the running with two wins achieved thus far in the four-day spiel are Mrs. O. A. DeGraw, Peterborough; Mrs. G. S. Robertson, Toronto Granite; Mrs. G. E. Griffiths, Outremont; Mrs. L. W. Anderson, St. Lawrence; Mrs. D. A. Murray, Royal Montreal; and Mrs. W. J. Williamson, Rideau.

Third-round games start today, and the four rinks with the highest margin of score in three wins will play to a final for the Sewell Trophy. Detailed scores:

Toronto Granite, Mrs. L. E. Woolley, skip, 16; Wauwatosa, Mrs. W. G. McNeill, skip, 4.

Toronto Granite, Mrs. H. G. French, skip, 9; Peterborough, Mrs. C. Westbrooke, skip, 6.

Royal Montreal, Mrs. D. A. Murray, skip, 15; Toronto Granite, Mrs. T. C. Hudson, skip, 5.

Royal Montreal, Mrs. G. E. Cheese, skip, 15; Montreal West, Mrs. J. W. Winterson, skip, 4.

Wauwatosa, Mrs. E. Roth, skip, 17; Brookline, Mrs. G. S. Baldwin, skip, 3.

Rideau, Mrs. W. J. Williamson, skip, 11; Peterborough, Miss F. Gladman, skip, 4.

Peterborough, Mrs. O. A. DeGraw, skip, 17; Montreal West, Mrs. R. B. Cockburn, skip, 11.

Toronto Granite, Mrs. J. Medland, skip, 9; Montreal West, Mrs. F. Heath, skip, 4.

Remember When—

St. Kitts Hold 7-Point Lead Win 24th Game

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Catharines Saints won their 24th game of the Senior O.H.A. season last night and went into a practically unbeatable seven-point lead over Hamilton Majors with a 6-5 triumph against the latter team at Hamilton when Paul Mundrick ran wild to score four of the winners' goals.

The visiting puck-chasers from the peninsula assumed a commanding 4-2 margin before the first recess; kept two tallies ahead of Majors in the second period which wound up 6-4 then held off the home club in the final frame, with Clarence Shillington notching the sole score.

Apart from Mundrick's sterling performance, Red Reynolds and Joe Delmonte earned one counter apiece for the Saints. For Hamilton, Johnny Conick and Shillington grabbed off a pair each, Dillon Brady being good for a singleton. Hamilton's next game is at Toronto Monday night, with the bottom-rung Tars presiding as hosts.

In the Junior "A" series of the O.H.A., Kroehlers sprang a 7-3 surprise on Galt Kists at Stratford with the help of two new westerners, Kullman and Kapusti, the former scoring a brace for his debut in the east. Tindall was also a two-goal sniper for Stratford, the balance being divided by Scilsizzi, Jackson and Kapusti. For Galt, the scorers were Ubriaco, Curik and Kazarian.

Coming out of a lengthy rest because of injuries, Recreationists held Brantford Lions to a 2-1 victory at Port Colborne, Powell getting the deciding goal for the visitors after eight minutes of the third period.

Jug Continues To Lead Golfers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 12—(AP). — Confident Harold (Jug) McSpaden, setting a merry pace along golfdom's winter tournament trail, held the first leg—a dazzling four-under par 67— on his fourth triumph to-day as he moved out ahead of the field in the second 18 holes of the Texas open.

The Philadelphia professional defied near-freezing weather and a stiff north wind to bag five birdies yesterday in finishing 2 strokes in the lead in the opening round. He had only one over-par hole.

Despite the unfavorable conditions 12 pros equalled or bettered part on tough Brackenridge Course.

The weather caused some 30 withdrawals to cut the field to around 126 for to-day's second round.

Two strokes behind McSpaden were Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., Pete Cooper of Rainesville, Fla., and Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind.

Grouped at 70 were Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, Abe Espinosa of Brownsville, Texas, Craig Wood of Mamoroneck, N.Y., and Leonard Dodson of Kansas City.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — (CP). — The Allan Cup hockey competition this year is certain to be a hollow affair. Except for Quebec Aces the teams which figured at the season's start to provide all the action have been disbanded or will not enter the play-offs.

Powerful Pacific Coast teams representing the three services have been broken up. Trail Smoke Eaters, considered the West's strongest civilian team, have announced they will not enter the play-offs because players are tied down by essential war jobs. Only remaining B. C. candidates are two mediocre civilian teams, in Vancouver and New Westminster.

The strong Alberta service teams are ineligible. Calgary Buffaloes, Western intermediate champions, decline to be coaxed into the Allan Cup parade. If Alberta is represented at all it will be by a pick-up crew from Edmonton.

Saskatchewan's outstanding team this season is the unbeaten Saskatoon Navy, ineligible for interprovincial play. Moose Jaw Victories and Flin Flon Bombers may compete for the title of Saskatchewan's second-best Allan Cup candidates.

Manitoba is unlikely to have a representative while the Lakehead has a couple of teams from which an all-star contender may be chosen.

Star-studded service teams in Toronto and Kingston have withdrawn from the O.H.A. and Ontario has only four teams to contest the senior crown, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Porcupine, Sudbury. The three-team Ottawa City League will send its champions into the play-offs.

Champions of the Quebec League—probably either Quebec Aces or Montreal Royals—should enter the Allan Cup race as favorites. Breakup of the Maritimes Service Leagues makes it unlikely a Maritimes champion will emerge strong enough to upset the Quebec winners.

Incidentally:

Dick (New York News) Young says Jack Adams of Detroit attempted to swap Bill Jennings and Kenny Kilrea for New York's Bryan Hextall and quotes Lester Patrick as saying: "Can you top that for pure gall." Hextall has 36 scoring points, Jennings eight and Kilrea two....Bus Wycherley, former major leaguer now in the R.C.A.F., fired five goals as Toronto Fuels beat Canadian Industries 9-5 in the Toronto Metropolitan Hockey League.

Leafs-Canadiens Tangle Saturday

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens—always an incompatible pair in National Hockey League combat—clash tonight in the only N.H.L. game scheduled Saturday.

This time the result means little from a point standpoint to Canadiens, who now lead the second-place Detroit Red Wings by 6½ games with all teams already set for the stretch drive. But it holds plenty of meaning for Leafs, now only a point ahead of the fourth-place Boston Bruins and another two ahead of Chicago Black Hawks.

Whatever the result against Canadiens, Leafs should gain ground against their two rivals in the battle for the last two play-off berths. On Sunday they travel to New York for an engagement with the tail-end Rangers, while Boston entertains the tough Red Wings and Chicago plays host to the equally formidable Canadiens.

The Boston-Detroit tilt is expected to mark the return of Bill Cowley, star Boston centre who suffered a shoulder separation against Toronto Jan. 8. Bruins are currently in the throes of a winning streak, having defeated Chicago and Montreal in their last two assignments.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP). — They're trying to take the fun out of hockey and who do you think is responsible? None other than Red Dutton, who never dodged any fun of fighting as a player.... As managing director of the National Hockey League, Red's new idea is that officials shouldn't interfere in a fight unless more than two players are involved and the best fracases always develop when one athlete tries to pull someone off a teammate, is pulled in turn, etc., etc., while the poor ref. in the middle absorbs most of the punches....In the first fight we've seen under Red's new order, the boys tossed a few roundhouse rights, wrestled a while and then just looked at each other sheepishly...it was as dull as a boxing contest.

Shorts and shells:

Looks as if the southeastern conference schools are serious about resuming football next fall from the way they're lining up coaching staffs ...Newest assistants are El Molinski at Mississippi State and Malcolm Laney at Alabama...Keep your eye on Aaron Perry, the Washington scrapper who has been drawing the biggest raves from hometown scribes since Joe Louis first appeared. Like Louis, he's strictly a deadpan fighter ...Scotty Monteith, veteran boxing manager and promoter, is seriously ill in a Detroit hospital.

Bracken Seeks To Ease Border Rules

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 12 — (CP) —Easing of border-crossing restrictions between Canada and the United States was advocated here to-day by John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader.

In an interview with Detroit and Windsor newspaper men, Mr. Bracken said: "If international finance or some other limiting factor is to continue to jeopardize our relations with people across the American border, it is time we gave consideration to other means of meeting common problems without forbidding personal contacts."

The former Manitoba Premier, here to address a meeting of labor organization members tonight, criticised the border-crossing rules which now forbids Canadians from taking more than $5 to the United States while Americans are allowed to take back $100 worth of goods from Canada to their homes.

Open Up Travel.

"Canada's supply of American dollars is now almost an embarrassment," said Mr. Bracken. "It is time the Canadian Government recognized that it is doing irreparable damage to relationships of the two peoples along the border line..

"I am not pepared to say there should now be unlimited travel, but that time is approaching. In the interests of both the tourist trade and international relationships, travel should be opened up at a time when transportation and other factors will permit of the increased travel without impeding the war effort. In the meantime I feel that some relief should be accorded to Canadians living along the border. They should have the same privileges of cross visits as do their American friends."

Mr. Bracken is expected to make a major announcement with regard to his party's labor policy tonight.

Asked regarding his attitude with regard to the disposition of war plants built and equipped by the government, Mr. Bracken said "the answer to that will have to be determined by whatever disposition would accomplish the greatest degree of general welfare."

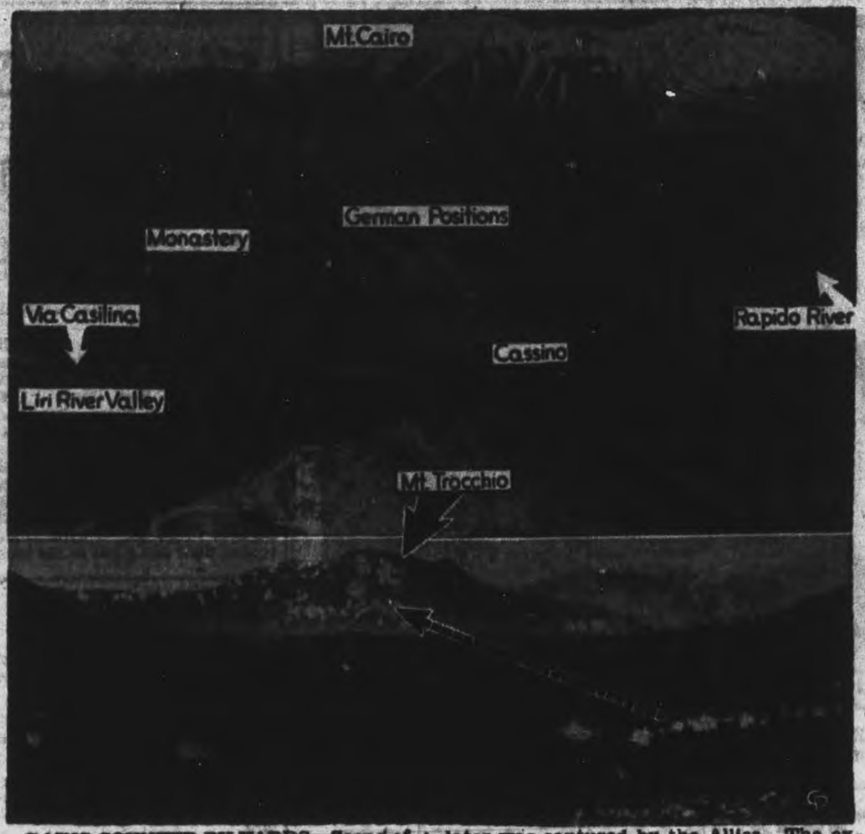
"The state should be sure before disposition of any part of this equipment....that such procedure would be in the best general interest."

Asked to comment on a recent speech by Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, at Toronto, in which the ambassador suggested that members of the British Commonwealth draw closer together in order to present a united front in world affairs, the Progressive Conservative leader said he preferred not to comment.

"I hesitate to discuss issues which may be made controversial, particularly in time of war," said Mr. Bracken.

"It is only being frank to say that different interpretations have been placed on Lord Halifax's speech. As far as I can see, it has presen[ted] no political issue. We certainly are partners in the British Commonwealth of Nations and we shall certainly continue to remain so. But there will be no reversion to colonial status.

DEFIES BOARD — Matthew Smith, secretary of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America, an independent union, who has defied a U.S. war labor board subpoena to attend a Washington hearing on the strike of 25,000 M.E.S.A. members in 52 Ohio and Michigan war plants.



GAINS COUNTED BY YARDS—Scene of the most dogged fighting in the Italian campaign, this aerial view of the Cassino battleground, with strategic points identified, looks peaceful—but just for the moment. The only action is a Nazi shell bursting among Allied gun positions. This shell probably was fired from Mt. Trocchio which later was captured by the Allies. The explosions on the hill are exploding shells from 200 Allied cannon massed in the foreground, some of which are seen flashing. U.S. troops have occupied about one-fourth of Cassino and approach the crest of Mount Cassino, driving within 75 yards of the Benedictine monastry on its summit.

Premier King Asks Labor For Cooperation

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 CP) —Prime Minister Mackenzie King to-day called on labor to adopt an attitude of co-operation and understanding toward the government, rather than one of "criticism."

In reply, officials of the Canadian Congress of Labor told Mr. King and a group of 14 cabinet ministers that failure of the government to co-operate with labor had been definitely harmful to war production.

A frank, wide-open discussion of Labor-Government relations followed presentation to the cabinet of a brief representing the views of the C.C.L., in which the government's labor policy was attacked with particular emphasis on the new wage-control order. The Congress also opposed family allowances as a supplement to low wages but said it favored allowances as part of a general security scheme.

The reference to family allowances brought sharp response from Mr. King, who presided at the meeting, attended by some 150 representatives of affiliated and chartered C.C.L. unions.

Mr. King said there was no intention by the government to have family allowances hold wage levels down. Rather, the government felt that in introducing a social security plan it was moving toward a goal long sought by labor.

"I feel this year at last we have got a program of social security and have said to the people we must have a national standard of living," Mr. King said. "What we should have is support to get that measure through parliament and not opposition on grounds that are not correct.

"There never was a thought in the mind of the government to make family allowances a substitute for fair wages."

Mr. King said the Congress brief failed to give any cognisance to the fact the country was still in the midst of war.

"No one can say today how long the war will last," he continued. "We are witnessing the possibility of terrible reverses in Italy that may prolong the war not for days or months but for years."

On the home front, the problem of great importance was inflation and the Congress had failed to mention it.

The battle of inflation could only be maintained by holding the price ceiling and it was essential to the well-being of every worker that prices should be established.

In stabilization orders there were some measures unnecessarily severe and the government was prepared to amend them.

"The government realizes it can't carry on the war without the co-operation of all elements in the country," Mr. King said. "Why should we want to antagonize labor?"

A. R. Mosher, C.C.L. president, said while Labor had been given representation on some advisory committees it had been left off administrative boards.

He urged the government to give labor an opportunity to further consider the collective bargaining code which Mr. King announced yesterday will be made public next week. Some of the most objectionable features of the code had already been adopted by Quebec.

Wants Wage Policy

Dealing with the Congress position on family allowances, Mr. Mosher said: "The fact is you suggest family allowances following an order-in-council freezing low wages in this country."

Consideration should not be given to family allowances until substandard wages were corrected.

"If the government would give us a wage policy that will provide a proper basis for wages we could come in and support family allowances," he said.

The Congress was wholeheartedly behind the Dominion's war effort and could do a much better job with government co-operation.

"Thousands of workers in this country are unemployed in the midst of war," he continued, "So far as I know there is no definite plan to give these people employment. That is an indication the government doesn't realize we are still in the midst of war."

The C.C.L. today called upon the government to undertake a complete survey of Canadian industry, agriculture, and potential markets as the basis for a full-employment policy.

Polish Refuse To Give Ground

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP) — It was reported today that Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin in a personal letter to Prime Minister Churchill has voiced the Russian objections to some members of the Polish government in London and this latest communication is believed to offer little hope of an early solution of the knotty Polish problem.

In reply to a letter from Mr. Churchill, Premier Stalin was believed to have declared his reluctance to deal with certain members of the Polish government whom he alleged to be anti-Russian.

It is known that Moscow is displeased with Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, Polish commander-in-chief, Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, Polish president, Marian Kukiel Minister of Defence, and Tadeusz Romer, Foreign Minister.

Paper Suspended

The Poles have contended they could not shake up their government just to please the Russians. They also have been firm, publicly at least, in refusing to accept outright the Curzon line, suggested by Russia as a border.

Many believe the Poles would accept the Curzon Line, however, if a way were found to save the London government's face when and if it gets back to Warsaw.

The Poles' refusal to give ground in the Russian dispute may have figured in the Ministry of Information's action today in cutting off the paper supply of the unofficial weekly Polish newspaper, "Wiadomosci Polskie." The newspaper has carried much criticism of Russia.

"The editor of 'Wiadomosci Polskie' had been personally warned that passages in his paper were calculated to stir up discord among the United Nations, but these warnings have not been effective," the Ministry of Information said in explaining the withdrawal of its support.

The publishers said the Ministry of Information had informed them it "no longer approves production of any copies in the United Kingdom and present paper stocks will be frozen for "further directions."

The ministry declined to comment beyond referring to Minister of Information Brendan Bracken's speech in the House of Commons several months ago when he said he considered it quite proper to withhold supplies of paper from foreigners using it to foment discord among the United Nations.

The weekly had been outspoken on the Russian-Polish border dispute. Its editor called the Ministry's action inexplicable, declaring:

"Our policy has been anti-German and pro-Polish. Our columns are open to all classes of opinion."

Offical British quarters declined to comment, but it was understood that the messake had been transmitted to London last week-end by Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British Ambassador to Moscow. The message was said to have been in reply to a letter from Churchill which Sir Archibald carried on his recent return to the Russian capital.

ROWDYISM BANNED.

SHEFFIELD, England (CP) — Sheffield University students have, through their own organization, banned rowdyism at the annual conferment of degrees. They have their own methods of enforcing the "no noise" rule and dealing with offenders. At a recent ceremony there was only one incident which a student said was to "maintain tradition."

VALENTINES

The word from the Post Office this morning is a heavy turnover in Valentines, both for city and out-of-town delivery. Starting on Thursday, the mail in this category reached heavy proportions Friday and the rush continues today.

CROWDED TRAINS

Canadians made disconsolate by the crowded conditions of their trains these days may find some solace in the sad plight of English travellers. A voyager returned states that compartments on British coaches that were designed to hold six people are now loaded with anywhere from 10 to 27 passengers. One station in London has 1,400 trains passing in and out each day.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS

Mrs William Boulton, of Cobourg, who disappeared the night of February 2 and who is believed to have been drowned, was a former Peterborough resident. Her husband was employed with Confederation Life, and was active in the Masons. Mrs. Boulton was the former Janet Livingstone.

HELD FOR VAGRANCY

Russel Thompson, 28, formerly of Montreal pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy in police court this morning and at the request of the police was remanded until Monday. "I have been staying at the police station for several nights," Thompson said "in the hope of getting ahead a little bit." Bail was fixed at $500.

AIRMAN MISSING

FO Carroll Joseph Donahue, holder of the Distinguished Flying Medal, is reported missing on active service after air operations overseas, the Department of National Defence announced today. The flier is the son of J. J. Donahue, 63 Lindsay street south, Lindsay.

FIRE REPORT

Right in the middle of Friday night's snow storm, at 1.53 a.m. to be exact, some unprincipled individual pulled the alarm at Box 8, corner of King and George streets, and set off a false alarm. It was the second one in 1944. Chief Gimblett said this morning. Overheated pipes at 183 Bethune street, residence of W. Suddards, caused an alarm at 12.10 p.m. Friday, and a combination of chimney and pipes trouble another at 4.38 p.m. at 735 Water street, A. Nelson. This morning at 7 o'clock another chimney fire took the fire truck over to Ashburnham at 612 Armour road, home of Mrs. M. Davis. In none of these fires was any damage caused.

GIFT OF PIANO

Many of the minor incidents in the review of the affairs of Nicholls Hospital as reported at its annual meeting last week were omitted from the published account, but one item which should have been mentioned was the presentation of a piano for staff purposes by the ladies of Lakefield.

Wartime Housing Tenants Fight Through Snow Drifts To Street

When February takes the reins of Kawartha winters the weather becomes mean and malevolent, winds snarl about the houses, snow blows and swirls along the streets, and piles up against frustrating doors, and the community thermostats demand fresh attention and the coal piles dwindle.

January loitered and dallied in pleasant contemplation of the new year; a young and smiling fellow he was, and usually is, but memories of churlish February prepared folks for the blasts that swung in from the east yesterday.

The snow plow contractors had lanes open this morning, but some of the late faring pedestrians felt that this service might have been begun last night around 10 or 11 o'clock.

Board of Works graders, with only one or two light canters in their seasonal record up to the present, were sent into action early this morning.

"It has been an easy winter so far," City Engineers Parsons said. "There has been next to nothing since the first of January, and very little snow prior to that. Our snow problem has been remarkably light."

On Their Own

Buses encountered the first clutching at their wheels since winter set in, and the tenants of Wartime Housing in the area west of High street awakened this morning to the snow piling effects of the winds that sweep over those Monaghan moors.

For them the only way out was by breaking their own paths, legging it through medium drifts of a foot or two in depth. No plows appear in that community, but, any way, they weren't needed this winter, until February got down to its sullen business.

Traffic conditions were rather heavy on No. 7 highway east of the city this morning, and Otonabee roads needed plow service, although cars were getting through without much difficulty.

Junior Red Cross To Have Fish Pond

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12—(ENS).—The regular meeting of the Junior Red Cross was held this week, when there were 34 members present. It was moved by Jean Spence and Joyce Hutt that the society sponsor a fish pond at the commencement exercises. The girls were asked to bring in more names for the autograph quilt. Suggestions for raising funds were also discussed.

City Trust Recognizes A. McIntyre's Service

A. A. McIntyre has at least one souvenir of his municipal experience as a member of the City Trust Commission. It is the following resolution passed at the Commission's meeting last Tuesday:

"Moved by Mr. Peck, seconded by Mr. Morris, and carried unanimously, that in view of the fact that Mr. A. A. McIntyre's term of office has expired and as he was not reappointed by the Council, the Commissioners wish to record that Mr. McIntyre was appointed a Commissioner in August 1930, and therefore served for approximately 14 year. During that period he rendered excellent service. He was always diligent in the discharge of his duties and ready to assist in any way possible. The Commissioners wish to record their sincere thanks for his services, and the secretary was instructed to send Mr. McIntyre a copy of this resolution."

Sgt. Ray Lean Dies Of Wounds

SGT. RAYMOND LEAN

Word has been received to-day that Sgt. Raymond Lean, who was reported wounded a few days ago, died February 1 from injuries received while fighting in Italy. He is the son of Mrs. Edith Lean, 417 Roger Street.

Enlisting with the 1st Midland Regiment, he later transferred to the Irish Regiment of Canada with which he was serving when he was wounded January 31. A brother, Pte. Wilbert N. Lean, is serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Before enlisting at Picton in 1940, Sgt. Lean was employed with the Johnson Construction Company. After training in Canada he went overseas in April, 1943. In November he was part of a contingent to land in Italy.

COBOURG, Feb. 12 — The Dye Works leads the local men's bowling league with William's in second place and Dunham Hotel next. In order of standing the rest are Scougale's, Imperials, Baltimore Hotel, Dark Horses and Cobourg Cleaners. Highest score for last week was made by Norman Kingsbury of Scougale's.

SAVE $3,352,500,000.

LONDON— (CP) — By saving approximately $3,352,500,000 during 1943, Britain's small savers broke all records. They saved $2,803,500,000 in 1942.

Song Recital Brings $10 To War Victims

Somewhere it has been written or said "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," giving to it a quality outside of the normal function of the pleasure one receives when listening to it, which perhaps is best amplified by the bibical story of how David played before Saul when the evil spirit had possessed him, in order to nullify its effects and restore him to his normal mind once again.

Were such qualities as this possible in the twentieth century, it might have been just as easy to use this charm instead of guns and ammunition, not to mention all the sacrifice of lives and human suffering that has been caused during these latter years, but since this enlightened day and generation has produced such inhuman monsters whose only thought is to trample every one except their own kind underfoot, the next best thing that this or any other of the finer arts can do, is to use their time and talents to good effect in helping along other things which have a successful prosecution of the overthrow of these tyrants at heart.

In this particular field of art, local musicians have given a share towards the raising of money to assist the objects that the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund seeks to serve, there having many instances when this column has reported money raised through their efforts, the latest of which appears to-day through a recital of songs given by the pupils of Mrs. R. Williamson in the Recreation Room at the Y.W.C.A., last Tuesday night.

For this particular event, Miss Elsie Chambers made a contribution to the cause by giving her services as accompanist, thereby having a share in the credit due to the teacher and pupils for the part they all played in raising this money for the fund.

This would seem an opportune time to state that in the not too distant future, the choirs of the Salvation Army, Mark Street United Church and Murray Street Baptist Church are planning a joint effort under the leadership of their respective choirmasters to give further assistance in this same direction, due notice of which will appear at a latter date.

Personal Gifts To-day.

Personality speaks loudly, when people are interested to the point of giving individually on their own to help the good cause along, and it is refreshing to note two such gifts in to-day's list, both of them preferring to be known under their initials "M.M." and 'J.T." of whom it should be recorded that they have given in a similar manner on more than one former occasion.

Before listing the contributions, the fund management would once again suggest that Valentine parties could add to the pleasure they would give, if they included some thought for others in distress, by making them the means of giving a helping to other people in the time of their trouble.

Fire Destroys Chandos Farm Home Jan. 27 Neighbors Rebuild New One In 2 Weeks

The fire that destroyed the home of Scott Windsor in Chandos Thursday afternoon, January 27, kindled the sympathy and community spirit of his neighbors into prompt action of providing him and his family with a new house and furnishings in less than two weeks.

Allan Caldwell, a former reeve of the township at the northeast corner of Peterborough county, related to the Examiner today the story of this warm hearted and practical response to a family's misfortune and distress.

"That's the kind of people we have in Chandos, if I do say so. Mr. Windsor lost practically evertything in the fire except his stove. A week from the following Saturday night the neighbors had built for him a new house, comfortably furnished, and Mr. Windsor and his family were back again under their own roof.

The men of that section decided before the ashes were cold that they were going to do something. So the next day they turned out into the woods, cut trees into logs, hauled the logs to Harold Scott's mill at Apsley, where they were cut into lumber.

The lumber was hauled back to Mr. Windsor's place, and the men started to work on a new house. In the meantime the people arranged to get help from the Red Cross, and they also took up a collection among themselves.

When the house was finished, the furnishings were brought along, and on that Saturday night the Windsor family were together again in their own home. Mr. Windsor and his wife have seven children, and on the following Monday, that was this week, the children started off to school again.

Beds and clothing, a tub full of dishes, chairs and so on, enough of the things they need were provided. The house is a story and a half. Don't you think that was fast work? That is a sample of the kind of people we have in Chandos, and shows what real neighbors are.

There was the expense of getting the logs cut at Harold Scott's mill; you know the local Member. So, I went out to see him yesterday afternoon; and, just as I expected, there's no lumbering bill. He knows the most of us up there. Mr. Scott said to me: "Allan, those neighbors are a grand lot of people. Everybody would say that, but I happen to know them, too, and it is just a real privilege to have a hand in helping them with such good work.

And Mr. Caldwell concluded: "You know the old saying, 'all's well that ends well'".

PRESIDENT AGAIN—Hector A. Arnold, Seymour township, who was re-elected president of the Northumberland Cheese Producers' Association for his third term at the annual meeting held here. Mr. Arnold is the president also of Crow Bay Cheese and Butter Company and a past president of Campbellford Cheese Board.

Youth Is Charged With Theft Woman's Purse

Norman J. Buott, 16, Toronto was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C., in police court this morning with stealing a purse and $39 from Mrs. Percy Terrio, 462 Elm street.

At the request of the crown the youth was remanded until Monday morning without plea or election, bail being fixed at $500.

Buott was arrested shortly after 10 o'clock Friday night after some effective teamwork on the part of a cyclist and two motorists.

Mrs. Terrio, was walking along Charlotte street near Rubidge street when a youth grabbed her purse containing $39, ran west to Reid street and south on that street. Mrs. Terrio called out to Jack Kidd, 259 Reid street who was passing on his bicycle that the fleeing man had her purse.

Kidd immediately set out in pursuit, caught up to the purse snatcher near Campbell's Dairy and regained the stolen purse.

Meanwhile Mrs. Terrio had ran into the house at 301 Reid street and gave the alarm. Adrian Brooks and Jack Paris living at that address jumped into an automobile and took up the hunt after the fugitive who had ran south after Kidd had taken the purse away from him. The two caught Buott in a porch of a Reid street house and brought him to the police station.

Two H. & P.E. Soldiers Said Dead In Italy

Pte. John James Nash, who fought with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Italy, has died of illness while a prisoner of war, it was reported in the casualty list today. At first reported missing, this Marmora soldier was later known to have been captured by the enemy. A native of Bath, England, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lena Nash of Marmora, and two children.

Another member of the Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment who has made the supreme sacrifice and whose name appears to-day is that of Pte. Malcolm George McBain, who died in action in the Italian fighting. His mother is Mrs. Thomas McIndoo of R.R. No. 1, Ida.

Trustees Want Exchange Of School Building

Trustees of the Otonabee school area board proposed to the township council Monday exchange of the town hall for the junior room school west of Thompson's garage.

The trustees visiting the council were: Harry Stewart, Joseph Rylott, Charles Nelson, Arthur Renwick and Stinson Lancashire.

The junior room school building is actually the old Foresters hall which the board rents from the Foresters. The owners decline to make any improvements and the school trustees do not own the property.

The deputation proposed that the town hall could be used for both junior and senior classes under the one roof, and the council could move down the street and around the corner to the junior building. L. A. Copp the Public School Inspector was unable to attend the meeting, but it was learned that he was favorable to the plan.

The council transferred the question to its next meeting, but promised to inspect the buildings and try to arrive at a solution of the problem.

For some time it had been hoped by some of the Otonabee people that with the adoption of the school area the community might be able to build a school to include in its teaching the modern features of vocational training. It would also be healthful for the pupils, but in the meantime the Department has suspended grants for new structures until after the war.

SCHOOL CLERK DIES.

OXFORD, England —(CP) —Edward Holland Bellamy, who spent more than 50 years at Oxford University, mainly as clerk of the schools whose job it was to notify students of their success or failure at exams died recently aged 84.

IN U.S. ARMY AIR FORCE—Sergeant John Leonard Martin, United States Army Air Force, stationed at Elgin Field, Florida, is expected in Peterborough on March 1st, on furlough. Sgt. Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Martin, 117 Lock Street, and formerly played hockey with the O.H.A. He left Peterborough in 1937 for Toledo, Ohio, from which point he was inducted in August, 1942, and sent to Camp Perry, Ohio. He received basic training at Atlantic City and was then sent to his present station.

Red Cross Hears Work Reports

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12 (ENS) — Mrs. H. Ketchum, newly elected president of the Lakefield Red Cross, presided for the executive meeting held in the work rooms. There was a splendid attendance, including representatives from the Beaver Club and Young's Point.

Mrs. L. Quackenbush, treasurer, reported a balance of $305.76 in the bank. Mrs. W. E. Gillman, work convener, gave the following report: Shipped—4 quilts, 39 articles of clothing for Russian Relief, 1 carton of furs and 15 garments to children's aid. Goods on hand—23 shirt waists, 9 boys' shirts, 1 pair pyjamas and 4 quilts.

Come To Rescue

Mrs. Gillman made special mention of the splendid response to an appeal for aid to the Windsor Family of Apsley whose home was destroyed by fire, and reported 243 articles sent them.

Mrs. George Graham, knitting convener submitted the following report—13 pairs of gloves, 40 pairs sox, 8 turtle neck sweaters, and 2 ribbed helmets. Mrs. S. A. Grylls reported the month's quota of surgical dressings completed and a quilt being quilted. n reporting for the Blood Donors Clinic, Mrs. Grylls said arrangements were being made to have a group of donors go to Peterborough Clinic each Friday night.

Mrs. S. Trude, supervisor of the Red Cross Emergency Reserve Nursing Class, said a second course, "Emergencies in War" was being planned. The card parties sponsored by the class have been very successful and have netted $45.89. The Nursing Class is buying Cod Liver Oil for some children under the supervision of the teacher. A complete physical examination is to be given an underprivileged child at the expense of the class.

Mr. A. Morris of Young's Point spoke briefly on his work with blood donors in his locality. Miss Joan Watson of Toronto donated a water color landscape picture to be used in a raffle. Mrs. Leonard is arranging to have it framed. Mrs. W. E. Gillman was chosen to attend the annual meeting in Toronto on March 28 and 29.

There will be no canvass for funds in Lakefield for the Red Cross this year, as the county council have levied a tax of 1 mill to cover this. There may, however, be a membership drive soon.

$5,014 Profit Shown By Waterworks

The annual financial statement of the Waterworks Department of the Utilities Commission for the year 1943 appears elsewhere in this edition. It shows that the department has made a net profit of $5,014.69, of which $5,000 has been turned over to the city to reduce the taxes.

In addition, $20,000 has been set aside as a reserve towards the construction cost of the proposed 18" force main, part of which was constructed in 1942. As soon as restrictions on labor and materials are lifted, this work will be proceeded with.

Revenue from water consumers increased by $9,000 due to increased population and increased use by the industries.

Very little construction work was done, but maintenance of the system was kept up to the extent of the available materials and labor.

It will be noted that the waterworks system is valued at $1,245,363.28. Against this is a debenture debt of $557,595.36, which is reduced by a sinking fund of $319,306.47. Therefore, the net debt against the system is only $238,288.89, or 20 per cent of plant value.

During the year $23,026.21 of debentures were paid off.

NOW NORMAL BOY—Ernest DeFort, 12-year-old Winnipeg, Man., boy, who was born with two sets of limbs and was some months ago operated on by the Mayo clinic, is now a normal boy again, engaged in active sports like other school boys.

Allan McIlraith, temperance secretary, read a paper on "Temperance," and the meeting closed with the dedication of the offering. Mrs. R. Hanscombe, Mission Band secretary of the Peterborough Presbyterial, served heart-shaped cookies to the children.

Peterboro Woman Nursing In Indian Hospital

An informative letter from Miss Annie Edgar, a former resident of Peterborough, who is now at work as a nurse in an Indian Military Hospital, was read to the February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian church Friday afternoon.

Miss Edgar said that with a population of 400,000,000 in India, there is only one nurse for every 50,000 persons, because nursing in India is looked upon as a menial task. In the northern part of India, a standing army is required to protect the inhabitants from tribal raids. She was formerly stationed in Delhi.

A questionnaire on British Guiana was conducted by Mrs. W. Cochrane, and the group learned several interesting facts about that country, and the missionary work done there. It became a British colony in 1815, with the payment of three million pounds sterling to the Dutch. The country is about the size of Great Britain, and because so much of it is unexplored, it is practically isolated from the rest of South America.

The population is very poor, gaining most of its livelihood from the sugar and rice industry, Mrs. Cochrane said. A very small part of the population is European, and its capitol is Georgetown—a beautiful, clean, and attractive city. Mission work was needed with the advent of non-Christian groups in a country where Protestantism predominated, and the work was successful.

It was difficult at first to provide a staff large enough to carry on the work, but now educational and evangelistic work are carried on together, and schools are being built. The government finances the schools but they are staffed and managed by the church.

MARRIAGE WON'T CHANGE YOUTH

Drinking Man Will Still Imbibe And Hungry Wife Want More Filet Mignon

One of the queer things about marriage is the artless belief that both men and women entertain that there is some magic in the wedding ceremony that will not only change the entire nature and characters of those they marry, but their own.

The man who drinks too much thinks that marriage is a surefire cure that will keep him from ever thirsting for a highball again. The philanderer, who has a wandering foot and an eye out for every pretty girl, is sure that he will go domestic as soon as he is married, and that he will never want to stir from his own fireside of an evening. The spendthrift expects marriage to sew up the holes in his pockets, and the lazy, good-for-nothing never doubts that matrimony will put the conjure on him that will turn him into a go-getter.

BREAD AND KISSES ENOUGH

And it is the same way with women. When a girl is in love, she thinks that when she is married that she will be willing to live on bread and cheese and kisses and wear basement bargains, and that she will desire no more exciting amusement than sitting at home with Jim listening to the radio. She may have spent years in perfecting herself for some career, but she will chuck her mahogany desk for a gas stove, and expect to get a kick out of asking her husband for carfare instead of having her own pocketbook.

She knows that she never had any yen or household drudgery before, but she thinks that as soon as she is married that it will be thrilling sport to cook three square meals a day, and that washing dishes and scrubbing floors will be just nice, clean fun.

Of course, they have never seen this miracle happen to anyone else, but they still have a superstitious faith that this transformation will take place in themselves, and nothing surprises them so much as to discover that after marriage they are just the same human beings that they were before, with the same tastes and desires and habits.

The drunkard still craves his liquor. Casanova gets fed up on babbies and boiled dinners and longs for the bright lights and glamorous Janes. And the lazy man sits back and lets Georgina do it, just as he used to let his Mother support him.

GIRL FINDS THAT DREAMS FADE OUT

And the girl finds that after marriage she is just as hungry for filet mignon as she was before; that her interest in good clothes has not abated; that she can get awfully bored spending her evenings trying to make conversation with a husband who has muffled himself in his newspaper and only grunts when spoken to. And the lost career, the fat pay envelope and the mahogany desk brighten as they fade.

Now it is understandable how in the excess of our vanity we might take a sporting chance on marrying someone of whom we did not wholly approve in the fond belief that he could make them over nearer to our hearts' desire, and that he or she would be different after marriage, anyway. But the marvel is that anyone can be dumb enough to think that way about themselves.

For we all know that by the time we reach a marriageable age we are pretty well set in our habits and tastes and opinions, and that the mumbling of a few words over us doesn't change our natures. If we are restless and like to go places and do things, we will still want to gad about instead of staying put, no matter how many times we are married.

On the contrary, if we are human turtles with our houses on our backs, our idea of an exciting evening will be to sit at home and watch the baby breathe, and no husband or wife can galvanize us into action. We will not be illiterate on one side of the altar and literate on the other, and we will crave French cooking or New England, according as we have been reared, unaffected by whether we are married or single.

Perhaps there is no other one thing that is responsible for so much domestic woe as this fatuous belief that marriage will change us from what we are into something entirely different, for it rarely happens. What we are we stay, modified to a certain extent, but mainly the same old Adam and Eve.

The moral of all of which is that we should consider long and prayerfully whether we are fitted by Nature for the role we are contemplating undertaking. Let us not expect marriage to change us. It won't do it. Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

FAVORITE LATIN-AMERICAN—Joan Fontaine, lovely film star, veils her light brown coiffure with a black lace mantilla which drapes about her throat. The pink satin roses in her hair titivate the mantilla drape. The "favorite" isn't Joan Fontaine necessarily, in this instance, but rather it refers to the black lace mantilla. This flattering headdress which our southern neighbors wear whenever in gala toilette, is becoming more and more popular here. Any one can learn to toss it on becomingly, to accent a beautiful hairdo... and between you and me and the hairdresser... to disguise things a bit when an important evening fails to coincide with freshly shampooed and arranged locks.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Plan your clothes by the year. Once we were accustomed to planning our clothes by the season four times a year, but now it is different, as the styles being shown are in for the duration at least, and we may plan by the year.

The narrow skirt, normal sleeve, jacket length, and hem length are here to stay, fixed by law. Seasons may come, and seasons may go, details may change, but the basic measurement of fashion won't fluctuate, at least until the war is ended.

Most of us really dress by the weather, and not by the calendar anyway. There are plenty of cold days in June when a wool jersey dress is a welcome asset, and there are days all through November, even sometimes in December, when a tailored suit, if complemented by a warm blouse really needs no other wrap.

So, first begin to think of your clothes by the year, then plan them by the year. Just what type of year-round clothes, only you can decide. But the suggestions I want to give you may quicken your thoughts. The kind of life you lead in 1944 will be the determining factor. Will you be going to business more than ever, or spending more quiet evenings at home, or more days in town? A few suggestions may help you out a bit. Not one of the costumes following will ever have to be put in moth balls; they may be worn any season out of the four, or any month out of the twelve.

Begin with a belted coat, to be worn over everything. This might be in black, and could be worn over any color. Or, maybe a three-quarter length belted coat in red, which would also act as a suit coat, when worn with a Mexican blue skirt and white crepe waist.

Add a grey flannel, all-weather suit. This season's version is shirt waisty, rather than severe. A second suit of faille silk can be worn under fur coat, and later in spring as a suit.

To these add a two-piece crepe jumper dress, a little black satin round-necked dinner dress, and one long black skirt, to wear with some chic blouses, and where can't you go, and be well dressed?

To these add some costume jewellery, a jewelled belt, a bright colored hankie, something to add a bit of color. Next week we will give you a few more suggestions.

Letters Needed For Servicemen

Major R. M. Bamsey, in an address to the February meeting of the Women's Association of Knox United Chuch, stressed the importance of writing letters to boys and girls in the service. He took as his text a verse from the second chapter of Nehemiah, "Come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem," and gave several examples of army life as seen at a Canadian Basic Training Centre.

The meeting was held in the ladies' parlors, and several letters for cards and gifts were read by Mrs. H. Trotter. "Sincerity" was the theme for the devotional taken by Mrs. C. Weldon, leader of the February group, and Mrs. N. Godfrey read the Scripture.

Rev. H. J. Mahoney played two piano-accordion solos, and refreshments were served during the social period.

I.O.D.E. Regent Is Re-elected

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12. — Miss Eleanor Ferris was returned as Regent of the Bemersyde Chapter at their annual meeting here Thursday evening when the year's work was reviewed by various officers. Miss Hazel Atkinson conducted the installation ceremony which was witnessed by nearly forty members.

Highlighting the various reports, all of which were indicative of the great amount of work done by the Chapter, was the summary of the war convener, Mrs. H. T. Scott. Her report indicated 1,000 knitted article, 434 packages of cigarettes, 400 packages tobacco papers, 250 chocolate bars, 216 razor blades and 24 boxes of gum had been sent out.

The treasurer, Miss Kae Bygott, presented a statement on the Chapter's general fund which was exclusive of money raised for war work and amounted to approximately $110. This included membership fees $39.90, sale of badges and calendars $4.05; proceeds from entertainments, $60; convention funds $6, plus a balance of $30.40 carried over from 1942 to make the total $140.83. From this they gave $5 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; $16 for High School Entrance scholarships; municipal fees, $28.50; provincial officers' fees, $6; per capita tax, $11.40; badges, supplies, etc., $9.17; convention funds, $15; stationery $6.65; leaving a balance of $43.11.

It was announced that the balance of the annual reports would be presented at the next meeting on February 25. Officers named for the ensuing year are as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. W. H. Ashton; Honorary Vice Regent, Mrs. G. A. Ironside; Regent, Eleanor Ferris; 1st Vice Regent, Mrs. J. D. McEachern; 2nd Vice-Regent, Mrs. J. M. Ferris; treasurer, Miss Kae Bygott; secretary, Mrs. S. A. Anderson; standard bearers, Mrs. William Nelson; education, Miss Aileen Parker; war convener, Mrs. H. T. Scott; cigarette convener, Mrs. J. O. Benor; stamp convener, Mrs. R. J. Locke; press secretary, Mrs. F. S. Linton; sewing, Mrs. H. Bleecker; hospitality, Mrs. E. C. Roberts; books, Miss Geraldine McMullen; magazines, Mrs. T. V. Craighead; flowers and rooms, Mrs. D. Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

The fruits of the Hostess Course were tested for the first time on Monday when the Gym-Swim Club hostessed the regular Monday Dance for soldiers, although this cannot be said to be a real test since the course has not been completed. However it was a good dance.

The All Nations held an interesting meeting on Tuesday in the committee room with Mrs. L. S. Pettit presiding. The main item on the program was the first of the series of discussions on "Refugees" being "Who Are the Refugees?" This was opened with a short talk on "The Discussion Group" by Miss R. Keifer.

The Girls' Council executive met for supper on Tuesday to draw up committees and make plans for the National Business Girls' Observance on March 14th. This will take the form of a banquet and program. The following committees were chosen: program, Betty Detcher, Ada Smith, Flora Metcalfe; executive, Doris Royea; social, Ina Robinson; publicity and promotion, Jean Carew, Jean Elcombe, Dorothy Hepburn.

The Vagabonds held a skating party at the Quaker rink on Tuesday, having a bean supper in the Club Supper Room afterwards.

The Co-Ed Club met for supper after dancing on Wednesday. During supper the informal discussion had to do with "Social Dancing Etiquette". After supper the intelligence of the club members was tested by a quiz led by Ken Doughty with questions all the way from "How many days in July?" to "A certain kind of Australian animal". The argument for honors was between Ann Metheral and Jim Blaiklock.

The Thursday Supper Club has as their guest, Mrs. Clegg, sponsor from the Girls' Work Committee. Members present were treated to an interesting talk by Mrs. Clegg on the "Y" triangle and how health of body, mind and spirit builds a healthy world. Mrs. Clegg also told of Queen Elizabeth being honorary president of the World's Y.W.C.A. and read a message sent by her on an international broadcast in 1940 calling to young members to accept the challenge of Christian standards and values and to help spread their influence in Christian fellowship across the five continents following in the path of the blue triangle.

The Gym-Swim Club attended the second lecture of the Hostess Course and met afterwards to plan their Valentine Dance to be held on Thursday, Feb. 17th. In the absence of the president and vice-president, Isobel Wray, the club advisor, presided over the business meeting. The following committees are responsible for the dance plans: Program: Doreen Lord, Isabel Pierce, Betty Warner, Ruth Lancaster, Marguerite Royea; Door: Doris Grahame; Supper: Florrie Barrie, Opal Robinson, Doreen Wells, Marie Thomas. An executive meeting is planned for early next week.

Last week the Friday Night Supper Club had as their guest, their sponsor, Miss Olga Johnston, who addressed the club on "Personality and Etiquette". The applause and comments left no doubt of the popularity of Miss Johnston and the appreciation of her address. Gwen Reid introduced Miss Johnston and a vote of thanks was extended by Jean McTavish. Jean Ferguson, president, announced plans fo Gentlemans' Night being held on Saturday, February 19th, in the form of supper and a dance. The executive met for supper on Thursday of this week since the regular Friday meeting was cancelled. Plans were completed for Gentleman's Night. Tickets are being sold by executive members and must be purchased by Wednesday.

Last week the Saturday Juniors made Valentines after playing, singing games. Their story and story-contest is proving to be an event of special and increasing interest. The club membership is also increasing with four new members added to the roll on Saturday.

The Hostess Course was completed on Friday evening and there is no doubt as to the popularity of this project. The '38 Club have proven their capabilities for detailed executive work, a tremendous amount of which is required in the administration of this course. The permanent list will be available shortly and the hostess tags will be distributed to hostesses through their sponsoring organization. Too much cannot be said in appreciation to the speakers, Mrs. Southeran, Mrs. Fanning and Capt. Profitt for their time and effort and their gracious co-operation. Mrs. Kenner, "Y" representative to the committee, was the able chairman for the second series.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 13.

SUNDAY'S horoscope would indicate that the best way to progress and secure a modicum of peace and happiness would be to work along the lines of least resistance since there are several signs of disquiet, restiveness and non-performance in which basic forces and ideals might be turned into conventional Sabbath activities, where cultural, mystical or intellectual talents or proclivities might find expression more happily and constructively. Relax and seek inner light.

Those whose birthday it is may find their greatest progress and development in substituting realism for illusions and intangible ideals, which might mislead by subtlety or indulgence in feelings and emotions rather than practical and well-directed energies. Be conservative with funds, strength and time as well.

A child born on this day although having much creative ability, shrewdness and subtlety may find more lucrative expression in practically constructive ways.

For Monday, February 14.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a condition where individuals may turn their energies and talents into avenues of progress where they are equipped to "go it alone" since the approbation or solid support of elders, employers or superiors is likely to be withheld or grudgingly given. Direct and logical action may reach much satisfaction under an expansive and stimulating ray, but may mean failure if indulged to excess or beyond reasonable bounds. Be economical with energies, time and substance, and safeguard health and domestic happiness.

Those whose birthday it is may best make progress and achieve ambitions by forging ahead on well-thought-out programs, with little hope of assistance from outside sources. Sound judgment, well-laid plans with economy of time, energy and resources may give surprising returns. Shun all extravagances and care for the health and happiness of the family and take no risks, even under a generous vibration.

A child born on this day may have talents, energies and high ambitions, but may be carried to extravagance or over optimism, by its generous and expansive nature.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that anyone can do it. Once tried, you'll never again be without it in your home.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of really excellent cough medicine. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that really satisfies. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

TRUSTEES TO OVER 70,000 POLICYHOLDERS

We Record Another Year of Progress

The Dominion Life's record in 1943 reveals an increasing public confidence in the soundness and value of Life Insurance, as it is operative under our present system of free enterprise. Over 70,000 Policyholders are not only joined together with us in Co-operative Risk-Sharing, but their Savings are helping to finance the War Effort and check the threat of Inflation. Policyholders' Savings are invested by the Company in War Bonds to the extent of nearly 16 Million Dollars.

Today, through the competitive effort of our Agency Force, our Policyholders are joined together for their mutual protection. Their aggregate Savings, held in trust and invested in their interest by the Company, have created more than 228 millions of Life Insurance Protection. These millions of social security dollars are guaranteed by the Company's Trust Fund of Assets and Reserves.

A copy of our Annual Report may be obtained at any of our Branch Offices.

IN MEMORIAM.

COLLISON. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Eva Gladys Dallin, who passed away three years ago, February 12, 1941.

Gone, dear daughter, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad, and Family.

COLLISON.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Eva Gladys Dallin, who passed away three years ago, February 12.

—Ever remembered by her husband, LAC Arthur Collison, overseas.

JONES. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Agnes Elsie Jones, who passed away February 12, 1931.

God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

—Ever remembered by her Children.

JONES. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Agnes Elsie Jones, who passed away on February 12, 1931.

Love's greatest gift—remembrance.
—Always remembered by Husband and Family.

Willkie Outlines 8-Point Program

DES MOINES, Feb. 12 —(AP) — Wendell L. Willkie, a probable contender for the Republican Presidential nomination, in an article in the March issue of Successful Farming magazine to-day outlined his own eight-point farm program:

1. "Correct the glaring administrative weaknesses in the war effort on the farm front."

2. "Then move onward to a program based on expanding markets."

3. "Drop production control and produce to the limit.

4. "Develop a sound national conservation program.

5. "Support farm prices at a fair level and maintain basic-commodity loans.

6. "Develop the distribution of nutritive foods on the widest basis possible.

7. "Pursue every scientific possibility to expand the farmers' market.

8. "Finally, co-operate with the world to make a prosperous agriculture at home."

Black-faced Raiders Stampede Hun Crews

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Distributed by The Canadian Press

AT THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Feb. 12 — American soldiers who blackened their faces with soot from cooking utensils and wiped out the entire Nazi garrison of a town in a daring night plunge behind the German lines returned yesterday jubilant and happy.

The force, slinging hand grenades, occupied the town in half an hour, killing 60 Nazis, wounding scores of others and taking nine prisoners. Their own losses were comparatively light.

Once in the town, from which the Italian occupants had fled, the men worked in small groups, cleaning out the houses one by one.

Two groups of 15 men were particularly successful in close teamwork. Both were armed with rifles, pistols, tommy-guns, sub-machine-guns, bazookas, automatic rifles, grenades. They took turns. One would chase the Germans from the houses while the other group would catch them as they tried to make a getaway.

Red Cross Enjoys St. Valentine Tea

HASTINGS, Feb. 12 —(ENS) — Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe was hostess to the Elgin Red Cross at a Valentine tea on Wednesday afternoon. The table was beautiful with its lace cloth decorated with hearts cupids and red candles, centred with a red rose. Mrs. Max Scott poured tea. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Richardson, Jr., and Ruby Preston, served a delicious luncheon. There were 14 large quilts and 7 small quilts handed in completed. These quilts were made during the last two months at the members' homes. There were 20 present. Mrs. George Richardson, Jr., had charge of two contests. The winners were Mrs. H. Thistlewaite and Mrs. Arthur Stinson. The next quilting will be held in the Elgin School House on February 28.

Six In Hospital After Train Crash

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (CP)—Six of 20 persons injured when the second section of a C.P.R. transcontinental passenger train crashed into the back of a first section at MacTier, Ont., Thursday were held in hospital here today for treatment. The others were released.

Persons held in hospital after the accident, which caused the death of Philip Fox of Toronto, a porter, included: Fred Faught, Sudbury, back and chest injuries; Mrs. George Wedgerfield, Providence Bay, Ont., chest injuries and face cuts; Mrs. Clifford Monkhouse, Providence Bay, head and chest injuries.

Seeks Consideration For Boys On Farms

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (CP)—With food and agriculture foremost among the resources upon which a better world must be built, Canada—rich in this regard—should consider decentralization of her food industry and provision of cash to ensure farm boys of continuing in that important work, Dr. G. S. H. Barton, deputy Minister of Agriculture, said here today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies' annual convention, Dr. Barton said that with food consumption in Canada on the increase it could hardly be argued that the country's food contribution in the war effort had meant great denial.

"If we are to meet greater demands for the urgent needs of the armed forces and the suffering people, Canada's civilian population will have to face greater denials than they have yet experienced," he added.

"If the countryside is to maintain its institutions and services and if agriculture is to be fully manned, the countryside will have to be reinforced."

Ralston Gives War Losses For Canadians

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP)—Fighting in the Moro Valley, cumulating in the capture of Ortona Dec. 28, was the toughest Canadian battle of this war, with the exception of Dieppe, it was indicated by casualty list figures given yesterday in the House of Commons by Defence Minister Ralston.

On the basis of Col. Ralston's statement and other official figures, the six weeks' fighting between Nov. 23 and Jan. 8 resulted in a total of 2,744 casualties, compared with a total of 3,543 for the much longer period of fighting from the time the Canadians landed on Sicily, July 10, to Nov. 23. The Italian campaign started Sept. 3.

Col. Ralston said yesterday that up to Jan. 8 Canadian casualties in Sicily and Italy totalled 1,354 deaths, 299 missing, 858 prisoners of war and 4,655 wounded. The Minister added: "Those figures, of course, have grown since Jan. 8."

From Col. Ralston's figures yesterday and previous official casualty reports, the following comparisons were possible:

	Killed	Wounded	Missing
Sicily, Italy to Jan. 8	1,354	4,655	299
Sicily	475	1,814	150
Italy (Sept. 3-Jan. 8)	879	2,841	149
Italy (Sept. 3-Nov. 23)	238	811	45
Italy (Nov. 23-Jan. 8)	641	2,030	104

Here is a comparison of the Sicily-Italy campaign up to Nov. 23, with the recent six weeks of the Italian fighting:

	Killed	Wounded	Missing
Sicily-Italy (to Nov. 23)	713	2,625	195
Italy alone (Nov.23-Jan.8)	614	2,030	104

W.A. Gives Donation To Famine Relief

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 12 —(ENS).—Mrs. Harry Freeburn entertained the Women's Association of the United church at her home this week, with six members out.

Mrs. H. Freeburn took charge of the meeting in the absence o the president, Mrs. Roy Kidd. Mrs. Kelly read a report on an address by Wilma Thomas on "Education of Youth to Meet the Difficulties of the Future." The roll call was answered by a Scripture verse with the word "Heart" in it. Mrs. William Scollard read an article on "India and China Famine Relief Fund."

A motion was passed that the association give a money donation to this fund. Mrs. G. A. Kelly, assisted by Mrs. H. Freeburn, served afternoon lunch.

Personals.

Mr. Charles Young spent the week-end with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conden, in Toronto.

Mrs. B. Godfrey and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Godfrey spent the week-end in Lindsay with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lytle.

Shake-up Looms In Bolivia House

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 12 (AP)— Several changes in the Bolivian Cabinet are expected to be announced tomorrow.

The independent newspaper Ultima Hora said today there have been no resignations in the Government as yet but several changes are expected. It denied reports broadcast abroad that Maj. Alberto Taborga, the Interior Minister of the coup d'etat government which seized power December 20, had been imprisoned, but said it was rumored that Taborga would be replaced by Lt.-Col. Afredo Pacheco, chief of air forces.

Augusto Cespedes, secretary-general of the government, and Carlos Montenegro, Minister of Agriculture, also were mentioned in the rumors as likely to be replaced.

Of the 20 other American republics, only Argentina has recognized the regime of Gualberto Villarroel, who seized the presidency from Enrique Penaranda in last December's coup.

Russians Propose Rough Treatment

LONDON, Feb. 12—(CP)—Russian proposals for handling a defeated Germany are expected to be presented to the European advisory commission staffs shortly, and to differ little from British and American ideas already in hand.

The broad surrender terms of all three powers were understood today to be basically the same, but the Russians may have additional detailed suggestions for severe action against war criminals.

Details of the terms are not likely to be made public until after Germany's "unconditional surrender," and possibly never by the commission, which acts merely in an advisory capacity to each of the governments represented.

Youthful Alarmist Captured By F.B.I.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)— A series of anonymous telephone tips to the Federal Bureau of Investigation that saboteurs planned to dynamite and destroy New York city's bridges and tunnels were blamed by police to-day on a 16 year old Bronx messenger boy.

The phone calls resulted in heavily augmented guards on all vulnerable structures in the Metropolitan area. When another call came in late last night, the F.B.I. was ready and traced it to a Bronx telephone booth. A youth identified as James Gerritt, found still talking, was charged with malicious mischief.

Navy Surgeon Assures Canadians Plasma Going To Men In Action

Surgeon Commander C. H. Best, Director of the Canadian Naval Medical Research Bureau declared during his overseas visit this winter that the blood of Canadian civilians had long since reached the front line. He said it was being used in Italy to help save the lives of wounded Canadian, British and United States soldiers.

"Canadian blood serum has been used by all the Services in Canada for their casualties when whole blood is not available, and adequate amounts have been stored at strategic points against emergencies. The R. C. N. has used the dried serum in many types of cases; notably when a number of ratings were severely burned in a corvette (the medical officer at the port to which they were rushed feels that several lives were saved by the prompt distribution of the Canadian serum—and in the disastrous fire at St. John's, Newfoundland. Forty cases of burns were admitted to the Naval Hospital; serum was used satisfactorily. "I have seen cases from both these groups in Newfoundland during their convalescence."

Although the Clinic had 73 donors Monday and 108 Wednesday, one of their best efforts, they cannot rest on their oars and report they need as many new candidates as they can get.

Donors on Monday were:

Camera Does Job

LONDON, Feb. 12 (CP) — The camera is making a grim record of the R.A.F.'s night bombing and playing an important part in the planning of saturation attacks against German industrial centres, the Air Ministry announced last night. It was disclosed that night photography now is a completely automatic process.

Foreign Investors

LONDON, Feb. 12—(CP Cable).—W. Craven-Ellis, Nationalist member of parliament, has given notice he will ask Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons if the forthcoming conference of Empire Prime Ministers will include on its agenda "the subject of foreign investors acquiring a large measure of control of key industries in our Dominions and the Empire."

Drew Awaits Report

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — (CP). — Premier George Drew said Friday he is awaiting a report from Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell before replying to a request from the Ontario Temperance Association that a provincial referendum be held on the question of banishing beverage rooms from hotels. Previously, Mr. Blackwell had said the answer was one which must come from the Premier.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

AN EMANCIPATOR NEEDED

HUNDREDS of thousands of bridge players would be better off if someone would come along and free them from the habit of not noticing the size of the "unimportant" cards played on the different tricks. While they remain as they are, they are easy meat for the canny manipulator who takes advantage of the fact that they are not looking closely. Many a trick can be stolen from them because of their laziness.

South played low from the dummy to West's lead of the spade 3, and the Q went on, South ruffing. Seeing a sure thing for his contract, the declarer planned at once how he would later try for the extra trick. First he ran all of the hearts and then went to work on the diamonds. Offhand, it would seem that he positively must lose a trick in clubs, but he managed to avoid it.

The knack was in the way he played the diamond tricks, after having discarded two clubs from the dummy when he scored his hearts. The order of tricks in the diamonds then was the A, K and Q, playing from the dummy, quickly and apparently carelessly, the 5, 7 and 10. Then he led the 9 to the J and pulled the 3 from the dummy.

East meanwhile had not noticed that the other diamond which had not yet been played was the lowly 2. Automatically assuming that South's remaining diamond would surely be higher than the 3, and that therefore the twelfth trick would be won in the closed hand, he knew South had a club left. East at that stage had both black aces. He discarded the spade A, so as to hold the club to win the last trick. What a shock he got, then, when the 2 went on from the declarer's hand, leaving the lead in the dummy, so that the spade K took the trick while East had to throw his luscious club A on it.

Host Of Friends Attend Funeral Of Robt. Elliott

MARMORA, Feb. 12—(ENS)—A short funeral service for the late R. A. Elliott was held at his residence at Deloro at 2 p.m. on Friday with Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth of Odessa officiating.

Out of respect for the late general manager, the plant of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited closed down from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and employees too numerous to attend the service occupied the village hall opposite his late residence until its conclusion. From 1:15 to 1:45 p.m. scores availed themselves the privilege of taking a last look as he lay in his casket around which flowers of choicest variety were banked. Scholars of Deloro Public School lined the sidewalk before the departure of the cortege tor Woodstock.

The active pall-bearers were C. R. Whittemore, W. W. Hilton, F. Gray, H. O. Loveless, H. C. Barlow and H. I. Dalton. Among the honorary pall-bearers were J. A. O'Brien, S. B. Wright, C. H. Buskard, F. Paquet, H. A. McNally, J. Judge, J. A. Rice, M. J. Corrigan, N. A. Kilpatrick, G. Brooks, D. Robertson, J. H. Hemphill, H. R. Haacke, S. Sandham, W. Mumby and S. R. Burrows.

Seen in the large attendance were George S. White, M.P., Richard Arnott, M.P.P., W. Ireland, ex-M.P.P. and many members of Hastings county council. Quite a number from Peterborough were also in attendance commanding a corps. All this has been announced officially.

Thus it is logical to suppose that Gen. Simonds may command a corps here and lead it in the invasion.

The 40-year-old Simonds is well-fitted for the job. He had staff training on a corps and army level. He had experience with tanks when a regiment was under his command in Sicily.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, commander of the British 8th Army, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, whom Leese replaced as commander when Montgomery went to Britain to command the British invasion forces, tutored Simonds in fighting Germans and he has been an apt pupil.

"therefore we should make way for others" who would carry out the Government policy on this regard.

Answering Mr. Bickell on October 30, Mr. Howe wrote:

"When you accepted your present responsibilities I pointed out to you that it is Government policy to have a representative of labor on the boards of Crown companies. At the time you objected to this practice and I did not press the matter.

"Since then I have found it necessary to insist that Government policy in this regard be followed."

The Minister added that if Mr. Bickell could not accept this policy he would have to accept his resignation.

In a further letter, dated November 15, Mr. Bickell said Mr. Howe had promised that he (Bickell) could have a free hand in appointing his own board of directors. He said this "understanding has been disregarded" and asked that his resignation be accepted."

any fit men released from service.

The Defence Minister set forth the need for a well-trained defence army at home, noting there had been a "stand-to" on the east coast Christmas Day following an alarm, and one on the Pacific coast later.

Outlines Make-up

Canada proposed to keep the army headquarters overseas as a Canadian organization "to add to your contribution to victory and provide the world with further demonstration that Canada is all-out in her war effort," Col. Ralston said.

In other parts of a general statement on the army, made in connection with the $3,650,000,000 war appropriation bill, Col. Ralston said that:

1. Two divisions, a corps headquarters and some army troops comprise the Canadian force in Italy;

2. The force in England consists of the army headquarters, a corps headquarters and three divisions.;

3. The army headquarters will be maintained and British or other Allied troops may serve under it when the time comes for action;

While only one Canadian corps remained in the United Kingdom, those in authority were "extremely glad" to have the army headquarters there, along with army troops, so they "may direct aid administer and support the Canadian corps along with other formations of British or other Allied troops which may be put into the same arm organization." The other "self-contained Canadian corps was in Italy.

When Col. Ralston had finished his recital of events prior to granting of leave of absence to Gen. McNaughton who now is in Canada, Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, said he intended to ask whether any other factors apart from those of ill-health, entered into the "resignation" of Gen. McNaughton.

"I shall deal with that," said Col. Ralston.

It is expected the Defence Minister will answer questions as the debate continues next week.

Opening his discussion of Gen. McNaughton's physical condition, Col. Ralston read a report of two army doctors, dated Dec. 11, that Gen. McNaughton still showed "definite signs of exhaustion" which had been noted on Nov. 26 at a previous examination.

3 Months Leave.

The doctors recommended he be relieved of military responsibility for three months.

Col. Ralston said the medical examinations were not suggested by the Canadian Government as far as he knew.

In a note Dec. 7, Gen. McNaughton, writing to Maj.-Gen. Price Montague, senior staff officer at Canadian Military Headquarters overseas, said his experience of the previous few days had shown his health was not good enough to permit him to perform his duties as commander properly.

The General said he believed someone else should take charge and that he "must and will" accept the situation with the best grace he could muster. He asked that Col. Ralston be shown the message.

Col. Ralston said he was in Italy at the time. He had set about making arrangements which resulted in Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of staff, assuming temporary command overseas in place of Gen. McNaughton.

Gen. McNaughton now was on leave and his only task was to endeavor to get well, Col. Ralston said. The House and country wished him speedy recovery and many years of usefulness in the service of Canada.

Too Many Rumors

There had been rumors and "so-called 'inside' and 'off-the-record' reports" about Gen. McNaughton's leave.

If you ask me whether Gen. McNaughton and the government were always in absolute agreement in everything, I would undoubtedly answer 'No,'" the minister continued.

"Gen. McNaughton is a man of strong character and strong opinions. He is no 'yes-man.'...That there should be at times divergence of views between the military and the government is inevitable. But I can say that those differences of opinion have not interfered in any way with the loyal carrying out of plans when a decision has been reached.

"I can say, too, that those differences of opinion have never altered in any way the high regard in which the government holds Gen. McNaughton, both as a man and as a soldier."

Col. Ralston said three brigade groups were retained in Canada. They were needed because certain scales of attack still were a possibility.

After the "stand-by" orders given recently following alarms on both coasts, Col. Ralston said, he could imagine the condemnation there would have been had there been nobody to stand at the alert.

"We have a training brigade in the east and we have a few infantry battalions," he said.

"We have troops in Labrador, Newfoundland, in the Caribbean and in the West Indies, all of which are included in the strength of Canadian troops in Canada....

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 12.—(ENS). —Rev. J. F. Everson, of Springville United church, recently received a cash prize as the result of being a winner in the letter-writing contest sponsored by Dr. Archer Wallace of the United Church Publishing House, in Toronto, on the subject, "What the War Has Taught Us." The essay of four hundred words will appear in "Onward" in the course of a few weeks.

CHIEF ACCOUNTANT DIES.

LONDON— (CP) — John Luxford, chief accountant of the House of Commons for 25 years, died recently. He was 48.

Walter Magee Chairman Of Cemetery Board

OMEMEE, Feb. 12 —(ENS) —The annual meeting of the Emily Cemetery Co. was held at the home of Harry Lamb, Omemee, with Walter Magee, president, in the chair, and Harry Lamb as secretary. The report of the auditors Charles Graham and J. J. Williams, was read, showing receipts of $1,997.90 and expenditures of $1,820.74.

Charles Graham, auditor, addressed the meeting, congratulating the secretary-treasurer and the board of directors on the excellent showing. Mr. Magee also spoke briefly, thanking the Board for their co-operation in the past, and called on Mr. Lamb to take the chair or the election of directors. On motion of Mr. Charles Graham the 1943 directors were re-elected to carry on in 1944.

On motion of Weir and Jones, Walter Magee was re-elected chairman of the board.

At this juncture Harry Lamb announced his resignation as secretary-treasurer, which was accepted with a great deal of reluctance. David Weir was appointed as secretary-treasurer for 1944.

C. Graham and J. J. Williams were re-appointed as auditors. The caretaker, T. S. Brenton, was present and he expressed the pleasure he had experienced in the work, and assured the board that any suggestion or criticism would be welcomed, and he felt that he would be able to do more efficient work after his year of experience.

The secretary-treasurer was instructed to invest $500 of perpetuity funds in the Victoria Trust and Savings Co. Mr. Lamb reported that he had made inquiries about a power mower, and read a letter from an agent, which stated that there are none available.

The following committees were appointed: Tools and equipment, Jones and Mills; Transferring lots, Magee, Carew and Weir; Roads, Jones and Mills.

The caretaker's remuneration was fixed at 40 cents an hour, with any extra work done for lot owners to be charged at 45 cents an hour.

On motion of Messrs. Carew and Switzer, the president and secretary were appointed a committee to prepare a letter of appreciation for Mr. Lamb's long and faithful services to the Cemetery Board, one copy to be forwarded to Mr. Lamb and one to be recorded in the minute book.

Council Hears Auditor's Report

OMEMEE, Feb. 12 — (ENS) — The second session of the 72nd year of the Omemee Council was held in the Council Chamber, with Reeve J. Bent and Councillors H. Burgess, N. Ruttle, and H. Deyell present.

Correspondence was read from: Department of Agriculture and the weed inspector; C.N.R. re assessment, Department of Munitions and Supply, Deputy Minister of Hospitals, Fire Hose Company, the Good Roads Association, Department of Municipal Affairs. Moved by H. Deyell and N. Ruttle that the correspondence be filed.

A. McQuade then presented the auditor's report, which was accepted, on motion of Burgess and Deyell. By the same motion 200 copies are to be prepared and sent to the taxpayers. Moved by Ruttle and Burgess that extension of the time be granted the tax collector, and that the roll be returned by March 1, 1944.

The Wood Committee reported on the purchase of 50 cords of wood bought upon advise of Fuel and Wood Controller, and Constable R. E. Brooks reported on police work.

Accounts amounting to $162.96 were ordered paid, on motion of Burgess and Ruttle. It was moved by Deyell and Ruttle that P. Race be appointed weed inspector at a salary of $20 a year. It was also moved by Ruttle and Burgess that the office of assessor and tax collector be advertised at a salary of $50 each a year, the time limit for applications to be March 1, 1944.

The clerk-treasurer asked the Council for an increase in salary for this office. After considering matters, it was moved by Burgess and Deyell that the clerk-treasurer's salary be increased to $200 a year.

Moved by Ruttle and Burgess that the following accounts be paid:

Street lighting, $82.17; H. Harris, printing, $2; Peterborough Clinic, $31; R. J. Grandy, rink insurance, $140; A. McQuade, auditing and expense, $76; W. Kingsboro, $2.37; R. E. Brooks, salary, etc., $48.

Objectors Given No Allowance For Families

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 —(CP) Paul Martin, parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Mitchell, said yesterday in the Commons that when conscientious objectors refuse to perform alternative service they are committed to service camps and "their dependents have to rely upon their own resources."

Replying to a question asked Wednesday by T. C. Douglas (CCF-Weyburn), Mr. Martin said that when men are declared to be conscientious objectors they are "given the opportunity of performing alternative service by assigning part of their wages to the Canadian Red Cross, and adjustments are made in the amount of the assignment so that the man will be able to maintain his dependents."

"There are certain cases, however, where individuals will not accept any direction at all and in these cases it has been necessary to have them committed to service camps," said Mr. Martin.

"Unfortunately their dependents have to rely upon their own resources, these cases being parallel to the cases of men committed to a prison."

—it's a great power plant!

AS BITTER COLD and driving snow descend on the Russian front, Russian attacks are intensified. For Russian troops are at home in winter warfare, and Russian motorized equipment is built to operate in intense cold.

Pushing forward with troops and supplies as part of the Russian offensive are Canadian-built, four-wheel drive trucks. Ford engineers devised ways to "arcticize" these trucks with heaters and other devices to make them operate efficiently at 40 below zero and lower.

In the extreme winter of Northern Manitoba, these trucks were put through exhaustive tests to make sure that they would start quickly and operate efficiently under the severe Russian weather conditions.

The power plant in these and all other Canadian-built Ford army vehicles in service today in the far parts of the world, is the Ford V-8 engine. Developed by Ford engineers in pre-war days, it set a new standard of performance in the cars, trucks, and buses of a nation at peace. Always it has been noted for the smoothness and surging power which only a V-type, eight-cylinder engine can give.

Today it is proving its efficiency and economy on the bitter testing grounds of war, and is helping to keep transportation and essential supplies moving on the home front.

In peace and in war the Ford V-8 engine has stood the test. On the frozen fronts of Russia or the highways of Canada, it's a great power plant.

Radio System Dangerous Speaker Says

Existing Control Threat To Freedom Of Speech

QUEBEC, Feb. 14 —(CP) — Glen Bannerman of Toronto to-day told The Canadian Association of Broadcasters in his presidential address that development of radio in Canada has grought a "distinct danger of freedom of the air, to freedom to speech and to exchange of ideas."

Mr. Bannerman, in addressing the opening session of the Association's annual convention criticized Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and warned against centralization of radio control and administration.

After reviewing proposals for solution of radio problems, Mr. Bannerman said he personally favored creation of a three-man Board of Radio Broadcasting Commissioners consisting of a full-time chairman and two members "who would be as independent a sour judiciary."

Long Appointments.

He suggested they should be appointed for a period lasting until a set retirement age. The Board would pass on all applications for licences, would approve all applications and contracts from both CBC and private stations, and establish a minimum of regulations governing the CBC and private stations in the international service to the public.

Under the plan, said Mr. Bannerman, the CBC would continue to own its present stations and operate a national network. At the same time, if there is need for two networks, then the private stations should be given an opportunity to form the other network.

Mr. Bannerman declared the present system of broadcasting is dangerous to the best interests of the public and that there is a real danger of private radio being placed in a position where it is generally becoming impossible for it to meet its obligations to the community.

Guard Democracy.

The press and radio should be the guardians of demorcracy said Mr. Bannerman. "No system of broadcasting, no restrictive regulations, whether in the name of the people or not, must ever be allowed to prevent you from carrying out your obligations to your fellow men in your community," he added.

Mr. Bannerman said his criticism of the CBC did not apply to members of the Board of Governors personally. He declared it was "most upfair" to place upon the Board of Governors "the responsibility for establishing and developing broadcasting policy for all broadcasting in Canada."

"It is impossible for the board in its brief meetings to deal fully and adequately with all the various matters connected with their responsibilities," he added. "As a result, there have been innumerable delays in dealing with policy matters and

CHINESE WIN GREATEST VICTORY—The ground was rocking with the thunder of battle when this strikingly dramatic photo was made during the battle of Changteh, strategic city in the heart of China's rice bowl.

Latvian Gateway Threatened

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 14—(AP).—Pskov, gateway to Latvia and Lithuania, felt the pressure of two Russian armies today—one driving southward from the lower end of Lake Peipus toward Pskov Lake and the other southward down the Leningrad highway and railway, a portion of which is in Soviet hands south of captured Luga.

An important railway and highway junction point, Pskov also is of historical interest as it was here at a railway station that Czar Nicholas II abdicated in 1917.

Six trunk railways and four main highways run in and out of Pskov. The Russians are 40 miles away at the closest point. Should they be able to reach the city, great numbers of Germans will be cut off from retreat from the Lake Ilmen-Staraya Russa sector.

Possession of Pskov would give the Russians an extremely advantageous position from which to launch operations to clear the Germans from the Baltic republics.

To Isolate Estonia.

Estonia can be virtually cut off from Germany by a drive westward from Pskov. It is 85 miles from Pskov to Valk Junction, which controls every highway and railway into Estonia and then it is just 90 more miles to Riga, Latvia.

It is expected that an all-out battle for Pskov should prove one of the war's most important.

A dispatch to Pravda said the Germans are mining the Pskov-Luga highway and blowing up bridges.

This highway probably will be the scene of many battles as the Russians drive on Pskov, for the Germans are fortifying every village. But the Nazi command still is unable to stem the outflanking sweeps of ski-men and this probably is the was the victory will be won.

Guerillas greatly aided the Red Army in the Sunday capture of Luga. Pravda reported they severed the Luga-Pskov highway and railway Feb. 8 and Feb. 9 and blew up several trainloads of reserves moved up from Pskov.

Luga fell from an attack on the Germans' left flank by Gen. Khasov's troops, assisted by guerillas.

A dispatch from the front said the guerillas alone killed more than 1,000 Germans west and east of Luga and captured a supply column.

The Axis death pocket in the Korsun region was reduced to an eight-mile-long strip running north along a railway from a point just south of Korsun to Sotniki. The Russians yesterday announced seizure of Sitniki, six miles north of Korsun, and Arbuzino, five miles northeast of Korsun.

"Soviet artillerymen are smashing the enemy defence system with powerful fire and supporting infantry," Moscow said.

Foul Weather Could Wreck Success On Second Front

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 14—(CP Cable). — Weather is the great hazard and most unpredictable factor in the forthcoming second front in Europe. Yet it is the keystone of the whole plan. Invasion forces must have good weather for the initial assault. It must hold, too, for a week or more to enable the Allies to pack supplies into the bridgeheads for big battles and to maintain tremendous air support for the ground troops.

If the weather turns foul—and it is impossible to be absolutely certain ahead of time that it won't—it could precipitate disaster.

Storms and high seas coming at a critical time after the first landings could wreck every plan and the second front could fail due to weather alone. The force on the Continent could be cut off from sup-

Election Likely If Bills Lost

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 14.—(CP).—An address by John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, and two announcements by Premier Drew of Ontario relating to the Feb. 22 opening of the Ontario Legislature highlighted the 19th annual meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Col. Drew told the meeting, held here Saturday, that the government will introduce a bill to create a new provincial department of planning and development modelled after two British departments, town planning and reconstruction. He also indicated that another election will be called if government-sponsored legislation is defeated at the forthcoming session.

"If we are defeated in the Legislature we will let the people decide the result," said the Premier in pledging that government legislation will not be tailored to suit the taste of other parties, whose combined representation in the House outnumbers the government. (Death last Wednesday of Wallace W. Walsh, Progressive Conservative member or Haldimand Norfolk, left the party with 37 members with 34 for the C.C.F. and 15 for the Liberals.)

Burma Situation Improving Steadily

NEW DELHI, Feb. 14— (AP).—Japanese troops who slipped behind British forces on one sector of the Arakan front in Burma, are steadily being cleared out, an Allied communique said to-day.

"The situation is improving steadily," said the bulletin from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia Headquarters. It added the general situation in Arakan is unchanged "though there are indications that the Japanese position continues to deteriorate."

London Area Hit Hard; Many Killed

Invasion Coast And Rouen Pounded By Allies

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(AP).—American fighter-bombers pounded the German fighter base at Gilze-Rijen in Holland to-day without loss, after German night raiders had scattered incendiaries over London in an attack touted by Berlin as made by "several hundred planes."

The Nazi planes dived low under a heavy barrage to lay incendiary bombs on parts of London.

The Berlin radio, seeking to salve the bomb-buffeted German homefront, asserted London was sowed with large fires in 'another concentrated attack" on the centre of the capital.

London crowds milling along the blackened walls and streets in the usual after-theatre throngs watched the aerial fireworks, mostly well off into the suburban areas, and found the attack in no greater force than last month when the enemy sent 80 bombers against London and parts of Southeast England.

60 Nazi Planes.

British authorities estimated the total raiding force at 50 to 60 planes of which some 15 reached London. Six were shot down, five over England and one after returning to France.

Fighters escorted the fighter-bombers striking into Holland in the 18th operation of the strategic air force in 18 days. No enemy planes were met.

The daylight raid followed a heavy attack Sunday by R.A.F. and U.S. formations on the invasion coast of Northern France, in continuation of a two-months' offensive against Nazi installations there.

Escorted by swarms of fighters, heavy and medium bombers battered mystery targets in the area which Allied bombers now have hit on 41 days of the last 55.

The Vichy radio said Allied planes bombed several localities in the area of Rouen during the afternoon and reported 50 persons were buried in debris from one "very violent attack."

The blows against the invasion coast followed similar attacks Saturday.

Margin Be Close For Government

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 14 (CP Cable) — The West Derbyshire by-election in which voting takes place next Thursday is having a whirlwind finish and the Conservatives entertain some doubts that their candidate, the 26-year-old Marquess of Hartington, will have much margin to spare even in this seat which members of his family held almost without a break for three centuries.

Alderman Charles White, 52-year-old Independent Socialist, appears to be making a strong bid for the seat despite Prime Minister Churchill's letter last week supporting Hartington. The third candidate seeking the seat vacated by retirement of Hartington's uncle, Col. Henry Hunloke, is Robert Goodall, an Independent Agriculturist.

Hartington, heir to the Duke of Devonshire and future head of the Cavendish family, said "we have good reason to be confident but it will be a very close thing." His mother added "We shall only just pull it off."

The only time a Cavendish or family connection has not represent-

$13,000 To Go

Peterborough's food merchants are endeavoring to sell $26,000 in War Savings Stamps this month. In the first two weeks $13,000 was sold reaching the half way mark. However in this period many of the regular purchasers bought their month's quota so those at the head of the campaign feel that a greater effort will be required to get the last $13,000. Every food store is carrying War Savings Stamps and people are urged to buy as many as possible for their is no better war saving.

Italian Mayor Longs For Peaceful Canada

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

TREGLIO, Italy, Feb. 14—(CP).—This battlefront town, hidden away at the end of a muddy road, has as mayor Joe Olivastri, a plump little farmer who speaks Italian with a Canadian accent.

Joe is unhappy. Treglio is his home and his birthplace but his heart is in Canada, in Montreal, and in the Ontario towns of Peterborough, Midland, Orillia and South River, where he drove horses and operated a stationary crane for 28 years.

"Italy, she's a helluva place," he confided, "and she's going to be a helluva lot worse. I wish Doctor Harvey had sent my wife to southern California."

Joe went to Canada in 1904 and returned to Italy in 1932 on the advice, he said, of Dr. Albert Harvey of Orillia. His wife was sick and the doctor believed the Italian climate might make her better.

Though he brought his five Canadian-born daughters back with him Joe never intended to stay here. He didn't count, however, on Italian officialdom and when he tried to return he could not get a passport.

So he settled down to farm the 70 acres of land his father left him, married off his daughters to local Italian men and prepared to lead a peaceful rural life.

"Then what do you think happen?" he asked. "They make me the mayor."

That was in August, 1936, and Joe has held the job since.

We asked Joe about his own political beliefs.

"Just a same as the rest of them," he said. "I'm a Liberal. I always vote for the Liberals in Ontario."

Stilwell Ready To Aid Invasion

CHUNGKING, Feb. 14 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell has pledged the American Central Pacific drive to establish land and air forces on the Chinese mainland will be supported by an aggressive land and air offensive from the interior.

The commander-in-chief of United States forces in China, India and Burma, who now is in the Ledo sector of northern Burma, said in a statement yesterday facilities are being prepared to accommodate the largest and newest cargo planes available since "vital China-based air operations cannot wait for penetration of the blockade by land or sea."

See-Saw Fight Continues Lines Remain Unchanged Allied Units On Offensive

More Of Cassino Captured By Americans In House-To-House Fighting Air Force Pounds Huns In 800 Sorties

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Feb. 14—(AP).—Fighting of a see-saw character but of lessened intensity has marked the Allied perimeter at Anzio in the past 24 hours, Allied headquarters announced today after weathering a week-end crisis. Regaining the initiative in part after the blanketing of Allied air support by bad weather had given German armored units an edge, British troops drove forward and recaptured a bottleneck bridge over the railway west of Carroceto (Aprilia), 10 miles north of Anzio, with the support of tanks.

Emphasizing the indeterminate nature of the battle, however, the Germans again occupied the factory half a mile east of Carroceto after days of fierce fighting in which the battered packing houses and silo-like structures of Mussolini's agricultural enterprise changed hands four times.

While the Allied air forces again struck the German ring about the bridgehead and other objectives with the fury of 800 sorties, American troops paid with blood for a 200-yard advance in Cassino, 60 miles to the east, battering down each German stronghold in a house-to-house struggle.

Held Monastery.

The Germans, too, still held the ancient towers and buildings of the Benedictine Monastery atop the hill west of Cassino.

The German communique claimed an Allied penetration to the centre of Cassino has been eliminated. Rome was bombed last night, it asserted.

An official announcement here said the Germans again had bombed an Allied Transit Hospital near Anzio Saturday night and caused casualties. Previously the Germans had bombed one hospital and shelled another, both marked with the Red Cross insignia.

Take 2000 Prisoners.

Another announcement said Britons and Americans had taken well over 2,000 German prisoners in the beachhead fighting since the landings on January 22.

Since the Allies pulled in their forward units and formed their present perimeter around the beach on February 3 the line has been firmly held and has remained substantially unchanged despite strong German counter-attacks along the northern flank, a headquarters commentator stated.

Yesterday the ground was soft, making the movements of vehicles difficult, and the weather, while colder, became somewhat clearer allowing impatient British and American airmen to resume their regular patrols, dive-bombing and strafing.

Patrol activity on the ground continued on all the other fronts, but many mountain passes were blocked by snow on the 8th Army front.

Bombers Held Up

French troops in the terrible area north of Cassino ambushed one German patrol, taking prisoners. Further south the Germans put in a fierce counter-attack against British troops around Mt. Castellone. They left 100 dead on the slopes.

Meantime the Allied Command announced that it might be necessary to assault the Benedictine monastery atop Mount Cassino, on the main 5th Army front 50 miles southward, because the Germans had turned it into a fortress. There was no evidence, however, that British or American troops had attacked the massive structure dominating

20,000 Russians Were Killed At Leningrad

LENINGRAD, Feb. 14—(AP)—The man who ran Leningrad under siege, taking stock after the longest such trial any city ever underwent, estimates that the civilians suffered about 20,000 casualties from shelling and bombings.

Of these, he said, about 5,800 were killed and 15,000 wounded.

This surprisingly small number of casualties among the original pre-war population of 3,500,000 was due to the rapid evacuation which left no one except indispensable workers and to the strict military discipline among those who remained.

P. Popkov said Leningrad "remains a city on a military basis." Therefore, he would not disclose the present population. Foreign reports that as many as 2,000,000 died, however, "multiply the real figures many times," he said.

Popkov, 41, the chairman of the Leningrad City Soviet or mayor, told British and American correspondents the story of the siege of Leningrad at a reception Sunday in Smolyn Institute—the historic buildings from which the Bolsheviks directed the 1917 revolution and now the city hall of Leningrad.

He said the organization of the city was separated into three periods. First women, children and aged men were evacuated eastward and others engaged in building the fortifications of the Luga-Kingisepp-Shimsk line. They retreated with the Red Army when the Germans broke through to the suburbs of Leningrad in September, 1941.

During the second stage, he said, the population worked on fortifications in the city and on the outskirts. Everyone aged 14 to 65 was engaged in fire-fighting while all those unnecessary for the maintenance of the city were evacuated in the winter of 1942.

Popkov said that during the third period the keeping up of the economy and industry of Leningrad was a grave military problem.

The worst hardship, he said, was the shelling which caused 80 per cent of Leningrad's casualties.

German Prince Is Held In Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 14—(CP)—Prince Tassilo Hohenlohe, descendant of a noted family which played an important part in moulding the German empire, is among the prisoners of war at a nearby interment camp, it was revealed to-day. He has been there more than 14 months.

A young man in his middle 20s, the Prince receives the same treatment from authorities as other prisoners.

Crisis Has Not Passed in Anzio Battle

Hour of Reckoning For Finland With Russia Nears Rapidly

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

There's better news to-day from the furious battle of Anzio-Nettuno beachhead south of Rome as a reward for those whose faith stood up during the trying days of last week.

The Anglo-American force has regained the initiative, at least in part, and has been attacking the surrounding Germans with great violence. That's an encouraging sign, but it shouldn't be taken as necessarily meaning that the crisis has been passed.

Our greatest need apparently is a spell of good flying weather to enable the Allied Air Force, with its heavy superiority, to get into full action. The battle may turn on air power.

Meanwhile American forces in the Cassino sector to the south are extending their efforts to smash through this tough spot, and are reported to have made some progress. A break-through here would tend to relieve pressure on the beachhead, quite apart from the fact that Cassino is the centre which is holding up the general advance and the main reason the troops have not been able to take this heavily fortified town is because they have refrained—at least until now—from shelling the famous monastery which looks down from a hilltop and is being used by the enemy as an artillery post. This key position is the world's oldest monastery, having been founded by St. Benedict in 529, and it has been protected from damage. However, stern necessities of war may force the Allies to bombard it. Indeed, the Nazi-controlled radio says they already have started, though there has been no confirmation.

A Tense Spot.

The other tense spot in the European war is Finland. The peals of triumph in Moscow over the capture of Luga are knells of tragedy for the Finns, whose hour of reckoning is thus brought appreciably nearer. Hitler's strength in that part of the war zone is dwindling rapidly.

Finland is in the position of having to make peace quickly or accepting a worse fate. The Helsinki government fully recognizes this, as is indicated by extreme activity pointing to possible negotiations between Finland and Moscow.

Significance seems to attach to the fact that Dr. Juhu Paasikivi, who helped negotiate peace between Finland and Russia in 1940, has arrived unexpectedly in Stockholm, as have Finnish Minister of the Interior Ehrenrooth and former Foreign Minister Erkko. Stockholm is a logical place for a peace parley.

The capture of Luga ranks among the great victories of the Russo-German war. This is one of the keys to the turning operation that the Musovites are now in process of carrying out against the northern wing of the Nazi front which now rests on the Baltic sea north of Narva in Estonia.

Won't Aid Bloc Populaire

Rene Chaloult, 2 Others Refuse Support

QUEBEC, Feb. 14.—(CP).— The expected announcement of the formation of a new Nationalist political party in Quebec was not contained in a statement made here to-day by Rene Chaloult, member of the Quebec Legislature for Lotbiniere.

The statement was signed by Mr. Chaloult, whose official political affiliation is with the Bloc Populaire; Paul Gouin, former leader of the Action Liberale party; and Dr. Philippe Hamel, former member of the Quebec Legislature for Quebec-Centre.

The co-signers said "we refrained from supporting the Bloc Populaire when, a short time ago, we were refused the guarantee that the movement would not deceive the people's confidence."

"The unity we all hoped for when the Bloc was formed in 1942," the statement went on, "was not achieved an to-day we feel our duty to voice our disapproval of what went on at recent first national convention of the Bloc in Montreal."

The co-signers added:

"If we did not attend the convention that was for an excellent reason: we had not been invited although our previous services to the Bloc should have been ample justification for an invitation.

"Not only were we ignored but a number of our followers, nationalist of long standing, were systematically eliminated.

Several Killed In Action Getting News

WINNIPEG, Feb. 14 —(CP) — Canadian war correspondents and public relation officers "take plenty to get you the news," John Bird, Editor-in-Chief of the Winnipeg Tribune said last night in a radio commentary and summary of week-end battle front developments.

"All of us owe an obligation to them" said Mr. Bird. "They go with our men to every front, not just for glory. They go because they believe that the deeds of your men who risk their lives every day are infinitely worth recording— at the risk of their own lives."

Mr. Bird paid personal tribute to Lieut. Terry Rowe of the Army Photographic section and formerly with the Tribune, who was killed last Friday near Nettuno, Italy.

Among others listed by Mr. Bird were Sam Robertson London superintendent of The Canadian Press, who went down on the troopship Nerissa; Edmund Baudry of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation who was shot down in a transport plane over Spanish Morocco and buried with military honors; Wallace Reyburn of the Montreal Standard, wounded at Dieppe; Peter Stursberg, CBC correspondent injured by a smoke mortar bomb while covering troops manoeuvres in England; and Lt.-Cmdr. E. H. Bartlett, navy press relations man, now a prisoner in Germany, who was first listed a smissing after a motor torpedo boat was hit off Messina.

Nazis Nervous As Canadians Probe Defences

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Feb. 14 — (CP). — Germans holding tenaciously to their Arielli River defences are growing more jittery each day as patrols from a division of the Canadian Corps of the British 8th Army probe ceaselessly into their positions seeking information, prisoners or just a fight.

The enemy is believed to have withdrawn some of his troops facing the Canadians to strengthen Rome's defences, but patrols report the Germans still are entrenched in strong positions in front of the Arielli River.

Forward German outposts are manned constantly against possible resumption of a major attack. The slightest movements draw fire, which is taken up along the line where a comparative handful of scouts is keeping the entire enemy defensive system on the alert.

Clashes were reported on Friday night from the Crecchio area, about six miles north-east of Ortona. Scarcely a patrol from the many sent out returned without reporting a brush with the enemy.

Troops of a division forming the corps left flank had only a normal night, but a Maritime battalion patrolling in the north-east areas

Find Jobs First Bracken Says

By RALPH HYMAN

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 14—No returned soldier should be forcibly demobilized until he can be demobilized into a job, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader, told the annual meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association here Saturday. Mr. Bracken was given an enthusiastic welcome by 700 party supporters who filled the Masonic Temple auditorium.

"That is my view," said Mr. Bracken. "We must create conditions which will ensure that the mistakes of yesterday are not repeated in the world of tomorrow. What kind of a world are the boys coming back to? What were the weaknesses of yesterday? In Canada we had a million people on relief. It was not a credit to Canada. We must not allow such conditions to happen again.

Finns Believed Negotiating For Peace With Russians

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 14—(AP).—Unconfirmed reports that preliminary contact already has been established between Helsinki and Moscow added significance today to the presence of three Finnish leaders in this neutral capital, logical site for possible peace negotiations.

Speculation that something may be afoot increased yesterday with the arrival here by plane of Leo Ehrenrooth, Finnish Minister of the Interior. He had been preceded to Stockholm by Juhu Paasikivi, who helped negotiate the peace treaty that ended the Finnish-Russian war of 1939-40, and Eljas Erkko, former Finnish Foreign Minister.

Ehrenrooth ostensibly came here on a mission in connection with the evacuation to Sweden of Finnish children living in areas which might be subject to Russian bombing. As a Cabinet member, however, he conceivably could play an important part in any peace talks.

There were indications, meanwhile, that Finland probably was feeling her way cautiously for fear that any move to get out of the war might result in German reprisals. This was reflected in a dispatch from Helsinki quoting a Conservative member of the Finnish Parliament as saying in an interview:

"We must see the situation only from the point of view of what is here wants to share Italy's fate."

It is known there is considerable anxiety in Helsinki lest Finland becomes "another Italy," particularly in view of the feeling that the Germans might try to retain nickel and copper mines in northern Finland regardless of developments.

Helsinki advices reported a continous round of government conferences was being held in the Finnish capital, but these activities were surrounded with great secrecy and there was no hint of their nature.

Foul Weather

plies. Cloudy weather could limit Allied air support. It could even mean defeat and a stalemate in western Europe with the war dragging on.

The Supreme Allied Command is preparing for almost any eventuality and chances for success would be good before the invasion is undertaken but the Allied leaders cannot do much about guaranteeing the right sea, wind and cloud. Luck plays the big hand there.

The Anzio and Nettuno operation in Italy illustrates all too clearly how vagaries of the weather can influence combined operations. The landing there was carried out under perfect conditions of sea and wind but trouble came within a few days.

Low clouds closed down over the bridgehead from the Alban hills to the sea and several critical periods prevented Allied planes giving all the aid they could to Allied troops on the ground.

As a statement from Prime Minister Churchill on Saturday pointed out, spells of bad weather interrupt from time to time delivery of supplies but this situation was saved by building up reserves during the fair-weather period.

Weather Changes

Still, if the bad weather had continued the bridgehead might have gone. But in the last few days the weather turned brilliantly clear. This probably was a decisive factor in saving the bridgehead and it is reflected in the new Allied confidence that the battle of Rome will be won.

Anzio wasn't the only combined operation which ran into bad weather. A storm the night of the Sicily invasion last July 9-10 which blew up as the armada was off Malta nearly caused postponement but the commanders gambled on it calming down. By dawn of July 10 it did but it was tough going in the small invasion boats and if there had been stiff opposition there might have been a slaughter.

So the second-front planners now pray fervently for good weather they want at the time chosen for the invasion and put their faith in meteorological officers assigned to predict what it is going to be like. No weatherman ever had such an important job but even they say they cannot be 100 per cent. right in this tricky European climate.

From now until spring and summer the weather is less erratic here but even then it is not easy to forecast.

ed the riding was from 1918 to 1923 when White's shoemaker father held the seat and died two days before polling day in 1923.

Success here for the National Government candidate will be of definite service to our fighting men, wherever they may be, and may play a recognizable part in bringing this war to a victorious end at the earliest possible moment," Mr. Churchill said in his letter last Thursday to Hartington, a Captain in the Coldstream Guards who obtained leave to contest the seat.

The by-election is attracting even more attention than the vote in Brighton Feb. 3 when the Government retained the seat by a narrow margin.

The Daily Telegraph called it a "test case of what our political system should be in wartime."

"The issue is whether the war should be conducted by a coalition of parties all equally intent on victory or whether in some way or other politics can be enlivened without endangering victory by returning candidates styling themselves Independent," the newspaper added.

Hartington has received support from the three parties in the coalition, the Liberals and Labor did not name a candidate because of the wartime election truce whereby the parties in the coalition do not contest a seat held by one of them when it becomes vacant.

Highway Plans For Post-War Now Prepared

TORONTO, Feb. 14 —(CP) — A highway works program for the postwar era has been prepared by the Ontario Department of Highways, estimated to cost over $150,000,000, which will be under discussion at Ottawa to-day when Minister of Highways Doucet confers with the Highways Ministers of other Provinces.

Provincial Highways Ministers are conferring with the Federal Government to learn what the Federal Government intends doing financially in conjunction with the Provinces in postwar work programs. In event of emergency or Ottawa declining aid, however, Ontario will be ready with its program, Mr. Doucet said here Saturday.

The Ontario program would mean proceeding first with maintenance of existing highways, closing of links between highways, and then branching into a development of new trunk highways.

One of the first roads to be considered, Mr. Doucett said, is the highway from Toronto to North Bay to relieve the conditions caused by heavy traffic to the summer resort district. Plans are now being considered on a route either east or west of Lake Simcoe through Muskoka to North Bay.

Another plan is for further extension eastward of the No. 2 double highway now developed to Newcastle, which would be extended further east, ultimately to the Quebec boundary as part of the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Two Youths Get $100 Fine Or Jail

"I doubt very much the advisability of laying the charge under this section," commented Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning when Ray Cannon, 17, of 532 Patterson street, and Max Hunter, 16, of 122 Simcoe street, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor not acquired under their individual permits.

"This is the most serious charge that could have made against them," continued his worship. "They could quite as easily been charged under Section 43 in which case the court would have had some latitude. You will be having the jail filled with young boys."

The minimum penalty for the charge as laid was a fine of $100 and costs each with the alternative of three months in jail. That was the penalty imposed by the court.

"These boys have utterly refused to co-operate with the police," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated. "They have refused to tell where they obtained the beer."

According to police the two youths were arrested on Aylmer street by Officers C. J. McGillen and Reg. McMillan at noon on Saturday.

They were carrying a carton containing two dozen pints of beer and told the police that they had found the beer near the boat houses on the river, just above the C.P.R. bridge.

The officers stated that when the boys were taken individually to the boat-houses each pointed out a different place in which he said that the carton had been found.

Harry H. Tewsley Passes Away

There passed away at his home, 77 Benson avenue, on Sunday evening Harry Howard Tewsley in his 63rd year. A resident of this city since 1905 Mr. Temsley was for ten years manager of the J. C. Turnbull store and then for fifteen years he travelled in Western Canada for Mace Goods Limited and Morton Sundour Fabrics Limited. For the past ten years Mr. Tewsley has suffered from a bad heart and has lived in retirement.

Born in St. Catharines Mr. Tewsley before coming to Peterborough was employed with Dundas and Flavelle of Lindsay. He was the manager of the Turnbull store in this city at the time it collapsed. He was a member of Murray Street Baptist church.

Mrs. Tewsley predeceased him about six years ago. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. George Barns and Mrs. L. W. Snowden, both of this city, and three sons, Keele V. and Jack W. of Toronto, and Harry who resided with the father.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon from the late residence, 77 Benson avenue, at three o'clock, with interment in Little Lake cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Brief Suggests Tax Revisions

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Feb. 14—(CP).—A joint brief presented here today to the Ontario Mining Commission by the Association of Northern Ontario Mining Municipalities explores in about 13,000 words the association's reasons for urging an entire revision of mines taxation "to provide more municipal revenue without increasing the total tax burden of mining companies."

The brief, representing the pooled efforts of the town of Timmins and townships of Teck (Kirkland Lake), Tisdale (South Porcupine) and Whitney, suggests legislative changes which may be summarized as follows:

1. To change the method of mines assessment to allow taxation of the first $10,000 of income, which is exempt at present.

2. Not allow deductions from municipally - taxable income of money spent in development in another part of the province.

3. Revision of the system of allowing mines to deduct from municipally-taxable income all taxes paid to the Federal Government.

4. Revise or eliminate the deduction from taxable income of arbitrary allowance of 50 cents a ton for ore milled.

5. To provide for assessment of mining lands limited to actual value of surface rights whether the mine is operating or not.

6. Provision of means of appeal against mining assessment through regular assessment appeal channels.

7. That all procedure for assessing mines for municipal taxation be provided in the assessment act, instead of being partly affected by the mining tax act, as at present.

two widely separated areas—southern France and western Germany.

The German air force struck the London area with thousands of incendiaries last night, burning out two churches, a school and many houses in a thickly populated residential district. A bomb that hit a cottage in southeast England wiped out an entire family—father, mother and three children.

It was the third successive night raid on the London area. More planes than usual were in the attacking squadrons. Four planes were knocked down.

An east Anglican town suffered possibly its heaviest loss of the war. A number of stores were burned out in the shopping centre and two hotels and a moving picture theatre were hit.

A movie crowd at Wimbledon had a narrow escape when an anti-aircraft shell crashed through the roof of a theatre (Regal) just as the last of the audience was leaving the building. The exploding shell badly damaged the interior and started a fire.

Alf Day Heads C.G.E. Society For Eighth Year

Total membership in the Employees' Mutual Benefit Association of the C.G.E., Peterborough Works, now stands at 4,346, a slightly lower figure than at this time last year, the executive of the group pointed out last week. Due to all the personnel changes that have been made, the smaller membership roll is understandable, it was added.

Alf Day, who is entering on his 26th year as a member of the Executive, was re-elected president of the Association for the eighth consecutive year. He reviewed the sound state of the finances of the organization, and stated that at the end of 1943 receipts of $80,661.75 with the following disbursements made: Sick pay, $14,937.21; hospitalization, $10,680.66; medical and operations, $41,972.42. Assets on hand were placed at $36,931.05.

The Executive has authorised the setting aside of 2 per cent of the yearly contributions to create a reserve, from which, in the very near future, pensioners who were members of the Association for the ten years preceding their retirement will receive free medical attention and hospitalization. Effective February 4, weekly fees were reduced from 35 cents to 30 cents, a saving of $2.60 a year for each member.

200 War Brides Reach Canada

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 (CP)—Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom of Stanley, N.B., recently retired from command of a Canadian corps in Britain because of ill health, has returned to Canada along with a large group of repatriated Canadian servicemen, chiefly "category" personnel being invalided home.

Nearly 200 British war brides of Canadians serving overseas, along with their children, British and Empire air force personnel, and a large draft of British merchant seamen and officers, were included in the arrivals.

Lt.-Gen. Sansom went to Britain early in the war and had been with the Canadian forces training in Britain since. At first commanding a Canadian division there, he was promoted to his present rank and given command of the corps last year.

Announcement of his retirement because of ill health was made a few days ago. His successor as commander of the corps has not been announced, but it was revealed recently that Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston has been given command of a Canadian corps in Britain.

Seymour Pilot In R.C.A.F. Reported Dead

HASTINGS, Feb. 14 (ENS)—Word has been received by Edward Armstrong, who live son a farm three miles west of Trent River, that his brother, George Wesley Armstrong, who was reported missing in air operations over Germany on June 23, 1943, is now officially reported dead. He received his education at S.S. No. 10, Seymour and Havelock and Campbellford high schools.

G. W. ARMSTRONG

He attended Peterborough Normal school in the seasons of 1932 and 1933, then taught school at Springbrook and Paudash Lake, in North Hastings.

He worked for E. Reynolds and Son, general contractors, at Kirkland Lake before enlisting.

Enlisting on July 16, 1940, with the G.G.H.G., a motorcycle unit, he transferred to the Royal Canadian Air Force in May 1941. He got his elementary training at Malton airport and his service training at No. 5 training school at Brantford. He received his wings January 15, 1942, and went overseas in March, 1942 as a bomber pilot.

His only surviving relative is his brother, Edward Armstrong.

Whole Wheat Is Given Support

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14 — (ENS)— The use of whole wheat flour and whole grain cereals was seen as one of the most valuable contributions to the nation's health and one of the simplest assurances of physical well being that could be adopted according to Miss Mildred Heagle who was guest speaker at the February meeting of the Seymour East branch of the Women's Institute.

Addressing the members, who met at Mrs. George Craighead's Friday afternoon, Miss Heagle analysed the food values in the various parts of a kernal of wheat. She began by telling of the different food values in the winter wheat grown in Eastern Canada and the spring wheat for which the West is famous because it is richer in proteins. Miss Heagle spoke of the construction of the wheat kernel showing its different parts, all of which pointed to the advantage of whole wheat.

As proof of the value of whole wheat, Miss Heagle asserted the human body could absorb twice as much mineral content from a pound of whole wheat bread as from ordinary white bread. This fact was well recognized in England where it had been put to the test since the war. There they no longer have any white bread as it is known in this country. Instead, a national flour, enriched with vitamins and minerals is used, and its practical advantages are already being demonstrated by the improved health, particularly of children, who are said to be healthier than at any time in history. "This is but one reason why a whole wheat flour is being advocated in many recipes where a white flour was formerly used," said Miss Heagle.

Mrs. John Thompson presided for the meeting, and the Janie Canuck, girls' club demonstrated bound button holes and bias binding, as an added feature of the afternoon. Miss Elsie Rannie contributed a piano solo. It was decided to observe St. Patrick's Day at their March meeting and Mrs. Roy Walker, Mrs. E. C. Pollock, and Mrs. Jesse Locke, were named as program conveners.

Fenella Institute Has Serving Demonstration

FENELLA, Feb. 14—(ENS)—The Fenella W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Beecher McDonald with the attendance of 24. Mrs. F. George opened the meeting and Mrs. C. Childs gave the war work financial report stating a balance of $28.68 on hand. Quilts and knitting of the month were displayed and one quilt will be sent to the Salvation Army. Eleven quilts, 5 sweaters, 10 pair pyjamas, 3 pair gloves, and 2 pair socks were brought to the meeting. The war work collection amounted to $1.80.

Mrs. Montgomery offered her home for the March meeting. Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. G. Sandercock are to for the program committee.

Mrs. G. Jewell offered her home to cut the bolt of flannelette. Mrs. C. Leach gave a demonstration on fixing a placat on a dress and the making of pyjamas. Mrs. W. H. Sandercock took charge of the program. Contests were given by Mrs. D. Adams. Mrs. W. H. Sandercock, Mrs. Brisbin, Mrs. B. Macklin and Mrs. P. Macklin. Mrs. W. I. Montgomery spoke on Tennyson's life and one of his poems.

Mrs. C. Childs moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, who served lunch.

Two Games Won At Tourney By Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14 (ENS)—Rotarians had reason to be pleased by the response their second "Young Campbellford Night" received here Friday when a crowd of more than one thousand filed past the gate to watch a four-hour program of hockey, racing contests and clowning that ranked with the best exhibitions of its type presented locally.

Though the show was built around the skating prowess of pupils from Campbellford's three schools who are receiving coaching at the hand's of Pat Shannon, contests were enlivened by entries from Seymour and Warkworth, and the fast ice helped to speed up the entire program. Exhibitions by both boys and girls teams of Campbellford High and Warkworth Continuation schools, were among the highlights of the evening, and as the boys' bantam game got underway the advantage the locals held of their opponents could readily be attributed to the training they were getting. They took the Warkworth team by a 5 to 1 score in a fast, clean exhibition in which Mechetuk and A. Taylor shared top scoring honors counting two each while C. Pettifer registered the fifth counter. L. Nesbitt on the local's forward line, did some very effective work around the goal. It was Churchley's low shot from Makepeace that saved the Warkworth crew from a shutout.

The teams:

Warkworth: Goal, D. Grills; defense, Makepeace, Carr; wings, Potter, Weatherson; centre, Peterson; subs, Don Shea, MacKenzie and Churchley.

Campbellford: Goal, Keith Gummo; defence, Fairman, Bob Peake; centre, Wes Mechetuk; wings, A. Taylor, L. Nesbitt; sub, Pettifer.

2-0 Decision

In the high school girls' event the local also garnered a close but decisive victory, taking the visitors 2-0. Both sides worked hard, demonstrating an aggressive brand of hockey in which the local girls had a slight edge that was largely the result of combination tactics.

The line-up was:

Warkworth: Goal, A. McKee; defense, G. Churchley, M. Martin; centre, O. Shaw; wings, G. Welton, J. English; subs, D. Platt, H. Potter, S. Grills.

Campbellford: Goal, D. Free; defence, B. Lisle, Clara O'Keefe; centre, Coletta O'Keefe; wings, B. Smith, J. Wood; subs, D. Greig, B. Spencer, M. Rutledge, E. Brown, I. Chapman.

The fastest action of the evening was the game between Warkworth Continuation and Campbellford High schools. Jim Umphrey and John O'Rourke were the marksmen who gave the local group their two counters of the game but young Morley Maxwell shared jointly in the honors by his excellent job of net minding which gave Campbellford its second shut out of the evening.

The teams were:

Warkworth: Goal, Grills; defense, R. Greenly, C. Churchley; centre, S. Churchley; wings, Edwards and Greenly; subs, Meiklejohn, Harold Churchley and G. Potter.

Campbellford—Goal, M. Maxwell; defence, Doherty and Brunton; centre, Shillinglaw; wings, O'Rourke, Umphrey; subs, A. Hay, C. O'Rourke, D. Burgis.

Racing contests were divided into six classes, all of which were keenly contested and the winners were as follows:

Pee-wee boys, Clayton Cassidy; Pee-wee girls, Marion Maxwell; bantam boys, Lorry Nesbitt; bantam girls, Betty Sutton; relay race, Stanley Churchley and Gladys Wilson, Warkworth; high school girls' race, Helen Potter, Warkworth.

Concluding item of the evening was the draw conducted by Rotarian Bert Taylor with Maxine McArthur selecting the winning tickets all of which were held by local residents. The winners were Miss Marguerite Hartley, $50.00; Mrs. Gordon Fox, $25.00; Mr. George Holmes, $15.00; Mr. Harry Barrons, $10.00. All prizes were in War Savings Certificates.

Wounded In Italy

COBOURG, Feb. 14 —(ENS) — Mrs. J. T. Turpin has received word from Ottawa that her son, Sergeant James Turpin, has been wounded in Italy. No details were given. He enlisted in 1940 at Cobourg and went overseas in September of 1941. Twenty-seven years of age, he is the son of Mrs. T. J. Turpin and the late Mr. Turpin. His father, who was fire chief here, died in December of 1943. Sergeant Turpin has a brother, Lieut. Jack Turpin, in England.

Floor Price

RODNEY, Feb. 14 — (CP) —A meeting of Elgin County Corn Growers yesterday passed a resolution asking the Federal Government to guarantee growers a floor price of $1.04 a bushel for corn with a 17-per-cent moisture test. A premium on all corn tested under 15 per cent also was sought.

First Big Week-end For Ski Enthusiasts

COBOURG, Feb. 14 —(ENS) — For the first week-end this year, ski fans had enough snow for their favourite sport and hills north of the town were dotted with skiers Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The only real snow of the year, it was about six inches deep and in places drifted to much greater depths. There was no serious difficulty travelling on rural roads and in town only the occasional car got stuck in the snow.

Apart from pleasing the sports enthusiasts, the snowfall brought smiles to farmers. Road supervisors were glad to see the snow arrive as it means less danger from freshets in the spring break-up, as it tends to hold the ice back in the event of a sudden and lasting thaw.

Memorial Service Is Held In Hastings

HASTINGS, Feb. 14 — (ENS) — A private memorial service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stewart on Friday for the late Private John C. Stewart and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Glover. During the service, Mrs. Glover sang, "What a Friend We Have In Jesus" by request.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stewart of Hastings, he leaves four sisters.

Mrs. Ernest Burrison and Mrs. Charlton Grigg, both of Roseneath, Mrs. John Stinson of Norwood, Mrs. Clarke Nelson of Trenton, and one brother, Walter of Port Arthur.

W.A. Of St. Andrew's To Assist Chinese

HASTINGS, Feb. 14—(ENS)—The Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church met in the Sunday School rooms recently to hold their regular meeting.

The meeting opened with Mrs. W. McMillan in charge. The scripture was read in unison followed by a reading entitled "Jennie Entertains Sister's Beau," by Marion Whitred.

The business centred around the planning of a pot luck dinner and the quilting of two quilts, February 17 in the church. The proceeds will go for Chinese relief funds.

Obituaries

ALFRED WILLIAMSON.

The funeral of Alfred Williamson, 205 Park Hill Road, who died Saturday at the age of 83 following a lingering illness, was held this afternoon from the funeral parlours of A. Comstock & Sons, to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Dr. James D. Smart of St. Paul's, Presbyterian Church, officated.

Born in Ballyduff, Ont., the son of the late John C. and Mary Ann Williamson, he had been a lifelong resident of the district and was a carpenter by trade. One remaining brother, Herbert of Toronto, survives.

ARCHIBALD L. CLAPPERTON.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 14—(ENS).—Funeral service for the late Archibald Lawson Clapperton will be held from his late residence north of Warkworth on the Hastings Road to-day at 2:30.

Mr. Clapperton was in his 66th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Clapperton, and was born near Baltimore. Mr. Clapperton passed away in Belleville General Hospital early Friday morning following an operation on the day previous to his passing. He had been in poor health for a couple of years, but had been active about his farm until two weeks ago.

Mr. Clapperton was a prosperous and highly regarded farmer of this district. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth.

Following the service interment took place at Christian Church, Morganston.

MRS. WILLIAM J. NORTHEY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Emma Jane Northey was held recently from the residence on Bridge Street, Lakefield, with service conducted by Rev. G. F. Kelly of Lakefield United Church. Interment was made in Lakefield.

Mrs. Northey, who was born in Smith Township in 1866 and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sage, died after a short illness. She was predeceased by her husband, William J. Northey six years ago and by a daughter, Verda, 26 year sago.

She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and five sons, all of Smith Township: Mrs. C. Elliott, Mrs. L. McKee, Mrs. A. Bulmer, Elmer, Stanley, Grandon, Sherman and Kenneth Northey. A sister, Mrs. J. J. Northey, and four brothers, Walter, Wilbert, Herbert and Orr Sage, also survive; and there are 28 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Pallbearers were four nephews, Wesley Davis, Gerald Northey, Wellie Northey, Donald Sage and two brother-in-laws, Henry Little and Wilbert Rosborough. Bearers of floral offerings were Orville Elliott and Alvin and Melvin Northey.

Typhus Outbreak

STOCHOLM, Feb. 14 —(AP)—A German announcement in Oslo transmitted by the Swedish Telegraph Agency said Saturday Nazi occupation authorities in Norway had isolated city of Kirkenes for three months because of a typhus outbreak. The Germans permitted only the most important traffic, presumably military, during this period to and from the city, their chief base in Northern Norway.

"The only good thing about a blackout," observed a Londoner recently, "is that it is temporary."
But there can be a permanent blackout for the family of the man who has insufficient life insurance—a blackout which may condemn widow and children to a twilight life of privation and hardship.
Suppose the unexpected should happen to you? Are your assets and life insurance sufficient to provide your loved ones with at least a few of the comforts of life? Are you sure?
Why not consult your local Imperial Life representative? He will tell you how you can, within your means, make "blackouts" only a hazy memory in post-war years. A half-hour's time—a wise decision—now—may save your family from future want.

Revitalizing Democracy

In a recent speech at the University of Manitoba the leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Mr. John Bracken, declared that what Canada needs is not socialism, but a revitalized democracy. Said he: "There must be an acceptance of individual responsibilities as well as individual rights and privileges.".

No words could be more true. They are not original with Mr. Bracken, of course, for they have been used by leaders for centuries before him, and they are used by countless men now who either do not really believe them, or who do not fully understand what they imply. What gives these well-worn words power in Mr. Bracken's mouth is that he genuinely does believe them, and we think that he knows thoroughly what they imply. What a boon it would be if he could bestow his belief and his knowledge on every citizen of this country!

In the last decade democracy has been called many things by its friends and its enemies, and by the millions who call themselves democrats but who have never made up their minds what democracy really is. Benito Mussolini once said, "Democracy is talking itself to death"; we do not believe that, but it is quite possible that democracy has talked itself sick.

Democracy has been called a 'system' many times. Is it really a system? Is it not rather an attitude on the part of the individual citizen which reflects itself in the men who are elected, and in what is expected, and insisted upon, from them? Communists used to talk of individual member as 'cells'. Surely it is equally possible for every man to be a 'cell' of democracy? Is democracy a fire which descends from heaven upon Parliament, or is it a fire which burns in the heart of every citizen? The fire burns very low in many hearts; in some it is cold ashes; in many it has never been kindled: yet what Canadian today denies that he is a democrat?

Calvin Coolidge, who had a great fund of wisdom on some topics, made a speech at Evanston, Illinois, in 1923 in which he said: "It would be folly to argue that the people cannot make political mistakes. They can, and do make grave mistakes. They know it, they pay the penalty, but compared with the mistakes which have been made by every kind of autocracy they are unimportant". It is not mistakes which invalidate democracy; it is apathy on the part of people who pretend to be democrats. Mr. Bracken chose the right word when he said that democracy needed to be revitalized; it must be roused from its lethargy, not in Parliament, but in the individual citizen.

Keeping a Balance

Addressing a meeting of the Ontario Temperance Federation on Thursday night Dr. E. M. Howse made two recommendations which need closer examination than he gave them. One of these was that all liquor advertising should be abolished and that foreign periodicals should not be allowed to circulate in Canada more than 1,000 copies unless they withdraw liquor advertising.

To forbid a manufacturer to advertise his goods is a restraint of trade. If the anti-liquor forces can get legislation to this effect Canadian brewers and distillers will have to abide by it. Such legislation would be fascist in tone, but a great many people approve of fascist measures when they further what they believe to be a good end. We repeat our frequent warning, however, that good ends cannot be achieved by bad means.

As for placing a restriction on foreign publications, that would not harm the foreign publications in the least, for the Canadian demand for them is small. But it would harm Canada. If for example, only a thousand copies of the London Times and the New York Times were permitted to enter his country, we should be the sufferers. Intellectual isolationism would be a terrible price to pay for a very doubtful benefit. Restraining the free entry of reputable publications into a country is another popular fascist device.

Dr. Howse's second recommendation was that an improved system of temperance education be introduced into the public schools. We are in favour of this if it is truly education for temperance, and not merely propaganda for prohibition. Children used to be, and may still be, lectured in school on the evils of smoking. We doubt if that education ever stopped anyone from smoking if he found that he wanted to do so. It would be the same with drinking. Children whose parents drink in moderation simply would not believe it if they were told in school that drinking was evil, though they might be very good subjects for education in moderate drinking.

The people of Canada are free, and they insist on making up their own minds on matters which interest them. When they feel that they are being bamboozled, as they feel that they have been in the legislation restricting the sale of beer, they become very much annoyed, and great harm is done to the cause of real temperance. Canadians will not be dragooned by people who want to make up their minds for them, and do them good by force.

Greenland And The Weather

Many readers will recall that there was a good deal of anxiety during 1940 and 1941 about the possibility of the Germans using Greenland as a jumping-off place for an attack on this country. An article in the current issue of Collier's by Colonel Bernt Balchen of the U.S. Army Air Force assures us that our fears were well-founded; he insists that the Germans had a base in Greenland, and he implies that it has now been wiped out, although it was in German hands until an unspecified date in 1943.

This is part of what Col. Balchen says: "You did not know—the facts could not be revealed till now — that the Nazis actually had established a foothold on this side of the Atlantic. You did not know, all last year, that their planes were flying within bombing distance of the shores of North America. Their submarines, refueling in Greenland's silent fjords, were striking at will at our convoys to England and Murmansk. Their well-equipped weather station, on the island's undefended east coast, was in daily radio communication direct with Berlin". The reason for this close contact was that in Greenland may be found the key to the future weather of Europe. Col. Balchen continues, "The Germans knew the importance of Greenland. From the outset of the war, the Nazi weather planes had been patrolling its coast; it was advance information from Greenland that enabled the trapped Scharnhorst and Gneisenau to slip out of harbour, under cover of heavy fog, and pass unmolested within fifteen miles of the Dover coast".

We think that probably Col. Balchen is making the best story he can out of the Greenland Nazis. Nevertheless, they were a real danger, not to this continent, but to Europe. "Greenland holds the key to tomorrow's weather in Europe", says Col. Balchen; "every bombing raid we make over Germany depends on our long-range forecasts from the Arctic. The timing, indeed, the very success, of our coming invasion may hinge on the fact that we, and not the Nazis, have Greenland today".

The Illegitimate Child

Miss Charlotte Whitton has addressed a letter to the Ottawa press asking what will be the status of illegitimate children under the new governmental schemes of family allowances and general insurance. Miss Whitton, who is probably the ablest sociologist in Canada, knows that her question is rhetorical, for the schemes in question have not yet been debated; clearly she has written in the hope of raising an important question before the matter of allowances and insurance comes up in Parliament.

Social legislation is usually taken to imply breadth of mind and strong sympathy for the unfortunate; it springs from liberalism, with a small 'l'. Surely a Government which wants to ensure a square deal for everybody, alleviating the distresses of poverty, uncertainty and social discrimination on monetary grounds, will include illegitimate children and their parents in its bounty? At present the federal income tax allows no exemption for an illegitimate child, and no reason, other than the moralistic one, has ever been offered for this discrimination. Is it going to deprive the illegitimate child of the benefits which are supposed to result from family allowances? If a Government wishes to be looked upon as broad-minded, it must be broad-minded in all respects, or its opponents will be quick to point out its inconsistencies. A Government which denies a child the benefits provided for the majority of children because its parents have been unwise or unlucky will have difficulty in defending its point of view.

There is a loophole, however, if the Government wishes to take it. It is not common for a couple to have more than one illegitimate child, and family allowances usually begin with the second child in a family. Nevertheless the question which Miss Whitton poses is one of principle, and needs an answer.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

COMBINE harvesters have become more numerous during the last few years and have some drawbacks in their operation on Ontario farms. Very often a farmer in this province made his straw for bedding and any efforts to gather the straw left on a field by a combine have not been very effective. Straw well rotted in a manure pile will add humus to the soil and so improve the soil. If straw is scattered over a field by a combine, and a fairly long stubble is left on the field, you will find that you are ploughing too much fresh straw into your land, which will not help, but may hinder, the following crop.

Straw will only enrich soil when it has been rotted into humus. It is only through the action of soil bacteria that straw is rotted in the land. When you plough in the fall and have quite a quantity of straw to bury in the furrows, this gives the organisms which rot this straw too much work to perform. These soil bacteria like every living thing require something to feed on. Undecayed straw, or other vegetable matter is not a balanced ration for these organisms and so they supplement this by feeding on the nitrates in the soil and thus in their work to bring about the decaying of fresh soil they rob the soil of nitrogen which may be badly needed for the next crop. The unrotted straw is ploughed in during the late autumn, and during winter, owing to cold and frost, bacterial life is inactive in the soil. Like the bears these small organisms sleep over winter, but with the warmth of a spring sun they wake up and go to work. The early spring is when young grain plants require a generous supply of nitrogen, as it is to them at that time a vital plant food. When this bacterial activity is resumed in the spring it has been proven by scientists that soil bacteria possess a greater pull on the nitrates in the soil than plants have and so there is but one thing to do, where you have ploughed in straw—that is to supply nitrogen in some chemical form such as cyanamid and so enable the grain plants to come on quickly at the same time as the straw is going through the process of rotting.

There is something else to keep in mind where straw is ploughed in, that is to pack the land quite firmly. This is not so necessary in heavy land, but all crops are the better of having the land packed when they are seeded. If a fairly liberal application of nitrogen is made in the form suggested, you will harvest a good crop and your land will gain something from the rotted straw. Chemical fertilizer applied when seeding land, that straw has been ploughed into, should have a nitrogen content of from one third to one half of its phosphate content.

WE are now told that the Provincial Government is not going to run the Toronto Stock Yards but is going to compel the livestock associations to run them and if they don't run them right the Provincial Government will interfere. The Federal Government and not the Provincial Government has jurisdiction over the stock yards. We are also told that some unfair practices are to be stopped. What are these, I have never heard the Toronto Stock Yards charged with any unfair practices. Cattle raisers will be interested to know what is wrong and what the remedy it.

HERBERT LEHMAN, Director for Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, in the United States, made a significant statement regarding horses when speaking in New York. He said: "Horses are disappearing at such a rate that scarcity of draught animals may be a problem even more acute than the scarcity of man power in the first year of peace. The occupied countries have been systematically drained of their resources and never before has the world witnessed so ruthless a spoliation of so many in so short a time." Definite information also comes to hand that in the whole of Europe, with the exception of Great Britain and the four neutral countries, the horse population has during the war years declined from some thirty-three millions to something like twenty-three millions.

There seems to be a fixed opinion among men studying the question of the future demand for horses that it will be quite firm at remunerative prices for several years to come. There is a growing opinion in favor of "family-sized-farms" and these will continue to be operated largely by horses. Every once in a while we are told that the horse is on the way out but I feel sure he is not headed wholly in that direction.

There is one thing that horse breeders must look carefully to in their horses and that is soundness. One of the banes of horses is sidebones, and while working unshod on ploughed fields they often suffer little lameness from this unsoundness yet it often makes a horse unsaleable, or worth much less money than if it were sound. When anyone buys a horse with the intention of keeping it for some time, his wise comment will be that he can too often get unsoundness in horses without purchasing it.

Only perfectly sound mares should be used for breeding purposes and a stallion should have no unsoundness nor a tendency toward any. The British farmer is very strict in his demand for sound horses and he realized the folly of multiplying unsoundness by breeding from unsound animals. He wants good feet and legs.

THE annual livestock meetings for Ontario, and some covering the whole of Canada, were held in Toronto the first week of February, and were well attended. The numbers at some of the meetings being quite large. These are prosperous times for those who are breeding pure bred livestock, and commercial animals are commanding good prices. The weather was fine, and every car headed for Toronto to attend the meetings was filled. The Shorthorn annual gathering was larger than usual and was enthusiastic about their present trade in pure bred cattle. An interesting event on the program was the presentation of a portrait in oils of George E. Day which is to be hung in the Saddle and Sirloin Club at Chicago when the International Show is resumed. Mr. Day, formerly secretary of the Canadian Shorthorn Association, has since he retired from that post been secretary of the Ontario Shorthorn Club, and has been connected with Shorthorn business for some years.

The Dairy Cattle Associations are prospering as never before. The Holstein-Friesian Association has made remarkable progress and is today the largest cattle association in Canada. When the membership of the different breed associations in Ontario were taken into consideration for representation in the Provincial Cattle Breeders' Association, it was found that the Holstein-Friesian membership was over twice as large as the total membership of all the other Cattle Associations in this province. This surely places the Black and White Dairy Cows well in front of the favour of the Ontario farmer. There can be no doubt that Holsteins play a very important part in dairy farming in this province. The other dairy breeds had good annual meetings.

The Percheron Horse Breeders had the honour of having the president of the British Percheron Society, Lord De La Warr, in attendance at their meeting and His Lordship made a short address in which he gave an encouraging report of the progress being made by Percherons in Britain. Lord De La Warr recently purchased a Percheron mare, Histon Moss Rose, at an auction at Cambridge, for 460 guineas.

The Clydesdale Association accepted the resignation of J. W. Wheaton as secretary and appointed T. P. Devlin, of the C.N.R., Montreal, in his place.

The Canadian Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association meet in Calgary this year and will convene in March at the time of the Calgary bull sale. This has been a good livestock year and the one thing all breeders should look to is quality.

A NUMBER of farmers in several localities have used the fine weather to cut wood and reports from some districts are that a fair supply of dry wood will be on hand next fall and it doubtless will be in good demand. Dead or fallen trees should be all cut up in a winter like this and some thinning out might be done in the odd bush, and the money for such wood will come in handy when more machinery is needed on the farms. Every reasonabley source of revenue should be tapped while sales can be made at good prices, as after this war, like after all wars we know about, the most valuable thing to have will be money, the medium of exchange through which we purchase many of our necessities.

Reserves For Future Expansion

(TORONTO STAR)

MOST Canadians favor the capitalist system, but most also admit nowadays that something must be done to correct its operation. It has resulted in boom times and depressions, in poverty and plenty, in the creation of trusts and monopolies. Those who seek to remedy its weaknesses are not destroying it, but saving it. The State itself must take such measures as will give the system a new lease of life, free from at least some of the defects which have become chronic in its operation.

But State intererence is in many instances resented by those who would be affected by it. Whenever it is suggested, for example, that there should be a heavy tax upon excess profits in peacetime, objection is raised on the ground that such profits should be left with the corporations which "earn" them, so as to provide reserves for future expansion. It is interesting to consider just what this involves.

The theory on which the capitalist system is based is that the capitalist provides capital with which to establish his plant, manage it, buy his raw materials, pay his labour and other costs, and market his goods. For all this he is entitled to a fair profit commensurate with his risk.

That is the theory. But in fact what often happens after a prosperous business is well under way is as follows: The profits are so great that they not only provide a fair interest on the investment, but a substantial additional sum. The corporations say that they should be allowed to accumulate these excess profits as reserves for future expansion, instead of handing over the greater part of them to the State.

Let us see just what this means:

The excessive profits are secured by charging the consumers more than they otherwise would have to pay—or (and) paying labour less than ought to be paid. So the reserves for future expansion which are made possible by the excessive profits are provided by the consumers. These reserves, if left intact by the State, are used for expansion which would otherwise have to be undertaken by the provision, by the owners, of new capital on which interest would have to be paid. But, as the reserves have been provided by the consumers, no interest has to be paid on them. The consumers are charged too much for the corporation's products, but get no interest on this money which they are thus forced to put into the business. The corporation, on the other hand, gets from the public new interest-free capital for expansion which the capitalists behind it have not had to provide.

The result is that a corporation which has been able to make excess profits and pile up reserves is able to expand at the expense of the consumer and thus place itself in a position to make still more excess profits without increasing its interest-paying capitalization. These additional profits mean more money for reserves and dividends. More reserves mean still more expansion at the expense of the consumers without new capital. And so on and so on.

No one should object to a fair return on invested capital provided by the owners of the business. But the excessive profits should be taxed by the State for redistribution among those whose ordinary needs the capitalist system does not meet if left unreformed.

Is It Remorse ?

(TORONTO GLOBE AND MAIL)

AN editorial in the Toronto Daily Star of yesterday is reproduced on this page. It should be read by every one interested in knowing how the Star, with a modest start, steadily expanded in the hands of one man to become a multimillionaire institution. The article does not use the experience at its hand as an illustration of the system it condemns, but intelligent readers do not have to be told that when a business grows in this way it is by making profits and using them to extend, and make more profits.

Not all business enterprises grow. Many continue on the modest scale of their beginning, and large numbers fail to make profits, and so disappear. When one stars with little capital investment and gradually enlarges its scope, buys new equipment, increases its output and profits, builds a great structure out of its profits, and becomes known as the wealthiest enterprise in its field, is it a sign that it has been making excessive profits and expanding "at the expense of the consumer?" The Star's article reaches this conclusion.

But why does the Star condemn in effect what its owner has done? Is it an indication of remorse? Or is the thought that, although the system has served to create one multimillionaire newspaper proprietor and brought his enterprise to the peak of financial success, it must not be used by some one else with small capital who might be ambitious enough to make a beginning with the hope of emulating the example set?

How does the Star happen all at once to become a foe of the practices that made it rich in the course of the past half-century?

President and Press

Perhaps the moment has come to suggest that the (press) conferences be discontinued for the duration of the war. Mr. Roosevelt is now perhaps the busiest man in the world, certainly the man with the greatest burden of responsibility, and one with least time to spare for mere ritual. Since in the nature of things the information which the correspondents and public might be most eager to disclose, it would certainly seem that the time consumed by them might be more profitably devoted to urgent matters of war or State. On the more important of these matters, Mr. Roosevelt has not seem fit to take the press into his confidence; American newspapers first learned of the Cairo conference through a British news agency, for example, and for the Teheran conference from the Soviet radio. And glancing through the reports of the more recent White House conference, we find much to suggest that they have become ceremonials rather than productive news interviews.—Washington Post.

Mr. Bracken Is Warned

Mr. Bracken is learning to speak French. Better be careful John. There are supporters in Toronto who consider that a deadly sin. They complain that when Canadian money talks it talks both French and English. And postage stamps, too. But it is all right, it seems, for Canadian coins to speak Latin.—Toronto Star.

A Bible Message

Then Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, and said unto them, Ye have kept all that Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you. . . .

And now the Lord your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto your tents, and unto the land of your possessoin, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave you on the other side of Jordan.

But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the Lord charged you, to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul. (Josh. 22: 1, 2, 4, 5.)

And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother: and thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. (Matt. 19: 16-19.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Wife: "It says here that the average person speaks about 10,000 words a day."

Hubby: "Yes, dear, but you're far above the average, you know."

"What's the matter, Alf?" asked his friend. "You're looking worried."

"I am. It's nothing but work, work, work, from morning till night," came the reply.

"Oh, so you've got a job, then?"

"Yes, I start tomorrow."

Recreation In Canada

No one can forecast with any degree of accuracy when the war will end, but most people agree that, when it does, there will be a greater demand for recreation and travel than this world has ever known. A people, wearied in body and spirit by the strain of war and by heavy responsibilities, often unrelieved even by the usual holidays and vacations will want rest and recreations as they have never wanted it before. This surge of recreation-seekers must be anticipated and the necessary human physical equipment organized to meet its requirements.

Nature has been especially generous to Canada in providing recreational areas of great extent and variety in widely separated parts of the country. Canada is fortunate, too, in possessing a system of national parks which can be used both for the maintenance of health and morale at home and the attraction of tourists from abroad.—Sydney Post-Record.

Northwest Unproved

Areas in the Canadian Northwest whose agricultural possibilities have not been explored, except to a very limited extent, are found in the main Mackenzie Basin, the Liard-Nelson areas, the Northern Interior Valleys in British Columbia, including the Parsnips and Finlay Valleys, and certain areas in the Yukon. It is known that successful gardens can be grown in all these districts, but, as to the production of field crops as a basis of livestock development, comparatively little is known except in a few districts in the Yukon and a very few areas in the Mackenzie Basin.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

Co-operation

A matron called her grocery store to ask if they had such-and-such a delicacy in stock and was told that the war had made it very scarce. "We haven't had any for some time, Madam," the manager said, "however, if you run across any, will you get in touch with us?" This sounded almost all right, and the lady found herself saying, "Why, yes, I'd be glad to."—New Yorker.

ROSENEATH, Feb. 14 (ENS) — Despite difficult weather and road conditions, a goodly crowd attended the Valentine dance and euchre sponsored by the W.I., and held on Friday night in the Orange Hall. Potter's orchestra, Warkworth, was in attendance. Spot dance prizes went to Miss Isabell Beamish of Hastings, and Learl Humphries of Hastings. Sam Black, Warkworth, won the lucky door prize. Mrs. Leslie Sherwin, Roseneath, won the ladies' prize at euchre and Jack McVety of Warkworth carried off the men's prize. Lunch was served at midnight. The hall was most attractive with Valentine colors and symbols.

Irene Langton Weds J. Rowth

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was the scene of a quiet wedding recently, when Irene Langton, daughter of Mrs. Annie Langton, Aylmer St. and the late Herbert Langton, became the bride of James Joseph Rowth, 193 Hunter St. son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Rowth of Campbellford. Rev. Joseph Lynch officiated.

The bride wore a dress of powder blue crepe, and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mae Langton, who wore dark blue crepe, and a corsage of red roses. Mr. Joseph Bolton, of Campbellford, was best man.

At the reception held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Langton received, in a gown of dark blue crepe, with a corsage of white roses. After a two-weeks honeymoon in Toronto, the young couple will live in Campbellford.

400 Soldiers Uptown Centre

Seventy-five Sunday Canteen girls were hostesses to one of the largest crowds in the history of the Uptown Recreation Centre Sunday afternoon. About 400 soldiers enjoyed the hospitality of the Centre and honey-dip doughnuts, made specially by Mrs. Dawson, were served with coffee.

Community singing, with Maurice Duke and Jimmie Abraham at the piano, was enjoyed and Cpl. Mac Turner and Pte. Sleeves from the Training Centre played several novelty duets. During the evening a sacred singsong was conducted by Mrs. C. Telford, with Mrs. S. Deyman at the piano.

Women Asked To Save Fats

Used kitchen fats are more valuable now than ever before, and saving them is one of the most useful, as well as easiest ways for the housewife to help her country. With the increased demand for materials of war, the glycerine obtained from fat is needed, because its usefulness is not limited to munitions alone. It is also used in drugs.

There are a great many sources of waste fats, but the most common are these: tops of soup; cooking fats from the frying pan; skimmings off water in which fatty meats have been boiled; shortening which has been used until it has lost its cooking usefulness; and all fats trimmed from meat which can be rendered down.

In the United States, the butcher shops are the receiving depots for waste fat, and American housewives receive four cents a pound for it, as well as two extra ration stamps for each pound. Canadian foods are not rationed as strictly as American foods, but the need for fat is just as urgent here, and all Canadian housewives are asked to save every bit of waste fat, to help fight and win a speedy victory.

St. Andrew's YPU Hears Art Talk

Miss Betty Warner, Christian Culture convener, was in charge of the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Young Peoples' Union, held Sunday evening, and her topic was "Canadian Art." Miss Warner told of the work of Maurice Cullen, in Montreal in 1913, and also of the "Group of Seven," composed by Tom Thompson, Lauren Harris, J. E. H. MacDonald, A. Y. Jackson, Arthur Lismer, Frank Carmichael and F. H. Varley. Reproductions of the work of these artists were handed around to the group, admired and criticised.

Miss Margaret Emerson, president, conducted a period of community singing, with Walter Morrow at the piano. Pauline Humphries read the Scripture, and Miss Emerson offered a prayer. Three members of the Union, the president and the vice-president, Miss Allwyn Jones, and one other to be appointed, will attend the regional conference at Omemee, Saturday and Sunday, February 19 and 20.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 15

JUDGING by the mutual and lunar aspects this day may be fairly successful and lucrative, especially if well organized strategies, shrewdness and wariness be exercised. While the trend is propitious, the pitfalls and dangers through underhand, crafty or intriguing factors may lure to defeat and unusual entanglements of a sordid or vicious nature. Be careful with writings, contracts and speech as well, lest there be misconstruction, fraud and deception. Keep alert.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday is is may have the opportunity to move ahead into lucrative and constructive grooves, mainly by keenness, with shrewd tactics rather than boldly open and strenuous programs. All, however, call for vigilance, precaution and wide open eyes, lest there be subtlety, intrigue and behind-the-scenes plots and schemes to ensnare the unwary or too confiding. Be particularly careful with papers, correspondence and documents, as they might be subject to misconstruction, even fraud and trickery. Be keen in all relations.

A child born on this day may have abilities of a shrewd, subtle and crafty character, with opportunities for exceptional success. It will however be easily victimized or duped.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

February 14, 1944

Today I am going to give you a number of recipes that you will read with delight, I am sure, for they are not extravagant, yet are tasty and will last quite some time. All members of your family, from the youngest to the oldest, like a cookie and they can be served with any meal or luncheon. When the children come in from school, what do they like more than a cookie, and it is so easy to get, for they can help themselves. If someone drops in for a couple of hours in the afternoon, a cup of tea and some cookies are quite in order and much enjoyed by every one. The first of these recipes are Holland Cookies.

One cup butter and lard mixed, one cup granulated sugar, one cup brown sugar, one cup of walnut meats, ¾ cup flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, pinch salt, two eggs. Mix well. Roll in two long rolls and wrap in wax paper. Put in a cool place overnight. Slice thin with sharp knife, bake light brown.

Afternoon Wafers

Two tablespoons butter, one cup sugar, 2½ cups quick Quaker oats, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, two eggs, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, mix salt, nutmeg, Quaker oats and baking powder. Add flavoring, mix thoroughly. Bake in oven at 350 degrees for 12 minutes.

Pecan Snowballs

One cup sifted pastry flour, pinch of salt, eight tablespoons butter, one tablespoon granulated sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup finely chopped pecans, sifted icing sugar. Measure flour and sift with salt. Cream butter and blend in the granulated sugar. Add vanilla and pecans then work in the flour. Form small portions of dough as balls. Place on ungreased pan and bake in slow oven (350 degrees) for about 25 minutes. While hot coat thoroughly with icing sugar. These are grand.

Orange Cookies

Three-quarters cup of butter or butter and shortening, one cup sugar, 1½ cups flour, two egg yolks, ½ teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder, one tablespoon orange juice, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind. Method: Have butter soft. Beat in sugar, egg yolks, orange juice and grated rind. Sift flour, baking powder and add. Mix well. If dough is too soft to roll, add a little more flour. Chill thoroughly. Bake in hot oven eight to 10 minutes.

Scotch Oat Cakes

Two cups fine oatmeal, ½ cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, ½ cup dripping, one cup boiling water, one teaspoon soda. Mix dry ingredients together. Melt dripping, add soda to boiling water, mix with dripping and stir into dry ingredients. Roll thin and bake in very slow oven.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

Sunday:

Beef Birds (see note)
Baked Potatoes
(or potatoes cooked with birds)
Celery Hearts
Canned Peaches Moulded in Orange Jelly Dessert
Chocolate Cake — Coffee

NOTE—About two pounds round steak ½-inch thick, plain bread stuffing, some pan drippings, 1 minced onion, flour, water, salt and pepper. Ask the butcher to flatten the round steak with his mallet or cleaver to make it a big thin sheet. Cut into pieces of suitable size to stuff and roll—5 x 3 inches. Stuff birds and tie and dust with flour. Heat drippings in heavy pot—Dutch oven or iron frying pan with good fitting lid. Saute onions in fat, then add birds, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add enough boiling water to cover halfway—on the Continent they might use part cooking sherry for this. Cover tightly and finish in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. It will require about 1 hour if round steak is good quality. Some people like tomato juice in place of water or wine.

Monday:

Sausages — Baked on Casserole of Beans
Spinach — Head Lettuce Salad
One Crust Apple Pie — Coffee

Tuesday (Vegetarian)

Cheese Timbales — Tomato Sauce
Casserole of Carrot Strips and Celery
Baked Potatoes
Raspberry or Strawberry Jam Roll
Coffee

Wednesday:

Vegetable Soup
Ground Lamb Cakes — Mint Jelly
Mashed Potatoes — Mashed Turnip
Coleslaw
Fig Cake — Coffee

Thursday

Braised Veal Hearts
Pan Roasted Potatoes — Baked Onions
Fruit Cup: Canned Pears, Orange, Maraschino Cherries
Cinnamon Toast — Coffee

Friday:

Quick-Baked Salmon Steaks — Lemon
Casserole of Shredded Beets
Boiled Rice — Raw Carrot Stripe
Baked Raisin Pudding
Lemon Sauce — Coffee

Saturday:

Sauerkraut and Spareribs
Dumplings (note) — Canned Peas
Grapefruit Halves
Crackers and Cheese — Coffee

NOTE—Usually I bake spareribs and sauerkraut, but to have dumplings with them it is handier to boil them on top of stove. Be sure enough liquid is present on kraut to allow for some evaporation while dumplings are cooking—tightly covered.

DOROTHY DIX

INFERIOR MAN POOR HUSBAND

Woman's Soul Seared With Shame If Mate Not Able To Hold His Own With Other Men.

DEAR MISS DIX—Can an educated, ambitious woman be happy married to an uneducated man with no ambition? I have been going with a young man of fine character, but who has not even a fourth grade education. He can hardly read and write and he is a poor conversationalist. He has no trade or special ability and, therefore, no steady work. I have tried in every way to get him to go to night school, but he refuses to do so.

For myself, I have a high school education only, and after leaving school I secured a position as an ordinary typist and switchboard operator. But I have studied and improved myself until now I am in charge of a department in the office and private secretary to one of the executives.

Do you think that it would be advisable for me to marry this man?

PHYLLIS.

◆ ◆ ◆

Ignorance Sears Woman's Soul

ANSWER—No. I think you would both be miserable.

A marriage may be happy and successful in which the husband is superior to the wife, but never if the wife is superior to the husband. Very often an educated and ambitious man will marry an ignorant and inert woman and seemingly be content with her. Apparently he will not even notice her lapses in grammar, or that she sits up silent and tongue-tied when other people discuss topics of the day or things that they have read in books or magazines.

But it sears a woman's very soul with shame if her husband is not able to hold his own with other men and shows himself ignorant and stupid. To her his blunders are worse than crimes and she could forgive him more readily for a misdeed than for a misspelled word.

There is this great fundamental difference between a man and a woman: A man likes to look down on the woman he loves. He would always prefer his wife to be smaller and weaker in body than he is, and to know less, so that he may be an oracle to her and that is why intelligent men often marry morons and live happily with them.

But a woman must look up to the man she loves. She must respect and admire him, and this she can never do if she knows more than he does and has to be continually trying to correct him.

It is worse still when the wife is the ambitious one, when she is the driving one, with strength and energy, who wants to get along, and the husband is lazy and shiftless and purposeless, content to live any old way so long as it does not call for his making any especial effort.

That sort of a husband runs an energetic woman frantic because she is forever trying to do the thing that can't be done, to put her own brains into his head, her own pep into his pepless soul, her own backbone into his spineless, jellyfish body. And because he is weak and flabby while she is strong and vital, because the gray mare is the better horse, she comes to despise him and to have only a pitying, contemptuous affection for him that is far and away from the sort of love that a woman wants to feel for her husband.

And no man long loves the wife who is a goad in his side, who nails him to the work he hates, who pushes him on to make the effort that he loathes making. Moreover, a man's vanity demands that his wife shall admire him, and when he finds out that he has gotten a critic instead of a claque, he almost invariably forsakes her for some woman who will tell him how great and wonderful he is, instead of how far he falls short of what he should be.

So I think that a woman who is such a hustler as you should marry a man who is a go-getter. Leave your unambitious friend to find a wife who knows no more than he does and who will be content to stay in the sphere of life in which it has pleased Heaven to call her.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX—Is there such a thing as LOVE? Our group of married people have been discussing it. The men say love is merely a strong attachment. The women say that it is love that brings people together in marriage. Is it true that love is a bigger factor in a woman's life than it is in a man's?

MRS. R. H. H.

Three Main Elements in Love

ANSWER — Of course, there is such a thing as love. It begins in sex attraction, but it is more than that, I should say it is sex attraction to which is added congeniality of mind and temperament. That gives us the kind of love that satisfies us, body and soul.

It is sex attraction that draws a man and woman together in the first place, but after that, if they are to continue loving each other, they must be able to think the same thoughts, to understand the same things, to have the same point of view, and the same ideals and aspirations. When you have that, you have the love that lasts, and that makes a couple fonder of each other on their golden wedding day than they were when as a boy and girl they stood before the altar.

Silverleaf Lard

Now in good supply and very reasonably priced, this fine cooking fat should be on every housewife's shelf

There was a time not so very long ago, when there seemed to be a real risk that we in Canada might find ourselves short of cooking fats. Fortunately, the efforts of Canadian farmers have averted that danger and now there is no reason why every kitchen in Canada should not be supplied with a pound or two of that wonderful standby, Silverleaf Lard.

Not only is lard a very valuable source of energy but it also contains other vital elements absolutely essential to health. Use lard in delicious deep-frys, for pan-frying and of course in baked goods. It is good—good for you—and we now have enough.

DEEP APPLE PIE

1½ cups sifted pastry flour	½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt	7 tbsps. chilled Silverleaf Lard
	Ice cold water

Mix and sift into a bowl the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut half of lard into these dry ingredients, to the size of wheat grains—then cut in remainder of lard, to the size of small peas. Sprinkle with cold water, and mix with a fork, adding enough water to make a dough which will just form a mass that cleans easily from the bowl. Chill.

FOR THE FILLING:

Tart apples	½ teaspoon grated nutmeg
Sugar, white or brown	2 tablespoons butter, if available
1 teaspoon grated Orange rind

Peel, core and slice apples. Mix sugar (amount depending upon tartness of apples), orange rind and nutmeg. Arrange apples and sugar mixture in alternate layers in a deep pie dish, dotting with butter. Moisten edges of dish. Roll out paste, slash and place over apples. Trim and crimp edges. Bake in a hot oven, 450° F., for 12 minutes, then reduce heat to 375° F., and bake until crust nicely browned, about 30 minutes.

Star Program Billed For Food Show

Prime favorites among mat followers as well as a brand-new sensation in the person of Vic Holbrook have been signed for the big Food Merchants' Wrestling Show at the Brock Arena on Tuesday night. Sponsored by the local Food Industry, Tuesday's mat show will aid in the drive to sell more War Stamps. The main bout is a stand-out featuring as it does the first meeting between Holbrook and British Empire Champion Whipper Billy Watson.

Other well-known wrestling figures make up the balance of what looks like the best card of the season so far. Jan Gotch, the Pitiless Pole, returns "to the scene of the crime" having been matched with another great favorite here, Pat Flanagan. In the third match Bunny Dunlop will try his great strength and obstreperous disposition on Jumping Joe Maich, the Brantford Buzzer.

In spite of the welcome which the fans are bound to give such wrestlers as Maich and Flanagan, and the boos they will hand out to Gotch and Dunlop, the main bout still stands out as the piece de resistance. Holbrook is a giant of a man, a smart wrestler, and one of the most willing contestant we have seen on a mat. Matched against a fiery hustler like Watson the Californian will have to show all his stuff if he expects to knock off the Canadian champion.

In several reports of Holbrook's matches in other cities, it has been indicated that the over-size California Comet has as yet never had to use all his great strength. Such should not be the case however when he climbs in against Billy Watson. The Whip has met and defeated some of the strongest men to ever tread a mat. If Hollbrook has more power Watson has never and bouncing energy that has spelled downfall for most of his opponents this year.

Captures Derby

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Olympic Zenith, recently purchased by William Helis, for $65,000, created a stir Saturday at Fair Grounds by copping the $15,000 Louisiana Derby against a strong field and became a prime prospect for the Kentucky Derby.

Week-end Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Maurice Richard, Canadiens, who scored two counters Saturday night when Montreal defeated Leafs 3-2, and another last night when they battled to a 2-2 deadlock with Chicago Black Hawks.

George Boothman, Toronto, who made the two Leaf tallies Saturday night.

Mike Karakas, Chicago netminder, who held Canadiens to a draw despite an eight-stitch cut over his eye.

Gus Bodnar, Toronto's playmaking centre, who scored one goal and assisted in three others when Leafs trounced Rangers 6-3 last night.

Harold Jackson, Detroit, who clinched Red Wings' 4-1 victory over Boston Bruins last night when he scored the second tally after he had assisted in the first.

One Rink Left

WINNIPEG, Feb. 14 (CP)—Defeat of H. L. Morrow of Melita, Man., left Ken Watson's Winnipeg Strathcona quartet the lone undefeated entry of the 339 rinks which started in the 56th annual Manitoba Bonspiel last Tuesday.

Mrs. Cliff Cadd Top Scorer In Badminton

The Peterborough Badminton Club held their second round robin tournament of the season in the Market Hall Saturday night. Some fine racket wielding was witnessed as 37 players took part in ladies' doubles and men's doubles.

Play started at 8 p.m. and lasted until 11 o'clock when a fine lunch was served by the social conveners.

Some big scores were run up in the ladies doubles as Mrs. Cliff Cadd copped ladies' first prize with a total of 107 points. Miss Margaret White was close behind for second place with 103, and Mrs. Leo Copp brought up in third position with 96 points. Each player took part in four games with different opponents and a new partner for each match.

The men's doubles were closely contested with some fine displays of shot-making. Williard Emsley took first place with 84 points; Dr. R. Martin came second with 82 points. R. Baker had 78.

The scores in order of standing:

Ladies' doubles—Mrs. Cliff Cadd, 107; Miss M. White, 103; Mrs. Leo Copp, 96; Miss K. MacDougal, 77; Miss Jean Ferguson, 74; Miss Audrey Baker, 74; Miss Doris Burgess, 69; Miss Ruth Johnson, 66; Miss Florence Adams, 66; Mrs. W. Brown, 61; Miss Anne Hiedman, 54; Mrs. W. Peterboro Rink Is Eliminated

SEIGNIORY CLUB, QUE., Feb. 14 (CP)—Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Toronto Granite entry Sunday captured the Sewell Curling Trophy for the fourth consecutive year. Another Granite rink, skipped by Mrs. C. S. Robertson, gained the runner-up spot after losing 13-7 to Mrs. Woolley in the finals.

The Toronto rinks entered the finals of the three-day invitation meet by chalking up high plus scores in three early rounds, and then defeated other entries in the semi-finals. Mrs. Woolley eliminated Mrs. G. Wood of Peterborough 11-6, and Mrs. Robertson set back Mrs. J. C. Riddell of Royal Montreal 8-7.

In the 10-end final Sunday Mrs. Robertson came from behind to tie the score 5-all at the fourth end. Mrs. Woolley went ahead in the fifth, but the rinks were tied again in the sixth. Then Mrs. Woolley bagged a five-end on the seventh to go into a lead that Mrs. Robertson couldn't shake.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Judging from the opening game in the City Basketball League at the Y Saturday night, the big factor in the battle for the Chester Kempt Memorial Trophy is likely to be the same factor that decided the House League competition earlier in the season—that is the scoring ability of one Joe Stewart. He is leading the C.G.E. outfit and on Saturday night his ability to hit the hoop from all angles and his checking and ball-handling on top of his aniping success proved too much for Pete McArthur's Orphans. Stewart had 18 points to his credit and in addition three or four more field goals were registered off his rebounds so that he was undoubtedly the spark plug that made the C.G.E. 38-23 victory possible. Unless the Military Training Centre comes up with a high-scoring club, the problem in the City League is going to be how to keep Stewart off the score sheet. No one succeeded in finding the answer during the House League schedule and as a result Stewart's Algerines went through without a loss. The same thing is likely to happen in the City League if Saturday's game can be taken as a criterion.

Promoter Frank Tunney, in co-operation with the local Food Industry Committee in linking up Tuesday's wrestling show at the Brock with the War Saving Stamp sale drive has shot the works in providing a real program for the big event. The main bout clash between the giant Vic Holbrook, Pacific Coast sensation and the always popular Whipper Watson would be enough in itself to make the card one of the best of the season. This is the bout that Toronto fans have been asking for ever since Holbrook was seen in action at Maple Leaf Gardens a few weeks ago but Peterborough wrestling enthusiasts are getting the break in being allowed an opportunity of seeing these two outstanding young gladiators battle for the first time. And battle it will be for Holbrook is as fast as he is big while Watson's skill, courage and determination have never been questioned. Some of the fastest wrestling ever shown by heavyweights to a local audience should be the result. And then in addition to the stellar main attraction Tunney has added a thrilling semi-final between the tumultuous Jan Gotch and the fast-moving Toronto Irishman, Pat Flanagan, now with the R.C.A.F. and exponent of the mule kick and the flying tackle. As an opener he has tossed the buzzer from Brantford, Joe Maich, into action against "Ask-him-now" Bunny Dunlop and that is a match that has distinct possibilities. Altogether it is a card worthy of the occasion.

That's Telling Them, Ken

When a sport writer ups and tosses a punch at some of his home town fans that is news. Ken Pritchard of the Cobourg Sentinel-Star has done exactly that in the following paragraph: "Cobourg's record for hospitality, a precious thing built up over years of athletic competition, has been taking a beating this year, we are informed reliably. Teams playing juvenile hockey here have gone away muttering "Dirty Old Cobourg," a most uncomplimentary comment on the way they were treated. The main reason for the low opinion outside teams have picked up about Cobourg is the huge quantities of verbal abuse and other refuse which have been showered upon visiting players, coaches and fans by the younger, less controllable, children of the town. It's a sad commentary on the manners of our younger generation when referees go home from games here with their coats covered with frozen spittle, expectorated from the mouths of balcony-dwelling juvenile fans. It's no disgrace for the home-town team to lose, much as we would like to see it otherwise, and the young fans should not forget that the visitors upon whom they are hurling their abuse are fellow-Canadians, from just as good or better homes than themselves; self-respecting people are giving their best for the game. If the abusive specimens among us have to hate someone, let them turn their attention to hating Hitler, Tojo and Company."

Belleville juniors failed to do better than finish third in their junior B group, the Marmora-Stirling Combines knocking them back to third by winning right in Belleville. Observes Ken Colling in regard to the sad event: "Ralph Neal's "Combines" completely outclassed the local juniors to cinch second place in the group standing last night. The score of 6 to 4 for the Combines just about indicates the play, as the "northerners" out-skated, out-checked and out-played Holway's kids. The locals couldn't get untracked and actually stick-handled themselves right out of second place. In the meantime Doug Bastedo and Doug Patterson making merry in the scoring line as Bastedo rang the bell three times and Patterson twice. Although Belleville and the Combines finished the revised schedule with one win, a tie and three losses each the Combines were given second position owing to the fact they boasted of a better scoring average throughout the season. The Combines scored 18 goals and had 20 scored against them in four games, while Belleville scored but 14 and had 18 scored against them. Belleville meets Trenton while the Combines tangle with Tweed."

Women Wrestlers

According to an Associated Press despatch, the Congress of the United States is wrestling with a new problem — what to do about women wrestlers, says Doug Vaughan in the Windsor Star. Their public performances, a congressional committee was told, are nothing less than burlesque shows and should be stopped. The witness, the Rev. Oscar Blackwelder, was one of four Washington clergymen who testified Wednesday on the causes of juvenile delinquency in the Capital. What women wrestlers have to do with juvenile delinquency, we wouldn't know. But we do agree that watching the female of the species grunt, grip, grimace and groan is nothing more than a burlesque show—and the very lowest of burlesque. In fact we think it is a slur on what we understand as burlesque. We have at least seen some burlesque shows that we've enjoyed and never yet have we departed with anything but a feeling of nausea after watching a couple of she-elephants paw one another around. If the U.S. Congress really wants to know what to do about women wrestlers we'll be glad to tell them. But the information will have to be forwarded in a sealed despatch—it wouldn't look good in public print.

Canadiens picked up a little totally unneeded margin over the week-end defeating the Leafs in Toronto Saturday night 3 to 2 and then playing a Sunday night tie in Chicago. As a result the Flying Frenchmen go still farther in front of the field and they are so far ahead that they are a division all to themselves. Detroit Red Wings, almost sure top runners up maintained their position with a 4 to 1 Sunday night win over the Bruins in Boston. The loss cost the Rossmen a little ground to the Toronto Leafs and to the Black Hawks in the battle for third and fourth places. Toronto, after being nosed out before the home customers Saturday night went to New York Sunday and doubled the score on the Rangers to emerge in front 6 to 3 and thereby getting a little revenge for the double defeat handed to them by the Rangers on their last two wins in Toronto.

The star-studded Hayes Steel basketball team of Merritton, Ont., looming as chief contender for Canadian court honors this season, scored an impressive 53-33 win over the York Five, leading Toronto Senior League club at Toronto Saturday night before the largest crowd in several years. With six American specialists in action, Merritton showed smooth action, one of the stars being Bruce Fountain, former All-American husky of Iowa University who scored seven out of eight foul shots with ease.

Others who made every move count were Sal Maglie, former pitcher of the New York Giants, Angelo Pastore, former Syracuse University star, and D. Bazzanni, late of Niagara University. Their stylish play proved a revelation to Toronto fans. Former American ball-tossers also added brilliance to a preliminary game in which the R. C. A. F. team at Malton, leaders in the Air Force loop, worked out a 36-32 victory against the Research stalwarts from Leaside, who boasted Ray Taylor, a former University of Michigan speed-artist.

Gilbert Doods, the pace-making parson of Boston, won the Hunter mile in the 55th Annual Boston A. A. Games Saturday in 4:09.5 to break the six-year-old local record held by Glen Cunningham by half a second. Dodds finished 18 yards ahead of Bill Hulse of the New York A. C.

Champion Dog.

Winner of the best-in-show title Saturday night at the Westminster Kennel Club exhibition in Madison Square Garden, New York, was Ch. Flornell Rare-Bit of Twi Ponds, marking the first time the award had been captured by a Welsh terrier. The dog is owned by Mrs. Edward P. Alker of Great Neck, N. Y.

Robert Coleman, coach of the team under the former manager, Casey Stengel, Saturday was named manager of the Boston Braves under a one-year contract. Coleman's first act was to appoint as Braves' coach Tom Heehan, manager of the Minneapolis Club of the American Association.

Six Sign Up.

President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers Saturday announced the mailing of contracts to 26 players at the same or better salary terms as last year. He stated six Dodgers had already signed up for 1944.

In the rain at San Antonio, Tex., Sunday, Byron Nelson slopped through mud to register a 68 for a 206 in 54 holes to come within one point of the leading Johnny Revolta for the 72-hole $5,000 Texas Open Golf Tourney. Running third was Harold (Jug) McSpaden.

500 Curlers Compete In Toronto Tourney

TORONTO, Feb. 14 — Ontario curling's largest event, the week-long Ontario Bonspiel with its six trophy events, gets under way today, and more than 500 curlers will be vying for honors throughout this week.

One hundred and twenty-eight rinks, representing the largest entry in years, are to match their skill on the ice surfaces of four local clubs. Some idea of the international aspect of the bonspiel is seen in the presence of 11 rinks from the United States. The event has proved more popular each year with Americans.

Twenty rinks from Northern Ontario are in the city, and will be fighting to take prizes back North. One prize already assured. the honor of being the first entrant for the 1945 bonspiel, belongs with a Northerner, W. J. Card of Chapleau. Reporting for the 1944 competition, he paid his entry fee for the 1945 event. This marks the third successive year that Mr. Card has been first on the lists.

Preliminary rounds in the Royal York Trophy event will be played today, starting at 9 a.m. Other draws will be at 2 p.m, 3 p.m. 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Ottawa Curling

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 (CP)—A three-shot victory over Ottawa Curling Club lifted Montreal Heather into the niche reserved for clubs winning the historic Governor General's trophy for three successive years when Heather nosed out the Ottawa Curlings 27-24 on Rideau Club ice here Saturday before a large gallery. The trophy represents the "blue ribbon" for irons competition.

Rangers Champs In Soccer For Fifth Time

LONDON, Feb. 14—(CP Cable)—The little Bath City club Saturday suffered its first defeat in the Football League Cup qualifying competition, while further to the north Glasgow Rangers became champions of the Scottish Southern League for the fifth successive season in wartime.

Bath's 2-0 defeat by Lovell's Athletic also cost them the Cup qualifying round leadership. They were passed by both Leicester, who trounced Sheffield Wednesday 8-0, and Wrexham, who won 2-1 over Everton. Leicester and Wrexham now are tied for the top, one point ahead of Bath.

The Rangers, by scoring a 4-1 victory over Hamilton, completed their league program without a road defeat although they lost three at home.

Morton defeated Dumbarton 3-1 in another Scottish Southern match.

At least three former Football Association Cup winners will not participate in the League Cup Playdowns which open March 4 with the first 32 teams in the 56-team qualifying table competing. They are Wolverhampton, Bradford City and Sunderland, who are far down in the table.

The biggest crowd, 15,770, saw Coventry blank Aston Villa 2-0. A crowd of 13,000 watched Liverpool defeat Crewe 8-0, while Stoke defeated Walsall 2-0.

Jack Rowley gave one of the greatest scoring performances of the war in scoring seven tricky tallies as Tottenham, the League South leaders, walloped Luton 8-1 before 11,468 spectators. Rowley is the property of Manchester United.

Denis Compton and Stan Mercer, all-England players, each scored one goal for Aldershot who defeated Brentford 4-2. Arsenal beat Watford 2-0 while Reading edged out West Ham 3-2. Crystal Palace surprisingly beat a powerful Chelsea team 1-0, the only score being made by Ken Allen, 19-year-old winger, five minutes before the end.

Leafs Win, Lose Over Week-end Boston Defeated

By The Canadian Press

Four week-end National Hockey League contests served to widen the gap between the league-leading Montreal Canadiens and the tail-end New York Rangers, but did little to clarify the race for contending positions between the other four teams— Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks.

Only one of the six clubs took full advantage of their opportunities, Detroit defeating Boston 4-1 Sunday in its only week-end engagement. But the Wings failed to gain ground on the third-place Leafs, who whipped Rangers 6-3 in New York Sunday after dropping a 3-2 verdict to Canadiens in Toronto Saturday.

The results left Toronto still four points behind Detroit and three points ahead of Boston. Chicago lost a chance to tie Bruins for fourth spot by playing to a 2-2 draw against Montreal at home Sunday after blowing a two-goal, first-period lead. It was the seventh tie for Montreal— against 24 victories and four losses— and all but one of the stalemates ended in a 2-2 score.

Richmond Gets 3.

Canadiens scored five goals in their week-end contests to move seven games ahead of Detroit, but only four Montreal players figured in the scoring. Maurice Richard scored three times, twice against Toronto on plays with Elmer Lach and Toe Blake, and once against Chicago on a pass from Leo Lamoureaux, who tallied unassisted both Toronto and Chicago.

Mush March and George Allen scored the Chicago goals against Montreal, while George Boothman fired both Toronto counters. Against Rangers Sunday, Boothman again tallied, Lorne Carr scored twice and other Toronto scores were distributed evenly between Ted Kennedy, Elwin Morris and Gus Bodnar.

Leafs had to come from behind to win, as Ott Heller and Johnny Mahaffy scored early for Rangers. Heller scored his second goal midway in the second period, but Leafs had sewed up the game by that time. It was the 29th defeat in 37 games for Rangers.

Calladine Scores.

Boston's two-game winning streak came to an abrupt end against Detroit, despite the return of Bill Cowley who had been on the sidelines since January 8 when he suffered a shoulder separation in a game at Toronto. Bill Jennings and Hal Jackson, both defencemen, gave the Wings a two-goal advantage in the first period and they never looked back. After a scoreless second period, Bill Quackenbush made it 3-0 before Norm Calladine produced Boston's lone counter on a play with Johnny Crawford. Carl Liscombe added a superfluous fourth tally for Detroit at 15.37 of the third period.

Carr's two points against New York Sunday stretched his total to 59, three fewer than Herb Cain of Boston, who leads the individual scoring race with 62 points.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

More than 14,000 Toronto hockey fans cheered as Ace Bailey and Eddie Shore clasped hands 10 years ago to-night at a benefit game for the former Toronto right-wingor. Bailey's hockey paying career had been ended when he suffered a fractured skull, Dec. 11, 1933, in a collision with Shore in a game at Boston. On his recovery a benefit game was arranged with the Bailey-Shore re-union the attraction. Leafs won the game 7-3.

TORONTO, Feb 14.—(CP).—Vancouver expects to stage a $5,000 golf tournament this summer featuring many of the top United States professionals.

George Morgan, prominent sportsman, has been in touch with the P.G.A. which favors staging a Vancouver tournament because most of the big-name stars will be at the P.G.A. tournament at Spokane, Wash, Aug. 14-20 in any event. It's an easy hop from Spokane to Vancouver.

"If Spokane can put up $20,000, Vancouver shouldn't have much trouble with a quarter of that," says Morgan, who sponsored the big jubilee tournament in Vancouver in 1936 when golf's greatest stars competed for a rich purse.

If the big tournament is held in August, Vancouver's Quilchena course is considered the probable locale.

In 1943 Assumption won the Windsor city men's cage title but players were tied down by their studies and the runner-up Windsor Patricks represented the city in the play-offs. Patricks reached the Dominion final before losing to Victoria R.C.A.F.

Incidentally:

Rummer Doran, the former professional, is likely to be the choice defenceman in the Porcupine All-Stars Allan Cup hockey bid this spring. Vic (Timmins Press) Copps says of Doarn: "His bruising tactics don't please some of the more conservative customers but he's certainly got it every way as a defenceman."....Brian Lynch, Winnipeg and Toronto St. Mikes hockey star and former Blue Bomber football player, has been appointed to naval officers' training school in Halifax ....King Clancy considers Bill Quackenbush, Detroit utility player, one of the N.H.L.'s outstanding rookies and a potential star.

CGE Basketeers Defeat Orphans

Joe Stewart's C.G.E. team got away to a flying start in the City Basketball League's opening game at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night by defeating Pete McArthur's Orphans 38 to 23 in a close-checking battle.

The Electricians with Stewart setting the pace with 18 points had too much scoring punch for the Orphans and although the latter never stopped trying and had the ball a lot of the time they failed to take advantage of their opportunities.

C.G.E. opened out a lead in the first half and led at the rest period by 23 to 13. They kept right on where they left off in the second half and substantially increased their margin by outscoring the Orphans by 15 to 10.

Pete McArthur was top scorer for his own team with 12 points. Stewart's 18, of course made him high man for the night and Currie was next in line for the winners with eight.

C.G.E., 38—Stewart 18, Currie 8, Regan 2, McCuaig 4, Jones 2, Davis 4, Reed, Geraghty, Johnston.

Orphans, 23—Baird 3, J. Ferguson 3, Kemp 2, Estlick 2, D. Ferguson, McArthur 12.

Referee—J. Wolstenholme.

Norwood Beats Madoc Team 8-1

NORWOOD, Feb. 14—(ENS)—Madoc played a return game of hockey at Norwood rink Friday night. The crowd was not so large because of the weather but ice was about the best this winter. The score was 8-1 for Norwood High school. Line-ups:

Madoc: Goal, Carswell; defence, White and Foster; centre, C. Thompson; wings, Reynolds and Watson; alternates, R. McCoy. K. McCoy, Rabillard, Bradford, J. Thompson, M. Thompson, Lewis, Hawthorne.

Norwood: Goal, Renwick; defence, Fife and Kumph; centre, Pettigrew; wings, Oliver, West; alternates, Edwards, Barrie, Lonsberry, Bannon, Elmhurst, Hayes and Neilson.

Referee—John Hamblin.

Pettigrew and Fife starred for Norwood, Pettigrew scoring four goals and Fife three. Hayes scored Norwood's final goal. Madoc's lone tally was scored by White. Pettigrew crashed into the goal post in the second period, injuring his leg, but returned at the start of the third period to finish the game.

The game was cleanly played only six minor penalties being handed out by Referee Hamblin. Hawthorne received two and Thompson one for Madoc, and Fife, Kempt and Oliver one each for Norwood.

Oshawa Juniors Upset Whizzers

By The Canadian Press

Oshawa juniors staged a 10-5 victory on home ice Saturday night in turning back Hamilton Whizzers in a Junior "A" fixture of the O.H.A., thus earning their 19th win of the campaign and keeping four points ahead of Toronto St. Michaels for leadership in Group 1.

Ken Smith was again the main performer for Generals with four tallies while Curry turned in two as his share. Bob Love, Dawes, Ezinicki and Chenier dividing the rest. Murray Comfort stood out for Whizzers with three counters, Clancy and Tomiuk scoring one each. Hamilton remained in third place in the group standing.

At Brantford, in Group 2, Gordon Tottle of the Lions whipped in the sole counter to register a shutout against Port Colborne Recreationists. The score came after 15:45 of the third period. The result brought Brantford to within one point of Port Colborne for the third playoff spot in the group.

Saturday afternoon at Toronto, St. Michael's administered a 6-0 whitewashing to Young Rangers for the latter's 21st licking of the season against one win. To Gregoire fell the honor of scoring a brace of tallie, the others being distributed among Melong, Bauer, Schnurr and McCormack.

Muffins can help keep you "regular"

By eating several every day, and drinking plenty of water, you can get at constipation due to lack of dietary "bulk"! If this is your trouble, try

Kellogg's All-Bran Muffins

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder. Add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.

SUPPLY PROBLEM WORRY—As the Fifth Army puts up a terrific fight to hold its precious Nettuno-Anzio beachhead gains against stiff Nazi counterattack, some idea of its supply problem and of the communication advantages of the Germans may be gained by a study of this map. All supplies reaching the Fifth must be beached and sent "the hard way," whereas there are railroads and highways leading into Rome and southward which can be used by the Germans. A rail line through Tivoli has frequently been bombed by Allied fliers in an effort to knock it out.

the Cassino battlefield.

The Nazi-controlled Rome radio claiamed that "Allied artillery has begun an intense bombardment of the monastery."

Huns In Monastery.

A dispatch written at the Cassino battlefront at 6.45 p.m. Sunday by Lynn Heinzerlin, Associated Press war correspondent, featured the declaration of three battle-weary infantrymen that "they ought to wipe that monstery off the hill" to eliminate the German observers and gunners shielded by its walls.

In the Garigliano sector west of Cassino, British troops repulsed one German attack on Mount Ornito and artillery fire broke up another as it was forming.

Canadians on the British 8th Army's front in the Adriatic engaged in several clashes. Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported that the Germans were believed to have withdrawn some of thier troops facing the Canadians to strengthen Rome's defences but patrols said the Germans still are entrenched in strong positions in front of the Arielli river.

Brief Suggests

Further detailed proposals are made for changes in assessment practice, with the main points made in the brief contending that present legislation has the following deficiencies:

A Local Problem

1. Does not provide equalization of costs of supplying municipal services as between mines in the municipalities and mines in territories which have no municipality.

2. Allows deductions from taxable income of cost items which, although they may encourage mining development, are not the responsibility of the municipality.

3. That municipal taxes, which the brief contends should be part of the mine's operating costs, are not a first charge on the value of the ore—as taxes of other jurisdictions are permitted as cost items before municipal taxes are computed.

4. That not sufficient revenue is produced for mining municipalities to provide for the needs of local government and simultaneously keep tax rates at a reasonable level.

5. That, because certain valuable mine properties are tax exempt while not producing at a profit, municipal tax revenue is insufficient to repay the municipality for its services to the mine and its employees.

Some Litigation

6. That the present system has not avoided litigation.

7. That the assessment is not made by the municipality which also is not given information on how the assessment is computed and has no appeal against it.

8. That the system discriminates against other property owners by limiting the rate of tax on the value of ore when extracted.

One of the main premises on which the brief is based is "that the chief function of mining municipalities is to provide for the mining companies and their employees those services which, if the mines were in isolated sections, would be provided by and at the expense of the mining companies." The submissions are designed to "show that the primary function of any scheme of mine taxation should be the provision of sufficient revenue to mining municipalities to enable them to furnish an adequate standard of municipal services at a reasonable cost to all taxpayers."

Mr. Bracken spoke of the errors of yesterday, the answers of today and the creed of tomorrow. He contrasted what had happened after the last war with the ideas prevalent today, and he asserted that a creed must be devised to which all people could subscribe. The party leader listed the errors of the past as failure to prevent unemployment, failure to safeguard the nation's health, failure to give agriculture equality with other industries and failure to create economic conditions which would have given employment at fair wages. In the world which would emerge after the war these mistakes would not be repeated if the opportunities for national advancement were seized.

"Let us meet these problems in a national way," urged Mr. Bracken. "Let us have tolerance and goodwill between man and man, race and race, nation and nation. If we do that we will build into the soul of the Canadian peoples a monument not unworthy of the boys who are risking their lives on a hundred battle fields.

"The world of yesterday was not good enough," continued Mr. Bracken. "The answers as given by nations of Europe are not good enough. We must make sure that every boy entering manhood has a job and that every one has a responsibility. We need no new religion, but a restatement of the basic truths of the old religion in terms which we can understand."

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH F. DWYER

TORONTO, Feb. 14—(CP)—Joseph Francis Dwyer, 72, died at his home here Sunday. Born near Peterborough, Ont., Mr. Dwyer came to Toronto as a young man and for more than 40 years was on the staff of the Ontario Hospital. He was engaged in storekeeping until shortly before his death. A son, Rev. Gerard J. Dwyer, lives in Sudbury, Ont., and a daughter, Mrs. Anthony Tarrant, lives in Montreal. had several skirmishes. The enemy is equally vigilant along the Adriatic, where Western units put out feelers.

One Maritime patrol engaged in a grenade-throwing duel over a German sentry's body, while other Maritimers encountered more grenades thrown down on them from a bridge. Both sides suffered casualties. A New Brunswick lieutenant, wounded in the legs, was evacuated safely by hand without the aid of stretchers.

Western patrols were out in greater strength, and one formation encountered Germans wearing Canadian steel helmets. Again both Canadians and Germans suffered slight casualties.

Activity on Saturday was limited by miserable weather. After a morning rain several inches of snow fell.

Glider Bombs Smash Supply Ships

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press Correspondent.

LONDON, Feb. 14 — (CP Cable) —Losses of Allied ships and landing craft operating in the Nettuno bridgehead in Italy where Allied forces are fighting strong German formations is not likely to disturb western European invasion plans here.

German bombers, sometimes using radio-controlled glider bombs, have hit a number of ships plying to the bridgehead with supplies. Troops and ships have been shelled but the losses are not considered serious enough to upset the second-front shipping calculations.

Invasion preparations here are to a large degree independent of what happens in the Mediterranean now so far as landing craft and combined operations shipping are concerned. Much of this type of shipping now in the Mediterranean probably will remain there for any other amphibious tasks decided upon.

Small assault craft and landing ships of the type the Germans have been bombing and shelling on and near the beaches are expendable and the fact that none was lost during the initial Nettuno landing when there was no opposition leaves a good number available at this stage where things are tougher.

Providing landing craft and other shipping for a second front has been a major problem for the high command but the situation is much easier now. Production in the United States has greatly increased recently and British manufacturers have been able to turn out hundreds more than were expected. Some are coming from Canada, too.

There seems little worry here now that shipping will be insufficient by "D-day" (invasion day) to take troops to Europe as well as tanks and guns and to keep the armies supplied.

Too Much Truth

MADRID, Feb. 14 (AP).— A Berlin correspondent of a Spanish newspaper reported last night that the Nazis had ordered foreign newsmen to refrain henceforth from commenting on results of Allied bombings of the German capital. "We were told our articles too often reflect the magnitude of the destruction" the correspondent wrote.

New Markets FROM RESEARCH

NEW USES FOR NICKEL MEANT NEW JOBS IN CANADA

AT THE CLOSE of the last war, Nickel was no longer needed to build battleships and artillery. The demand for Canadian Nickel fell off sharply. Soon the Canadian Nickel mines had to close down.

But the men who managed these properties could foresee possible new markets for Canadian Nickel in the growing automobile, electric, radio, chemical and other industries. They organized a Research and Development department to work with engineers in these industries, and to promote the use of Nickel and its alloys wherever better materials were required.

Shortly, operations were resumed. In 1924, the Nickel industry opened a new mine. In 1926 it began enlarging its smelting and refining plants. Within a decade it was paying out 15 millions of dollars a year in Canada for wages.

Although the entire output of Canadian Nickel is today diverted to war uses, this industry has definite plans for the post-war period.

Then it will turn again to its peacetime markets, and will proceed to develop new markets based on research now in progress. Through its own enterprise, the Canadian Nickel industry plans still greater contributions to Canada's prosperity.

ATTEMPTED BREAK-INS.

Two Peterborough business places were visited by nocturnal prowlers on Saturday night. Entrance was gained to the office of the Beaver Lumber Company, but apparently nothing was stolen. Two windows at the rear of Joe Detcher's service station, George Street, were broken but there apparently the attempt to break in failed.

FEBRUARY MARKET.

The leanest market in a long time left only Norman Moncrief to greet customers in the deserted aisles outside where February was holding forth. Indoors was at least more comfortable, but there was hardly a business quorum at any stage of the session. Eggs were 35 to 38 cents, chickens 35c a pound and broilers 40c, and that was the entire story.

FIRE REPORT.

In the space of an hour before noon Saturday three alarms were answered by the Department. at 10.36 a.m., 10.38 a.m. and 11.26 a.m. The first, occasioning slight damage, occurred at 1 Bruce street and was caused by overheated pipes; the second, in the business district, was due to a plugged chimney at Hooper's restaurant, 414 George street; and the third happened at the corner of Perry and George streets, when a Clancey Dairy truck collided with an Army truck, causing alcohol in its radiator to take fire At noon Sunday there was a chimney fire at the home of Spencer Hope on Short street, and sparks coming from the chimney at the Lillico Motors, 229 Charlotte street, at 8.47 p.m. Sunday occasioned another alarm. Only the fire at Bruce street resulted in any loss.

Sergeants' Mess Gives $10 To War Victims

Last Friday night enemy raiders were once again over Britain, and while only a few of them got through to London, they were able to do some damage to property, and some people were killed, so it goes without saying that others would probably be injured as well.

That in itself is reason enough why the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund should, and must continue its work on their behalf, since the danger to the people of Britain through this type of warfare still exists, and no one knows to what extent a cornered and desperate foe may go in the future, even were it only to obtain a temporary advantage.

There are some people who individually or by groups keep this constantly in mind, a fact that is plainly demonstrated through the very practical assistance they give from time to time as shown in the list of receipts, which for over three years has been a daily feature of this column, to all of whom must go decided credit for staying with their work of such a humanitarian nature, on behalf of those whom the misfortunes of war have dealt so hardly with.

The members of the Sergeants' Mess of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) who are playing a certain part in the war effort through other duties, may be included among those who have caught a vision of the potential good they may do in this direction, and then have kept up the good work time and again, for another gifts appears today to their credit in an amount of $10.25, following the previous one some six weeks or so ago.

A Bag of Potatoes

That the bounties of creation are the work of an Almighty Hand has always been recognized from the earliest biblical days, many stories of how the first-fruits were given to God appearing in the good book, and nationally this is recognized with the observance of Thanksgiving Day, while many religious bodies observe it with special service of thanks in their own particular manner.

Recently a citizen living not so very far from the centre of the city found that a bountiful return from last year's crop of potatoes was more than sufficient to fill the needs of his own family until a new crop would be available for use, so he sold a bag of this none too plentiful commodity to a friend whose own supply had reached the vanishing point, and instead of pocketing the returns, it has found its way into this column to take up its humanitarian work across the seas, and thus gives some of the first-fruits back in the name of Him, from whom they came in the first place.

If a realization of their many blessings could come to the thousands so blessed in kindred ways in this land, undoubtedly a wider use of their opportunities for good in many ways would take form in some shape or other for the good of mankind.

Woman Fined $200 On Liquor Charge

Mrs. Marion Vincent entered a plea of guilty in police court his morning to a charge of having liquor not acquired on her individual permit on January 16 and was fined $200 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., with the alternative of three months' imprisonment in the county jail. The fine was paid.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for the accused. "This is not a case for the minimum," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated. "I think the fine should be at least $200."

Another charge against Mrs. Vincent of selling liquor was dismissed when it was announced that the Crown was not offering any evidence.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

FEB. 12, 1940—Australian and New Zealand troops reached the Middle East after a 10,000-mile journey. Germany and Russia signed a pact to improve mutual trade. Russians claimed capture of many advance positions in Finnish Mannerheim Line.

FEB. 13, 1940—Russians claimed that 84 fortified posts in the Mannerheim Line captured in five days, but the Finns declared the defences were still holding and appealed to "civilized nations" for quick aid.

FEB. 14, 1940—British Admiralty announced destruction of two German submarines. President Kallio appealed for aid from the world as Finland admitted Russian gains in Summa sector of Russo-Finnish front. Britain formally approved recruiting of British manpower for Finland.

Skiers Drag Togs Out Of Winter Moth Balls Find Climbing Without Tows Too Strenuous

Their fervent prayers at last answered by a long unwilling weatherman, Peterborough ski enthusiasts brought out their equipment Sunday and flocked in large numbers to the parks. The heavy snowfall of Friday night, amounting to 3¼ inches and almost equal to the total fall of snow since winter began, provided excellent skiing conditions, and this, backed up by a day that was for the most part warm and sunny, made for much pleasure among participants and the gratification of many a long depressed winter-sporting heart.

Hundreds put in an appearance at Jackson Park, which was the centre of week-end snow manoeuvres, and other nearby areas were well patronized. A few very daring souls were discovered hazarding the run on Armour Hill, where the sweep of the winds blowing across the valley and the scarcity of trees on most of the slopes tends to keep the surface clean and make for dangerous skiing. There were also a few skiers out at the Rifle Ranges, but the ski tow which has proved such a magnetic attraction there in previous winters is not operating this year.

Due to the war and the absence of many of the city's most inveterate skiers who are serving in the armed forces, the sport this season is not organized to any great extent. No tow either is to be found at Bethany, where the hill is leased by the Peterboroupgh Ski Club, and it was doubted if many had visited this Mecca of week-end skiers, Sunday. In the words of one who knows what it's all about and who has recollections of Bethany in pre-ski tow days, the hill is "an awful climb" without the mechanical aids that recent years have introduced. And an additional inference was drawn from this fact by the same reliable source, who thought it probable that sportsmen made "soft" by the comforts of modern technical progress would find the going at a towless Bethany a little stiff.

Miss A. Beavis Is Killed In Car Collision

Miss Alma Beavis, bookkeeper in the City Welfare Department, was killed Saturday afternoon in a collision on Kingston Road near Rouge Hills, Toronto. Her companion, Miss Irene Telford, driver of the car, suffered several broken ribs and a broken collar bone and her condition is today described as fair.

The two young women left Peterborough Saturday afternoon to spend a week-end in Toronto, unworried at the prospects of bad weather and icy roads. When they were leaving Miss Telford stuck in an extra shovel, "just in case..." neither envisaging anything worse than being stuck in a snow bank.

Details of the accident are hazy both to the police and family. The report available is that Miss Telford's car appeared to skid on the icy road in front of one driven by Dr. Alan Secord, Toronto veterinarian, and Miss Beavis was on the side which the other car struck. Dr. Secord was uninjured but his two companions, Clifford Hooper of St. Catharines and Donald Nasmith of Toronto were taken to the East General Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Miss Beavis was one of the best liked girls in the city and her death has been a severe blow, not only to her family, but to her large circle of friends and business associates. For years, she has been the efficient bookkeeper working with A. G. Metherall in the Welfare Department, and her quiet courtesy and interest in her companions, made an impression on all who met her.

Miss Telford has been living in Peterborough for several years since she has been investigator for Mothers' Allowances, but her home is in Toronto. It has been her custom to go home for week ends, and this time she was taking her friend along. She is at present resting in the Eastern General Hospital.

Born in Peterborough, Miss Beavis, who was in her 43rd year, had lived here all her life. She attended King George School and was a graduate of the Collegiate Institute. The organization in which she was most active was the Order of the Eastern Star No. 161, of which she was a past matron.

Daughter of Mrs. Minnie Beavis and the late George Beavis, 119 James street, Miss Beavis had attended St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, but did not take an active part in any of the church societies.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her mother, who is over 80, one sister Caroline and a brother, Reuben. There are also two aunts, Mrs. David Beavis of Peterborough and Mrs. E. H. Mann of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the residence, 119 James street. Dr. J. D. Smart will conduct the service, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Wins Award

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (CP)—Igor Sikorsky, engineering manager of the Sikorski Aircraft Division of the United Aircraft Corporation, yesterday was awarded the 1943 Fawcett Aviation award for his work in developing the Helicopter.

Purse Snatcher Remanded For Sentence

Norman Buott, 16, who was arrested Friday night by Adrian Brooks and Jack Paris, Reid street, after a purse had been snatched from Mrs. Terrio, Elm street, elected summary trial before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to a charge of stealing the purse and $39 and entered a plea of guilty.

"I am asking for a week's remand for sentence," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated. "I understand there is a record and the police want to get it before sentence is passed."

Buott formerly resided here but had been living in Toronto for some time. He came back to Peterborough only last week and had started to work in a local plant.

He was remanded until Monday of next week for sentence.

Ex-Alderman Dies Suddenly

An alderman of the City Council twenty-four years ago, Alexander Murray died Sunday evening. He had been in declining health for about a year, but his final illness was reported rather brief.

Mr. Murray was born in Scotland, and was in his seventy-sixth year. He came to Canada thirty years ago, and at one time returned to Scotland for an ophthalmis goitre operation. Its success brought him back to Canada again with renewed faith in the medical profession of his home land, and especially of Edinburgh.

A skilful machinist, Mr. Murray was employed for years in Scotland as an expert on hydraulic hoists in the miningf industry in Scotland, and in his latter years he produced a working model of an engine for hoisting use. Mr. Murray was an ardent trades unionist, and for some years was a delegate from the Machinists' Union to the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council. In 1919 he was elected to the City Council as a Labor representative. He is survived by one son, Peter Murray, 247 Aylmer St.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter St., to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Robert McKnowl of Toronto will conduct the service.

Troop Convoy

LONDON, Feb. 14 — (CP) — The German-controlled Vichy radio said today a large Allied convoy consisting of six troop transports, 60 cargo ships and four tankers strongly escorted by warcraft had passed Gibraltar and entered the Mediterranean.

Bombs In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, Feb. 14—(CP). — A number of concealed bombs exploded yesterday in the Palestine immigration offices in Tel Aviv and Haifa, causing extensive damage and injuring a policeman. Three unexploded bombs were discovered.

Milk Producers Urged To Meet Demands

"When we ask for a greater share of responsibility in the control and directing of our business, we must assume it; we've got to live up to our undertakings and see that we carry them out."

In that advice to the Peterborough Whole Milk Producers' Association at their annual meeting Friday night, V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Association, was referring to a local experience with processors which he said should receive serious attention because it was fundamental to the continued improvement in farm organizational affairs. It seems that one or more of the local dairies had signed on a few more "shippers," who are actually milk producers. That meant the dairies were arranging for an increased supply of milk.

"If we undertake to maintain a certain supply of milk, and don't keep up that level, and the processor takes on new "shippers," then the only persons to blame are ourselves," said Mr. Milburn. "There is no use blaming the dairy folks."

Mr. Milburn said that farm organization was keeping up its advances, that the commodity groups were generally holding the ground they had gained, but the watch word to the industry should be emphasized that the farmer in seeking more responsibility in marketing and so on, must be prepared to fill the bill, to carry out his job to the letter.

Co-Operative Strength.

Mr. Milburn has recently attended dairy meetings in Regina and Quebec City. The striking observation in the West, he said, was the extent to which co-operative enterprise has gained a strong and increasing position in the dairy business of Alberta. Management was keen and aggressive.

"You people down in Ontario have only bargaining organizations," Mr. Milburn quoted a comment of one of the men he met at the western meetings.

The members Saturday night discussed some local developments in the Peterborough milk pool area, and Mr. Milburn appealed to them to make an extra effort to follow the trends of current affairs, and especially study events leading to postwar conditions and possible effects on agriculture. One of the topics upon which all Canadian political parties were in agreement was floor prices for farm products.

Clear Ideas.

Farmers, Mr. Milburn said, should get a clear idea of what they wanted and what they expected to get in making this demand. The Dominion Government had announced it as its policy, so had the Conservatives and C. C. F.

"I cannot understand how anyone would be in a position to say what floor prices will be a year from now, or two years. This we do know that floor prices should bear a close relationship to costs. Our organizations should have representation on boards, and participate in administration and other policies."

The Quebec meeting, Mr. Milburn said, had recommended that dairy policy for Canada be directed by a commission appointed by the industry, and not by a commissioner appointed by the Government.

Tubes Are Weak

TORONTO, Feb. 14 (CP).—There's probably a valid reason if your radio isn't acting properly these days. A survey of dealers shows that nearly every radio in Canada now needs new tubes (or a touchup job on the old ones). And new tubes, they say, just can't be had until the war is over.

AWARDED D.F.C.—One of the most outstanding reconnaissance pilots of the war, FO. William James Bracken, of Seeley's Bay, Ont., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. A nephew of the Progressive Conservative party's leader, John Bracken, FO. Bracken has made reconnaissance flights over Norway, France, Germany, Libya, Crete and Burma and has completed more than 75 operational trips over enemy-held territory from Great Britain, the Middle East and India.

Saturday Night Unlucky For L. Sedgewick

Leonard Sedgewick, 126 James street, will soon be beginning to think that Saturday night is a very unlucky time for him.

A week ago Saturday night he was injured when the horse-drawn bread wagon he was driving was struck by a truck on Aylmer street.

Last Saturday night a car driven by Sedgewick was involved in a traffic accident on Charlotte street near Aylmer street in which two young boys were struck and injured.

The two youngsters Robert Chamberlain, 295 King street, four years old and Billy Chamberlain, of the same address, seven years of age ran out into Charlotte street from the north side and into the path of Sedgewick's car as the latter was travelling east at 15 miles an hour. Both boys went under the car after being hit but escaped lightly, Bobby sustaining a cut at the back of his head and Billy a bruised right leg.

$13,000 Stamps Sold In Past 2 Weeks

Peterborough's food industry has reported sales of War Savings Stamps to the amount of $13,000, half way through the Dominion campaign to stamps to the value of $2,000,000 during February, and also half way through the month.

Sport fans are being asked for their co-operation at the wrestling bouts Tuesday night. The admission charges which Frank Tunney has arranged in conjunction with the local food industry committee are: 50 cents, plus 25c for a stamp, as general admission; and 75c, plus a stamp, for the reserved section.

The first theatre draw is billed for tonight at the Regent. This is the "pay a dime" feature. Every person attending during these two weeks has a chance to use a special envelope which will be offered, put a dime in it, and then deposit the envelop in a special box in the theatre lobby. Keep your stub and wait for the draw.

The Regent draw tonight will be for one $10 War Savings Certificate, and four $5 Certificates. The public itself builds up the fund, and the more dimes the more money to be divided.

The draw at the Centre Theatre Wednesday night will likely be made by the Mayor of Port Hope, and Thursday night is the Capitol's turn. You get a chance with every ten cents you contribute.

J. A. Jebson of the local committee said the store staffs were doing a fine job, and some of them were reporting that the public was asking for War Savings Stamps.

Spend a Dime— Share the Prizes

Each night, at the Capitol, Regent and Centre Theatres, small envelopes, on which you can write your name and address, will be handed to you as you buy your admission ticket. All you have to do is enclose a "dime"—ten cents, in the envelope, and you will have a chance in the draw, from the accumulation of dimes during the week, at the theatre which you attended. The day of the draw for each theatre is listed below. Be sure to ask for your envelope.

DRAWS ON THE FOLLOWING NIGHTS DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY:

Regent - - - - Mondays

Centre - - - - Wednesdays

Capitol - - - - Thursdays

So the definition of love as a strong attachment is true, particularly of wedded love. The love that comes after people have settled down to the long pull of life, when youthful passion and romance have fled and friendship has taken their place. Then it is that a man and woman come to have that strong attachment for each other that is woven of a thousand unbreakable threads of respect and gratitude and admiration and trust in each other's faith and loyalty. And that is a tie that only death can break.

Yes, I think it is true that love is a bigger factor in a woman's life than it is in a man's. Women live more in their emotions than men do and are more dependent upon love for happiness. Also, they have fewer interests than men have, less that is exciting and diverting in their lives, and so they have more time to think of their feelings. "Man's love is of man's life a thing apart, 'tis woman's whole existence," said the poet, and he was right.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been engaged to a girl whom I honestly thought I loved, but now I have met another girl and know that for the first time in my life I am really in love. I told my fiancee of the other girl who has come into my life and asked her to release me in order to avoid making three lives miserable. She absolutely refuses to give me up and abuses the woman I love. She cannot, or will not, see that it is for her happiness to give me up and I am utterly miserable. What is my duty?

MISERABLE LOVER.

ANSWER — You have done the honorable thing in telling your fiancee of your change of heart and now your duty is to yourself and to the girl you love. You have given your old sweetheart a chance to save her face by breaking the engagement, and if she won't do it you should do it.

I say this just as much for her sake as I say it for yours and the other girl's, for no man can do a woman such a deadly wrong as he does by marrying her when he loves another woman. It isn't in human nature for him to be faithful to her, or to keep from hating her for revenging himself upon her for wrecking his happiness.

No woman can force you to marry her unless you want to. She can't drag you to the altar against your will, so brace up and have the courage at least to run away from her, if you can't stand up and fight her.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MINNIE SPILSBURY

The funeral of the late Mrs. Minnie Spilsbury took place from A. Comstock's Funeral Parlors this afternoon at 2 p.m. Rev. Mr. McConnachie conducted the service at the parlors and at the Chapel in Little Lake cemetery. The pallbearers were J. McIntosh, D. Forbes, J. Martyn, C. Noyse, J. Louckes and L. Martyn.

Mrs. Spilsbury was born, Minnie Martyn, October 16, 1867, daughter of the late Catherine and Richard Martyn, and grand-daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martyn Martyn, who had the first grist mill in Peterborough, and were pioneers in the then very small community. She was educated and lived here all her life. She married George Brockill Spilsbury on March 27, 1889, and he predeceased her in 1928. Three children were born of the marriage who survive: (Ina), Mrs. Percie Maybee of Toronto, Ormond of Detroit and Vernon at home. There are two grandchildren, Maxwell and Blythe Spilsbury of Detroit, and two sisters and three brothers: Ipsa of London, Lena of Toronto, Jack of Noble, Max of Schreiber and Charlie of Peterborough.

Telegrams and messages of sympathy were received from London, Schreiber, Detroit, Oshawa and Toronto, and floral tributes from the night staff of the Raybestos Co., the brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hill, Chris and George, and Mrs. P. Thompson, all of Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Martyn, Schreiber, and Eaton Memorial church choir of Toronto.

MRS. URBAN BRADY

The death of Mrs. Urban Brady, 98 Massey street, Toronto, occurred in her 43rd year. Ailing a long time, Mrs. Brady had lived in Peterborough for eight years before moving to Toronto a year ago last fall.

Born Katherine Wilson of Edinburgh, Scotland, she came to this country 25 years ago and resided in Toronto at first until coming here to make her home. She is survived by her husband, Urban (Barney) Brady, and by a brother, William, who lives in Scotland.

The remains are to be brought to Peterborough for burial, and funeral details will be announced later.

Composer Dies

LONDON, Feb. 14—(CP)—Lady Arthur Hill, 95, composer of "In the Gloaming," died Saturday at her home in East Hampstead Park, Berkshire, after a long illness. She was the widow of Lord Arthur Hill, comptroller of Queen Victoria's household.

Fire Follows Truck Crash

There was excitement at the corner of George and Perry streets shortly before noon Saturday when an army truck collided with a milk truck, and the latter took fire after the crash.

An extinguisher from the army truck was used effectively on the blaze and it was practically out when firemen arrived on the scene.

Pte. Louis Rodregue, Military Training Centre, was driving the military truck south on George street. At the intersection of Perry street it came into collision with a truck owned by Clancey's dairy and driven east on Perry street by Reginald Foster, R.R. 2, Peterborough.

After the impact the milk truck spun around and wound up facing south. Then it took fire and Rodregue grabbed a fire extinguisher and went to work on the blaze.

No one was hurt but both vehicles were damaged by the collision.

Troopers Lose To Highlanders

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 14 (CP)—The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Hamilton, recently defeated an armored regiment team by 16-13 points in a Canadian Army brigade boxing championship tournament.

The only knockout of the 11-bout card came in the welterweight class when Pte. A. Gerous, Highlander from Parry Sound, Ont., sent Tpr. N. Lindsey of Ottawa crashing to the floor. Another Ottawa member of the armored regiment, Tpr. Earle Steen, lost to L. Cpl. C. G. Balazs of Brantford, Ont., in the heavyweight division.

Sgt. Bing Bingham of Toronto, armored member, took a clean-cut decision from Pte. A. Coon of Gravenhurst, Ont., in the light heavyweight division, while Chuck Greenblatt, Highland sergeant from Toronto, defeated Tpr. Alf Currie of Renfrew, Ont., in a middleweight clash.

Other victorious Argyll privates included G. Edwards of Toronto who defeated Tpr. Ted Baker of Owen Sound, Ont., in the featherweight class, and F. Rowe of Hamilton, a winner over Tpr. Al Leger of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

A.R.P. Workers Supporting Two Projects

The wardens' service of the civil air precautions unit augmented by the auxiliary police and the transportation service are aiding two of the local organizations which are prominent in community work of [wi]th a national and international character.

Though no definite information has yet been received of the status of the local A.R.P. set up by either Mayor Hamilton, chairman or Lieut.-Col. M. R. Sloan, director of the local Civilian Defence Committee from the Dominion authorities, some of the services are expanding their activities. At meetings held this past week at the various divisional points, it was decided to aid in the requests from the Peterborough War Services for help in the salvage campaign and of the Blood Donors Clinic of the local Red Cross Society to obtain blood donors.

Mrs. Charles Ray and Judge S. Smoke addressed the various meetings on the vital need of obtaining more donors to build up a supply of blood plasma, for the great need which will arise when the European continent is invaded from the west, and they found a ready response to their plea from the C.D.C. workers present. It is intended to visit each home in the area to interest those who are in physical condition to give blood, but who have not volunteered as yet. In the salvage work, the wardens, police and transportation services will distribute the cards outlining the need for more salvage and with directions how to prepared it, and they will also advise the householders, etc., of the dates of collection in their district.

It is expected that both the C.D.C. services and the residents of this area will co-operate 100 per cent in both these important tasks of the home front.

Rambling Reporter

LET'S ALL SING

Speculation arises as to whether its usual prompt and accurate despatch of the mails can be long maintained by a Post Office night staff that has come under the feverish influence of that latest song hit craze, "Mairzy Doats." It has taken the Post Office by storm, as was evidenced by the experience of one who called there Sunday evening and had quite a time getting in. A spirited group of singers were intoning the profound lyrics of this popular ditty in the back room, and so intense was their absorption in their harmonising and so loud were their mellifluous notes that it was quite a time before the visitor could make her rappings on the door heard above the din. Then she too was invited to join the chorus.—G.W.

Hershey Blanks Barons; Spoil Record

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons, leaders of the American Hockey League, had their record-breaking streak of 11 consecutive victories snapped Saturday night when they were blanked 5-0 by the second-place Hershey Bears.

However, paced by Pete Horeck who scored five goals, they came back last night to trounce the cellar-dwelling Providence Reds 9-4. Buffalo Bisons set back Bears 5-1 while Indianapolis Capitals defeated Pittsburg Hornets 3-1 in the other league encounters.

Nick Damore, Hershey netminder, gained his fifth shutout of the season as Bears showed speed and skill when they whipped the leading Barons. Fred Hergert and Henry Lauzon scored in the second, and in the final frame Lauzon added another counter. George Patterson and Bud Jarvis bagged the other two.

Last night Providence Reds didn't have a chance when Barons staged a comeback. Horeck's scoring spree was unchecked. He bagged three counters while Lou Trudel and Les the second and the fifth in the third. Tommy Burlington got two conters while Lou Trudel and Les Cunningham bagged the others.

Roland Forget, Jack Toupin, Bill Whittet and Gordon Reed scored for Reds.

In the Buffalo-Hershey game, Fred Thurier, Fred Hunt and Larry Thibeault, members of Bisons' star forward line, each contributed one tally. Roger Leger and Bobby Walton got the other two counters.

Get Major Penalties.

Fred Hergert got Bears' lone score in the opening frame. Billie Moe, Hershey defenceman, and Walter Atanas of the Bisons, drew major penalties for a fight in the third period. George Patterson of the Bears joined them shortly afterward on a 10-minute misconduct, and also was fined $75 by referee Billy Holmes.

Indianapolis scored two goals in the final frame to defeat Hornets 3-1. Jerry Olinski bagged the first tally for Caps at 17:58 in the second period. Cliff Barton tied the score less than a minute later.

Red Morrison and Winky Smith each scored a goal for Caps in the final frame.

A counter by Tony Hemmerling in the last minutes of play gave Pittsburgh Hornets their 4-3 triumph over Provindence Saturday night. Tony Demers led Reds' attack with two goals to tie the score halfway through the third after Hal Cooper had scored one in the opening frame.

Art Giroux and Lloyd Roubell each gained a tally for Hornets in the second Hemmerling bagged one in the first.

Young Hockey Fans

TORONTO, Feb. 14—(CP)—Two proven hockey enthusiasts are Donald and Lloyd Adair, 11 and nine years respectively, of Ingersoll. The youngsters came to town Saturday night to take in the National Hockey League match between Montreal Canadiens and the Maple Leafs, and missing the train home afterward, spent most of the chill night walking Toronto streets. Given haven by police in the morning, the boys were still cheerfully discussing the game, delighted at picking up some pointers "to' show the kids in Ingersoll."

5 Strong Teams Seeking Junior Laurels

WINNIPEG, Feb. 14 — (CP). — Five clubs are eligible to represent Manitoba in the Memorial Cup playdowns this spring, but fans believe the one that does will be a composition.

Both Winnipeg Monarchs and St. James' Canadians who will battle it out for the Winnipeg South Division crown are expected to add replacements for players prohibited from participating in the national playoffs under Navy, Army and Air Force bans.

Winnipeg Esquires, Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club, and St. Boniface Athletics, principals in the Winnipeg North Division playoff picture are expected to follow suit. In fact, the Esquires have already obtained the services of Billy Tindall, 17-year-old defenceman. Tindall is considered top rearguard in Manitoba junior hockey this season.

Esquires topped the league during the regular season's play, scoring 16 wins plus a tie. C.U.A.C. had 11 wins and a tie for second place and St. Boniface five for third.

Monarchs and St. James launch their best-of-seven series for the South Division championship February 21 with the winner meeting the North Division titlists for the provincial championship.

During the regular schedule the Monarchs earned nine victories and St. James seven.

Port Arthur West-Ends hold a two-point margin over H.M.C.S. Griffon for first place in the Thunder Bay Junior League. The Westies have scored five victories compared with four for the Sailors. Port Arthur Flyers have three triumphs, Fort William Columbus Club none.

Port Arthur Shipbuilders top the Thunder Bay War Workers' Senior League with three successes. Fort William Canadian Car, the other entry, has two.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

Already over 20 entries have been made for the Neil Trophy bonspiel scheduled to commence on Wednesday evening at 6.45. This is one of the biggest events of the season and is always looked upon by the curlers with great interest. It is a wide open affair and no one would even hazard a guess on the outcome. By tonight we expect as many more entries and then we may be able to announce the draw by Tuesday night. If your skip has not already put his entry in, just jog his memory and tell him to get busy.

There was a nice crowd out on Saturday afternoon and the boys enjoyed three four-end games. The ice was fast and that helped a whole lot. The winning rinks were skipped by J. Richmond, E. Thomas, G. Putnam and G. Green.

At night the ladies staged a mixed bonspiel and they also had a nice crowd. They played two five-end games and at the conclusion of these games the ladies served a light lunch in the club parlors. So taking it all in all it was a successful week as far as curling was concerned. Dr. McKee and H. Dulmage skipped the two winning rinks in the evening.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 14 —(CP) — A Canadian army team that sparkled with talent outkicked and outpassed the American Army Pirates and surged to a convincing 16-6 football victory before a roaring crowd of more than 30,000 at White City Stadium yesterday.

With a roster bearing a similarity to a pre-war all-star selection, the Canadian Mustangs held their heavier opponents to a scoreless tie in the first half that was played under American football rules. Then they cut loose under Canadian regulations in the second half and finished the game with a razzle-dazzle touchdown in the last few seconds.

Outstanding in the Canadian triumph in this first "Tea Bowl" game were Lieut. Orville Burke, Ottawa Roughrider quarterback from 1938 to 1941, and Maj. Dennis Whitaker, a Hamilton Tiger great.

Burke pivoted most of the plays and two of his forward passes were stretched into touchdowns that brought the crowd to its feet. Whitaker, who won the D. S. O. at Dieppe and now is second in command of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, made a fine running mate on sweeping end runs.

The Mustang kicking was done by Sgt. Red Bell, former Toronto Parkdale Collegiate player who never had major rugby experience. Other stalwarts with the Mustangs included Maj. Jeff Nicklin, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Capt. Ken Turnbull, Balmby Beach, Lieut. Nick Pathouski, Queen's University, Kingston, Sgt. Doug. Mackenzie, Toronto Argonauts, Lieut. P. G. Shaughnessy, McGill University, Montreal, Lieut. Andy Bieber, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who did much of the line-plunging, and Capt. Hawley (Tuck) Welch of Hamilton Tigers.

FEARS THE OTHER MAJOR

WHEN A GOOD player makes a pre-emptive suit bid—that is, three or more—to open the auction, he fears some other suit or suits, and is trying to make it hard for the opponents to bid if their strength and distribution are fairly well divided. If the bid is a minor suit, you will nearly always find that he was short-suited in both majors. If it was in a major suit, you can be pretty sure he was short in the other major. Your partner is quite likely to have some of the honor strength in that major, at least enough to make it safe for you to lead it, even with some tenace honors.

Players of top rank would consider that a rotten bid by South, when he had what ordinarily would be a set-up seven-card suit, and with a side ace as an entry, especially when having a couple of cards in each other suit. They would count the hand much too strong for pre-empting, and so would bid only 1-Spade. After that, North would show his clubs, South should rebid spades at the three range, and North should call game in No Trumps. Except for the freakish distribution of the five hostile spades, that contract would be a cinch, plus at least one extra trick.

The declarer should have been set at his contract of 4-Spades, however, but was not, as West did not understand a basic principle of defensive leading against such a pre-emptive bid. He opened the diamond 10. The J won, three spades were scored, the diamond A, the heart A and the diamond K for a heart discard. After that South could lose only three tricks, two in clubs and one to the spade J.

If West had known what most advanced cardsmen do—that the other major is nearly always the best lead against such a bid, unless holding perhaps an ace-king in some other suit, and had led a heart, any heart at all, the contract would have been set.

Evening Auxiliary Studies Far East

NORWOOD, Feb. 14— (ENS) — The Evening Auxiliary meeting was held at the home of the president, Miss P. Weir, last week, when 20 members and two visitors were present. The treasurer reported a balance of $18.68 the last of January. The president suggested the members adopt three missionaries for special prayer, Miss G. Darby, Miss E. Hunt, and Miss T. Rork. A letter was received in connection with the famine fund in China and parts of India during February. The immigration problem of refugees coming to Canada was also discussed. The World's Day of Prayer is to be held on February 25 in the Presbyterian Church.

The report of the Presbyterial held in Peterborough recently was given by Mrs. E Blodgett. Mrs. R. Pakenham took charge of the program, the theme being "The Grace of Living Together." Miss P. Weir read a poem; Mrs. P. Kempt read an article about life in a village community in India; Mrs. R. Gardner read an article on the contrast of life in a Christian village in India and a non-Christian. She also sang "My Task." Miss Ina McConnel read an article on the church's program in Christianizing China, and Miss B. Borland discussed the changes made in African homes since the people were Christianized. Mrs. S. Fennel spoke of the work done by the Archibald Institute in Trinidad. The worship service was taken by Miss Weir, the theme being "The Bible, the Common Possession of the World." The great fraternity of story was read by Mrs. A. Atkinson. The Scripture was taken by Mrs. P. Kempt, Miss P. Weir, Mrs. R. Gardner, and Mrs. A. Atkinson. Mrs. R. Pakenham led in prayer.

TORONTO, Feb. —(CP) —H. H. Bloom, administrator of farm machinery for the Prices Board, Saturday announced an increase of 45 per cent over the 1941-42 period in supply of essential new machinery to Canadian farmers.

CASSINO UNDER BOMBARDMENT — A view of the much-headlined town of Cassino, as seen from a nearby Italian hilltop now in possession of Allied forces. Allied troops now hold about one-quarter of the town.

Trip Around The World Proves Peterboro Weather Unsurpassed

Accept the word of H. B. Cowan, Sr., that the farther he has travelled from Peterborough the more he has learned to appreciate and even yearn for its climate, especially its variable weather, its changing seasons and even its usually uncomprising February.

Mr. Cowan has been three years abroad, having set out early in 1940 for Washington on the first leg of a journey of economic enquiry to Australia and New Zealand. When he left home the Pacific was at peace and Pearl Harbor was eight or nine months distant in the calendar. Since then Mr. Cowan's planned itinerary which was to take him to Great Britain on his way back to Canada has long been a way of hazard and difficulty, but presumably it prolonged his stay "down under," and extended the scope of his investigations into municipal assessments and taxation, property values, with a thorough delving into various other questions for which he sought the answers provided by the Dominions in the antipodes.

Mentions Church

Mr. Cowan in a letter to G. W. Craw incidentally mentioned several matters pertaining to St. Paul's Church, and then turned to a weather story in a Melbourne press clipping, and one provocative sentence (Dec. 17 last) "there is still hope for hot weather for Christmas."

Ideas Change

"I used to feel something of a grouch about our Peterborough weather," Mr. Cowan recalled. "Our summers, as well as our summer days —especially before daylight saving— used to seem so short and our winters so long. The more I travel the more am I inclined to amend that opinion. In Honolulu, for instance— where by the way I had a visit with Mr. Fortye, both in his office and at his fine home, but did not see his wife, Dorothy Hill, but that was over two years ago—the temperature never varies from betwene 70 and 80 degrees the year round. Some people might like it, but I should get desperately tired of it.

In Washington, much nearer the equator than Peterborough, I found the days in July surprisingly short. On looking up some copies of the Examiner and comparing them with the Washington papers, I found that the sun was setting an hour and thirty-five minutes earlier than in Peterborough. That gave the home town a big boost with me.

In Fiji, no far from the equator, the sun rises and sets about 6 o'clock all the year round. Those nights might suit nighthawks, but not most of us. And was it hot! In a store about 9 a.m., the perspiration dripped off my chin on to a counter in a small resemblance to a stream. The soldiers who are fighting in that climate have a lot to contend with. In the Solomons the temperature stays around 97 in the middle of the day the whole year round. Another orchid for Peterborough.

Wants Real Christmas

You will see by one of the clippings that they are hoping for a "hot Christmas." It may suit them, but not me. Give me our real Canadian Christmas every time, with snow, Christmas trees that mean something, plum puddings, turkeys and all the rest of it. Who wants to eat, much less cook them, when the temperature runs from 90 to 100 degrees in the shade, as it frequently does at this season. Some of the store do try to feature Santa Claus, but not with much success. One mother told me how shocked her children were on one occasion when Santa got so hot he took his mask off to wipe away the perspiration. Not much use trying to tell children about reindeer, snow and such things when many of them have never seen snow.

Here, instead of families getting together at Christmas time, the tendency is to get outside and to the coolest spots available such as the seashore.

Seasons Different

In Melbourne they have no spring and autumn such as we have. Their summer just gradually dissolves into what they call winter, which seldom goes below 30 degrees above zero, and their winter changes back to summer in the same easy graduation. You never know, except by the calendar, when one stops and the other starts. Give me the good four seasons we are accustomed to. Yes; Peterborough weather suits me much better than it used to.

Rainfall Heavy

I could tell you a lot about the weather in Wellington, New Zealand, where on one occasion we had rain every day for 21 days in succession, with an average annual rainfall of 55 inches and winds that frequently reach 50 to 60 miles an hour. One gust, while I was there, got up to 93 miles an hour. Some people who were bragging about their weather to an American Marine were considerably taken back when he replied: "That's nothing. When I was in Iceland the wind used to get up to 110 miles an hour." But that is enough weather stuff.

Two years ago I spent Christmas on a sheep run owned by a friend of mine of the North Island of New Zealand. Last Christmas was spent at the home of a girl I knew when I was a boy, but who is now married to the son of one of the founders of the famous Mildura irrigated fruit district. A wek from today I expect to be with friends at their seaside cottage not far from Melbourne. Next year (1944) it will just about break my heart if I cannot spend Christmas with members of my family in Canada."

Full Cooperation

Mr. Cowan devotes the rest of his interesting narrative to methods of assessment, and it continues to such a length that it deserves a separate story. However, the following paragraph lends itself to present quotation.

Melbourne is a city of 1,100,000 population. It is broken up into 28 separate municipalities. I am now conducting surveys in the cities of Camberwell, a middle class residential area about five miles from the centre of the city, and Brunswick, an older area, part residential and part industrial. The city councils in both cases are giving me their full co-operation even to the point of engaging extra help to obtain the information required, and of having photographs taken of a large number of representative properties. They have never had such a survey before, and they are showing keen interest in the results which are surprising them in many ways although they have been under "site-valuing rating" for years. The city valuator of Camberwell telephoned me recently and concluded the conversation by saying: "I am getting enthralled with this work. I do not know where to stop."

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14 (AP) —Traffic rules taught in classrooms were adhered to by six street-car loads of high school students today. A broken trolley-wire stalled the cars three blocks from the school building. The students, who had been instructed not to enter streets between intersections, remained in the cars until the wire was repaired. They reached class—three hours late.

F. J. Follis Transfers To Huntsville Office

BANCROFT, Feb. 14 —(ENS) — F. J. Follis, who has been in the employee of the Department of Highway Office at Bancroft for the past ten years in the capacity of Chief Clerk has been transferred to the offices of the Department of Highways at Huntsville.

Mr. Follis moved his family from Bancroft this week and his absence will be greatly felt among the local residents as he played a prominent part in the interests of the village. He was president of the Red Cross Society at Bancroft for two years, and also took a keen interest in sports acting as referee for most of the hockey games staged here. He recently was installed as Worshipful Master of Bancroft Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 482. Mrs. Follis was also an active worker in the women's auxilliary of the Red Cross acting as secretary and was also an officer in Bancroft Chapter O. E. S. No. 157.

"The Bible" Topic At W.M.S. Meeting

COTTLESLOE, Feb. 14 — (ENS) —The February meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Webster, last week, with twelve women present. The new president, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan, was in charge and followed the program in the missionary monthly, the theme being "The Bible."

Readings from the Bible on the topic were given by Mesdames Thompson, Kidd, Toms, Parkin and Webster. The study book "Grace for Living Together" was given by Mrs. McDonald. Mrs. Joseph Gallagher give a report of the Presbyterial and she sang a solo. Arrangements were made for the World Day of Prayer and Mrs. Webster, the treasurer, read a letter about the bale. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. S. Kidd. Mrs. Webster served lunch.

Claimants Given Crash Damages

HAMILTON, Feb. 14—A Supreme Court jury here Friday assessed negligence as 70 per cent. against Canada Coach Lines and 30 per cent. against Canadian National Railways in a joint damage action as a result of the Aldershot level-crossing crash September 10 which claimed 12 lives.

Damages of $12,000 and costs were awarded Mrs. Freda Gordon, Toronto, who sued on behalf of her husband, killed in the accident. An award of $2,000 and costs was made to Irving Bell, Waterdown, on behalf of his 14-year-old daughter.

The jury found the same proportion of negligence in the action brought by the C.N.R. against C.C.L. for damages to equipment, and a counter-claim by C.C.L. against the C.N.R. Damages agreed upon are $15,078 to C.N.R., $6,000 to C.C.L.

Germany's Best Soldiers Held Down By Canadians

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, Feb. 15—(CP).—Canadian soldiers have advanced their Adriatic battlefront only about five miles in two months but from a military standpoint their contribution to the general war effort probably has been as important as earlier in the Italian campaign when five times that mileage was being gained in a day.

When the battle for the Sangro River began, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, then 8th Army commander, issued a special order of the day in which he said "the time has now come to drive the Germans north of Rome."

The 8th know the glory of capturing Rome was not to be theirs, but they knew too that their help was necessary if the 5th Army was to succeed and they concurred with their general who said "We will do our part in a manner worthy of the best traditions of the 8th Army and the desert air force."

Now, more than two months later, it is possible to evaluate what that part was. It was not spectacular and it was neither speedy nor easy, but it had the dual purpose of containing many good German troops and keeping the German high command guessing.

Soldiers holding the Adriatic line at the beginning of December were not the enemy's best. Facing the Canadians were the 90th Panzer Grenadiers, a good division but no better than the rest and certainly not as good as the Canadians.

Within a few weeks the Grenadiers had been so severely mauled they were withdrawn and replaced by paratroops, the best soldiers Germany produces. They were troops whom the enemy could profitably have used against the 5th Army in the defence of Rome.

The 8th's assault across the Sangro and then the Moro river was a major attack, intended to engage

Churchill Sends Stalin Reply

LONDON, Feb. 15—(CP).—Prime Minister Churchill was reported today to have replied to Marshal Stalin's recent letter on the Russo-Polish dispute, in a fresh attempt to bring together Moscow, London, and the Polish Government.

While there was no indication what Mr. Churchill said, it was known that he talked with Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer before framing an answer, and a public statement on the latest British stand is expected in Mr. Churchill's next appearance before the House of Commons.

Mikolajczyk has postponed his visit to Washington, it was announced, thus renewing hopes for a rapprochement and showing at least no complete breakdown yet in attempts to solve the knotty United Nations' problem.

It was also understood there had been an exchange of American-

Japanese Filter Through Lines

NEW DELHI, Feb. 15 (CP)—Battling determined Japanese resistance, British and Indian troops were slowly clearing Allied communication lines on the Arakan front north of the Japanese base at Akyab, Burma, a southeast Asia command communique said today.

Operations were centred in the jungle area to the rear of Allied forward positions, where an estimated 2,000 Japanese have filtered through in a drive to cut Allied supply lines.

An enemy detachments captured a British post southwest of Taung Bazaar yesterday but suffered heavy losses.

Tactical air force fighter-bombers and dive-bombers were supporting ground operations in the upper Chindwin River valley.

Canadians Fighting As Complete Corps

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Feb. 15.—(CP Cable.)—Formations of the Canadian corps, until recently serving at opposite ends of the British 8th Army front in Italy, now are fighting side by side under command of Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar. For the first time, the Canadian corps is fighting as a corps. While fighting in the Orsogna area, Canadian troops served under British command.

Would Send Draftees To Jap Front

Conservative Member Tangles With Col. Ralston

OTTAWA, Feb. 15 —(CP)—Canada's troops called up under the National Resources Mombilization Act constitute a second line of reinforcements for the army overseas, Defence Minister Ralston said last night in the House of Commons.

He was replying to opposition speakers who asked the justification for keeping such a large home force.

If the time came when it was necessary to use them as reinforcements for overseas, the minister said, "I will have to make the recommendation."

Many people who spoke about the "home army" or "the home-defence army" failed to realize there was only one army, "the Canadian active army." In it were a number of call-up troops who were not liable to serve outside Canada.

"These troops are doing jobs which someone else would have to do if they were not there," said the minister.

"What are they doing?" asked Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC-York Sunbury). Col. Ralston said that was the same question he heard years ago from a section of the opposition which asked what Canada wanted troops for, why the government was preparing for war.

"We don't have these operational troops just for fun," said the minister.

70,000 Draftees

The operational troops numbering 34,950, including coast defence batteries on both coasts, fortress troops, searchlight units and close support battalions. There were 70,000 odd N.R.M.A. men in the army.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) said the difference of opinion between the government and the opposition was that the opposition believed National Resource Mobilization Act (call-up) troops should be sent overseas as fighting men. He asked why Canada should not send them to fight the Japanese.

Col. Ralston asked if Mr. Green seriously suggested sending a force to fight the Japanese on a third front for Canada in view of the manpower situation.

Mr. Green said he did.

Col. Ralston said if that were done the first people to complain would be some Conservatives who now were talking of reinforcements.

Canada had five divisions overseas, two of them in Italy. To send another force against the Japanese would require still more reinforcements. Some critics now said the army was too big.

Mr. Green asked why a Canadian force was sent to Kiska in the Aleutians. Col. Ralston said that was before the troops went to Sicily. They had been sent to do an important job.

Reached Peak.

"The fact is," said the Minister, "that we reached the peak about a year ago as far as sending new capital units overseas is concerned.

'Now my friend is suggesting we send another brigade."

The N.R.M.A. troops, he said, were a second line of reinforcements for overseas if necessary. They did work

Mines Paralyze Nazi Supply Lines

LONDON, Feb. 15—(CP)—The Admiralty today announced that a 7,000 square mile area including most of the Bay of Biscay and the south-western approaches to England are "dangerous to shipping"—a term usually indicating that the navy's minelayers have been in action.

The area extends roughly from a point 200 miles west of Cape Finisterre eastward to the French-Spanish border, skirting the northern coast of Spain about 20 miles off shore.

The line runs then along the coast of France extending to a point midway between Land's End and the southern tip of Ireland in St. George's channel, then westward into the Atlantic 200 miles and southward to the starting point of Cape Finisterre.

(In Washington Navy Secretary Knox said that the British action would be a major step toward halting completely any movmeent of supplies to Germany. He said the action parallels the efforts of the American fleet to halt blockade-runners moving from Japanese-held ports with war materials vitally needed by Germany.

Knox reported in connection with the Bay of Biscay embargo that he believed it would halt any attempt at smuggling goods into France or Germany from Spain. "There has been considerable of that going on," he said.

Reds Block German Tank Attack

Korsun Captured Only 50,000 Of Trapped Army Left

By EDDY GILMORE

Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 15—(AP).—The Red Army has halted a heavy tank attack launched by the Germans northwest of Zvenigorodka in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue large Nazi forces hopelessly trapped in the Cherkasy pocket, the army newspaper Red Star said today, while at the northern end of the front two Soviet armies are moving closer to the German-held stronghold of Pskov.

Red Star said the German tank attack in the northwest corner of the Upper Dnieper Bend was exceedingly fierce and Field Marshal Fritz von Mannstein apparently was unmindful of the number of men and machines he was losing. It was hurled against a narrow sector and was stopped after a slight, wedge-like penetration, the paper added.

Fighting was most violent north-west of Zvenigorodka and west of captured Korsun, core of Nazi resistance in the Cherkasy death ring. Red Star said ranks of the enemy within the trap have been markedly reduced and even if a few tanks crashed the Red Army lines, the Germans' great losses would in no way compensate them for what they would find.

Of the 100,000 to 150,000 Germans originally reported trapped by the Red Army, there is reason to believe that not more than 50,000 remain, Red Star said. The capture of Korsun where resistance was particularly fierce saw many Nazis died, dispatches said, while the battles of the last few days have greatly increased the enemy death toll.

Describing the unsuccessful German attempt at rescue, Red Star said Soviet dive bombers turned the rolling land northwest of Zvenigorodka into a field of flaming tanks, while Russian artillery fired over open sights at the waves of German armor battering at the Red Army's outer cordon.

Japanese Dig Air Raid Trenches

CHUNGKING, Feb. 15.—(AP). — Japanese students are digging slit trenches against air raids in all large cities, the rationing of foods and wine has been tightened and arrests for "dangerous thoughts" are increasing in Japan, a Chinese graduate of the Imperial University of Toyko said to-day on his arrival in Chungking.

The student named Yin Tso was sent to Tokyo by the puppet government of Manchuria. He graduated last summer, went to Peiping and then escaped to Chungking.

He said the attitude of the Japanese people toward the war varied from high optimism during Axis successes to dark despondency over defeats. Japanese reverses in the Solomons hurt morale and the losses of Attu and Kiska in the Aleutians were exceptionally severe blows, he said.

During the last few months, the people have become increasingly gloomy.

Monks Warned Vacate Abbey Nazis Caught in Shell-fire

Heavy Bombers Riddle Target Guns Lash Hillside

NAPLES, Feb. 15 (AP)—Allied ground forces poured heavy fire into Germans who fled the Benedictine Monastery atop Mount Cassino today after it was bombed. Three hundred Germans were caught in artillery fire, a military spokesman here said.

At the first explosion from the air bombs about 100 Germans ran out of the monastery and were raked with fire.

After the second attack 200 Germans made a break for fresh cover but were caught in artillery fire.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

WITH THE 5th ARMY AT CASSINO, Feb. 15—(AP)—Scores of American heavy bombers poured salvoes of high-explosive bombs across the peak of Mount Cassino early today, some squarely hitting the famous Benedictine monastery converted by the Germans into a fortress.

High explosives from at least two strings of bombs smashed directly on the roof of the sturdy old abbey, founded in 529 A.D. by St. Benedict.

Nazi troops have taken up positions there, Allied headquarters said, to send murderous fire against Allied troops assaulting the hill overlooking the town of Cassino.

Smoked poured from the roof of the abbey itself, and the earth-shaking bombs sent up great plumes of gray and black smoke.

100 Flying Fortresses

(The BBC, in a broadcast heard by CBS, said "100 Flying Fortresses flew over the peak of Mount Cassino and pounded German positions there."

(The German communique broadcast by Berlin radio said Mount Cassino Abbey was bombed "although no German soldiers were either in the monastery or the vicinity. Heavy damage was caused.")

(Another German broadcast said the monastery "was destroyed by British bombs."

The 5th Army has fought for nearly two weeks to seize the town of Cassino and the rocky peaks around the abbey without damaging the old monastery.

Many Soldiers Die.

But the slopes of Monastery Hill have been honey-combed with German machine-gun nests and sniper positions, and Allied officers said the enemy has been using the monastery itself for machine-gun posts and artillery observation, and also as a cover for Germans defending the hill.

German use of the monastery undoubtedly has brought death to Allied soldiers, and Allied officers said lives of more soldiers would be saved by removal of the monastery as a dominating point of the battlefield.

Relics Removed

Many of the relics stored in the building are believed to have been removed to places of safe-keeping.

The bombing followed a warning, carried by bursting time-shells that scattered leaflets over the area yesterday, advising the monks and any Italian refugees there to leave.

"There is no way of telling whether the priests left before the (air) attack or remained in the abbey cells," Max Hill, NBC reporter said. "There were 2,000 men, women and

Police Arrest A. E. Dawson On Fraud Count

SIMCOE, Ont., Feb. 15—(CP).—Arrested at Fort Erie after he had been deported from the United States, A. E. Dawson, president of the defunct A. E. Dawson and Co., of Toronto and Lakefield, has been brought to Simcoe by Provincial Police where he will face numerous charges of obtaining money in stocks and bonds by false pretenses.

Dawson, who has been in custody in Mexico and the United States for the past 16 months on charges of illegal entry, appeared before Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ethel Welsh and was remanded in custody until Thursday, when he will appear in local magistrate's court.

The arrest of Dawson brings to local courts a sequel to a case heard here last spring when C. W. C. Perry of Toronto, stock salesman for A. E. Dawson and Co., was also arrested following deportation from the United States and brought here for trial on 21 charges under the Criminal Code and six under the Ontario Securities Act.

Perry was convicted by Magistrate R. J. Gillen on the six Securities Act charges and code counts. On each of the former charges he was fined $1,000 or six months, while in county court before His Honor Judge E. S. Livermore, K.C., he pleaded guilty to the charges under the Criminal Code and was given various sentences up to two years less one day determinate and two years less one day indeterminate in Ontario Reformatory, all sentences to run concurrently and with those imposed in magistrate's court.

Altogether, the 27 charges involved transactions in stocks and bonds between the A. E. Dawson and Co., and a number of clients, totalling between $100,000 and $150,000. In practically every case it was revealed that the money, stocks and bonds held by the clients, many of them residents of this district, had been exchanged for shares in assortment of companies which had been established by the A. E. Dawson and Co., and in which the shares had little or no market value. In a number of cases, Perry was charged jointly with Dawson and John Woolcott Forbes, alias George Blake, the latter, member of the firm, being at present in custody in Australia.

ROME IS BOMBED

LONDON—The Rome radio said that Rome was bombed at 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. E.D.T.) today.

Beachhead Battle Tapers Off Patrols Active

ALGIERS, Feb. 15—(AP)—A German attack on the Allied bridgehead south of Rome was repulsed yesterday, and pressure was maintained against enemy forces both there and on the main 5th Army front to the south, an Allied communique announced today.

The grim house-to-house struggle for Cassino, main German bastion blocking the Allies' northward advance to join beachhead troops, swept with unabated fury into its 14th day after a three-hour truce yesterday requested by the Nazis to bury their dead.

Eighth army patrols sprang into action along the entire Adriatic front, the bulletin said.

The pause in major fighting around the beachhead extended through the third day. In one area Allied patrols counted 240 German dead as a result of a futile attack Feb. 12.

More than 200 German bodies were removed from the Cassino area during the truce yesterday.

Railway lines supplying German forces enclosing the Allied beachhead were attacked by Allied heavy bombers, which made widespread attacks on six transportation centres in northern Italy.

The escorted four-engined bombers pounded Modena, Brescia, Ferrara, Mantua, Verona and Arezzo—important points through which the Germans move supplies to their embattled troops.

The Allies flew about 1,500 sorties, shooting down 21 German planes for a loss of one aircraft.

The Perugia railyards and the port of Leghorn were bombed by medium bombers in yesterday's burst of air activity. Fighter-bombers lashed at communications lines, supply dumps, motor and rail transport and shipping in the port of Ercole.

Fighters maintained a cover over the beachhead and struck at shipping off the Dalmatian coast, a communique said. The Germans flew about 60 sorties.

In the beachhead area, a relative lull in the fighting continued with mainly patrol actions, three days after a major German effort to pinch off the beachhead had ended in what a headquarters officer termed a costly failure.

Germans Push Partisans Back

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP).—German troops have captured the railway town of Koprivnica, on the Zagreb-Budapest trunk line 10 miles south of the Hungarian border, in a drive on Yugoslav positions north of Zagreb, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced to-day.

Tre town of Ludbreg, 10 miles northwest of Koprivnica on the Bednin river, also fell to the enemy, Tito said in a broadcast communique, but declared Yugoslav Partisans scored a major success when they destroyed installations in the Mercury Mines near the town of Idrija in Slovenia.

As a result of the Partisan raids on the Mercury Pits, Tito said, "production has fallen off 90 per cent."

Other German forces captured several villages in the Croat province of Pod Varina but in Eastern Bosnia Nazi-commanded Chetnik detachments operating between Gratanica and Vigelina "have collapsed completely," many joining the 16th Moslem Brigade of the Yugoslav army, the communique said.

Russians Hate Marshal Mannerheim

Leader Of Finnish Army Has Always Opposed Communism

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Russia's reported indication that she has no harsh designs on Finnish territory in the making of peace terms—though Moscow expects unconditional surrender and use of Finland as a military base—fits the Soviet attitude at the time of the conference of the Big Three at Teheran.

I was told by a high source soon after the conference that this was the position. However, the Russian temper towards Helsinki patently hasn't improved. Terms now aren't likely to be as easy as they would have been then, and protraction of the war will add to their severity.

Probably one of the greatest barriers to mild conditions from Moscow is an individual—Field Marshal Baron Gustaf Mannerheim, who is loved by the Finns but hated by the Russions. This 75 year old bemonocled aristocrat is not only commander-in-chief but the most powerful influence in his country.

The Baron has been the bitter foe of Communism from its birth. It was he who, fresh from the glitter of the Czarist court, led the Finns in successful revolt against the Bolshevists in 1918. Then, in white uniform and astride a white charger, he rode through Helsinki to assume a dictatorship until a president was elected. Since then he has been the man behind the gun.

The Marshal led the Finns against Russia in 1939-40, and has headed the show since Finland ranged herself alongside Germany in the present conflict. Moscow is going to have difficulty in seeing past the shiny Hitlerian medals on Mannerheim's chest.

A blunt man, and quick on the trigger, is Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander-in-chief of United States forces in China, Burma and India, and he has given speedy reply to the statement by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz that the latter's aim is to get the U.S. fleet in the Pacific setting up bases in China.

The General said:

"To accomplish such a mission, naval action must be supported heavily by an aggressive land and air offensive projected from the interior. This we intend to do in spite of the existing blockade.

"At present, however, China is totally dependent on air transport, and the need is immediate for a continued increase of supplies. Vital China-based air operations cannot wait for penetration of the blockade by land and sea."

Some observers interpret the General's statement as indicating fear that he may lack equipment because of the naval effort.

China's military effort and home-front maintenance are almost entirely dependent on Stilwell's airplanes for foreign supplies. And since the Japanese occupy most of the manufacturing area, virtually all the war material must come from the outside world.

China's position is serious. She needs supplies, and needs them fast. But for General Stilwell's transports and Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th U.S. Air Force, she likely would have been knocked out of the war before this. Where would the Allies stand then in their war with Japan?

Willkie To Be Candidate

Selects Campaign Manager For Job

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 15 (AP)—Wendell Willkie last night formally announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination and selected Ralph H. Cake, Oregon's G.O.P. national committeemen, as his pre-convention campaign manager.

The 1940 party nominee said at a press conference the Republicans can win the 1944 presidential election only by offering proof to the electorate through its candidate and its platform that:—

1. The United States can more effectively fight the war with a Republican instead of a Democrat as its president.

2. The Republican party has a more comprehensive understanding than the Democrats of America's post-war social and economic adjustments and responsibilities.

3. The G.O.P.'s interest in the understanding of the United States' role in world co-operation is stronger and deeper than that of the Democrats.

War Picture Grim Ralston Says

Inside Story Kept Secret On McNaughton

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 15 (CP)—A grim picture of the power of the enemy yet to be destroyed before the United Nations can think of victory was painted for the House of Commons yesterday by Defence Minister Ralston as a prelude to further discussion of his army estimates.

When the discussion continues today, the leaders of the three major opposition parties and Hon. Grote Stirling (PC-Yale), a former defence minister, will have for the first time the "inside" story of the granting of extended leave to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton and relieving him of the overseas army command.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday intervened as Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, pressed Col. Ralston for more information on the McNaughton situation to suggest a conference of party leaders to read and discuss all correspondence. Mr. Graydon agreed at once and the conference was set for today.

Attending will be Mr. Graydon, Mr. Stirling, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, and John Blackmore, New Democracy Leader.

Plenty of Men

Col. Ralston declared he is a realist, not an optimist; and he professed some alarm at the way people were leading themselves to believe the war is over or nearly over. His summary of reasons for the contrary view was one of the bluntest statements of the war outlook delivered recently by an United Nations leader.

"It is a fact that there is not much evidence that German military power has decreased and there is no sign that the Japanese troops have lost any of their willingness to fight and die to hold the outposts which protect their home base," he said.

"In both Europe and Asia great forces of well-trained enemy troops, well led and well equipped, are ready to fight—and they do fight. . . . She has more than 300 well-trained divisions. She has millions of foreign workers in her war industries."

To back up his statement German military power has not materially decreased, he said that during the

Liberal Member Deputy Speaker

TORONTO, Feb. 15—(CP).— Appointment of a Liberal member as chairman of the committee of the whole of the Ontario Legislature was announced Monday by Progressive Conservative Premier Drew. The appointee is Roland Patterson, Liberal member for Grey North, who held the same post — unofficially Deputy Speaker — in the last Legislature.

"Mr. Patterson has informed me he will act in this capacity and a resolution for his appointment will be presented to the Legislature," said the Premier, adding that the Grey North member had "won the confidence of all members for the fair and impartial manner in which he filled this extremely important office" in the last Legislature.

Premier Drew announced some time ago that W. J. Stewart, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Parkdale, would be appointed speaker.

The 2 Way Treatment

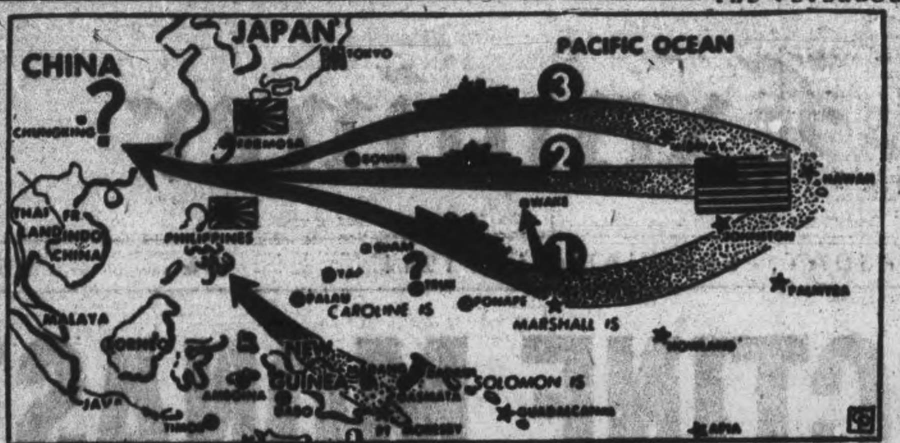
2. Bring Quick Relief from
RHEUMATIC PAINS



HOW WILL ALLIES DRIVE?—The recent declaration by Admiral Nimitz that "his forces intend to drive straight across the Pacific to China to gain bases for the final defeat of Japan" is certain to raise many questions which this map seeks to illustrate, since he made the statement shortly after the Marshall Island victory. Kwajalein harbor (1) will doubtless figure prominently. Either Truk or Wake (2) must be openly defied by convoys or quick action taken against them. If Wake is knocked out this "straight drive" might challenge the Jap fleet to "come out." A more northerly route via Midway (3) appears the final possibility. Where will they try to land in China? That's as hard to answer as how a run near the Philippines or Formosa can be managed. As arrow indicates, action from New Guinea and New Britain may figure in the plans.

Peace Negotiations Underway

LONDON, Feb. 15—(CP).—Soviet Russia is reported to have advised Finland she has no drastic designs upon Finnish territory but if the Finns want peace they must surrender unconditionally and grant Russian forces use of all their air and sea bases as well as internal communications facilities.

The London News-Chronicle in a dispatch from Stockholm said these terms had been "intimated unofficially" to Finnish leaders who arrived recently in the Swedish capital, presumably for the purpose of sounding out the Russians on the subject of peace.

Walter Farr, Stockholm correspondent of the London Daily Mail, wrote today:

"The impression I get is that Finland will be out of the war in a matter of weeks and possibly days."

No Confirmation.

There was no immediate confirmation of these reports from any source, and neither Helsinki nor Moscow gave any intimation that contact had been established as a basis for peace negotiations.

Helsinki dispatches, passed by the Finnish censors and relayed here through Stockholm, said there was no official indication that the Government had asked for Russia's terms or was ready to do so.

It was clear, however, that the Finnish majority party—the Social Democrats—was putting strong pressure on the Government to act and there were some intimations that the issue might precipitate a Cabinet shakeup.

Bombers Smash Secret Bases

LONDON, Feb. 15 (CP)—American medium bombers, flying their 11th mission this month, today blasted German secret fortifications in northern France.

R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and other Allied fighters escorted the medium bombers on the cross-Channel mission.

The assault followed a night in which no Allied operations were reported and Britain enjoyed its first raid-free night since Feb. 10.

Today is the eighth consecutive day targets in northern France have undergone Allied attacks.

8th Army Soldier Draws For Stamps

Pte. James Ireland, the first Peterborough man home from fighting with the 8th Army, drew five names at the Regent Theatre Monday night, which were winners of War Savings Certificates given by the Peterborough Food Merchants in aid of their War Stamps sales.

The winners are: Mrs. M. James, 182 Adeline street, $10 certificate; Ted Kay, 3 Temple avenue, Toronto, $5 certificate; Miss Irma Perdue, 196 Perry street, $5; J. Hudgins, 288 Lansdowne street, $5 and W. Collinson, 489 Elm street, $5 certificate. None of the winners were in the theatre and their certificates will be mailed tonight.

Pte. Ireland told briefly of the fighting he had seen in Sicily and Italy and paid tribute to the work of the medical corps at the front. When he was wounded, he lay on the field for only a short time before being picked up, and that was the experience of most of the wounded. He said that regulations forbade disclosing where and how he was wounded.

School Children To Help In Red Cross Drive

In aid of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Drive school children of the city are to participate in a poster contest and "penny-a-day" drive in much the same manner as was done last year. $52 in war saving stamps will be awarded as prizes to the children preparing the best posters for the campaign, and the slogan this year is "Do Unto to Others .." Give once —to the Utmost."

Last year's contest developed great interest among the children of the schools and the spirit of competition was keen among the individual entrants in the poster campaign and the various classes making contributions of their savings. In the current campaign results of the day-by-day collections of the pennies, nickels and dimes school-children bring in will be posted by school on thermometers at Neill's Shoe Store, and there will also be a thermometer showing the grand accumulative total for the city.

The poster campaign is in the hands of Reg. Faryon, president of the Quaker Oats Co., and judges of the selections of posters sent in from each school are Alderman J. Sullivan, Charles Saunders of Richard Hall and Horace Steggles of A. Wander Ltd.

$500 Objective.

Objective in the "penny-a-day" drive is $500, the same figure as last year, when a total of $504. $74 was actually collected. The five days of the campaign have been set as February 28 to March 3, but posters are to be ready for judging on the first day to help publicize the Red Cross and Community Fund Drive.

They will be judged on originality and execution and may be done in paint, crayon, ink, pencil or any combination of these. Each school will select its own three best posters in both classes, Junior and Senior, and these will be sent to the committee for judging. The Collegiate and St. Peter's High School will submit only their best as there is no junior and senior distinction.

Every afternoon a Utilities truck will pick up all the pennies collected on that day, thus enabling the keeping of a daily tally downtown.

Three schools which are outside the city, Confederation, May's and Queen Elizabeth, will take part in the drive. Before this, they have made contributions, and their pupils are anxious to be in the current contest.

Objective of the Red Cross and Community Fund is $60,000.

which had to be done. The reinforcement pool overseas was up to anticipated requirements.

Clarence Gillis (C.C.F.-Cape Breton South) said every man in the home defence army was not a slacker. Some had offered to go overseas if their whole unit could be taken as one.

Col. Ralston said there were difficulties in the way of accepting an entire unit for overseas on any assurance of keeping it together. It meant other units already formed had to be broken up, and this had not been done. But platoons and sometimes larger groups were kept together under active service enlistment.

Tumult Reigns As Principal Is Reinstated

TORONTO, Feb. 15—By a vote of 5 to 4, York Township Board of Education last night voted to reinstate Bruce W. Clarke as principal of Runnymede Collegiate Institute as from Feb. 16, 1944, at a salary of $4,500 per annum and to pay him $2,500 in full settlement of his claims against the board for his dismissal.

The motion that ousted him from his post as principal of the collegiate where he had been for 16 years, was passed Feb. 13, 1943.

Last night's meeting was one of the stormiest in the board's history, some 75 Clarke opponents heckling, booing, and denouncing in turn, members of the board who supported the reinstatement.

The regular meeting of the board was opened to the public at 10.08 p.m. after an in camera session of the board in committee.

Uproar Until After Midnight

From then until the board meeting adjourned, unable to proceed with the next order of business because of the interruptions, there was uproar most of the time until 12.18 this morning.

Even afterward arguments continued and for a time it looked as if several of the men who had actively participated as hecklers were going to assault Mr. Clarke. At one point one man grasped him by the arm, but an interruption by another ended the incident.

After a letter was read to the Board by Mrs. T. A. McGillivray, Chairman Durrant called for adoption of the report of the committee of the whole. Mrs. McGillivray's letter stated that slightly under half the ballots cast in the last election had gone to the trustees who supported Mr. Clarke. She claimed Mr. Clarke did not have the confidence of the majority.

Then the Fireworks

The motion to reappoint Mr. Clarke was then read by Secretary Webster and the fireworks started. There were shouts of "It's a crime!" "We don't want that man back!" and a questioner wanted to know who gave Acting Principal Alex. Pearson authority to announce over the school loudspeaker three weeks ago that Clarke was to return. Mr. Durrant said the board knew nothing of such an announcement.

Trustee McCracken obtained order for a time to make a statement to the effect that he disassociated himself from the actions of the board. Trustee McAdams followed and said both he and Mr. McCracken agreed with the stand of the delegation.

Ex-Councillor George Harvey asked the opinion of the board's solicitor, W. W. Parry, if payment of $2,500 to Mr. Clarke would be a legal expenditure of last year. Mr. Durrant did not think Mr. Parry should be called in, and he asked for the vote. Cries of "You are railroading it!" followed.

When Mr. Harvey repeated the question, Mr. Durrant said last year's budget was closed. Another man charged that the motion was being forced. Mr. Durrant appealed to the board, and he was supported in not having "dragooned" them. The vote was taken at 10.36 p.m., followed by many and noisy protests.

After Trustee McCracken had said he felt Mr. Durrant had given him a fair opportunity to consider the question, and had urged calmness, Mrs. H. Kirby said that when Clifford Howard put a motion last year to appoint a new principal, the opposing faction had broken up the meeting. A spectator shouted that if Clarke was being put back, "some day there will have to be a reckoning."

Britain, although apparently willing to accept the Curzon Line as the basis for negotiation between the Russians and Poles, is believed to be reluctant to support Premier Stalin's demand for removal of some members of the Polish Government whom Moscow considers anti-Soviet.

Eight German planes attempted to strafe troops in the bridgehead, but were driven off by anti-aircraft fire that downed two of them.

For the third consecutive night, R.A.F. heavy Wellington bombers followed up daylight raids on German communications and troops south of Rome. These attacks were spread over a 10-hour period, effectively hamstringing Nazi supply lines throughout the night.

Fighter-bombers struck at German motor and rail transport and shipping in the port of Ercole, while others raided shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

In all, the Allies flew 1,500 sorties yesterday, and destroyed 21 enemy planes, while losing one.

Germany's Best

considerable enemy attention. But it was only part of the much more important fighting developing on the western coast.

The Canadians, whom one of their officers said would be failing in their duty if they looked only for big headlines and cheap successes, were doing their share in driving the Germans north of Rome.

For the first time they ran into fighting which has been described as "so much like the last war it is not even funny." Their chasing days over, they became engaged in a slogging match which, while it is not fun is part of war.

This country where Canadians are fighting is magnificent for defence. The coastal plain is flat but it is furrowed with steep banked gullys from which no amount of shelling or mortaring can drive the enemy and the Germans are defending it with skill and fanaticism.

No Speculation.

The future of the Canadian Corps is a matter upon which correspondents in the field may not speculate. Frankly they can only guess, but because they are in daily contact with persons who do more than guess, their speculation is too likely to be near the truth to be publishable.

They can, however, re-emphasize known facts. The grand strategy of the war is highly offensive and it is no secret to the enemy that he will be hit hard in many places.

Well trained, with battle experience which grows every day, and one of the best equipped formations in existence, the Canadian Corps is a strength to be reckoned with, especially at a time like this when the gloves are being pulled on for the final punch.

Germans facing the Canadian Corps along the Arielli river front were observed yesterday to be moving about in the central sector of the front under the protection of the Red Cross.

The enemy is believed to be using this device to change troops in forward positions.

Westerners from a motor battalion sent a small patrol under Lieut. R. E. Ketcheson of Parry Sound, Ont., into Crecchio, about six miles northeast of Ortogna. Enemy sentries were seen but there was no opposition.

Social Credit Snubs Bloc Populaire

EDMONTON, Feb. 15—(CP) — Premier E. C. Manning declared in a statement to-day that the Social Credit party is not connected in any way with the Bloc Populaire pary of Quebec and said it was "deplorable that any political group in Canada should seek to detract from our war effort and to fan the latent flames of sectionalism."

"In order to remove any misunderstanding which may have been created by certain press reports of recent date," he said, "I wish to make it plain that neither the Alberta Social Credit League nor the National Social Credit Association is in any way, either directly or indirectly, connected with the political party known as the Bloc Populaire."

"The stand of the S. C. movement," Mr. Manning continued, "has remained consistent and uncompromising for a total war effort and for the preservation of the sovereign integrity of Canada within the British commonwealth. In this our movement has had to stand alone when other political groups were vacillating, compromising and refusing to face the issue involved."

Judgment Affects Soldier Status

MONTREAL, Feb. 15 —(C P) — Even when a soldier served overseas he retains his legal domicile wherever he had it prior to enlistment, Mr. Justice E. Fabre Surveyer ruled to-day in Superior Court.

The ruling, believed the first of its kind here, was made when Mr. Justice Surveyer said that a soldier, even serving overseas, retains his legal domicile here and therefore is not required to pay into court security for costs as ordinarily asked from non-residents.

JOIN THE BUDGETEERS AND BUDGET YOUR SPENDING FOR VICTORY
Here's a simple new budget plan to help you— Send for free copy of The Budget Calendar

Do you budget your spending? Do you plan the way each pay cheque should be spent before you spend it? There's something every good citizen should now do. In wartime how you spend your money is as important to your country as it is to you.

Your dollars now have two obligations to take care of. They must help to keep our armies fighting on the battle fronts and they must keep your family fighting on the home front. You can meet higher taxes and put more into war savings if you budget your spending. It will be easier to cut out unnecessary spending and to keep your family well fed, well clothed and well housed.

No tiresome bookkeeping

Now is the time to start planning! The Budget Calendar can be a big help to you. The Calendar is an entirely new kind of budget book that ends tiresome bookkeeping and makes budgeting easy and simple. There's no need to make your expenses fit a fixed pattern, no need to change your whole way of living. The Budget Calendar shows you how to start out with the expenses you now have to meet and how to handle your pay cheque to meet them. Families tell us that here, at last, is a budget plan that "really works."

Special help for Budgeteers

Users of the Calendar are invited to enroll in the Budgeteers. Budgeteers are encouraged in their efforts by receiving a new booklet or letter from time to time. Their letters and questions are welcome, and receive personal answers. Special recognition is given to Budgeteers when they complete a year of budgeting.

For many years families have been bringing their money problems to Household Finance, largest and oldest small loans company in Canada. HOW TO RELIEVE
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. [illegible] It seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Von Runstedt Confident Atlantic Wall Will Withstand Allied Invasion Thrusts

LONDON, Feb. 15 (CP)—Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt, commander of German forces in western Europe, said yesterday the "Atlantic wall" cannot be outflanked by an Allied invasion and added: "I look forward calmly to coming events."

"Among us Germans there is no tired Maginot mind," Von Rundstedt said in an interview broadcast by the Berlin radio. "I know that the enemy has completed his offensive preparations, but we are prepared."

He said anti-invasion defences include "large scale mining of the ground, flooding arrangements for turning the terrain into swampland, anti-tank obstacles and walls far more diversified than in the Maginot Line."

Counter-measures against airborne landings in the rear of these defences "were taken long ago," Von Rundstedt said.

Three Men Given First Hearing At Trial For Liquor Store Entry

COBOURG, Feb. 15—(ENS)—Walter Mascall of Toronto, Mike Cembal and Jerry Semowomyk of Oshawa, appeared in police court Monday for their preliminary hearing on a charge of attempted breaking and entering and theft of Cobourg liquor store on December 31, 1943. They have also been charged with shooting at Provincial Constables Robert Duncan and William Thompson of Oshawa, with intent to kill, breaking and entering and theft of car accessories from Port Hope and theft of a car from York township, and it was agreed between Crown Attorney Barry Deyman of Cobourg and defence counsel Arthur Greer of Oshawa, that because the evidence in all the charges was so interlocked, to proceed on the Cobourg liquor store charge and afterward apply the evidence in that case to the other charges. Considerable evidence was taken and adjournment was made until March 6, the accused each being allowed out on $5,000 bail.

All three were charged with vagrancy and also with theft of four tires on December 30 in Darlington township, but upon the crown announcing that no evidence would be offered, the charges were dismissed.

In connection with the Cobourg liquor store charge, the trio elected to trial the next court, no plea being taken.

First witness was Lewis Taylor of Langstaff who testified that a licence plate was stolen off his car sometime between December 26 and 30 of last year, while the car was in the garage. The license number was 86 W 77.

Car Stolen

Ira Lorie of Toronto, whose home is in York township, testified that on December 28, 1943, at about 3:20 he was awakened when his daughter told him that someone was stealing the car. He got to the window in time to see the car being backed out, but he stated that he could not tell who was in it. Describing the contents of the glove compartment he said that it contained a whisk, sun glasses, flashlight and first-aid kit. Shown a whisk in court, he identified it as coming from his car. The car in question was a Chrysler. The car was stolen after the thieves had broken in the garage by forcing a window. Mr. Lorie was subjected to rigorous cross-examination on his identification of the whisk, by Mr. Greer. The whisk was also identified by Charles Clayton of Toronto, who looks after the car for Mr. Lorie.

William Duncan of 562 Simcoe street north, Oshawa, testified that on December 29 of last year his car, a two-door Buick sedan, was stolen from the garage by thieves who had entered via a window. When it was recovered it had been damaged to the extent of about $250, including a broken windshield and rear window.

The three accused were identified by John Brignall, Clairmount barber, who stated that on the night of December 27 at 7:30, the three men had come into his shop.

Exciting Moments

"I asked them what they wanted and one of them said he wanted to play a game of pool but I told him that I didn't run the poolroom any more," testified Brignall. Brignall went on to relate that on the following morning at 4:30, he heard a noise and went to the front of the shop to see a Chrysler sedan out in front. He was only able to make out the last two figures on the right hand side of the license plate, which were "77."

Shotgun Entry

"At 5:30 on the morning of December 30, I was awakened when someone pushed the glass through in the room where I sleep, with a shotgun. He asked me if my will had been made and told me to hand over my money. I had $350 in my pocket and I got up and ran out to the front where I turned on the shop lights, which were bright. Someone pushed the glass out with a revolver in the front of the shop and I hit back at the hand with a broom. I thought that they went to the back of the shop again so I ran out the front and across the street to phone the police," related Brignall. Witness recalled that he also heaved milk bottles at the man with the revolver. While over across the road he saw a car move away slowly down the road from near his shop. It appeared to be a 1941 Buick.

Cross-examined by Mr. Greer, he testified that he had seen the three accused in Oshawa on a number of occasions. Cembal at one time drove a taxi, he declared, and had driven people out to a gambling den on the outskirts of Oshawa. Questioned closely as to where the gambling den was, the witness said that he only had an idea where it was and had never been there nor did he know its exact location.

Witness Hedges

"Don't hedge about. Where is the gambling den located?" asked Mr. Greer.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter rebuked the witness for the manner in which he was standing, partly inclined against the magistrate's desk.

"Stand up on your feet, don't lean over on this desk, and if you can't tell the truth don't tell anything," declared the magistrate.

Brignall insisted that he knew of the gambling den only by hearsay. He stated, in reply to another question, that he had been taken to Cobourg jail early in January where he identified the three from police line-ups.
